Of course, trotting at nine pari-mutuel tracks in New York was licensed for many more days than the flat, or thoroughbred tracks. There were 654 racing days compared with 210 days at the runners.

What finally pushed the sulky pari - mutuels past the runners was construction of the new $20,000,000 Roosevelt Raceway on Long Island and the rebuilt Yonkers Raceway, a $17,500,000 layout.

Most upstate harness tracks also showed increases. In addition, the new Monticello Raceway in the Catskills opened last summer to draw from that huge vacationland.

Attendance at the trotters hit a high of 7,050,022, and betting jumped to $485,284,651. State revenue climbed to $35,110,390. All were records.

At the running tracks, wagering totalled $415,685,906. The per capita wagering was higher, for the flat track attendance was 5,041,328.

Three Victories, Tie, a Loss Leaf Record in Five Games; Habs Stretch Top-Spot Lead

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

The name's the same, but the performance has improved so radically that Toronto Maple Leaf fans scarcely know their National Hockey League team.

In the first eight days after general manager George (Punch) Imlach) added coaching to his duties, with Bert Olmstead aiding as playing coach, the Leafs played five games, racking up three victories, a tie and a loss. Over the weekend the Leafs pinned defeats on Boston (4-1) and New York (2-0).

The Leafs checked like fiends in the two games, and were led by their captain, George (Big Chief) Armstrong in getting goals at opportune moments. Armstrong returned to action Saturday after being out for a month with an ankle injury, and scored twice against Boston Sunday to set up the crucial second goal against Rangers.

RANGERS ARE BLANKED

It was a sad weekend for the Rangers who failed to score in either of their two contests.

Saturday in Montreal they ran into a Canadiens team that seemed finally to be living up to preseason predictions and came out on the short end, 6-0.

Canadiens stretched their first-place lead over Detroit Red Wings to four points Sunday. They defeated Boston 4-1 in Boston leaving the Bruins third, four points back of Detroit. The Red Wings split with Chicago Black Hawks 4-3 Saturday in Detroit and then scared them 2-1 in Detroit Sunday.

At Toronto Saturday, Dick Duff beat Don Simmons at 6:47 of the second period. Armstrong scored his pair within a minute of each other and Don McKenney got Boston's goal before the period ended. Ron Stewart hit for Toronto's fourth in the final period.

POWER PLAY WORKS

Three of the Toronto goals came with Boston players in the penalty box.

Sunday in New York Toronto's Johnny Bower scored in one of his best games this season, stopping 28 Ranger shots for his second shutout.

Billy Harris gave the Leafs a first-period lead with New Yorkhertlandand, and Bower was equal to every Ranger attempt to equalize. In the third, Dick Duff got the second goal after Armstrong broke up a Ranger attack and passed the puck out to Duff at centre.

In Montreal Saturday the heroes were Bernie Geoffrion and two rookies — Ralph Backstrom and Alvin McDonald.

The newly-formed line got four goals, with McDonald scoring twice and Backstrom and Geoffrion once each.

Maurice Richard got his 12th of the season and Marcel Bonin picked up the sixth.

ASSIST FOR PLANTE

An oddity of the game was an assist given to Montreal netminder Jacques Plante, the first netminder to get one since Detroit's Terry Sawchuk in the 1954-55 season.

Plante never in the game as Montreal fired 49 shots at Worsley.

Sunday Geoffrion once again picked up Canadiens' first goal, this in the second period McDonald scored his third of the weekend. Jean Guy Talbot and Henri Richard rounded out the Montreal scoring.

Left winger Vic Stasiuk scored Boston's only goal—at 9:51 of the second. It was his 100th in NHL play.

DEFENCEMEN SCORE

In Chicago all Detroit's goals Saturday were scored by defence partners Red Kelly and Warren Godfrey. They had two each. One of Chicago goal came from rearguard Dollard St. Laurent and centre Ken Wharram got the other two.

Sunday in Detroit Hawks had a 2-1 lead until 19:50 of the third period when Alex Delvecchio gave Red Wings the tie. Delvecchio's goal was scored after Chicago goalie Glenn Hall lost control of his puck for a sixth attacker.

Chicago centre Eddie Litzenberger scored the first to make it 1-0. Lorne Ferguson built it up 2-0 before Norm Ullman put Detroit back in the game late in the second period.

Bisons Cling To Slender Lead In American

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Ken Schinkel, Springfield wingman, scored one goal in Springfield's two losing games over the week-end, but fell one short of equalling the American Hockey League record of scoring at least one point in 16 successive games.

Schinkel was shut out Sunday night by Buffalo as the league-leading Bisons won 3-1. The Indians dropped an 8-3 decision to Cleveland Saturday as Schinkel's getting one goal. The record was set by Tommy Burlington of Cleveland during the 1956-6 season.

The Bisons' victory, only their fourth in nine games after winning 13 of their first 1, retained Buffalo's slender hold on first place. Hershey moved into a tie with the Bisons Saturday by beating Providence 4-2, but had to settle for a 1-1 overtime tie with Rochester Sunday night and dropped back to second.

Providence got an even break in its week-end engagements by turning back Cleveland 5-2 Sunday.

STIFF DRILL HELPS

Coach Bobby Kirk sent the Bisons through a week of intensive drill and it paid off in the victory over Springfield, which has lost seven straight. Billy Dea sent the Bisons out in front and Larry Wilson and Bill Sweeney added one each in the finale.

Rochester's Gary Aldcorn broke a scoreless deadlock with Hershey at 15:15 of the second period, but Arnie Kullman tied it in the third. Willie Marshall of Rochester collected his 300th AHL point with an assist.

Providence wrapped up its Sunday victory with three second-period goals after a player free-for-all had cut the first period short. Jack Blonda and Cleveland's Fred Glover started the punching and the melee became so intense that play was stopped at 15:35 and the remaining time was added to the second period. Nine penalties were handed out. Carl Gardner scored two of the Reds' second-period goals.

Weather Gave West Assist In Shrine-Game

By WILF GRUBON

HAMILTON (CP) — Psychologically and strategically the West got an assist from rugged winter weather Saturday to defeat the East 9-3 in the fourth annual all-star Shrine football game.

But Grant of Winnipeg Blue Bombers, the western coach, sat in the comfort and warmth of a downtown hotel ballroom after the game and explained how he figured the West got the edge out of the bitterly cold 17-degree weather—and the 35-mile-an-hour wind.

The Winnipeg Blue Bombers' coach said the western players had less trouble with the cold and wind.

"After all out in the West it's not unusual near the end of the season to play in this kind of weather," he said. "I think the eastern players felt they had an advantage because they had run up against some conditions previously.

"They had the feeling they were going to win and they came out of the dressing room all pepped."

Grant said a conceded safety touch in the first-quarter was a strategic move.

The western team was behind 2-0 on the one-point rule when Edmonton's Jackie Parker surrendered it was back to the deadline to concede the two points. Grant said he sent in word to concede.

"I felt that possession at that point of the game could have two points," he added. "As it turned out it was. We got the ball and our own 45 and were able to operate more efficiently from there. If we had kicked from our goal line instead of giving them the safety touch, the East would have had the ball deep in our end. The East had the wind at that time and possibly could have got a touchdown."

Westlink, coach of the eastern team, sat at a table a few feet from Grant and said both teams played well considering the weather conditions.

Tomlin was disappointed that his team's passing attack failed to click and blamed the cold for it. He said the weather was the dominating factor in the game and decided the breaks. He recalled that the weather has been bad each year that the game has been played and said that in the three years he has coached the eastern team the game has "never been a fair test."

Teepees Clip Marlboros 7-4; Irish Win

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

St. Catharines TeePees have gone about as far as they can go at this stage to prove their OHA Junior A mettle.

Saturday TeePees marched to their 17th win in 21 starts as they walloped sixth - place Toronto Marlboros 7-4 and—as far as officials are concerned—have clinched a play-off berth.

Cubs, in last place since early season, have won only twice and Sunday took their 19th loss at St. Michael's Majors thumped them 5-2.

The loss dropped Cubs even further in the cellar as Marlboros clipped Barrie Flyers 3-2 in the other Sunday game to move out of that cellar position. St. Michael's win put them back into third place with 22 points, three less than second-place Peterborough Petes and one more than Guelph Biltmores.

St. Catharines' top scorers, Stan Mikita and Chico Maki, were again prominent Saturday. Mikita scored one and assisted on three to take over second place in the league individual scoring battle with 19 goals. Maki netted two and assisted on two more.

Don Grosso opened for Teepees in the first with Don Curry answering with a single for Marlies. Maki's first and goals by Pat Stapleton, Duke Harris and Mikita swept Teepees into team ahead in the second. Stan Osborne scored twice for Marlboros in the same session.

Mikita's goal and Maki's second clinched it for TeePees in the third against a Jim Murchie single for Marlboros.

In Sunday's opener of a Toronto twin bill, Barrie Flyers matched Marlboros in the first two periods with neither squad finding the opposing net. Jim Murchie scored at 6:25 in the third and again three minutes later to take the game for Marlies. It was the first shutout effort scored for Len Broderick, part-time goaltender for the Toronto squad.

The win cost Marlboros defenceman Ross Morrison. The 18-year-old sophomore was suspended indefinitely after a pair of misconduct penalties. His case will be reviewed by OHA President Lorne Cook.

St. Michael's Majors took a 2-0 lead in the first period against Hamilton and never looked back. Les Kozak and Dave Draper scored. Lloyd Haddon's opened for Hamilton in the second but Ross Rebelatto and Jack Costello fired for Majors.

Scoring was even in the third as Haddon counted for Hamilton and St. Michael's Dave Chambers. Majors this season in a trade with Guelph, got the closer.

BLUES BEATEN

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) —Colorado College scored three goals in a span of one minute, 40 seconds of the third period to break up a close hockey game with the University of Toronto and win 5-3 Saturday night.

Macs Set Scoring Record In Lopsided 11-3 Victory

Crush Kingston Merchants With 2nd-3rd Period Drives; Ike Paces Pack With Three

(Special to The Ontario Intelligencer)

KINGSTON — Insult was added to injury in the Community Memorial Centre here Monday night when the Belleville MacFarlands served seven of eight penalties, and yet drubbed the Kingston Merchants by an 11-3 score in an Eastern senior game that attracted 2258 paying customers.

The visiting Allan Cup holders were in fine fettle, played heads-up hockey all the way and achieved a rare feat when in the second period they scored three goals in a space of 40 seconds.

The Bellies who outshot Kingston 34-25 had a territorial margin in superiority in each period. They led 2-1 in the first, but sealed the verdict by rushing in five counters in the middle session. Kingston scored one in the second and third heats but the Macs retaliated with four in the final frame.

During the action Moe Beotti and Minnie Menard drew minor conduct penalties for protesting or criticizing sentences called by Referee Gordon Pranschke of Ottawa. Their complaints were probably expressive of surprise that they had been detected as offenders whereas many other [illegible] had gone unnoticed.

Scoring coach Ike Hildebrand passed his Allan Cuppers with three goals and an assist. Johnny McLellan came up with two and tow, Wiener Brown two and one, Eddie Marineau one and two, Ron Fayette one and one and Bart Bradley with a goal. Flint Gorgan and Floyd Crawford had two assists, and Minnie Menard and Moe Beaotti one each.

With Vic Hadfield and Mike Bukacheski nursing injuries that kept them sidelined, coach Punch Gagnon had only thirteen players to pit against fifteen. Frank Chiarelli and Roy Partridge were extra forwards and saw a lot of action but failed to even contact.

John McLellan, unaided, opened the tallying at 4:03 in the first period but Jim Maxwell assisted by Ted Topgaard, "Wiener" Savard nullified that one at 6:10. Then Bradley, with "Minnie" Menard the playmaker, shot the invaders ahead at 7:30 and thereafter there was scoring commensal.

In a space of eight minutes and 24 seconds the aroused machine from "Carverville"—record four goals and terminate the contest into a rout in the second period. The marksmen in order were Eddie Marineau, Ike Hildebrand, Ron Fayette and "Wiener" Brown. Jim Maxwell broke the string at Hildebrand, restored a seven goal lead at 16:08.

At 2:43 in the last session Floyd Crawford was banished for a boarding offence and when Menard aired his views he drew a minor misconduct sentence. Fifty odd seconds later Colvin, with "Bep" Guidolin and Don Bellringer as [illegible], closed the Merchants tally.

Hildebrand, aided by Dave Jones and John McLellan, scored in succession at 3:16 and 10:46; Jones got another at 13:01 and Brown hit the webbing at 19:36. Assistants during the last fusillade of attacks were Crawford, Marineau, Fayette and Floyd Gorgan.

Paper on Ice May Have Caused Injury

SUDBURY (CP)—Paper thrown on the ice by hockey fans may have caused the serious injury to Sudbury Wolves rookie scoring star with Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen.

McMaster remains paralyzed in hospital here after crashing head first into the end boards at the Sudbury Arena. The mishap happened when he was tripped by a lot of an OHA senior A game against Sudbury Wolves.

Dr. Bill White, Sudbury Wolves club physician, said that McMaster's condition was better but that "he is still unable to move." The 21-year-old graduate of Toronto Marlboros has a broken vertebra and suffered injury to his spinal cord.

Fans sitting in that end of the arena said McMaster stepped on a piece of paper thrown on the ice by spectators. Moments earlier, fans had pelted the ice with peanuts and paper in protest against a decision by referee Howie Parker of North Bay.

The Sudbury arena Commission meets tonight and a delegation of hockey fans is expected to attend to protest that any fan caught throwing debris on the ice during a game not only be ejected from the arena but prosecuted as well.

"There's nothing much we can do about that kid in hospital" a Sudbury Wolves official said, "but we might prevent this ever happening again."

Harney Wins Dorado Golf

DORADO BEACH, Puerto Rico (AP)—Paul Harney got his patter under control Sunday and won the $30,000 Dorado Beach Invitation golf tournament with a 284 after a final round of 68.

Harney of Worcester, Mass., was four strokes off the pace after three rounds over the 7,115-yard semi - jungle layout where par is 36-36-72.

He finished a stroke ahead of Ted Kroll of Sarasota, Fla. who finished with a 72.

Al Balding of Toronto, only Canadian in the tournament, finished in a four-way tie for 12th with Jay Hebert of Sanford, Fla., George Bayer of Clenenagles, Ill., and Claude Harmon, of Mamaroneck, N.Y. Balding scored 75-77-70-70—292.

Bulldogs Beaten by Maroons, Greyhounds Defeat Dutchies

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

More than half the schedule lies ahead but it's becoming increasingly apparent that two clubs are dominating the OHA-NOHA Senior A league this season.

Chatham Maroons took a five-point league lead Sunday when they dumped Windsor Bulldogs 8-4 in Windsor. Second - place Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen dropped a 6-3 decision to Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds on the latter's home ice Saturday night.

Chatham has won 14 of 16 outings so far for 32 points. Kitchener's 27 points are keeping them in contention but it's a long drop to third place where Greyhounds have 16. Sudbury Wolves have 14, Windsor 13 and North Bay Trappers trail with 12.

Unless some other club catches fire soon the Maroons and Dutchies will be out of sight.

POWERED BY POWER

The Chatham win over Bulldogs was powered by Ted Power and Gary Sharpe who each scored two goals. Power got four assists and took over the league scoring lead. Other Chatham scorers were Fred Pletsch with two, Ernie Dick and Al Dempsey.

For Windsor, Joe Klukay counted twice and Erwin Grosso and Elmer Skov fired one each.

Greyhounds, playing their best hockey to date, were led by Jim McBurney in the win over Dutchmen. McBurney scored three goals while Don McLean, John Goodwin and Ivan Tennant each counted one.

Jack McCreary, Bill Wylie and Butch Martin scored for Kitchener.

WOLVES NOW FOURTH

North Bay bet 5-1 Saturday to Sudbury Wolves who took over fourth place. Trappers played with only two regular defencemen and a 12-man lineup.

Sudbury goalie Hank Marczak scored two for the Wolves, and Nick Tyrell, Bobby Lalonde, Bobby Bobenic and Bobby Forhan notched one each. George Goyette scored the North Bay goal.

Senators Trade Yost, Bridges With Detroit

WASHINGTON (AP)—Washington Senators have traded veteran third baseman Eddie Yost, shortstop Rocky Bridges and outfielder Neil Chrisley to Detroit Tigers for infielders Reno Bertoia and Ron Samford and centrefielder Jim Delsing.

Yost has spent his entire baseball career with the Senators.

The 32-year-old third baseman came to Washington in 19 and has remained with the Senators ever since, except for two war years in the Navy.

Frequently mentioned as trade material in the last few years as he grew older, Yost stayed on and was captain of the club as well as chief player representative of the American League in dealing with club owners.

Bertoia, who will replace Yost in the Washington infield, is nine years younger. He formerly lived in Windsor.

Neither player hit well last season. Yost averaged .224 and Bertoia .223.

Roy Partridge Joins Macs In Player Deal

The Belleville MacFarlands traded defenceman Rags Ragland and forward Frank Battaglia to the Kingston Merchants for Roy Partridge and an undisclosed amount of cash over the weekend, Manager Drury Greves announced this morning.

Partridge will join the Macs immediately and see action against his former team-mates in Memorial Arena tomorrow night. Also seeing action for the first time in a Macs uniform will be defenceman Jean Lamirande, formerly of the Quebec Aces, who starred with the Whitby Dunlops in the world tournament last year.

Partridge was one of the leading scorers of the league last year finishing with a record 39 goals and 34 assists for 73 for 56 points. The winger was the fourth leading scorer of the Kingston CKLC's.

Lamirande who played part of two seasons with the New York Rangers is a veteran of the American and Quebec Hockey Leagues. He also played one game with the Montreal Canadiens. He was rated the best defenceman in world tournament teams last year.

May Form New District Basketball Loop

A meeting was held last Saturday afternoon in Belleville to discuss the possibility of establishing a new amateur basketball league in this district. Meeting with Stan Mockford of the Ontario Amateur Basketball Association of Toronto were Jack Perry, James Van Vliet, Laurent Daubuille and Johnny Greco in 1949.

Quinn figures the total gate will surpass the Canadian record of $120,000 grossed in Toronto for the Archie Moore-Joseph J. Parker fight two years ago.

Interest appeared on the rise Monday as the number of tickets sold 800 fans turned up at the St. Jean Baptiste gym Saturday to watch the two battlers work out. Both managers declared their boys in good condition.

Moore's manager, Jack Kearns, says his boy, who admits to being 51 but claims a quarter century, will have no trouble making the 175-pound limit.

Moore is down to 177, Kearns says, and "he can dry out and come in at the limit tomorrow. He's in as good shape as I've ever seen him. He's long time and the weight is just right for him." Moore developed the sniffles last week.

"He got over his cold and I caught it," Kearns complained.

Durelle, with no weight worries at 174½ pounds, plans to take it easier during the next few days than Moore, who must train to keep his weight down.

Both planned light workouts today, but no sparring or roadwork Tuesday.

Expect Record Crowd to See Archie Moore, Durelle Fight

MONTREAL (CP)—The Archie Moore-Yvon Durelle fight here Wednesday night for the world light - heavyweight championship may draw more money than Canadians ever paid at one time before to see a boxing match.

Promoter Eddie Quinn says the advance sale has nearly reached the $80,000 mark, already more than the record Montreal gate of $76,000 drawn by middleweight Laurent Dauibuille and Johnny Greco in 1949.

West Wins All-Star Game 9-3 In Chilling Wintry Weather

HAMILTON (CP) — Western footballers completed their 1958 sweep of national titles Saturday winning 9-3 in what may have been the last East-West all-star game played in December.

A frozen field and bone-chilling winds which kept players in mittens and 10,000 of the 15,000 ticket holders at home supplied new fuel to the growing notion that the annual Shrine charity spectacle should be a summer event.

Weather has plagued the all-star game since its inception.

A 35-mile-an-hour wind aggravated freezing temperatures and played havoc with the ball. Players were unable to gain traction on the cement-like field found it hard to catch or kick the wind-tossed pigskin.

IMPRESSIVE BOWL

Shortly after the game ended, before most of the dichard fans had thawed out, President Jake Gaudaur of Hamilton Tiger-Cats told an interviewer it was "impressive" that the game was played in July before the season opened.

"It is for a worthy cause and we've got to keep it going," he said, pointing out that a summer date would make the game available to cities and towns that don't [illegible] which cannot have the Grey Cup final because of weather and small parks.

Ed Fennell of Montreal, president of the Canadian Football Union, and Harry Spence, chairman of the board of governors for the Shrine hospitals in Montreal and Winnipeg weigh receive the game's annual meeting, agreed.

Fennell said the subject would probably come up at the CRU's annual meeting in March.

Neal Armstrong of Toronto said he had changed his earlier view about a summer date after seeing injuries. "Now I'm willing to take that chance."

In Ottawa, President Sam Berger of Rough Riders added his support to the game.

WEST REACTION

First reaction from the West was from Ken Preston, general manager of British Columbia Lions, said his club was willing to talk up the idea.

The talk of a summer switch in the annual game, a sacred affair for players and spectators alike. The result gave the West all-star team a 3-0 edge in the year—Grey Cup, junior, interprovincial and all-star competition.

A ball that flew crazily through the stiff icy breeze on passes, punts and pitchouts made a shambles of the offensive game and held the clubs to a single touchdown, which proved to be the deciding factor in scoring.

Frank Tripucka of Saskatchewan Roughriders, who shared quarter b a c k i n g duties with Jackie Parker of Edmonton Eskimos and Jim Van Pelt of Winnipeg Blue Bombers, fired the big pass, Kenny Ploen of Winnipeg took the nine-yard throw across for the touchdown.

JOHNS SCORES TWICE

The East hit the scoreboard first when Parker conceded a two-point safety touch. A few minutes later in the opening quarter Carr Fraser of Hamilton Tiger-Cats booted a single to put the Easterners ahead 3-0.

In the second quarter Tripucka put a 45-yard toss into the hands of Saskatchewan's Jack Hill which moved the West into opposition territory and set the stage for Ploen's game-winner three days later.

Lions Vic Chapman booted three singles for the only scoring in the second half.

The West had a decisive edge in the statistics. They topped the East 21-7 on first downs, 216-119 yards gained on the ground and 172-82 in yards passing.

RUSSIANS WIN

LONDON (AP)—Russia's fouring hockey team beat London's Wembley Lions 5-3 Saturday night in the final contest of their six-match tour. The Russians won three of their earlier matches against British teams.

A FIVE MINUTE ROAD TEST
Here is a simple test that will tell you a lot about the condition of the brake linings and their adjustment.
On a level stretch of road bring the car to a fairly quick stop from a speed of about 35 miles per hour. The car doesn't "pull" to the right or left the adjustment is even and if there is no squealing or grating noise, the brakes are likely in good condition and free from dirt and grease.
Even if a car fails in some tests it may still be a good buy for the price asked. ask KEN PINDER LTD, every car is honestly appraised and the price is set accordingly. Ken Pinder Ltd. Drop down to 149 Front St. (or phone WO 2-3493) and see for yourself.

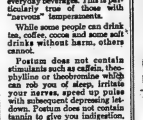
Blind Woman Is Nursemaid To Pensioners



STRATFORD, Ont. (CP)—Mrs.
Agnes M. Madge, blind since childhood, is nursemaid to several old age pensioners, including another blind woman.
She has three boarders at her home here, one aged 86. Mrs.
Madge cleans the house and prepares meals, but accepts occasional help in pouring tea or carving meat.
She became blind after suffering measles in her native London, England. She has about two per cent vision in one eye.
About 15 years ago she learned
Braille, but claims that doing her own housework has kept her mentally and physically healthy.
She took in boarders, she says,
because her pension as a blind person —she has not qualified for old age pension yet — is not enough for her needs.

I was a sleepless wreck

My nerves gnated from lack of sleep. Indigestion bothered me. I felt jittery, depressed, drained of all ambition and energy.

Some people suffer unpleas-antness because their systems are aggravated by elements in everyday beverages. This is par-ticularly true of those with "nervous" temperaments.

While some people can drink tea, coffee, cocoa and some soft drinks without harm, others cannot.

Postum does not contain stimulants such as caffein, theo-phylline or theobromine which can make you nervous, irritate your nerves, speed up pulse with subsequent depressing let-down. Postum does not contain tannin to give you constipation, nor any other ingredient to cause you harm.

Switch to Instant Postum, the beverage of comfort! Postum tastes and looks like no other beverage. Postum has its own distinctive flavor. Make Postum instantly, right in your cup. Just add freshly boiling water. It mixes, stir and enjoy.

Try Postum for 30 days! When nerves are soothed, you sleep better, feel better, look better. Get Instant Postum at your grocer's. Costs less than 1 a cup. A Product of General Foods, Limited.

U.K. Threatened With European Trade War

-LONDON (AP)--Britain is determined to head off a threatened trade war in the European family of non-Communist nations.

Government leaders are working against a Jan. 1 deadline, when France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg launch their historic common market.

This is the economic time bomb that threatens a costly economic war among friends. The six nations will cut tariffs among themselves by 10 per cent, first step in dismantling all trade barriers.

At the same time, the six will begin barring imports from each other non-Red nations in Europe largely on the outside looking in.

WARY TRADE PACT

British leaders are bent on establishing a permanent trade association in Europe to avoid an economic war with common market countries.

The British are convinced that economic cooperation in Western Europe cannot survive in the absence of such an association. They fear West European political and military co-operation also may be shattered if economic agreements break down.

The British will spell out their concern at a meeting soon of the ministerial council of the European Organization for European Economic Co-operation. An exact date has not been announced.

Taking part will be representatives of the six common market countries plus Austria, Britain, Denmark, Greece, Iceland, the Irish republic, Norway, Portugal, Sweden, Switzerland and Turkey.

Leonard Belanger, 12, Chicago, is surrounded by toys he collected in five fast-moving minutes in a downtown department store yesterday. Leonard was one of four youngsters turned loose in different department store toylands after winning a contest. Leonard, who made ten trips to the toy department to study the layout, collected $845 worth in all. (AP Wirephoto.)

Gold Medallion Marks Israel's Tenth Birthday

A gold ccmmemorative medallion has been issued by the Israel 10th Anniversary World Committee, to mark the 10th anniversary of the state of Israel. This medallion is now available in Canada.

One side of the medallion is an exact replica of the two-thousand - year - old Roman coin which was minted by order of the Senate of Rome after the victory over the Jewish people following the destruction of the temple in Jerusalem, in 70 C.E. It shows a mourning Jew and Jewess under a palm tree, the symbol of the Jewish people, with the Latin inscription "Judea Capta" (Judea Conquered) and the letters S. C. (Senatus Consulto).

The reverse side shows two Israelis under a palm tree, a man reaping an agricultural tool and a woman holding a sheaf—symbolising the rebuilding of the country formed by the Latin inscription "Israel Liberata" (Israel Liberated) and the word "Jerusalem" in Hebrew.

The rim of the medallion bears the inscription "Israel Government Approved Issue 1948-1958" between two seven-branched candelabra, the official emblem of the 10th anniversary year.

The medallion is made of 22 carat gold. Its price in Canada, including jewellery encasement, is $36.00, sent anywhere post free and insured. The Canadian address of the official agent is Anniversary Medallion, c/o Consulate General of Israel, Montreal.

feeling in Canada today that individual liberties may be infringed, but said it does not think the time is ripe to guarantee these liberties by constitutional amendment.

"At the present time, since property and civil rights are matters of provincial jurisdiction, it is doubtful if all the provincial legislatures would concur with the national government in the passage of an amendment to the BNA Act," said the council's brief.

At this time, it preferred a "declaration of human rights" to a bill of rights.

TOUCHY MATTER

On the touchy question of provincial rights, the brief of the Canadian Jewish Congress said:

"Certainly the present bill of rights should not be passed until it has been referred to the Supreme Court for .. determination of the question whether it may lawfully be extended to embrace the provinces as well as the federal authority."

A general theme of the brief and discussion was that the bill of rights does not go far enough and is not binding on the provinces.

The 1,100,000 - member CLC listed several criticisms in social and economic rights, including right to employment without discrimination because of race, creed, color or nationality.

A fourth brief, submitted by the Canadian Welfare Council, called for an "integrated" social security system in Canada. There were gaps and inconsistencies in the present structure.

Conference chairman is Dr. H. E. Kemlyside. The meeting is under sponsorship of 20 educational, church, welfare, labor, cooperative, women's and community organizations across Canada. Regional conferences were held earlier.

Ontario Department of Transport announces your

POINT SYSTEM

Effective February 1, 1959

to make Ontario's streets and highways safer

The Point System is designed to protect pedestrians and the millions of careful motorists from the small minority of negligent accident-prone drivers who abuse the privilege of operating a motor vehicle. These chronic offenders are responsible for a large proportion of the accidents, and the purpose of the Point System is to help them improve their driving or, if necessary, remove them from the road.

Protects good drivers — corrects bad drivers
—Every motorist benefits from the Point System. The good drivers will be safer than ever before. Forgetful motorists will be encouraged to improve their driving habits.

Proof of the effectiveness of the Point System in reducing accidents is provided by its record of success in other provinces, and in the United States.

It is designed to save lives — including yours.

How the POINT SYSTEM works:

Points will be added to the driving record of a motorist upon conviction for driving offences in accordance with the schedule below.

The accumulation of 12 points within a 2-year period will bring suspension of the privilege of driving for 3 months. An additional 12 point accumulation within a 1-year period will bring 6 months' suspension.

A driver with 6 points will be advised of his record and asked to improve his driving.

When 9 points have accumulated, the motorist will be asked to attend an interview and show cause why his privilege to drive should not be suspended. The driver may be required to undergo a re-examination to determine his ability to drive. He may be placed on probation or have his license suspended if his attitude reflects indifference to the responsibilities of operating a motor vehicle.

Points are deducted from the record 2 years after the date of conviction. A motorist whose driving privilege has been suspended will begin with no points against his record after the period of suspension.

Each motorist will receive a folder describing the Point System in detail when applying for his 1959 Driver's Licence.

POINT SYSTEM SCALE

12 "	Driving while ability to drive is impaired	2 "	Improper passing

IVANHOE

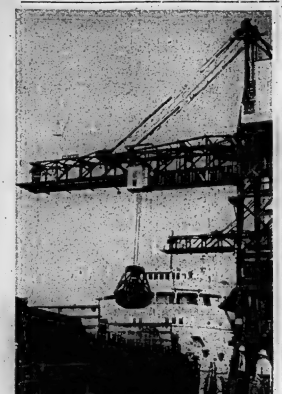
St. Andrew's WMS Observes 'Family Night'

IVANHOE — St. Andrew's Presbyterian WMS observed "Family Night" on Friday evening in the church parlors. This annual event was well attended by all church groups and their families. A delicious potluck supper was served.

The first vice-president, Mrs. William Donnan presided. The Scripture, John 4: 1-17, was read by Mrs. Milton Shaw.

Mrs. W. H. V. Walker introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. A. E. Toombs of Campbellford, who with her husband, the Rev. A. E. Toombs for a number of years served on the mission field in Ipdia.

Mrs. Toombs' address was based on her work with retarded children. Mr. and Mrs. Toombs founded "The House of Happiness," and the guest speaker told how the children are patiently trained in table manners and care of all articles in the home so that they may become socially acceptable in their own homes and among other pupils.



Anything the children are capable of doing is discovered and developed. Mrs. Toombs closed her fine address by stressing that mothers should teach their children to be kind to those less fortunate.

Mrs. Harry Benson, on behalf of the W.M.S. members, thanked Mrs. Toombs for her interesting talk.

The C.O.C. group sang "The Whole World in His Hands," accompanied by Mrs. Lindsay Sills.

The St. Lawrence Seaway, opening next spring, holds promise of increased shipping business for some of the deep-water ports flanking the St. Lawrence River. Some of these ports such as Centrecoeur, a village within sight of Montreal, are expanding their facilities to get ready for big to sail down the St. Lawrence after the seaway opening. The lakers may carry as much as 800,000 bushels of grain to Centrecoeur and return to the Great Lakes with 35,000 tons of iron ore. This photo shows new unloading facilities at Centrecoeur. (CP Photo).

Year-Round Navigation To Quebec City Is Expected When New Seaway Opened

MONTREAL (CP)—Deep-water ports flanking the St. Lawrence River are catching seaway fever.

And they're getting excited about the prospects of year-round navigation at the same time.

Plums plum blinge on:

1. The 1959 opening of the St. Lawrence Seaway whihh will permit the big bulk cargo vessels of the Great Lakes to sail for the first time up the St. Lawrence River.

2. The growing pressure from normally ice-bound river ports for all-winter shipping channels from the Atlantic to Quebec City.

BIG PROSPECTS

Both developments hold great promise for the St. Lawrence River ports.

The seaway is expected to benefit Montreal, Sorel, Trois-Rivieres, Contrecoeur and Quebec City. Winter navigation would greatly help lower St. Lawrence and gulf ports, including Baie Comeau, Sept-Iles, Shelter Bay, Father Point, all in Quebec, and Dalhousie, N.B. in Chaleur Bay.

Capt. R. G. Edwards of Canadian International Paper Company flew 2,000 miles from Montreal to Newfoundland to make an aerial ice survey last winter. He reported:

"Winter shipping into the gulf and into the St. Lawrence River itself presents no problem provided adequate equipment is made available."

More icebreakers, a continuing aerial ice survey during the winter and a nice forecasting service are considered the keys to year - round navigation up to Quebec City. Two veteran icebreaker captains, Wilfrid Dufour of the N.B McLean and Robert Marchand of the Ernest Lapointe, have said extra work by icebreakers could keep channels open all the way to Trois-Rivieres, almost 800 miles from the Atlantic.

LAKE JAMS EASILY

But they ruled out the chances of winter navigation as far upstream as Montreal. Lake St. Peter below Montreal, they report, is too easily jammed with ice by east winds, despite icebreaker efforts.

Navigation to Quebec City was proved possible last winter by the schooner D'Vora which sailed the St. Lawrence north shore to Baie Comeau. Ships called all winter at Dalhousie to load more than 50,000 tons of newsprint, the fifth winter that the port has operated.

Ports closer to Montreal, meanwhile, are expanding their facilities to get ready for the big lakers, which in one trip can carry 800,000 bushels of grain, equivalent of 3,000 freight carloads.

The seaway will benefit two major bulk commodities—grain moving eastward to overseas ports and iron ore moving westward to Great Lakes steel mills. Grain and ore are expected to be the largest part of the 25,000-000 tons of cargo forecast annually for the initial years of seaway operation.

Small canal ships capable of navigating the narrow, shallow-draught waterway between Montreal and Lake Ontario carry a total average of 127,000,000 bushels a year of grain to Montreal and other St. Lawrence River ports. The rest—about 63,000,000 bushels a year—comes by rail.

RELOADING JOB

Most of this grain—about 85 per cent — is then reloaded aboard ocean ships bound for overseas destinations.

But, when the big 750-foot lakers start to bring the grain, the ports must be ready with longer wharves and faster unloading facilities. Montreal is spending $27,000,000 to prepare for the lake ships and their grain cargoes.

Shippers suggest that the lakers may pick up western wheat at the Lakehead, sail through the seven locks and four canals of the seaway to Montreal or other St. Lawrence ports to unload. Then they would pick up a return cargo of iron ore at Sept-Iles or Contrecoeur and carry it to Cleveland and other Great Lake steel mill centres.

The saving for farmers on transportation costs is expected to range from five to seven cents a bushel—a significant amount in trying to sell wheat abroad in a tight world market.

GOOD FUTURE

Contrecoeur, a village on the St. Lawrence within sight of Montreal, faces a promising future as new trans - shipment docks are built for moving iron ore to lake-bound ships or freight cars heading to the U.S Someday, ii may even have a steel mill to process Quebec's vast iron ore deposits.

And the area between Montreal and Contrecoeur, the so - called Golden Triangle, hopes to see new industries established as the seaway prods progress.

Political Debate In Waterloo Just Like Old Days

Wintermeyer, Macaulay Evasive in Some Answers

WATERLOO (CP)—They called it the Battle of Waterloo.

It was an old-fashioned, no-holds-barred political debate Monday night between Ontario Liberal Leader John Wintermeyer and Progressive Conservative Robert Macaulay, a provincial cabinet minister and vice-chairman of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission.

The crowd of 500 cheered, laughed, heckled and booed while the two politicians roared at each other during a 110-minute argument over liquor, education and municipal affairs.

OLD-TIME DEBATE

An old-time political observer shook his head and remarked: "It's unusual. Just like the old days."

The debate reached a high point when Mr. Macaulay accused Mr. Wintermeyer of "muddslinging" and "innuendoes" for asking questions about contracts on the St. Lawrence Seaway power project.

Mr. Macaulay, 37, had appeared to be winning the debate. He got the biggest applause and the loudest.

The chairman, Dean G. E. Reaman of Waterloo College, stepped forward.

"I would ask you for restraint in some of your remarks," he pleaded with Mr. Macaulay.

AVOIDS YES, NO

Mr. Wintermeyer, 42, came under the attack of Conservatives. But he too ran into trouble. He avoided "yes" or "no" answers on the question of a Liberal policy Mr. Macaulay had put to him in the beginning. The audience began shouting for answers and Dr. Reaman had to call for order.

At one point Mr. Wintermeyer charged the Ontario government of "hypocrisy." Mr Macaulay replied: "We have had talks about hypocrisy and no wonder because he knows so much about it."

But it was bitter as it all sounded. The audience sang between the speeches. The debaters posed for pictures afterward with their arms around each other.

Mr. Macaulay was applauded for 30 seconds compared to 20 seconds for Mr. Wintermeyer. But the Liberal leader's applause was loudest with assistance from a cheering section of eight College students.

The debate arose from a challenge issued three months ago by Mr. Macaulay, member of the legislature for Toronto Riverdale. He dared Mr. Wintermeyer to run against him in his own riding of Waterloo North.

Highlight of Evening

The Wintermeyer-Macaulay 45-minute opening speech was a highlight of the evening. About a $5,000,000 contract for work on the St. Lawrence power project given to Canadian General Electric Co. Ltd. of Canada.

He said the company was organized specifically for the construction of the Barnhart dam under wasn't the lowest. But did it have a performance bond guaranteeing the work would be done?

He said the company "ran into difficulties" in previous years.

"Did Hydro pay more than the contract price and if so why?"

Canada Re-examines Policy On Recognition of Red China

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian government is re-examining its file on policy on recognition of Red China.

External Affairs Minister Smith told a press conference Monday the matter is under consideration. When asked whether the conclusions reached in 1950 would be replaced by a new policy, he replied that a thick dossier had been prepared in the last nine years.

Little more than a year ago, Prime Minister Diefenbaker told Commons that there will be no justification for recognizing Red China regime until it "negotiates its wrongdoing under international law."

At another point during a discussion of trade with the China-Peiping regime, Smith said:

"The matter of recognition is subject to constant review but there is no purpose, intentionally or otherwise, at this stage in the immediate foreseeable future, to bring about recognition."

While in Asia on his current world tour, Mr. Diefenbaker gave reasons why there should be no recognition at this time, particularly in respect of recognition on non-Communist countries in Asia.

Mr. Smith was asked whether recognition being under Foosteration referred to the immediate recognition or Canadian support of Red China's entry into the United Nations and he replied: "Either or both."

On a clarification later, Mr. Smith said his remarks concerning recognition were meant in the sense that the policy on recognition is being reconsidered but not necessarily imply that the result of this will be recognition.

He said the policy "has been continuously reviewed by this government and by the Liberal government before us."

At a Monday press conference, he said there is no divergence of opinion between himself and Mr. Diefenbaker on this question.

Dept. Will Act If Sick Baby Needs Blood

TORONTO (CP) — A day-old baby is reported in serious condition in the Sick Children's Hospital, suffering from an RH negative blood disorder, fatal to 78 babies out of a 100 unless they receive blood transfusions.

Ken Campbell of nearby Newmarket, are Jehovah's Witnesses and refuse to give their child permission for a transfusion on religious grounds.

Officials at the Hospital for Sick Children said today they are prepared to get whatever the baby will require a transfusion.

Mr. Campbell's senior solicitor of the attorney-general's department, said today the province of Ontario will not allow that the child is given a transfusion if parents object.

"We can act within a matter of hours and a court order can get all the necessary people together," he said. "If necessary, legal action can be proceeded with in the hospital."

The province would act under a section of the Child Welfare Act which permits placing a child in the temporary care of a Children's Aid Society if there is proof of neglect. The section defines medical treatment is considered neglect, Mr. Newman added.

If Mr. Campbell, the baby's grandfather, is an Anglican and said today his son's refusal is not Christianity.

"I'll keep hoping and praying he will change his mind," he said.

He said his son was raised as an Anglican but at the age of 18 married a Jehovah's Witness and joined that sect.

The parents have two other children, Heather, 8, and Deborah 3.

Soviet Police Chief Given 'Other Duties'

Gen. Ivan Serov Khrushchev's Friend

MOSCOW (AP) — Russia's top policeman, Gen. Ivan A. Serov, has been relieved of his job. The announcement in the Soviet government newspaper Izvestia today said he had been transferred to other duties but gave no hint of what they were.

Serov's successor as chairman of the committee for state security also was not announced.

Most foreign observers in Moscow believed Serov might perhaps have been given an even more important job. He long has been a friend and close associate of Nikita S. Khrushchev, who heads both the government and the Communist party.

Some Western experts on Soviet affairs believed Serov had been demoted because the timing of his announcement did not give his new post, the customary procedure when a Kremlin official is promoted.

Serov, a 53-year-old army general, had become known abroad in recent years for being in charge of security arrangements on Premier Khrushchev's trips. He was known also for his role in laying the plan to liquidate anti-Communist elements in the Baltic countries in 1949.

Serov last was seen by Western correspondents at a Kremlin reception on, 10 for Wladyslaw Gomulka, leader of the Polish Communist party. A slight, ruddy faced man who is unassuming and usually was friendly and informal in public, chatting freely with Western correspondents and respondents at receptions.

Identified in Soviet Soviet security organs almost from the beginning of his career, Serov got some of his training as Lavrenty Beria after Stalin's security chief was executed in 1953. Serov himself took command of the committee when is Russia's supreme police job in April, 1954.

British newspapers greeted Serov in 1956 with such names as "butcher," "murderer," "cold-blooded thug" and "jackal." The attacks were based primarily on Serov's role in repatriating Russians from areas acquired by the Soviet Union.

When Russia seized Estbonia, Latvia and Lithuania in 1940, Serov normalized the plan for mass deportations to Siberia and other measures.

He repeated his techniques after the war in Poland, Hungary and parts of Western Russia that had been friendly to occupying German armies.

Serov was reported sent to Budapest in 1956 to show Hungarian Communists how to suppress the uprising against Soviet rule.

3. In the light of the present situation, the board must have full regard for the views and welfare of the majority of the faculty.

4. The board has come to the conclusion from the evidence which is presented in this affair that a small faction within the college has been active in undermining the authority of the principal and the board.

5. The board recognized that this situation cannot continue and may have erred in some respects in the manner in which it has handled this matter. The board and the family of the late Rev. Crowe, however, that the situation cannot be satisfactorily settled in the absence of the acknowledgment of error.

7. The body repeats that the full cooperation of the entire situation can be established only by a judicial inquiry into the findings of such an inquiry.

A statement by the board of regents was attached to Mr. Watson's statement.

McFarland Co. Gets Contract At Kaladar

A contract to the H. J. McFarland Construction Company for $421,645 for grading and base structure on 6.77 miles at No. 41 highway from Kaladar to Northbrook is among 17 highway contracts announced yesterday from Queen's Park.

Also in the county district, the Adolphustown - Glenora Ferry is to have new ramps. The contract for the work went to Central Bridge Co. Ltd. of Trenton, for $19,678.

The present concrete surface of No. 2A and 401 highways between West Hill and Dunbarton will be blacktopped for 5.23 miles. The concrete pavement of No. 401 highway between Toronto and Oshawa was laid in 1946 and although still in good condition, the sectional dips have tend to jolt cars in passing.

Thieves Enter Hamilton Store At Foxboro

Hungry thieves forced their way into the R. B. Hamilton store at Foxboro last night and got away with a still undetermined amount of pretty cash.

They also made off with a raft of smoked ham.

Filing cabinets in the store office were ransacked apparently in search of cash. A small amount of money in silver was taken while funds of the Foxboro Hunt Club also disappeared.

No money is believed to have been taken from the Foxboro Post Office, which is in the Hamilton store, although the thieves also searched this department and tore open several articles of ordinary mail, again apparently in search of cash. Postal inspectors were also checking to determine if anything else was missing. Provincial Police from Belleville investigated the break-in.

This is the first time in ten years which the Hamilton store has been entered. At that time the store was entered twice in three months, on one occasion the store safe being blown open.

Santa Starts Telephoning

Santa Claus began his telephoning last evening and called over 500 small boys and girls in the city. The Telephone Santa Claus Program was initiated by the Belleville Recreation Committee a few years ago and is assisted by many service clubs personnel at the Bell Telephone offices. Cards addressed to Santa Claus were placed on the smaller grades in school) an by some retail merchants for children to fill, and the names and times for Santa to call, this year an overwhelming number of cards and letters have been received at Santa's office.

Because of this, Santa could not make all his requested calls last evening. Those who had wished Santa to call on Monday but who were not relied will be called first to-night. This will mean that some scheduled to be called on Monday night may have to wait until Wednesday call on. Santa is certainly a busy man this time of year but will do everything humanly possible so the small fry will not be disappointed.

Player Deal With Kingston Runs Into Overnight Snag

The player deal that was to bring Kingston's Roy Partridge to the McFarlands and Frank Bathgate and "Ragu" Raglan to the Merchants ran into a snag overnight.

A Kingston report late last night said Bathgate had phoned Manager Wally Brabin, stating he was willing to play for an Eastern Ontario team. Partridge and Raglan are unwilling to come to Belleville.

Manager Drury Denyes today confirmed reports that the deal had not been consummated.

"If the Kingston cheque and Partridge do not arrive today, we will consider the deal off," he said.

The McFarland manager said he was not going to be stalled by the Kingston management.

"I offered them two players which they could use to trade bait, now they do not want to go through with the deal."

He said that two western Ontario senior hockey clubs had been in touch with him overnight offering him the some price for Bathgate that he paid Windsor for the player.

Both Bathgate and Raglan will be put on waivers in the Eastern League at a top waiver price. If they are not picked up Denyes will immediately negotiate with the western clubs for Bathgate.

Bathgate was a bone of contention among western and northern clubs before coming to Belleville. He said he would not play for Windsor and later refused to go to Sudbury on a player deal with the Bulldogs' management.

4-H Members Rotary Guests At Luncheon

The Belleville Rotary Club had its 4-H Club members as its special guests at the weekly Rotary dinner meeting in the Y.M.C.A. on Wednesday noon. In a report to the Rotarians on the work of the 4-H Club, Bob Phillips, agriculture teacher at BCVI, stated that there had been 100 per cent participation by the twelve members in the Belleville and Thurlow 4-H Club government standards applied to poultry judging and twelve district 4-H members have the finest birds in Canada of their breeds from all over the North American continent.

The guest speaker for the occasion was Frank King, sales manager of the Ralston Purina Company. The former Department of Agriculture livestock inspector complimented the Rotarians on their sponsorship the 4-H Club. In his talk the OAC graduate informed his audience that chickens have been continually improved over the last fifty years. Production of eggs has been increased from only about sixty a year during the spring to 230 to 300 eggs per hen per year.

He also mentioned that fifteen years ago there were no broilers being raised or sold in Canada. Today the broiler industry is one of Ontario's largest and the quality of production has raised production from a 3½ lb. chicken in 14 weeks at a cost of 28 cents a pound on the hoof to a 3½ lb. chicken in nine weeks at a cost of 14 cents a pound on the hoof. He demonstrated how chicken could be improved through the use of proper feed and produced some eggs with brilliant red yolks which were the result of feeding a chicken with red carotene dye in it.

The speaker was introduced by Charlie MacKenzie and was thanked by Max McLean. Club President Jack Vanover presented Mr. King with a leather trade sterling kit. The club meeting witnessed a capacity crowd with a few late comers having difficulty finding seats. Ernie Gurnett said grace.

Gas Co. Soon To Have Service Man in Town

TRENTON — A service man will be stationed in Trenton in the very near future, John VanDorpe operation manager for the Lakeland Gas Company from Kingston told a meeting of the firemen and local citizens at the town hall Sunday night.

Mr. VanDorpe said he was sorry he could not state a definite date the service man would be in Trenton but he said his company has it under discussion now and firemen and customers will be notified as soon as the company has picked a man.

The Gas Company representative made the statement following an inquiry by Lieut. Gerald Lewis who told the speaker he was asking the question on behalf of Fire Chief Rost Burtt who was most concerned over not having a permanent gas technician to handle any emergency which may arise. Chief Burtt was unable to attend the meeting.

Two representatives of the gas company addressed the meeting and answered the many questions asked of them. Lieut. Gerald Lewis acted as chairman and introduced the first speaker George Crouchman, local representative of the Lakeland Gas Company, said he felt the town as a whole would benefit from the natural gas line. He also told the meeting that all the equipment was being used perfectly safe. In the furnaces and stoves in the homes, if the pilot light should for some reason go out then it automatically shuts off a valve and the pipe feeding gas to the unit and the gas will not come on again until it is manually lit.

EXPLAINS SYSTEM

Following the film Mr. VanDorpe explained the entire gas system. He said the gas was brought from wells in Alberta, 4,500 miles through the Trans-Canada pipeline to just outside of Trenton. At the gate the gas is compressed and pumped into the pipeline at 400 lbs. per square inch. At a point outside of Trenton the Lakeland Gas Company picks up the pressure reducing station. At this point the big pipe is 20 inches and the pressure reduced to 15 pounds per square inch and fed into the main lines in the town. At the reducing station there is a series of "blow-off" valves which ensure that a heavy pressure of gas will not be forced into the pipes which feed the town.

He explained that when gas is first fed in the homes a feeder line is hooked onto the street main and the gas is then piped from the main to the meter. The meters, he said, are checked every six months wherever, possible, for safety reasons. At the meter he explained that the gas is again reduced and it enters the house at about a quarter of an inch. To make sure no greater pressure enters the home there is a regulator attached to the meter and this is equipped with a safety "blow-off" valve, much the same in design as the type used at the bigger station on the main line. Between the line and the meter there is a shut-off valve which controls the gas from entering the house. This valve he compared, with the valve used by the water department to shut off the water.

All equipment used is new and approved by the Canadian Gas Association and Mr. VanDorpe was checked by the Ontario Fuel Board.

INSTRUCTS FIREMEN

On instructions to the firemen present, he told them, that if they are ever called to a home where the house is using gas it is always well for them to turn off the gas meter. He also said to be sure that no gas is entering the house. The time of the turning on and shut-off valve are placed outside the meter.

In cases where the house has been burned to a point where it has caved in and broken off the gas pipe, say before the firemen arrived, and they cannot get to the valve to shut it off because of the fire, he said then to let the gas burn as it comes from the open pipe. He explained, he said, the house is destroyed anyway and if the firemen can put out the flame at the end of the pipe gas will still come out and will accumulate until it reaches a point of explosion and someone may get hurt.

He said when gas lines are installed in commercial building it is not practical to put meters outdoors and they are therefore usually put in the cellars. To allow the gas to be shut off in a hurry, however, these lines are equipped with, a valve outside the building at a point where the firemen can get to it easily.

He said this valve is turned with a special key and that several of these are being made up and there will be one for each fire truck. He also said Trentonians were fortunate be-

First 'Social' Is Sponsored By Merchants' Association

TRENTON — The newly-formed Trenton Retail Merchants' Association held its first social last night with a dance in the comfortable ball rooms of the Quecnsway Hotel. About 40 couples were present. Music was supplied by the Famous Five of the Stevenettes Orchestra.

Don Minard, first vice-president of the group, acted as emcee for the evening and introduced the officers of the association. He said the purpose of the organization was to bring business to Trenton and by co-operation of all merchants in town it could easily be done. He urged all those present last night to approach any of their fellow merchants who have not as yet joined the organization and urge them to do so.

"We would like," he said, "to see the association grow steadily until it includes all the merchants in Trenton." He said the executive committee members of the executive had donated prizes and they would be given out during the evening in spot dances and draws.

John Porter, president of the T.R.M.A., extended a welcome to those present. "It is the first social occasion put on by the group," he said "and we hope to have more gatherings in the coming year. He hoped as many would turn out for the dinner meetings to be held next year and that they would continue to come all year and not for just one or two meetings.

He said a group such as this is capable of doing a great many fine things for Trenton but it was necessary to have most of the merchants' support to support it, as well as to present their ideas at the meetings.

Following the dance a sing-song was held with Lynn Jones at the piano.

Because all equipment being installed in the gas line is new with the latest in gas line safety attachments.

In the question and answer period he urged the firemen not to turn off the gas valves in the streets unless it is apparent that it is the safety of life and effects and the service man is not at the scene. If there valves are turned off the service to the home could shut off the whole town and cause considerable inconvenience.

NOT POISONOUS

He also explained that the natural gas is not poisonous and that the "stink" to it has been added to enable a leak to be detected easily by the home owner. He said there was no danger from a small leak. He informed the meeting the gas company has four engineers to draw from if anything goes wrong at some other point on the Trans-Canada gas line.

He was thanked for his information and for courtesy by Lieut. Lewis.

The meeting had been arranged by Fire Chief Cecil Ellis to get his men familiar with the gas line and any questions they may have with it. It was part of an intensive training program the fire chief is putting his permanent men and volunteers through. The various courses of instruction will be carried on all winter and well into next summer.

Fire Chief Ellis said the public had been invited to the meeting because he felt they, too, would like to know about the gas line and how it worked.

Members of the Trenton club to be graded were: LAC Len Soifert, promoted to Blue Belt. He was previously holder of the Orange Belt and because of his recent excellent showings at tournaments he was promoted over the Green Belt which normally is the next step. LAC Rolland LaGace, promoted to Green Belt and former holder of the Orange Belt. LAC Fred Wood, graded to Yellow Belt from the White Belt. LAC Cye Kehoe also graded to the Yellow Belt from the White Belt.

Mr. Soifert explained that the layman starts in with the White Belt and then as he progresses in the art he is promoted and the badge of his ability is shown by the color of the belt he wears. Following the white is the yellow, then the orange, green, brown and finally the fifth degree Black Belt.

The highest belt in North America, and still fighting, is the fifth degree Black Belt.

Citizens Advised to Address Cards and Parcels Correctly

To insure your Christmas cards and parcels reach their destination and not in the "Undelivered Letter Office" take extra care they are addressed correctly.

Verify the address of the person to whom you are sending a card or parcel. Be sure to put your return address on the back of the card or parcel.

This is a practice given local citizens by Postmaster Albert Clare.

Mr. Clare disclosed last year 12,000 pieces of mail (over 10,000 of it Christmas mail) had to be sent to the Undeliverable Mail Office in Toronto because they were incorrectly addressed.

"By incorrectly addressed" we mean either the street and house number is non-existent, the person to whom a card is addressed is not living at the address given, or else the street and house number has not been given," Mr. Clare explained.

The Postmaster estimates about 15,000 pieces of Christmas mail are expected to be sent to the Undeliverable Mail Office in Toronto this year.

"This would not happen if people verified the address of their friends to whom a card is being sent and if they put their return address on the card. Then if the card cannot be delivered it can be returned to the sender or we can advise him the reason why it could not be delivered. Also a return address on the back of a card gives friends and relatives your own correct address as well."

Postmaster Clare added that people seem to have confusion in addressing parcels correctly. Only 10 parcels ended up in the Toronto office last year.

At the estimated 2,000,000 Christmas cards and over 15,000 parcels were delivered and distributed through the Belleville Post Office last year, Mr. Clare stated.

"On the basis of normal increase of other years we expect to handle 2,200,000 cards this Christmas mail this year something around 2,100,000," he stated.

ONLY FEW PROCESSED

"This is the busiest mail time of year", Mr. Clare said. "We expect the real rush to commence next weekend."

To meet this expected annual Christmas rush the local Post Office is taking on temporary help.

One hundred and fifty extra helpers (28 mail carriers and the rest sorters) will be hired this year to augment the normal staff of 60 (47 mail carriers and 27 sorters) and 13 contractors for rural route deliveries.

"This year we are concentrating on hiring university students, while other years we hir- principally students of Belleville Collegiate," Mr. Clare explained. Temporary employees will commence work Friday.

The postmaster urged citizens to get their Christmas mail in the post office in the mail prior to the deadlines to ensure all will reach their destination before Christmas Day. There will be no delivery Christmas Day so postal employees can spend Christmas with their families.

The final deadlines are as follows: December 11-for mail going to Newfoundland, Great Britain; Dec. 12 for Alberta; December 13 for Saskatchewan and Manitoba; December 14 for the Maritimes provinces; and for mail being sent within Ontario and Quebec, December 15. The final deadline for parcel delivery is December 17. Mail to the United States particularly parcels must be posted by December 8 to allow for Customs examination.

Postmaster Clare wrote most cooperative in getting their Christmas mail through the expanded last year, the postmaster stated.

"We really appreciate the way people have been co-operating with us," the postmaster continues. The way they co-operate determines whether we will have a successful or unsuccessful Christmas rush. By 'successful' we mean getting the mail delivered by before Christmas.

Postmaster Clare suggested mail deadlines are mixed, mail over eight ounces should be sent by Air Mail to the Far West Post.

"We automatically fly all first class mail (under 8 ounces), even though sent at the regular rate, whenever possible and the

Verify the address of the person to whom you are sending a card or parcel. Be sure to put your return address on the back of the card or parcel.

This is a practice given local citizens by Postmaster Albert Clare.

Mr. Clare disclosed last year 12,000 pieces of mail (over 10,000 of it Christmas mail) had to be sent to the Undeliverable Mail Office in Toronto because they were incorrectly addressed.

"By incorrectly addressed" we mean either the street and house number is non-existent, the person to whom a card is addressed is not living at the address given, or else the street and house number has not been given," Mr. Clare explained.

The Postmaster estimates about 15,000 pieces of Christmas mail are expected to be sent to the Undeliverable Mail Office in Toronto this year.

"This would not happen if people verified the address of their friends to whom a card is being sent and if they put their return address on the card. Then if the card cannot be delivered it can be returned to the sender or we can advise him the reason why it could not be delivered. Also a return address on the back of a card gives friends and relatives your own correct address as well."

Postmaster Clare added that people seem to have confusion in addressing parcels correctly. Only 10 parcels ended up in the Toronto office last year.

At the estimated 2,000,000 Christmas cards and over 15,000 parcels were delivered and distributed through the Belleville Post Office last year, Mr. Clare stated.

"On the basis of normal increase of other years we expect to handle 2,200,000 cards this Christmas mail this year something around 2,100,000," he stated.

ONLY FEW PROCESSED

"This is the busiest mail time of year", Mr. Clare said. "We expect the real rush to commence next weekend."

To meet this expected annual Christmas rush the local Post Office is taking on temporary help.

One hundred and fifty extra helpers (28 mail carriers and the rest sorters) will be hired this year to augment the normal staff of 60 (47 mail carriers and 27 sorters) and 13 contractors for rural route deliveries.

"This year we are concentrating on hiring university students, while other years we hir- principally students of Belleville Collegiate," Mr. Clare explained. Temporary employees will commence work Friday.

The postmaster urged citizens to refrain from enclosing such items as rings, earrings, and handkerchiefs in Christmas cards. He explained that small jewellery, if not actually damaged when the envelope is put through the cancelling machine, might fly out of the envelope and get lost, while handkerchiefs prohibit envelopes from going through the machine.

To ensure parcels reach their destination in good condition pack them in heavy containers and tie securely, Mr. Clare advised.

He suggested fragile items, depending on their size and weight, should be packed in excelsior, straw, or newspaper, in heavy cardboard containers, and tied securely with heavy twine. The postal clerk should be advised if fragile items are packed so "Fragile" stickers can be affixed.

Items which have not been packed in heavy enough containers and are crushed usually break open envelope and don't get to their destination, the postmaster warned.

Mr. Clare noted the biggest problem confronting local postal employees in handling the Christmas rush is the lack of sufficient floor in which to work.

"This will be the last Christmas rush carried out in this (the present) building," he stated. "The contractors say we will be in the new Post Office by next September."

The new building will have approximately double the floor space of the present building, and all the mail processing will be done on one level, he explained.

Sitting Reeve In Seymour Twp. Loses by 9 Votes

CAMPBELLFORD — One of the closest municipal elections times was experienced in the Seymour Township vote on Monday as Alex. Linn, reeve since 1956, moved up to contest the reeve's seat vacated by Kent Parr, the sitting Reeve. The vote favored Mr. Linn 466 to 443.

A newcomer to municipal politics, Reeve-elect Linn defeated the aspirants for council with a comfortable majority, second place Morden McMillan and Cliff Anderson. The veteran Ward 3 councillor, Ross White two new men, Charles F. Brydon Ken. Rea, were elected.

Results were as follows: — Reeve, Alex. Linn; Deputy Reeve Morden McMillan; Ward Three, Councillors: Harry Stephens, Morden McMillan and Cliff Anderson.

The vote was about average, officials said, considering the state of the roads and the large number of non - resident voters on the list.

May Hold Vote At Bicroft Mines

BANCROFT (CP) — The International Union of Mine, Mill and S m e l t e r Workers claimed Monday it has the support of a majority of the miners, but not enough to force officers at Bicroft Mines, 85 miles northeast of Peterborough.

Mine, mill is seeking to displace the United Steelworkers of America (CIO) as bargaining agent for employees of the mine.

Union spokesman Ken Smith said the union filed nearly 300 cards at a hearing last week by the labor relations board. He said some cards before the Canada labor relations board. He said some cards before the Canada labor relations board. He said some workers are in the bargaining unit at Bicroft.

The federal labor board has reserved judgment on the application. The union, Smith said, however, he expects it will order a secret ballot vote in two weeks, probably to be held before Christmas.

KNOWLEDGE NOT ENOUGH

"In all civilized societies; the surest road to success is knowledge, the fruit of both fact and thought. We must, therefore, make an intelligent and practical selection from all the information which is within easy reach. Specialized knowledge is not enough." — Hon. Mark Drouin, Q.C., Speaker of the Senate.

We agree with the Honorable Senator that "specialized knowledge is not enough" and that we should avail ourselves of all the knowledge within our grasp. However, too often knowledge is accepted in the form of accumulated information on many and varied topics and as such is not enough in itself. Perhaps too many of us accept a piece of information per se without analyzing its meaning or examining its truth. Knowledge without understanding is worse than useless because it can distort our thinking or judgment and hence adversely affect our actions or words.

Many people allow the implication of information received to influence their actions without considering the validity of the facts concerned. This is the trait of human nature on which propaganda thrives. Blind acceptance and utilization of information is as much a pitfall in our civilized society as not bothering to be well informed on actions or words that influence our personal interests. We must consider, when evaluating a piece of information, the source, the editorial or personal interests of the source, the fact (s) on which the information is based, and how it corresponds with those facts which we have already accepted. If we have no previous knowledge or understanding of the issue concerned, it is the mark of the educated mind to inquire further in order to obtain a suitable understanding of the issue.

A little bit of knowledge is a dangerous thing. Understanding make it a useful thing.

THE SELLING GAME . . .

This winter's season brings with it an annual round of automobile shows through the western world — The Earl's Court show in the United Kingdom, the Paris show in France, and others in Germany and Belgium, Canada, and the United States all display the wares of the automotive manufacturers very tastefully and attractively to excite the ego, enthusiasm and buying power of the consumer. We see that a large motorama is being held in Toronto the past couple of weeks and we also see a futuristic car powered by a turbine or a jet engine is one of the highlights of the occasion.

It seems to us that these dream cars serve to point out one main thing - - the manufacturer stiempts to sell his product by featuring something like a Firebird IX, which is never for sale, rather than the qualities of a vehicle which are in current manufacture. The trend nowadays appears to be towards selling the end result of the product, not the product itself. The modern salesman sells prestige, economy, popularity, quality, or exclusiveness depending on what his know-how or his sales-research department tells him the people want as an end-result.

Apparently the automotive manufacturers' sales research or market consuting staffs have advised them that the average citizen wants something with two seats and smart styling, indicative of youth, verve, and vigor. We feel that these departments might be called dream departments. Most automobiles sold today are the four-door family sedan, which the car manufacturers will admit when criticized for not producing their dream cars for public consumption.

There's nothing quite like the selling game.

In Montreal burglars dynamited the vault of a downtown post office and stole postage stamps worth $90,000. Their Christmas card list must really have got out of hand to necessitate such drastic action to acquire the necessary stamps.

A MEMORY
By EDGAR A. GUEST

I thought I heard her cry one night,
But indistinctly, though it seemed.
I did not reach to turn the light,
I thought, perhaps, I'd only dreamed.
Then came again what seemed a moan,
But still in drowsy sleep I dozed;
Then came a sharp and sudden shout
And steadily I hustled out
To learn just what 'twas all about
And struck a door I thought was closed.
Oh, brilliant sky ablaze with stars!
Oh, planets flashing to and fro!
Oh, headlight bright on motor cars!
Oh, drug stores crowded in a row!
Oh, New Year's dazzling Great White Way,
Where men and maids seemed elevated strut!
In just that instant in the hall,
Responding to the baby's call,
I gazed upon you, one and all,
Because that closed door wasn't shut.

There, in my night attire, I stood
And saw the rockets break in air;
Set-pieces, that a chunk of wood
Held built and fired for me there.
I saw the flaming cannon's mouth,
The tongues of fire from rifles leap;
And when I'd bathed and soothed my eye
And washed away the blood, then I Went in to learn what made her cry!
And found the youngster fast asleep.

Clearing Path to Stars
By Werner Braubun in USSCO Features

Manned travel to other worlds is probably nearer than it seemed a few months ago. At least that was the opinion expressed by specialists from most world countries who met recently in Amsterdam to review progress achieved in the different branches of astronautical science. For a whole week they discussed rocketry, the art of introduction with the knowledge and experience of some of the leading experts at their disposal.

Stars in this assembly of "star searchers" were Dr. Sergei Vlahev of the Soviet and American satellite projects, Professors Sedov and Werner von Braun. Von Braun, who was attending a meeting of the International Aeronautical Federation for the first time, gave a much-awaited lecture on the future role of the American "Explorer" satellites and their first scientific findings.

There has been much talk about what the recording and transmitting instruments of Explorers I and II have taught us in respect to the physical conditions at the lonely atmosphere. In some cases the findings are in close agreement with theory and had been predicted for some years. But at the same time the Explorers exposed what as the Russian Sputniks did so regardless facts about the satellite belt whose existence no one had suspected. When the first satellites approached the altitude of about 1,000 kilometres, the lone methods of data transmitters as a guide to the intensity of cosmic radiation would alter its frequence back and forth, thereby indicating a tremendous increase of radiation. At first scientists believed that this was caused by some fault in the recording gadgets, but they soon had to accept the idea of a radiation zone surrounding the earth above the thousand kilometre limit, and always following the lines of force of the magnetic field which surrounds our planet. Explorer IV now bears out for this belt extends. Some scientists believe that it ends at an altitude of two or three thousand kilometres, others speak of six or seven thousand.

Data provided by "Pioneer I" also substantiate that the radiation decreases at an altitude of 12,000 to 15,000 kilometres: But, whatever the correct figure, the question remains: what would be the effect of this radiation on human beings? Does it present any biological and medical hazards for future space travellers?

The recordings made by the earth satellites indicate that the impact of electrically charged particles (of which the radiation in the belt is believed to consist) against a material body like a satellite or a space ship, produces the kind of noise which the scientist generally refers to as bremsstrahlung. This radiation is composed of X-rays, which can certainly harm the human body if it is exposed to them intensively and for a long period. For the time being, however, we have the hearkening appearances of being all wool and a yard wide.

We left a solemn exchange of frowns with the scientists who were capable of survival anywhere but here. Perhaps they say the monumental collection of burrs they had gathered on their woolly frocks.

Are these burrs in the far Arctic? Do they grow on yak in Tibet? Do burrs make yaks itchy discontented? We don't know and, come to think of it, we don't care very much either.

No Doubt at All

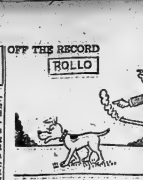
Minister of Fisheries J. Angus MacLean has served notice that any apparent surplus of lobster for sale in illegal lobster fishing will be met with the sternest of governmental measures. There can be no doubt whatever that the minister means just what he says; equally, there is little doubt that some fishermen will ignore the warning.

THE PACKSACK
By GREGORY CLARK

Or one of the quiz shows, when the panelists are trying to identify what article of merchandise the quiz guest deals in, a familiar question is:

"Is it as big as a bread box?"

If I, or any of the old folks, were the quizzee, the proper retort would be:



"Which bread box do you mean? There's the little boxes you have nowadays on the kitchen table today, in your store-bought bread in? Or do you mean the old, true, genuine, original bread box, without which none of your ancestors could have kept house?"

For there still survive, in old-fashioned farms, but more often seen in antique shops, where nobody realizes what they are, the beautiful wooden boxes, big as an old-fashioned square trunk, with the removable lid, and the two half-moon cut-outs on which held a fifty pound bag of flour. Also the cubby, the rolling pin and flour sifter.

This also was an institution. It stood close to the stove, or in earlier days, beside the fireplace. In the winter, sometimes three times a week, the mother of the family, assisted by staff of life, four loaves to each big black pan. The lid was the bake board, on which the dough was kneaded. Back into a nest scooped in the flour went the dough, under a teatowel, to rise all night. Next morning, out it came onto the bread board to be rolled, stiffened and cut into loaves for the oven.

How big is a bread box? How is your memory?

THAT ONE THING LACKED

We read in the New Testament that a young man came to Jesus and asked what he should do to inherit eternal life. Jesus reminded him of the commandments. The young man replied that he had kept them from his youth up. And we are told that when Jesus heard this he looked upon the young man with fondness and affection.

But, continued Jesus, there is one thing you lack. You love wealth. Give it up. I do not require this of all men, but I require it of you. Your whole heart is set upon it. You have made an idol of your money. Give it away. Let it be used to feed the poor. Then come, a and follow me, And we are told that the young man went away sorrowful for he had great possessions.

"One thing thou lackest." How true this is of everyone of us. We all have a thing which we will not have the Lord with us at this time to point out what that lack is. Yet if we do, we would get a response be much different from that of the young ruler!

Everyone is tempted to have a secret attachment for something that does not entirely square with God's will for our lives. This is a good thing to do. It keeps us from eventual moral tripmph. It may damage the ultimate destiny God has in store for us unless we see it and are resolute in our handling of it.

SECOND-HAND BOOK SHOPS

These second-hand book shops that exist in nearly all of our cities are institutions worth visiting. For one thing, they are almost sure to discover a friend in them. You may be one to be told low with you throughout life. I have discovered books in these shops that I prize highly to this day.

I never visit a second-hand book shop without discovering, or meeting, a new friend. In effect of these places you are left to your own self. You may roam as you please and stay as long or so long as you wish. Browse to your heart's content.

One thing you are almost certain to discover will be books you never heard of, or that were popular many years ago. Some will have interesting inscriptions in them, and dedications that someone had cherished. I have come across "presentation copies" in these useful book shops that would make the angels wonder! The Book Democracy of the world is to be found in these inviting places of culture. If you have patient enough you will be rewarded through the discovery of many a gem of literature. I have heard of masterpieces sold for a single dollar! A friend of mine, a few years ago, published a booklet which he called his "Second-Hand Shelf." In that were several literary treasures and all books worth while. And, besides, what a thrill to discover them!

I know of a copy of "Moby Dick," by Herman Melville, which sold at a Second-Hand book shop for $1. It was worth sold for $800. There is tragedy in the story of many a book that should have been immediately bought as a treasure.

I have a friend in California, Paul Jordan Smith, who wrote a most absorbing book called "For the Love of Books." If you can only find a copy, buy it at once and read it religiously. It is inspirational, for it started me in my love of many a book.

DON'T IGNORE THESE SYMPTOMS OF LUNG CANCER

Yesterday we wrote about a man who was successfully treated for cancer of the lung, by removal of a part of the lung, and at the age of 70 was able to go back to work for several more years in a machine shop until he retired.

What are the signs that indicate lung cancer? There are none that do not also apply to other and usually more innocent ailments. A chronic cough, often mistaken for bronchitis, raising of blood; shortness of breath pain in the chest or upper abdomen the latter easily confused with stomache trouble; anemia.

All of these may suggest cancer of the lung but are common to other ailments.

This is one of several good reasons why such symptoms should not be ignored! If they are warnings of lung cancer, early diagnosis can lead to treatment which can put one back, slowly. Some way, in the latter instance, the disease may have spread into other areas before there is any sign to the patient, and surgery cannot help, or at least not until the cancer has spread.

These are the reasons why some cases of lung cancer are hailed and others are not. Haven't I said it enough to cause everybody some be a little less fearful and a little more alert people to speak about reporting anoying symptoms to his doctor at once?

Poison Kills Many Children
Canadian Medical Association News

Accidents in childhood are receiving an ever greater degree of attention. Last year the World Health Organization issued a technical report on accidents in childhood giving facts as a basis for prevention.

The XVth Canadian Medical Society Conference devoted one day during its latest meeting to the same topic. Representatives companies and various community agencies presented displays showing interest in the matter.

The Ontario Department of Health in Canada is studying the problem can be inferred from the cross articles on the subject published in this journal within the last year.

One of the most deplorable forms of accident in this age is undoubtedly poisoning, since it is often the result of negligence and ignorance in the home itself, which should represent the safest place in the life of a child.

The mortality from poisoning has been regarded in comparison with that resulting from traffic accidents or drowning, because the very magnitude of these last two causes. However, the mortality from poisoning certainly not to be dismissed lightly. Studies on the matter have revealed some interesting facts which may be worth reviewing.

In the United States, poisoning accounts for 43 percent of all accidental deaths in children aged two to three years, and 25 percent in those between two and four. The high incidence in other tots. This is essential.

A bronchoscopic examination should then be performed. A tiny fragment of the lung tissue can be obtained for microscopic examination which will be, in most cases, proof positive of cancer, or any other disease.

Identifying the exact site of the spot sometimes becomes a matter of eliminating other possibilities.

Why are some found earlier than others? The answer is important. A spot in the centre of the lung produces symptoms early, leading to X-ray examination soon, early diagnosis and prompt treatment.

The disease, when it starts at the edge of the lung or near its roots, is less apt to cause symptoms until the disease is more advanced.

Finally, there are different forms of cancer. Some spread rapidly. Some spread slowly. In the latter instance, the disease may have spread into other areas before there is any sign to the patient, and surgery cannot help, or at least not until the cancer has spread.

These are the reasons why some cases of lung cancer are hailed and others are not. Haven't I said it enough to cause everybody some be a little less fearful and a little more alert people to speak about reporting anoying symptoms to his doctor at once?

P M May Have Fight on Hands If He Tries to Use Colombo Plan to Dump Wheat on Asia

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker may have a fight on his hands if he tries to use the Colombo Plan to dump surplus Canadian wheat in Asia.

So indicated Liberal Leader Lester B. Pearson and CCF Commons Leader Hazen Argue in commenting on some speeches by Mr. Diefenbaker during his world tour.

In several, the prime minister was reported to have emphasized that Asian Commonwealth countries should be willing to take wheat instead of dollars as part of a planned boost in Canada's Colombo Plan contributions.

DIFFERENCE PURPOSE

Mr. Pearson said the purpose of the Colombo Plan would be defeated. Canada's contribution, to be increased to $50,000,000 a year from $35,000,000 was meant to provide the needy countries in South and Southeast Asia with dollars and capital goods and thereby increase living standards by building up their own productive resources.

It is true, said Mr. Pearson, that the plan has been tied to relationship some wheat, flour and other consumer goods to countries to meet a special need.

"But to change the plan primarily to consumer goods would defeat its whole purpose."

ARGUE'S VIEW

Mr. Argue said he favors anything that will boost Canadian wheat exports, adding that Canada has a "great opportunity" to use wheat to overcome starvation.

"But I think it would be minimizing the over-all general purpose of the Colombo Plan if we use it as a means of getting rid of surplus wheat," Mr. Argue said.

Mr. Diefenbaker raised a few eyebrows here when he was reported to have said at Colombo, Ceylon, that in increasing the Colombo Plan contribution to $30,000,000 a year "we will naturally be hoping if not expecting that Colombo Plan countries will take larger share of our wheat and flour."

The dispatch quoted a highly-placed informant as saying that Mr. Diefenbaker, in talks with Pakistan, India and Ceylon, strongly emphasized Canada's desire that a large part of the increased Colombo Plan aid be in wheat and flour.

The dispatch said Canada felt it was unfair that it should not use the plan where possible to help reduce surpluses while other countries, notably the United States, were doing that.

RAISES PROBLEMS

Federal experts here said there are problems involved. In the first place, the Colombo Plan was never conceived as a relief project but a means whereby Asian democracies could better fight communism by helping themselves up by their own bootstraps.

In many cases, the Asian countries used the Canadian grants to place orders in Canada for machinery, tools, building materials and similar items.

A limited amount of wheat and flour shipped under the plan was sold by local governments and the proceeds used for purchase of goods locally. But experts here said some Asian growers resented wheat imports since these tended to depress prices for the home - grown product in areas where supplies were plentiful.

And some countries, such as Australia, depended on the Asian market for cash sales of their wheat.

The Progressive Conservative administration last year, instead of demanding that Asian countries take more wheat under the Colombo Plan, provided a separate $30,000,000 for the shipment of Canadian wheat under gifts and grants.

Civil Service Staff Groups May Be Merged

OTTAWA (CP) — Two powerful civil service staff groups are said to be working toward a merger, possibly within six months.

The groups involved are the Professional Civil Service Federation of Canada and the 20,000-member Civil Service Association of Canada. The latter association was formed about a year ago through a merger of the Civil Service Association of Ottawa and the Amalgamated Civil Servants of Canada.

The third major staff association, the Professional Institute of the Public Service, composed of such professionals as engineers and architects, was reported not participating in the merger discussions.

Election Loser Riot Touched off In Venezuela

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP)—Thousands rioted in Caracas Monday night in support of a losing presidential candidate whose threatening Venezuela's transition from dictatorship to a constitutional regime.

No word on developments in the Venezuelan capital had been received in New York early today since shortly after midnight. Overseas telephone operators said their channels to Caracas were "out of order."

The rioters were supporters of Rear-Admiral Wolfgang Larrazabal, head of the junta that took control of the government after the overthrow of dictator Marcos Perez Jimenez. In returns from Sunday's presidential election he was trailing former president Romulo Betancourt, head of the leftist Democratic Action party.

Larrazabal had accepted Communist backing in the campaign and carried the vote in Caracas overwhelmingly, but Betancourt piled up what appeared to be an insurmountable lead outside the capital.

Word that Betancourt appeared the winner brought Larrazabal supporters—many of them youths —pouring into the streets where seven months ago demonstrators had massed against U.S. Vice-President Richard Nixon.

Small groups clashed with police and tried to march on the headquarters of the electoral council, where the official vote count was in progress. Tear gas drove them off, but they continued to surge through downtown streets, tearing down Betancourt campaign posters.

In a 10-minute radio address, Larrazabal tried to calm the carnival. Wait for the final election results and then support and respect the winner, he said.

OTHERS ALSO APPEAL

Other appeals for order were made by the four major political parties, student organizations and the interior ministry.

The appeals failed to stop demonstrations, however. A crowd of more than 5,000 took over the avenue in front of the government palace and troops standing by disappeared.

Betancourt was rumored to be in hiding.

Latest election returns gave Betancourt 1,097,360 votes to 925,540 for Larrazabal. Rafael Calders of the Christian Socialist party had 315,589 votes.

Khrushchev's Proposals May Be Used for Springboard

By JOSEPH MACSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Britain has emerged as the most articulate Western advocate of the idea that Premier Khrushchev's Berlin proposals should be used as a springboard for broad negotiations with Russia.

Prime Minister Selwyn Lloyd seized the initiative last week when he outlined the British government's thinking to the House of Commons. His speech is certain to have an important bearing on NATO discussions beginning in Paris next week.

What Lloyd says, in effect, is that it is useless to consider Berlin as an isolated problem—that it cannot be separated from the broader questions of Germany as a whole, European security and armament control.

The United States, too, has been pondering this view, as is shown by one spokesman's remark that Khrushchev's action "gets us out of the trenches and into the diplomatic arena. It opens up big opportunities as well as dangers."

But Lloyd's speech goes further, outlining in general terms a comprehensive program and giving clues as to what the West might consider and accept in negotiations.

While standing fast in rejecting Khrushchev's proposal to make Berlin a demilitarized "free city," Lloyd offers Russia its satellites a formula of security against any possible revival of German militarism.

While standing fast on German reunification through free elections — a cardinal Western policy — Lloyd stresses that the Germans should then be able to decide their own internal and foreign policies.

In the event that Germany decided to join NATO, Lloyd's plan pledges the West against thereby gaining military advantage. There would be no eastward movement by NATO troops. East Germany would be left as a sort of buffer zone.

Lloyd — undaunted by the poor prospects of current East — West disarmament talks in Geneva—further proposes an inspection and control system in Europe to guard against surprise attack and to enforce arms reduction. Such an inspection system, Lloyd hopes, could later be extended to other parts of the world.

Lloyd's plan undoubtedly will provoke argument on both sides of the Iron Curtain, and indeed was promptly attacked in some quarters by the Labor opposition in the British Commons. He professes it merely as a basis for discussion.

Extreme views against negotiations have been expressed by Russia and West Germany.

Moscow radio said Russia will talk about German reunification despite the Western contention that only such discussion will ease war-breeding tensions.

In Bonn, a high-placed informant said Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's government believes only force would be needed to reply to Khrushchev — "No."

U.S. and Russia Agree Talks Reach Dead End

GENEVA (AP) — The United States and Russia agreed Monday that the 10-power talks on prevention of surprise attack have reached a dead end.

There was no split, however, that the talks would be broken off immediately. They originally were planned to last five weeks and have been going on for the last four.

The Eastern and Western delegations have been deadlocked from the beginning over the purpose of the negotiations. Western delegates contend they are here only to study ways of launching a surprise attack and the technical machinery to detect attack preparations in advance.

The Communists have tried repeatedly to take up political issues, contending that they are what will produce a surprise attack.

The West's latest technical study proposes an international aerial and ground inspection system to keep a permanent check on the ground forces of all nations. Maj.-Gen. Konstanin Sandru of Romania today said this failed to meet requirements of the Soviet-bloc states.

Russia herself has suggested establishment of an aerial and ground inspection system but tied this up with political proposals for the establishment of neutralized zones in Europe and the Middle East and reduction of armed forces.

Meanwhile, the big three conference on suspension of nuclear weapon tests was to turn to discussion of a control and inspection system to enforce compliance with any test ban.

The United States, Britain and Russia agreed Saturday on the first phase of an agreement outlawing test explosions. But the three gambling differences appeared to be the second clause outlining the control system.

The United States and Britain have insisted they would not sign any agreement unless it provided for a complete foolproof detection system.

On Wednesday evening the Holloway Kum-Double Club met in the home of Mrs. and Mrs. Gene Kelly.

The Rev. R. F. Darke and Mrs. Darke were in charge of the worship service. Mrs. Darke opened her service with a poem after which everyone joined in the singing of "O God Our Help." The Scripture lesson was taken from Psalm 95: 1-6, 24: 3-10. Mrs. Darke led the group in prayer, and Mr. Darke gave the thought for the evening, "How the date of December twenty-fifth was arrived at as the birth date of Jesus, after the passage of many years. Mrs. Darke then served with the poem "Touching Shoulders With You." The worship period was closed with the carol "Joy To The World."

The business period was in charge of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Golden.

The next meeting, a group supper, is to be held in the form of a tea and Mrs. Snider on December 30th.

A social time was enjoyed by all as the hostess and the assistants served tasty refreshments.

Modern Wife Harried by TV Commercials

By DOROTHY ROE

NEW YORK (AP) — The modern wife is a creature harassed by propaganda and harried by TV commercials.

All day long, from the minute she opens her morning newspaper until she turns off the late show at night, she is beset by ominous commands, warnings and downright threats, such as these:

"When you use a deodorant, are you sure?"

"Don't drive your husband away from home with detergent hands!"

"When he kisses you, what of your breath?"

"If you want to hold your husband, better use the perfume that never fails, atomic apple blossoms."

"If you don't buy magnetic lipstick now—your husband will look for it on another girl."

"Her mother was crying as you were on your wedding day? If not, try our Golded Missile vitamins."

"Do you suffer from backache, tired glands and milkmaid's knee? You need our supercharged uranium tonic."

"Are you a household drudge or a vital sweetheart?"

"Hey, Mom! Better give your children our self-starting breakfast food or their teeth will all fall out."

"Does your husband rush home at night? If not, he took one look at your face."

"Give him our happy pills and enjoy a new outlook on marriage."

FEELS INSECURE

All these and more combine to give the average wife a feeling of desperate insecurity. She feels that if she doesn't look like Marilyn Monroe and smell like a perfume shop, she's in danger of losing her happy home.

Most of this is a lot of nonsense, says Hugo A. Bourdeau, a Baltimore marriage counselor, in the current issue of Coronet magazine.

"The modern American woman is being overwhelmed with the importance of sex in marriage," he says.

He believes that women all over the country are developing jitters, ulcers and nervous breakdowns trying to live up the movie versions of sex appeal.

SEX NOT ENOUGH

Actually, says Bourdeau, sex is only a part of married life—an important part, of course, but only the whole show. It's important, too, to raise a healthy, happy family, to have a peaceful, well-ordered home and to make a creative apple pie.

Companionship and teamwork, working and building together, are some of the most important ingredients of a happy marriage. And if you can go through hard times together and still be friends, you're a success.

Sex is great, in the opinion of many experts, but often a man will appreciate a well-cooked meal and a good book.

Club Activities

TRINITY LADIES' CLUB

MADOC — Mrs. Murray Smith was hostess at Trinity Ladies' Club for their regular monthly meeting. A large and appreciative group of members and visitors were on hand to take part in the "Remembrance Day" program.

The club was fortunate indeed to have as their guest speaker, Miss Mary Fossens, English teacher at Madoc High School, who spoke on her native country, "India".

Wearing a charming sari, Miss Fossens talked eloquently on this vast and densely populated country. Little known facts were revealed and the many customs and contrasts of great wealth and extreme poverty were colorfully dealt with.

Introduced by the president, Mrs. George Devolin, Miss Fossens was graciously thanked by Mrs. George While.

The club's appreciation was extended to Mrs. Smith, also to Miss Olive Ashe and Mrs. G. C. Moon for their part in the devotional service.

A contest and social hour concluded the meeting.

Foxboro H-S Discusses Dancing Classes

The November meeting of the Foxboro Home and School Association was held in the school auditorium.

After a brief business meeting discussion was held on the dances to be held for the purpose of teaching school children to dance. The dances will be held during the winter months beginning on the ninth of January.

Mrs. Rose, teacher of the intermediate room, was asked to speak to the parents on the methods used to teach the children in her room. Grade IV to VI. Mrs. Rose said children of this age group are at a golden age indeed as they are still enjoying carefree childhood but are just beginning to grow up. Wise help and understanding at home is most important. Children of this age should be encouraged to make their own decisions to prepare them for future emotional security. Comecition is discouraged because the learning ability of each child is different even in children of the same family.

Mrs. Rose spoke on different ways the parent might help the child, stressing that more time should be spent on religious teaching in the home.

Following this talk, Mrs. James Churchill showed a film titled, "Ten to Twelve." This film was of a typical family and it was much enjoyed by the group. Group discussion brought the meeting to a close.

The leotard was originally invented by an acrobat and has undergone some changes, but still remains a popular lounging costume for women. Now tights are also on the scene. How do they differ? Leotard is left in bloomer for lounging as well as with which resemble a one-piece bathing suit with long sleeves, over a pair of tights. Model at right is showing how today's popular tights are being worn with shorter bloomer for lounging as well as with skirts for school and slacks and shorts for sports. (CP Photo).

Leotard Takes on Changes But the Name Still Clings

MONTREAL (CP) — The leotard, a currently popular lounging costume for women, has undergone some changes since its invention by the famed acrobat Jules Leotard about a century ago, but the name still clings as closely as the costume.

Leotard, a daring high - wire acrobat, wore a skin-tight neck-to-ankles suit for his famous stunts. It kept him warm and allowed full freedom of movement, said a Montreal fashion designer recently.

Female ballet artists have modified the costume to a short-sleeved legless one worn over long, dark hose, said the designer. Recently the outfit has been in great demand by women who never saw a ballerina ballet.

ARE NOT TIGHTS

The designer emphasized that leotards should be distinguished from tights, which are long-legged elasticized drawers, and have an origin much more ancient than leotards.

Back in the 1200s European men wore tights with short flared jackets. The style was eventually supplanted by men's breeches.

But men still wear both tights and leotards in the ballet or in acrobatics, she said.

The popularity of both costumes nowadays may be caused by an increasing popular interest in the ballet. Young people and older women with good figures are wearing the costumers under sports ensembles and even for housework indoors, said the designer.

NYLON HELPED

The development of a light-weight stretch nylon which allows the costume to be tight-fitting yet light in weight may be a factor, she said.

Women are getting more sensible about cold-weather clothing, too. Although long woollen "snuggies" and over-stockings are considered by some to be somewhat dowdy, there is nothing unfashionable about the sophisticated leotard or its cousin the tights, she said.

Are No Major Shortages Of Christmas Delicacies

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

The old-fashioned, home-baked Christmas cake apparently is on its way out.

Shopkeepers preparing for what may be a record Christmas spending spree expect more will be made cakes and plum puddings than ever to go on Canada's Yuletide dinner tables this year.

Many firms say their cakes are better in quality and cheaper this year because of advanced mass-production techniques. Some grocery chain checked customers for their favorite cake recipes before swinging into Christmas production.

NO SHORTAGES

A Canadian Press survey shows there are no major shortages of traditional Christmas delicacies.

Says one store: "If you want it we've got it. The only limitation is the pocket."

Prices are generally around last year's level.

Early shopping trends indicate turkey is still king of the dinner table and many areas note a drop in demand for geese and duck the main exception being in districts with a large European-born population.

Across Canada:

Maritimers generally will pay more for their turkeys.

In New Brunswick turkey will sell around 36 cents, chicken and pork leg roast at 49 cents and blade, roast at 39 cents.

Nova Scotia stores say many more housewives are buying ready-made cakes, puddings and frozen foods.

Dealers blame the few small price increases on increased labor costs.

SLIGHT INCREASE

In Prince Edward Island, turkeys, geese and ducks are retailing about three per cent dearer than last year. Some baking ingredients and fresh fruit are also priced higher but chicken and other fowl are down.

Quebec residents will pay about eight cents a pound less for their turkey. Turkey is selling around 53 cents a pound, compared to last year's 61 cents.

Chicken prices are also down, from 63 cents to between 37 and 55 a pound. Ham is up four cents to 71. Ducks and geese are in little demand.

In Montreal, turkeys are selling between 45 and 55 cents a pound. Wholesalers say it is too early to estimate firm Christmas prices, most expect no upswing. Duck year Montreal stores are buying more 18-25 pound birds. Hams and chucks are second choice.

Shop-made fruit cakes range from 69 cents a pound to $1.25.

EXPECT BIG SALES

Many Ontario stores see prospects of Christmas sales passing last year's records.

In Toronto, major department stores are opening late two or three nights a week until Christmas.

Grocers say there are no scarcities. Turkey, biggest favorite, will retail around 55 cents a pound, chickens as low as 29 cents for broilers, ducks about 49 cents and pork roast between 32 and 62 cents depending on cut.

Fruits are plentiful. Tangerines will retail as low as 29 cents a dozen and California oranges, depending on size, between 45 and 69 cents. Fresh dates from California are selling around 30 cents a pound. Cranberries, at 25 cents a pound, are in good supply.

Other prices: cakes 65 cents a pound; plum puddings 59 cents; mixed nuts 49 cents; walnuts 53 cents; brazils 49 cents; filberts 39 cents.

IN WESTERN CANADA

In Manitoba prices are mainly the same as last year, but raisins and currants are about five cents a pound dearer.

Turkey is selling around 34 cents a pound in Winnipeg. Specialities include chocolate- and candy-coated grasshoppers, ants and cocoons from Japan.

Other prices: oranges 45 cents for four pounds; raisins 25 cents a pound; plum puddings 70 cents a pound.

Alberta reports a shortage of heavy chickens, most of which are being killed early as broilers, and California raisins but turkeys, cranberries and oranges are plentiful.

Top-grade small turkeys are priced about 58 cents a pound, about the same as last year. Large birds sell at 47 cents a pound.

Alberta has shipped turkeys east in large quantities. Many of the 78,000 geese raised by the Hutterites during the summer will also find their way to the Christmas tables.

Evicerated turkeys are selling in British Columbia from 61 to 75 cents a pound, with heavier birds the cheaper. Retailers expect prices will drop slightly nearer Christmas. Ham is about 65 cents a pound. Two-pound Christmas cakes are running about $1.35 in Vancouver, with Christmas pudding 67 cents a pound.

GOOD MANNERS

DON'T TAKE WEDDING GIFT TO RECEPTION

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My husband and I have just received a formal invitation to attend a church wedding at High Noon, with a reception following in the ballroom of a large hotel here. We have never before been invited to such an important wedding. I am particularly worried as to just when and how to present our wedding gift. That is, should I send it in advance of the wedding, or should we take it with us to the reception? — B.

Do, please, send your wedding present to the bride-to-be at her home-address. This is the correct thing to do . . . the customary procedure . . . practical, and sensible. If you send it considerably soon before the wedding date (two weeks before, say), the bride-to-be will have time to enjoy its arrival, and . . . most important . . . she will have time to write you a thank-you note before the wedding, as she is supposed to do.

The best plan, and today the usual plan, is to have the present sent from the store where you buy it, for practically all stores now provide especially attractive and appropriate wrappings, insure, and direct-deliver, mail or express the package.

BRIDAL ATTENDANTS PAY FOR OWN COSTUMES

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Am I expected to buy the dresses for my maid of honor and bridesmaids, or do they themselves buy their dresses? — Bridegroom.

You, the bride-to-be, plan and choose every detail of each attendant's costume . . . but the attendant herself pays for her own costume. The only exception is her flowers, which are provided for her by you or your family.

FORM OF NAME ON ENVELOPE OF CHURCH PLEDGE CARD

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When one writes one's name on the envelope of a Pledge Card for church contributions, should one write "Mary Smith Brown" or "Mrs. Arthur Brown"? — Reader.

The name would be most correctly written as it is recorded in the church membership, since this would be of most convenience to the person in charge of these pledge cards. In a majority of cases, for pledge-card identification, I would advise that the woman write in her own name, as Mary Smith Brown.

"SINCERELY YOURS" OR "SINCERELY" MORE FORMAL?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Please tell me which is considered more formal, "Sincerely yours" or "Sincerely"? — Wondering

"Sincerely yours" is considered more formal.

NEVER NECESSARY TO HAVE WEDDING RECEPTION

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

We are planning to have a large, formal, church wedding next November. Since I wish to have only the religious ceremony, I do not wish to have a reception of any kind following the ceremony. Several of my closest relatives and most intimate friends seem to be outraged at this idea of mine, insisting that it is customary and necessary to have a large, formal reception after a large, formal church wedding. Are they right, Mrs. Beeckman? — Bride-to-be

They are right in saying that it is customary to have a reception following a large, formal church wedding. But they are not right in saying it is necessary to have a reception. About having a reception, as you wish, I have known quite a few brides who have the point of view you have . . . that they wish to have only the religious ceremony, no social occasion.

WHEN TO SEND FORMAL MARRIAGE ANNOUNCEMENTS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

We are having just our relatives and a few very close friends at our wedding in my home on a Saturday afternoon soon. Therefore we will not send formal invitations. But we are planning to send formal announcement. And we thought we could use these announcements to inform our other relatives and friends, particularly those who live at a distance, that the wedding is to take place on that day. So wouldn't it be correct, in this circumstance, to have the announcements several days, or perhaps even a week or so before the wedding? — D. R.

No! Under no circumstances is it correct (or sensible) to send announcements before the ceremony has taken place. They announce that the ceremony in a taken place, and it would be very foolish indeed to have a person receive, say on Saturday, January 25th, the announcement that the marriage ceremony has been performed on Saturday, January 25th! Mail these announcements when they should be mailed . . . as soon as possible after the marriage ceremony has been performed.

If you wish to inform certain of your relatives and friends beforehand about the wedding, when and where it is to be, it is kind and correct to plan for you to write notes to them.

Gregory B. — I want to open my own business.

Sandra B. — It's too great a risk.

Gregory B. — My wife and I are in our late 30's and have five children. We are happily married and our children are getting along nicely in our community.

The family has every reason to be pleased with our present setup, but I have long been dissatisfied with my situation in my business organization and I would like to move back to my native city and open my own business there. It is a dream I have had for many years.

My wife likes it where we are and she is afraid of the risk of changes. However, she simply doesn't understand what I go through when I have to stand aside and see other men, not as competent as I am, move ahead of me in our organization. I have the ability to take on larger responsibilites, yet I am forced to use only a small part of my potential. It's so frustrating I'm getting an ulcer.

Sandra B. — I can never get Greg to realize that I do understand his frustration and I do feel terrible about his unhappiness on his job. Each time something especially exasperating happens I just cry for days. The people who run things in some of our big companies just aren't fit to hold their jobs.

Nevertheless, I say that it is worth a great deal to have the wonderful security. My own father was in business and I know something about the headaches and risks you encounter. Greg has never had to deal with anything like that. It would be different if he were a young man with no responsibilities, but at his age it would be a hard thing to have to get used to.

I feel that Greg should be grateful that he has a sympathetic wife and a wonderful family. He should try to take his working hours in stride and look for enjoyment in his leisure hours.

The Council: Sandra is a sympathetic wife, but she could be a bit more understanding. A man can't very easily treat his working hours as of no importance. His work represents a large part of his identity. It would be a little like telling a woman not to worry about her children when they have serious problems and telling her to put her mind on outside pleasure instead.

In his desire to be sympathetic Sandra tends to coddle rather than help her husband. He comes home of his trouble with it, telling of the wounds he has received and she tries to comfort him by kissing the hurt away and cussing out the big, bad bullies who have inflicted it.

This is comforting as an immediate reaction but it does not run it is of little help to a child and considerably less to an adult.

Sandra would do her husband and herself a far better turn if she tried to help him find the basis of his trouble with his company. She should help him analyze each situation as coldly and objectively as possible. Together, they'll probably find that Greg has in some way been at fault in handling his job or the personalities involved with it. They should be aware of the fact that most victims are self-made. Greg's analysis may show that every unlikely possibility that any situation with his company has become damaged beyond repair. In such case, Greg would have to choose between an ulcer plus a lifetime of misery and the risk of making such a change. If the decision to make a change it honestly and sensibly arrived at, the risk will probably seem much less forbidding.

Anybody here eligible? I need company. Boy believe me I'm not going to lower the flavor or nutrition standards.

WIENERS WITH HOT POTATO SALAD:

Wash and cook in boiling salted water 6 to 8 medium-sized potatoes. Cool; remove skins and slice thinly. Cover bottom of a baking dish with the potatoes. Brown together 4 slices of chopped bacon and 2 small chopped onions. Add to hot fat 3 tablespoons of vinegar. Pour this over the potatoes, mix well, cover and heat about 10 minutes at 375° deg. Fahr. Line a bowl with lettuce leaves, arrange the salad and sprinkle with chopped parsley. Serve with Broiled Wieners: Slit wieners lengthwise — the fat, juicy kind, spread lightly with prepared mustard and generously with cheese — wrap a slice of bacon around each wiener, skewer together 4 eggs, 1-3 teaspoon salt, speck of pepper, 1-4 cup milk. Turn into frying pan with the bread cubes. Scramble over high heat, stirring constantly, scraping from the bottom and sides of the frying pan. Remove as soon as barely set. With the eggs as a main dish you can build a most delicious lunch or supper adding cream of spring onion soup, buttered asparagus, hot biscuits, warm apple sauce, cookies, tea or milk . . .

2 Federal Cabinet Ministers Say God Save the Queen, Not O Canada, National Anthem

By CAROLYN WILLETT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Is Canada a nation without a common anthem to sing?

The call for a rendition of the national anthem, it appears, would result in two choruses—one singing O Canada, the other God Save the Queen.

The Maple Leaf Forever, once a possible choice, seems less popular today.

On a national level, the statute books are bare of any definition of what the national anthem is.

Since 1948 an order-in-council dealing with military regulations lays stipulated that persons not in uniform shall salute if wearing headdress or stand at attention, if bareheaded, "throughout the playing of the national anthem, O Canada, or a foreign national anthem."

These regulations altered 1939 military orders which did not mention O Canada.

NOT DEFINED

Although in the order-in-council "the national anthem" is taken to mean God Save the Queen, it is not defined.

Two federal cabinet ministers have expressed the opinion that God Save the Queen, rather than O Canada, is the national anthem.

Citizenship Minister Ellen Fairclough says "it's slightly ridiculous" to name any other song. Revenue Minister Nowlan agrees with Mrs. Fairclough that O Canada is a "nice" national song, but not the national anthem.

Mrs. Fairclough was commenting on a dispute in Toronto caused when three city councillors walked out of a banquet given by the Native Sons of Canada—a group which makes Canadian birth a condition of membership and contends O Canada is the national anthem.

An external affairs department spokesman said that local Canadian missions broad are authorized to use either song, or both. O Canada was usually used when an official occasion called for a rendition distinctively Canadian. This would include occasions where Canada participated along with Great Britain or other Commonwealth members using God Save the Queen.

TICKLISH ISSUE

Politically ticklish, the anthem issue came up in the House of Commons in 1955 when then Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent asked members to rise and sing "the royal anthem" on the official celebration of the Queen's birthday.

Questioned in the House about his use of the term, Mr. St. Laurent said he had given no previous thought to the way it should be described.

At that time Prime Minister Diefenbaker, then an opposition member of Parliament, asked Mr. St. Laurent:

"Is it not a fact that God Save the Queen is our national anthem?"

Mr. St. Laurent replied that, to his knowledge, it has never been adopted by any act of Parliament, resolution or cabinet proclamation.

Later the same year Mr. St. Laurent in an address to the Trades and Labor Congress indicated he believed O Canada was becoming the national anthem by general acceptance and did not need to be designated by legislation.

HISTORY UNCERTAIN

The Encyclopedia Canadiana states that it is not known when God Save the Queen—with a 200-year history and a distinctive royalist flavor in its words—first London performances—was first publicly played in Canada.

The encyclopedia lists O Canada, God Save the Queen, and The Maple Leaf Forever as the "national" songs of Canada.

O Canada in its English versions is a musical marriage of this country's French and English cultures.

Calixa Lavalee, a native of Verchere, Que., reputedly composed the music in one night to honor the official visit of the Marquis of Lorne, then Governor-General, to Quebec City in 1880. Some 20 sets of English words have been published. The words most widely used are those of the Hon. R. Stanley Weir of Montreal, former judge of the Exchequer Court of Canada, who wrote his version for Quebec's tercentenary celebrations in 1908.

The Weir version:

O Canada! our home and native land!
True patriot-love in all thy sons command.
With glowing hearts we see thee rise,
The true north, strong and free!
And stand on guard, O Canada, we stand on guard for thee.

Dr. James Gibson, historian and dean of arts at Carleton University here who wrote the definitive article, said in an interview one of the English versions are "completely different."

MOST POPULAR

He attributed the Weir version's popularity to the fact that several provincial school systems have used them in their readers. It also has been officially adopted by the Association of Canadian Clubs and several other organizations.

The Weir version was printed in an official form for the diamond jubilee of Confederation in 1927 and during the 1939 royal visit.

The Canadian Citizenship Council, co - ordinating body for federal organizations doing citizenship work has expressed its official "hope" that Canada will adopt both a national anthem and a national flag by its 100th birthday in 1967.

In at least one province—Ontario—the playing of God Save the Queen, or at least the use of it is a statutory requirement at the end of theatrical performances and it is widely accepted as a way to terminate public meetings.

ROSLIN

Donald Campbell Discusses Evolution of Agriculture at F.U.

ROSLIN — The Hastings County Ontario Farmers' Union held its first banquet in Plainfield Hall on Wednesday. This event was a real success with a capacity crowd.

Mr. Harold Murphy, County Director, was chairman. During the evening two door prizes were given.

Mr. Fred Elliott introduced the head table and distinguished guests including vision officials and members of Parliament. Those present were: Mr. Elmer Sandercock, M.P.P. and Mrs. Sandercock; Mr. Lee Grills, M.P.; Mr. Lloyd Price, M.P.P. and Mrs. Price, and Agricultural Representative, Mr. Sidney Macdonald.

The program consisted of community singing led by Mrs. C. B. McCoy; a duet by Misses Diane Robinson, and Judy Defoe; an instrumental by James Graham, and a solo by Randy Gray.

The members of Parliament were asked to say a few words. Each graciously thanked the community and wished the Farmers' Union every success. Agricultural Representative, Mr. Sidney Macdonald, also spoke briefly.

GUEST SPEAKER

Mr. Clarence Graham introduced the guest speaker, Mr. Donald Campbell, past director of Prince Edward Co.

In his address, Mr. Campbell discussed the evolution of Agriculture from the period 200 years ago, when our forefathers were hewing up the virgin soil; tilling by hand, harvesting with scythe and cradle and threshing by flail, to work out a mere existence, until the present mechanized era.

In the time of the pioneer, marketing was no problem. He could take his produce to a trading post and exchange it for articles which he could not produce

In this way of life, farmers did not require much education, which is a stigma in this day. Each generation tried to improve his living standards and thus, indirectly through their efforts, the country was progressing. Population increased, railways were built; farmers found increasing demands for their produce. By this time farming was considered an occupation. Progress was slow. mechanization was making its first impression in agriculture.

WAR BRINGS CHANGES

The war years brought the most changes. Pressure was brought to bear on the farmer to produce to the maximum, to feed the war-torn countries of the world.

DEMAND FOR MACHINERY

In face of the demands of economy hired help was scarce, which brought about the absolute necessity of mechanization. This meant exceptionally high prices for this new product. times were good, financially but as standards of living rose the cost of living went higher, and higher. Ceilings were imposed to curtail inflationary trends for agricultural products.

The department of agriculture and agricultural representatives played an important role in scientific development and research hence higher production and better yield per acre.

Production increased organization was needed. Co-ops, and marketing boards were formed, but this was not enough. Imports were ruining markets, farm prices were going lower in a booming economy.

Some enterprising farmers decided it was time for an organization consisting of active farmers, who could come up with solutions to their own problems. This is how a "grass roots" producer controlled organization was formed the Ontario Farmers' Union.

A group of participating farmers were setting a precedence in making farm policy, preparing and presenting briefs to the government. When members of parliament were contacted they were eager to get ideas and to help find solutions to these problems.

Due to increased cost of production and reduced net income, it was necessary to produce to the maximum to get the necessary amount of capital to operate and stay in business.

While farmers are busy producing a crop, the floor price may be cut out from under, or a surplus may decide it would be cheaper to import.

It is necessary to put all of this commodity on the market and with there was more in order to meet the necessities.

CUTTING PRICES RIDICULOUS

The idea of cutting production by cutting farm prices is ridiculous. Arguments about being more efficient and specializing are all right but there must be diversify for safety. Do not all the eggs in one basket, because what is lost in one line should be made up in another.

"I am sure the Ontario Farmers' Union will play an important role as the recognized voice of agriculture in the future. What we need is faith, hope and party. Never sell agriculture short — think big—anticipate and accept events before they happen—refuse to be prejudice, concluded Mr. Campbell.

Mr. Thomas Kelly thanked Mr. Campbell for his fine address and Mrs. George Williams thanked the Women's Institute of Plainfield and all those who took part in the program.

WALLBRIDGE — The November meeting of the Wallbridge W. I. was held in the Orange hall. It was "Family Night" and there was a good attendance.

The president opened the meeting. After the immediate business was dispensed with, Miss Grace Pitman, music supervisor in the schools, explained how the small children were taught to sing. Each grade sang to show the improvement made from year to year.

Mrs. McMullen then introduced the guest speaker, Mr. Clarence Holmes, who chose as her subject, "Laughing". This was much enjoyed by all as it provided most interesting as well as humorous. "We should all take time for real laughter. If you don't laugh at least once the day is wasted," the speaker stated.

Delicious refreshments were served after which everyone enjoyed a half hour of chatting.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

The leading citizen of Bal Ste. Anne, a wind-lashed village on the reef-strewn shore of New Brunswick is due to make sports headlines come Thursday.

He is Yvon Durelle, a squat, thick-set moulder, who looks like a tank with gloved gun muzzles, is as unscientific as they make 'em, but who can make an elephant blink with pain no matter which end he hits.

This throwback to the bare-knuckle days has two ambitions, one to stop Harold Sabine and thus win a patch of the Atlantic; two, to win the world light-heavyweight title by knocking his favorite foreman, ageless Archie Moore, out of his memories.

The pair meet in Montreal Wednesday night and fight fans, who are not ringsiders now, won't have to wait until one or the other fighter is horizontal, or has won the verdict, before they get the result. Television, at this writing, has been limited to the CBC English network on the Canadian side and up to a 300-mile limit south of the border. There will be no radio coverage.

Meanwhile, down Montreal way, Durelle is in perfect shape for the biggest fight in his ring career. He is confident to the point of cockiness. "I'll get Moore in the ring with me," he boasted some time ago; "I know I will be the next lightweight champion. Then I can go home and have the biggest fishing fleet in all Canada."

In the other training corner a poster'd, crafty old champion, said to be 40 years old, while other estimates range from that number to 49, is quietly going about the business of readying himself for what he feels won't be anything too far out of the ordinary million-and-a-half gate.

The old maestro, whose wit is as nimble at times a his flashing fists, isn't letting Durelle's predictions and prophecies bother him. "I'll whip this young Durelle," he says.

The rugged Durelle, built along the general lines of a battleship, is called "deux" by his French Canadian friends when he was a baby. "Deux" means soft or sweet, but it was a misnomer. He was always getting into scraps at school, and when he was 14 he even kayo'd his school teacher.

It seems the teacher caught Durelle tossing spitballs, and told him to remain after school. He decided to punish Yvon the hard way and "came at me with a long thin stick" — decided the first argu'y recalled Durelle, "then I reached out and grabbed the stick from his hand. He got sore and started slugging me. So I let him have a couple and he winds up flat on his back."

"He wasn't sore about it," said Durelle. "After he came to, he shook hands and told me I had the makings of a good fighter. We have been good friends since."

Durelle started his professional boxing career at Chatham, N.B., when he was 16. He and his brother were going to a movie when a boxing promoter offered Durelle eight dollars far merely shewing-up in the ring in the place of a sick fighter. Yvon knocked his opponent kicking in the second round. Later he fought several times for the promoter Dede Daley and his partner Billy Ryan.

Durelle keeps in condition between fights operating a fleet of "salmondrifters." "Fishing is my life," he says. "I'm a fisherman who fights, not a fighter who fishes. I have had fights because I was taking or pulling lobster traps instead of training."

But working salmon drifters is a fine way to develop the body. Durelle has proof of that. He has a size 17 neck and his wrists measure nine inches. He can squeeze 200 pounds with his hands and lift 700 or 800 pounds on the scale.

Durelle, who did an army stint in the artillery at Picton a few years ago, likes all sports. He is a more than average hockey player and stars on the local softball and baseball teams. He can pitch or hit the ball a country mile.

He is the tough, brawling, club-fighter type who will give the fans their mocky's worth, and foregoes all the niceties and ring science there is.

But for all that he is up against a wily, cunning old ring craftsman in Archie Moore. Ole Archie's legs may be on the decline but the brain hasn't slipped any as yet. He is a master boxer who uses his head to save his legs.

So, at the risk of being dubbed a disloyal Canadian, we're going limb-crawling to the extent that Durelle will get his new fishing boats, but Moore will still have his light-heavy crown.

And on the basis of former predictions made by this department, that should be the signal for the betting boys to rush to the back room and place their money on Durelle.

Boom-Boom Ties Bathgate For National Top Spot

Ranger Star Has More Goals Habs Winger Tops in Assists, Plante Leads Goalie Corps

By CHRISTINE STEWART
✓ Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Canadiens' right winger Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion picked up two goals and three assists in three games the past week to crowd into a first-place tie with New York Rangers' Andy Bathgate in the National Hockey League's individual point-scoring race.

Bathgate, tops alone a week ago with a league-leading 17 goals and 15 assists in 24 games, kept his skate on the top rung by getting two more assists in Wednesday night's game with Chicago, the only game the Rangers won the past week in three starts. The club was blanked in the other two games, Saturday and Sunday.

NHL statistics, released today, show Bathgate and Geoffrion tied with 31 points apiece. But Bathgate holds the edge on the strength of his pace-setting goal total. Geoffrion has 14 goals and 20 assists in that department.

BELLIVEAU DROPS BACK

Canadiens' big Jean Beliveau, tied for second last week with teammate Dickie Moore, dropped to seventh position after being sidelined with a hand injury Nov. 20 He has 14 goals and 12 assists for 26 points.

Detroit's Gordie Howe picked up a goal and three assists to take over the second-place tie with Moore. Howe has 14 goals, 14 assists for 28 points; Howe 13 goals, 15 assists. The first eight players at the top of the heap, five from Canadiens. The Richard line is there en masse—Maurice (Rocket) Richard tied for third place with Detroit's Norm Ullman at 27 points; brother Henri Richard in eighth position with 25 points, and Moore tied for second.

In scoring since this year, the Rocket has scored 12 goals and added 15 assists. Brother Henri has eight goals, 17 assists. Ullman has 12 goals and 15 assists, the same as the Rocket, but Ullman got his points in 27 games.

Chicago's Eddie Litzenberger and Detroit's Alex Delvecchio are tied in ninth position with 23 points apiece. Litz has 11 goals and 12 assists. Delvecchio nine goals, 14 assists.

FOUR-WAY TIE

Paving out another in a four-way tie for seventh place are Boston's Don McKenney and Vic Stasiuk, and Chicago's Bobby Hull and Ron Murphy, all with 22 points. Hull and Stasiuk got theirs with nine goals, 13 assists; Murphy with 10 goals, 12 assists to McKenney's 13 goals and nine assists.

Goalies Jacques Plante of the Canadiens and Detroit's Terry Sawchuk share the top goalie trophy. Plante, held on to first place Wednesday with his name on nine of the last three games for a goals-against total of 60. Sawchuk let in 62 goals in the same three games for a total of 63.

Plante earned his/fourth shutout of the season and leads that department. Sawchuk has three shutouts.

Plante's average is 2.31; Sawchuk's 2.58. Glenn Hall of Detroit are Toronto's Johnny Bower and Cesare Maniago of Minnesota the goaltending in the 25 games the Leafs have played. Their combined average is 2.84, with three shutouts, 71 goals against.

Leafs Tab Alfie Pike For Coach Job

NEW YORK (AP) — Toronto Maple Leafs, seeking a full-time coach to help them emerge from the National Hockey League basement, have tabbed Alfie Pike most likely to get the job.

"I will meet with Pike in Vancouver tomorrow night," George Imlach, Leafs' general manager, told Monday. He has an outstanding minor league record and that's very important. If he can get away from his commitments, he'll be our man."

Pike is coaching Winnipeg of the Western League. He played for New York Rangers for six seasons starting with 1939. Following his retirement, Pike coached the Ranger farm team at Guelph where he helped develop goalies. New York stars Andy Bathgate, Dean Prentice, Lou Fontinato and Harry Howell, Imlach and Bert Olmstead have been directing the club since Billy Reay was fired Nov. 21.

"The arrangement has worked out well so far," said Imlach. "I've been calling the shots during the games and Olmstead has been in charge in practice sessions. But we have to build this club up and our first need is a full-time coach."

Giants Faced With Injuries

NEW YORK (AP) — Injuries to place-kicking specialist Pat Summerall, offensive tackle Jim Stroud and defensive halfback Ed Hughes confronted New York Giants today as they looked toward their do-or-die game with Cleveland Browns here Sunday.

The Giants have to beat the Browns to gain a tie for the east-west conference crown of the National Football League. That would set up a title playoff Sunday, Dec. 21.

In their pre-Cleveland meeting with the Browns, New York won 21-17.

Summerall and Stroud are listed in the doubtful category for Sunday's game. Hughes will not be ready to play.

Football Moguls Differ on Shift of Shrine Game Date

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A suggestion that the annual East-West Shrine football game abandon its December date and be played as a July pre-season spectacle is getting varied reaction across the country.

Some football club spokesmen strongly support the move, others are just as strongly opposed and a middle faction appears to have doubts about both arguments.

President Jake Gaudaur of Hamilton Tiger-Cats said a summer date was "imperative" if the all-star contest, a charity affair for Shrine crippled children's hospitals, was to survive.

Most of the still-frozen players and officials at this year's game agreed.

OTTAWA FAVORS JULY

Sam Berger, president of Ottawa Rough Riders said his club would support any move towards a July date.

Coach Bud Grant of Winnipeg Blue Bombers, whose Western squad won the Hamilton Game 9-3, wouldn't go along with the idea. He was chiefly concerned about injuries and the fact that key players would miss early training.

Lew Hayman, managing director of Toronto Argonauts said he had misgivings about the whole idea. "The chief importance of the game lies with the fans," he said. The Argo boss said he was undecided how fans would go for a radical switch in a traditional late-season event.

"I am not saying anything either for or against the idea yet," he added. "It will take some time to really find out how good the suggestion is."

Gorman Kennedy of Montreal Alouettes also declined comment saying he wanted to study the matter.

Initial reaction from the West appears to be July could be a big thing. Herb Capozzi, general manager of British Columbia Lions, said his club would be interested in a summer game and would help talk it up. So did general manager Jim Finks of Calgary Stampeders and president Ken Taylor of Saskatchewan Roughriders voiced objections.

Taylor didn't like the idea of having key players miss early training.

Cecil Ross, president of Edmonton Eskimos, thinks a change should be made in the Shrine game setup.

"It's a cockeyed," he said in a telephone interview Monday. "They could do better than they have for the last four years."

The real test of the proposal will probably come at the annual meeting of the Canadian Rugby Union early next year.

Laval Defeats Carabins 8-4

QUEBEC (CP) — Laval University Red and Gold, sparked by the four-goal performance of Pierre Raymond humbled University of Montreal Carabins 8-4 in a senior intercollegiate hockey contest Monday night.

The win was Laval's third in as many games in the new season. The club tops the four-team circuit with six points. Carabins have yet to win a game.

Two of the losers' goals were scrounded by Maurice Duhaime and Roland Mongeon, both of Sudbury.

Wolves Win Over Hounds

SUDBURY (CP) — Sudbury Wolves outclassed Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds 6-3 Monday night and moved into a third-place tie with Greyhounds in the OHA-NOHA Senior A circuit.

The hard-skating Wolves had a 6-0 lead going before their visitors hit the scoreboard. It was the fourth win for Sudbury in the last five starts.

The same clubs play a return date at the Soo Wednesday to decide sole ownership of third spot.

Bobby Forhan led the winners with two goals. Pete Filote, Nick Tomich, Frank O'Grady and Joe Zorica produced the rest.

Ray Fredericks' shutout bid was spoiled by Johnny Oliffani and Jim McBurney.

Tommy Walker of Greyhounds suffered a mild concussion when he fell on his head after being smothered by Sudbury defenceman Filote and Norm Guimond in the third period.

Carter, 24, from Linden, N.J., scored repeatedly with left-right combinations and it was a combination that sent Biehler down for the count. Carter weighed 199½ and Biehler 187.

Biehler, 27, of Rochester, said before the fight he would have to consider giving up boxing if he lost. This was the first time Biehler has been knocked out. He has a 21-9-1 record.

It was Carter's 25th victory against three losses and one draw.

Tris Speaker, Baseball Great Succumbs to Heart Seizure

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

HUBBARD, Tex. AP)—Tris Speaker, the famed Grey Eagle of the major leagues, died Monday and baseball mourned the passing of one of its greatest stars.

A heart attack claimed the man who was called the finest centre fielder of all time after a fishing trip at Lake Whitney, 30 miles west of his home here.

From the high echelons and from the bushes of baseball came messages of sorrow and Speaker was lauded for the tremendous contribution he made to the game he loved so well. He played it for 940 a month.

Speaker and a fishing crony, Charles Vaughn, had pulled their boat into the dock after an afternoon on Lake Whitney. The 70-year-old member of baseball's Hall of Fame collapsed and died. Speaker had had one previous heart attack—in 1954.

Surviving are his widow and two sisters.

LIFETIME AVERAGE .344

Speaker was a great lefthanded hitter with a lifetime major league batting average of .344 in 22 seasons with the Boston Red Sox, Cleveland Indians, Washington Senators and Philadelphia Athletics. His highest average was .386 in 1925. He also was a great defensive player. He was on three world championship teams—Boston in 1912 and 1915 and Cleveland in 1920. He managed the latter team from 1919 to 1926, and was scout in later years.

Speaker started in professional baseball in 1906 with Cleburne of the Texas League. The day he signed a contract he was "fined" $10.00. Doak Roberts, president of the Cleburne club, told about it years later.

Roberts had driven in his bright new buggy to the field where Speaker was playing a semi-pro game. He called Tris over to talk contract, and Speaker, wearing baseball spikes, climbed on the hub of the buggy.

SIGNED FOR LESS

Roberts noted he had scraped some of the paint off so he signed Speaker to a contract at $60 a month. Speaker refused to make it $50, but held back the $10 to repair the buggy.

Speaker started as a pitcher but couldn't get the other side out. The Cleburne club was going to release him but the owner, noting that Speaker was a fine hitter, kept him and sent him to the outfield. He went on to major league glory.

Speaker began his baseball career at Fort Worth Polytechnic Institute, now Southern Methodist University. But he broke his pitching arm and turned to baseball after teaching himself to throw lefthanded.

He was one of the few outfielders in baseball history who could throw accurately lefthanded.

PLAYED IN CLOSE

He was also known for playing as close to could shake hands with the infielders.

"I once figured out," he said at one time, "that 98 per cent of all safe hits to the outfield drop in front of the fielders. Only two per cent go over their heads or between them. It really was confidence in these percentages that made me play so close in."

And he played it really close. On several occasions, he was able to pull down a fly for one out and step on second base for an unassisted double play.

Speaker's all-time record for all outfield assists testified to his control. Many were made by the close - playing Speaker handing the ball to the first baseman or hurling no - hop liners to the catcher.

Only once was his name brushed by scandal.

He quit baseball at the end of the 1926 season, resigning as manager of Cleveland. The same year Ty Cobb quit as manager of Detroit.

SENSATIONAL CLAIM

Then Hubert (Dutch) Leonard, a former Detroit pitcher released by Cobb but before Ty stepped down, made a sensational charge to baseball commissioner Landis.

Leonard said he, Speaker, Cobb and George Moe Wood had set out laboriated to bet on a world series game seven years before. The game had been between Cleveland and Detroit and, Leonard said, the four Cleveland players bet on Detroit, who won the game 9-5.

Speaker and Cobb re-entered baseball to force the commissioner to clear their names.

"They have not been, nor are they now, found guilty of fixing baseball games. By do decent system of justice could such finding be made."

The ruling put new life into Speaker's aging legs and, with Washington in 1927, he hit .327 and compiled 256 putouts and 24 assists. It was his last full year in the game.

Baseball Men Mourn Great Centre Fielder

HUBBARD, Tex. (AP)—Baseball men mourned Tris Speaker today as a great centre fielder—perhaps the best of all time—a fine and understanding manager, a good influence on younger players and a wonderful person.

"He was the best centre fielder of all time," said George (Duffy) Lewis, who played with Speaker and Harry Hooper in a famed outfield combination for Boston Red Sox. Lewis, now, travelling secretary of Milwaukee Braves, said he was shocked at the news of Speaker's death Monday.

Lee Fohl, who managed Cleveland Indians during Speaker's playing days there, said: "I can't say anything too good. He was a fine man in every respect."

"He was like a second father to me," said Joe Sewell, who played under Speaker as manager. "He was one of the greatest managers I ever played for, one of the finest persons I ever came into contact with in baseball."

LOUD OLD STARS

Baseball commissioner Ford Frick: "It's a shame we are losing so many of the old stars. These are the players who have made baseball the game."

Will Harridge, American League president: "He was a great credit to the game both on and off the field."

Nap Lajoie, a former teammate and like Speaker a member of baseball's hall of fame: "He was one of the greatest fellows I ever knew, both as a baseball player and as a gentleman. He will always be remembered as one of the game's greats."

Paul Richards, manager of Baltimore Orioles: "The young fellows learned much about baseball from him. He was for years a great moral influence on the game."

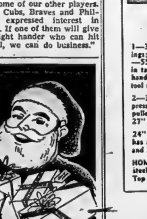
Dennis Riggin Out of Hockey For Season

EDMONTON (CP) — Dennis Riggin of Edmonton Flyers, the Prairie and Hockey League's all-star goalie last season, will not play again this season.

Bud Polle, Flyers' general manager, said Monday an eye injury suffered by Riggin in practice Nov. 6 has failed to respond to treatment. He was hit by a puck.

Riggin, who had three shutouts and the lowest goals-against average in the WHL this season, will undergo a minor operation. There is no reason to believe he will not be able to play next season, Polle said.

The 23-year-old Riggin is a native of Kincardine, Ont. Ed Johnston, obtained from Montreal Canadiens took over as goalie after Riggin was injured.



'Bums' Consider More Trades

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Dodgers are considering more player trades, one of which includes Jim Gilliam, general manager Buzzi Bavasi said Monday.

Los Angeles recently sent Gino Cimoli to the Cardinals in exchange for Wally Moon and Phil Paine.

"There is a good chance that we will swing another deal or two in the near future," said Bavasi. "At least, the groundwork for further trading was laid in Washington last week.

"The door was left open for a deal involving Gilliam and, possibly, some of our other players. The Cubs, Braves and Phillies all expressed interest in Gilliam. If one of them will give us a right hander who can hit the ball, we can do business."

Tripucka Wants To Play With Another Club

HAMILTON (CP) — Quarterback Frank Tripucka says he's fed up with Saskatchewan Roughriders and hopes he is traded to another football club before next season.

Tripucka, who passed for the only touchdown as the West defeated the East 9-3 in Saturday's all-star Shrine game here, told a reporter:

"I've had' Regina and Regina has 'had' me. The club should let me go to another team. I don't want to play another season in Regina.

"The club won't release me but Regina might take a trade."

Tripucka says his lack of popularity in Regina extends back to 1952.

Harry Lampman, former Roughrider end now with Hamilton Tiger-Cats, explained: "They don't like Frank in Regina because he took Glenn Dobbs' job.

"Fans out there have never forgiven Tripucka for taking Dobbs' job. It is unfair. He is one of the best quarterbacks in Canada."

BOWNASS TO RANGERS

NEW YORK (AP)—New York Rangers have acquired defenceman Jack (Red) Bownass from Buffalo Bisons of the American Hockey League. To make room for Bownass, Larry Cahan was sent to Springfield of the AHL. Bownass, 28, 6-1 and 185 pounds, will play in New York's next game.

Peter Lind Hayes Willing To Stay With Daytime Show

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—Peter Lind Hayes has come up with a pleasant daytime show on ABC-TV this season, and as far as he's concerned he wants to stay right there in the daylight.

Discussing an offer to go into night-time television, which usually is thought of as synonymous with the big - time television, Hayes said:

"I'll take the daylight. Night-time television is a pressure-cooker existence. You're lucky if one show in four is good. And it seems to be just about everyone's luck that the critics miss the good show and catch the three that aren't quite as good.

JUST BE KIND

"All you have to do on daytime television is behave. If you're a pleasant personality, work at being kind, and don't act like a wisecracker, you get along fine on the daytime schedule. It helps if you talk slowly and sweetly and try to look as much like Nelson Eddy as possible. There are no tremendous highs or lows in daytime television.

Hayes' hiatus he can be every bit as sophisticated on his show (Monday through Friday, 11:30-12:30 EST) as in the hotels after sunset.

"I have a limitless opportunity to present new talent," he said. "No message has been or ever will be involved in the program except a message of love—a love of talent if nothing else."

Although he characterizes night-time television as a pressure-cooker existence, he admits that doing five hours of live daylight TV is far from an icebox existence.

He is putting in 17 hours a day on his job—which, he admits, is too much.

"But I have the energy for it, at least now, and I hope in time to cut down."

Minor Hockey

Red Wings stretched their lead in the squirt minor hockey league at Memorial Arena last night by defeating the second - place Maple Leafs 5-3 in one of four games played.

Ken Mullens fired two goals in leading the Wings to their fifth victory in as many starts. Single goals went to Ted Herrington, Allan Rogers and Robert Carter. The two loss left the Leafs with six points and in a tie with the Black Hawks for second spot. Leaf scorers were Gary Parker, Chris Hannah and Craig Rump.

Black Hawks gained a half share of the runner - up position by whipping the Browns 8-4. Rod Carter went on a big scoring spree for the winners, slicing for eight, accounting for the margin of victory. The other Hawk goals were divided among Jimmy Henn, Randy Cournyea, Donny Blaind and Joey Plumpton. Larry Moore had two goals for Browns with Billy Long and Ted Sullivan getting the others.

Canadiens turned in the only shutout of the evening, blanking the Rangers 3-0, for their second win of the season. Goals were scored by Doug Mason, Jim Kerr and Jim Smith.

Barons also picked up their second victory by downing the Bruins 6-1. Gary Sharp led the winners' attack with two goals. Terry Young, Allen Lupinette, Doug Hunter and David Harrington also scored. Neil Goyer accounted for the lone Bruin marker.

AT THE PARK — Gangster Vengeance — John Drew Barrymore shoots it out with rival gangsters in this exciting scene from Allied Artists' hard-hitting story of the racketa, "Never Love a Stranger", now screening at the Park Theatre. Barrymore heads a cast that also stars Robert Bray, Lita Milan and Steven McQueen. On the same program "The Bride and the Beast", starring Lance Fuller and Charlotte Austin. Both features are first showings.

Tom Brown Had Hard Fight To Make Living as an Actor

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) This may come as a surprise to movie producers, but Tom Brown is no longer eligible to play a college halfback.

Tom may look like a juvenile in the rerun films on the late, late TV show. But he's nearing 44, has white hair and a sandy moustache and is master of face.

"But I can't get producers to think of me this way," the actor complained. "When my name is mentioned in casting, they generally say 'He's too young'."

Tom is making some progress, however. He has good roles in two forthcoming western films and will be seen on two CBS shows "Have Gun, Will Travel" and "December Bride." In his luck continues, Tom might make it.

A LONG FIGHT

But it has been a rugged go Tom's fight to make a living in the acting business has been a long, and often losing one. Here is how you figure it? The name Tom Brown is familiar to most moviegoers. He is a handsome, capable performer.

"The only problem was that I wasn't under contract to a studio when the war broke out," he explained. "I never was going great guns until I left for the army."

He started as a private, rose to major and served with distinction. After his discharge he returned to Hollywood, he found he was a forgotten man. The studio had to take back the veterans who had been under contract. Tom was out in the cold.

Just as he was getting his career back in good shape again, the Korean war broke out. Tom's outfit, the 40th Division, was activated, and he shipped out for combat duty in Korea. His hair started turning white then.

"When I got back, I had to start all over again," he said. "It was brutal. In my first year I made only $750, the returns from one television show."

AT THE BELLE — Jose Ferrer and Gene Rowlands as the happily married couple of "The High Cost of Loving", MGM's comedy-dramas of matrimony and modern manners, playing tonight and Wednesday at the Belle Theatre, with James Mason, Inger Stevens and Rod Steiger in "Cry Terror!", a worthy companion feature offering an experience in suspense.

Webb Meets British Champ In London

LONDON (AP)—Terry Downes, British middleweight champion, will attempt tonight to collect on a bet he lost two years ago.

Downes, a former United States sailor, meets Spider Webb of Chicago, third-ranked challenger for Sugar Ray Robinson's world title, in a 10-round bout at Wembley Stadium. Both hope it will lead to a championship bout.

For Downes, there's an additional incentive. While Downes was still was a featherweight, Webb fought Pat McAteer, then the British 126-pound champ, in Chicago. Terry wagered $100 on his countryman and when McAteer lost he paid out.

Back in his native land, Downes became a professional boxer—a real crowd - pleaser—who has established himself as the best of Britain's middleweights. If he beats Webb tonight, promoter Jack Solomons has promised he'll try to get the 26-year-old Robinson over for a title fight in London.

Webb, a 24 favorite, also is after a bout with Robinson and says he doesn't intend to let the prospects suffer by losing to Downes.

Solomons expects a sellout crowd in 10,000-seat Wembley indoor Stadium for a card that includes two other crowd-pulling fights.

Percy Lewis, the British Empire feather weight champion, meets Carmelo Costa of Brooklyn and England's Terry Spinks meets Pat Supple of Montreal, Canadian flyweight and bantamweight champion. Both bouts are 10-rounders.

MOHNS RETURNS

BOSTON (AP)—Boston Bruins defenceman Doug Mohns, who suffered a jaw fracture in Toronto Oct. 18, worked out with the team Monday for the first time since his injury.

Junior Star Gets Suspension, Double Fine

TORONTO (CP) — Defenceman Ross Morrison of Toronto Marlboros was suspended for three games and fined $10 Monday by Ontario Hockey Association president Lorne Cook of Kingston.

The action was announced at a meeting of the OHA Junior A Council. Morrison was also fined $25 by his own club.

The defenceman was given two match penalties during Sunday's 2-0 Marlboro win over Hamilton Tigers in which referee Larry Lewin. Morrison had been fined for a similar incident in Hamilton.

Council members voiced objection to an amendment which gives St. Michael's College Majors double points for wins or ties in scheduled games after Dec. 31 so—while their opponents are allowed only the usual number of points for a win or tie.

However, council took no action since the matter at its last meeting to allow St. Mike's to play a 48-game schedule while all other teams played 51 games, giving St. Mike's four extra-point games.

EMMS ANGRY

Frank Emms of Barrie Flyers declared that next season either St. Mike's should "get out of the league or they can't play the same number of games, or the other teams should have their schedule to play the same as St. Mike's."

Lt. Catharines TeePees announced they would apply to the OHA for permission to play four exhibition games with Hull-Ottawa Junior Canadiens, who are not playing in a league this year, but are eligible for the Memorial Cup.

In two schedule changes approved, a Barrie - Peterborough game was moved from Dec. 29 to Jan 12th at Peterborough and a St. Catharines-Guelph game was switched from Dec. 15 to Feb. 17 at Guelph.

SJAHOOK TIES

TORONTO (CP) — Defenceman Ron Stewart of Toronto Marlboros has been signed to a contract by Toronto Maple Leafs, it was announced Monday by Leaf general manager Punch Imlach.

"We could certainly say the Marlboros gave us a big push to give him up until they have a suitable replacement."

Sam Taylor, president of the Western Interprovincial Football Union club, said Tripucka was on good terms with the executive when he left here at the end of the WIFUF season. He said no final agreement was reached but was indicated Tripucka would be back next year.

Preston said there is probably truth to a statement made in Hamilton by Tripucka that he was fine don't like him because he took over from the extremely popular Glenn Dobbs.

At the McCarthy

HELD OVER AT THE McCARTHY

Chuck Connors, the ex-diamond star with the Brooklyn Dodgers, Chicago Cubs and Los Angeles Rams turned actor, has always been a south-paw in his baseball playing days.

But the husky six-foot-five Connors had to learn to lead with his right hand in William Wyler's production of "The Big Country." Held over tonight and Wednesday at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre, which Gregory Peck co-produced for United Artists. Connors portrays a renegade cowboy of the early west, a sure-shot and deadly character.

Acting the characterization was not difficult, Connors said. It was the utilizing of his right hand for gun-drawing and reining his horse that provided him with the headaches on the ranch location set.

he asked. "Is it true there are $40,000,000 in claims against Hydro by contractors in the St. Lawrence Seaway?"

PROMISES ANSWERS

In a 35-minute rebuttal Mr. Macaulay promised to get the answers. But he asked some questions of Mr. Wintermeyer.

Did the Liberal party favor labor in general or was it in favor of wide-open liquor advertising? Would it take over teachers' salaries from local school boards if elected? What would the party's education program cost? Would there be a sales tax, and how much?

With 10 minutes for rebuttal, the Liberal leader denied advocating all of these things.

Beer in grocery stores was "a trivial thing." The issue was whether more Liberal liquor laws should be enacted with increased research and treatment for alcohol problems.

WOULD CONTROL ADS

Mr. Wintermeyer said he at no time advocated widespread liquor ads. What he suggested was government control of advertising instead of prohibition of it while the ads came in from the United States.

Paying teachers' salaries would be a good way of easing the burden of municipalities. If school boards continued to pay a small amount local autonomy would be salvaged and teachers would avoid becoming civil servants.

"The Liberal leader favored "a substantial increase" in education grants to municipalities to help the property owner.

Sen. Humphrey Gives Report To Eisenhower

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic Senator Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota completes a politically profitable trip today, reporting to President Eisenhower on his Kremlin conferences.

With his reports are a couple of messages from Russian Premier Khrushchev to Eisenhower. Humphrey disclosed Monday the deal with atomic energy and some Russian suggestions on how to settle East-West problems in Germany.

Humphrey has gained wide publicity from his eight-hour conference in Moscow with Khrushchev and other Russian leaders, and from the press conferences he has held since then in Moscow, London, New York and Washington.

Nearly 100 reporters attended the press conference today as Humphrey expounded his views. "I don't think we're going to make any progress politically with the Soviets for a long time," he said. "Any great political decisions are in the offing."

But he said Russia does not want a war for at least seven years, because war would only put them back in achieving development goals.

The senator was optimistic about chances of negotiating an East-West agreement to end nuclear tests, including an inspection system.

He saw less chance of a settlement of the Berlin crisis, which he said is "very serious and deep."

After the press conference, Humphrey gave a secret report on his trip to state department and other administration officials. One described it as fascinating, but said it contained little significant new information.

Britain Expected to Pay More Attention to Men After Conscription Ends in 1960

By STEWART MacLEOD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—After building up a hefty stock of H-bombs and launching a major streamlining program, Britain's three armed services now turn to the problem of keeping their men happy.

This new project, say defence ministry spokesmen, is a matter of urgency for 1959.

Since the war, money - short Britain has been striving to fill its defensive basket with H-bombs and to build up a swift bomber force to carry them. The navy is in the process of being trimmed down to small, mobile task forces, and under the streamlining program, begun in 1957, the army is being cut down to a smaller, but highly - trained, multi-duty units.

LITTLE EXTRA CASH

These things are coming about within the framework of a tightly-squeezed budget and some members hasn't been much extra cash to improve amenities for servicemen. Conscription has ensured that manpower would not be a problem.

Conscription ends in 1960—the last draftees will be discharged in 1962 — and Britain's target of 375,000 servicemen is an army to be reached, and maintained, by volunteers who like service life.

As an initial step to make that life attractive the government appointed a 16-man advisory committee to take a good close look at the recruiting question. In its report just published, the committee says that, in some cases, there had been little improvement in military life since the Second World War.

"Too much of the present accommodation, both married and single, is nothing short of scandalous," is one of the committee's discoveries.

It also decided the army needs a new uniform. The soldier's groundsheet continues to double as his raincoat and the committee says "the effect on his appearance can only be described as grotesque."

The committee also thinks troops should be required to carry knives and forks to the mess, that some of the petty discipline is unnecessary, that promotions should come more easily to men in the ranks that salaries should be reviewed every two years and that a better pension scheme should be implemented.

The government has given the go-ahead to most of these recommendations.

It will mean that the British soldier gets a new uniform in 1958—the first major change in 20 years—and he will emerge looking more like his Canadian counterpart. The uniforms now being tested are made of barathea; they have non-polishing buttons, and the new dress tunic is much like Canada's. New raincoats are almost identical.

Final approval for the new uniform will be given sometime this year by Lt.-Gen. Sir Charles Loewen, Vancouver - born adjutant-general of the army.

The committee came across more complaints in the army than the other two services, and eliminating them is something

The Ferret is part of the British army's equipment in the fight against terrorists there. The United Kingdom had about 600,000 men under arms during the year, about 50,000 less than the year previous. (CP Photo).

Frigid Weather Causes Canal To Freeze At Bottom

Twenty Ships Waiting Turn to Make Ocean

MONTREAL (CP) — A grain ship was cleared through the nine-mile Lachine Canal today as canal workers continued a battle against sub-zero temperatures to clear ships through the bottleneck toward the Atlantic Ocean.

The frigid weather has brought ice from another direction—from the bottom up—to harass ships struggling toward clear water ahead.

The Southcliffe Hall was pushed through the narrow, barely-navigable channel at 9:50 a.m., pilot and canal workers were non-committal on the outlook for clearing more ice.

Twenty vessels were either in the canal or waiting to enter it as weather forecasts predicted record low temperatures of 10 below zero for tonight.

"We may be able to get a few more ships through," said one tired canal worker.

WEATHER BIG FACTOR

"It depends on the weather and whether we can stand the cold and avoid accidents or breakdowns."

Not a ship reached the relatively clear waters of Montreal Harbor Wednesday as serious mechanical breakdown at lock No. 2 forced a halt in vessel movements.

The locks were repaired.

But any relief from the canal would be hollow. The St. Lawrence River at Montreal is a fast choking with ice, blocking passage to clear sailing on the Atlantic 800 miles from Montreal.

George Hervoin, signals service chief, reported ice conditions on the river below Montreal had worsened as temperatures slumped. The broad stream dipped to between 10 and 15 below zero.

Crews of ice ships have ridiculously given up hope of reaching their European homes for Christmas.

Seven Canadian lake ships were reported locked in ice at Lake St. Peter, a bulge in the river about half way between Montreal and Quebec City. The ice-breaker D'Iberville was rushing to their aid.

Fourth ice-breaker was sent into service after Quebec City today, where ships tying to get to Montreal faced an impassible barrier of ice.

BELOW 1917 RECORD

The relentless cold continued to harry the 9-mile canal crews. The 10 below forecast for today is two degrees colder than the Dec. 11 record set in 1917.

The canal crews have been working around the clock with steam jets, long poles, and even flame throwers. But the latter proved ineffective against the ice forming in spots along the canal bottom.

The canal is little more than 14 feet deep, and most of the ocean freighters draw at least 14 feet.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synoptic — Clear and very cold weather continued over most of Ontario during the night although some light snow occurred near the lakes. Temperatures were about 20 below zero in northern sections and near the zero mark in southern sections. Graham again was heading for the lowest reading with an early - morning temperature of 38 below.

An area of light snow extending from lower to Michigan was moving eastward and was expected to cross Southern Ontario today producing only light snowfalls. Meanwhile sunny and very cold weather will continue in northern sections.

On Friday variable cloudiness with snowflurries and continued cold temperatures are expected in Southern Ontario with a continuation of the very cold weather in northern sections.

TAPE RECORDINGS TELL OF PLANS TO BOMB CULT

Dynamiters Shared Fate of Their Victims

CHATSWORTH, Calif. (AP) —Tape recordings discovered near the dynamited wreckage of the Founders of the World Monastery point to two former cult members as the bombers, police say.

Nine persons, possibly 10, were killed in Wednesday's earth-jarring explosion. The two dynamiters are believed to have shared the fate of their victims.

Detectives said the blast apparently was touched off by Edward Arthur, 33, and Peter Desmenoff, 42, both of Joshua Tree, Calif.

Tape recordings made by the pair the night before the dynamiting indicate they were angry at the leader of the cult, Krishna Venta and ready to "bring him to justice," officers said.

The tapes, an hour-long recital of grievances against Krishna and the cult, also were declared by police investigators, as detectives believe the men blew themselves up deliberately.

Venta, a former self-styled mystic, five of his flock and two children, were killed in the explosion. One and perhaps two other bodies also have been recovered. Police began exploration and the fire that followed but identification nearly impossible.

Muller and Kamendorf were last seen in Hollywood. There is about an hour before the explosion. Part of the quarrel were not known.

CULT WONT TALK

"Cult members won't give information," one detective said.

But the two tapes helped. The recordings were found in Muller's car truck, parked near the cult's 29-acre colony in Box Canyon, 30 miles northwest of Los Angeles.

Officers said Kamenoff blamed Venta for preventing him from his wife and child by persuading her to stay in the cult's new Alaska colony. Kamenoff also left a written farewell note, detectives said.

Both men were construction workers. Kamenoff was a member off and on for several years.

No lives were lost in the fire.

Skipper of Car Ferry Found Dead in Garage

ASHTABULA, Ohio (AP) — Frank Lord, 54, veteran skipper of the car ferry Ashtabula that sank after a collision in Ashtabula Harbor, was found dead in his garage Wednesday near the ex-haust pipe of his automobile. The car was running in the closed garage.

Coroner Dr. Clyde Roller said death was caused by carbon monoxide poisoning. He ruled after an investigation is conclusive.

Sabo, 62, was to have appeared in Cleveland Monday to face charges of drunken operation and the fire that followed the collision nearly impossible.

Officers said Kamenoff blamed Venta for preventing him from his wife and child by persuading her to stay in the cult's new Alaska colony. Kamenoff also left a written farewell note, detectives said.

Foreman told Judge Rex Hall he planned to use the razor to open sardine cans.

Martin entered a not guilty plea for Foreman and remanded him to jail to await legal counsel.

Silver Maxwell of Pet World Dreams Of Staging Beach Party for Horses

NEW YORK (AP) — Mary Simpson, who is known as "the Miss Maxwell of pet world," says she has an odd professional ambition. She wants to throw a beach party for horses.

"A beach is an ideal place for such a party," she explained. "Horses love the surf, but most of them rarely get to visit a beach."

Throwing parties for animals is a full-time career for this pretty, blue-eyed blonde. Miss Simpson, an employee of the Maxwell Animal Department store in Allentown, Pa., is the world's only pet party consultant — at least as far as she knows.

"People enjoy doing special things for their pets on special occasions—such as their birthdays. But many don't know how to make a party come off."

Miss Simpson does. If possible, she likes to go over the animal guest list in advance—just as a promotional, social hostess might.

"Animals don't differ much from human beings at a party," she observed. "They catch the air of excitement. They have their showoffs and their wallflowers. They have to be sure the guests will get along.

"So far I haven't supervised a party where we mixed cats, ex, parakeets and cats and dogs. But we've had a number of cat and dog mixed parties that came off very well. Cats and monkeys also get along well at parties.

Naturally, the pets put on their best attire for a party. Here Miss Simpson's work comers often err. They often dress their pet to please themselves rather than the animals.

"A boxer looks just right in a tuxedo, flannel car coat," she said. "But a sport jacket wouldn't do at all for a fashion-conscious poodle. He needs something simply elegant—such as a black leather collar with pearls — that doesn't detract from his own looks."

The pearl - trimmed collars cost $29. Also available are such luxuries as a set of furlined canine galoshes at $5.95 and imported mink jackets at $100.

Children's Aid in Manitoba Asks Right to Give Blood

PORTAGE LA PRAIRIE (CP) — The directors of the Children's Aid Society for Central Manitoba have asked for legislation to cover administration of blood transfusions to children over protests of their parents or guardians.

A resolution approved at the organization's meeting here Tuesday and sent to Health Minister George Johnson, asked the legislation be amended "to allow the administering of a blood transfusion to a child where this is deemed essential to the life and well-being of the child by competent medical authority, in spite of the parents' or guardians' protest on whatever ground."

The resolution was prompted by the death of a 14-year-old boy from the Neepawa district who was not allowed a blood transfusion by his parents, members of the Jehovah's Witness sect. The boy died of wounds suffered in a shooting accident.

Economists Puzzled Over Rise In Number Female Farm Force

OTTAWA (CP) — Economists were puzzled over a new feature in Canadian farm labor this year—the unprecedented rise in the number of women farm workers.

For years the number of men and women farm workers declined steadily but this year women in the farm labor force suddenly increased by about 15,000 from last year while men farm workers continued to slip in the annual rate of more than 40,000.

The phenomenon was brought out last week at a closed conference of Canada's agricultural farm labor experts who apparently are stumped for a firm explanation.

Labor department officials said today the increase is persistent from month to month.

Figures are available only for the first quarter of the year but they indicate the monthly average of women farm workers this year was about 55,000 compared with the monthly average for the corresponding period last year of about 39,000.

While the increase was going on, men farm workers skidded from the monthly average of 671,000 from 719,000 in the corresponding period last year.

One possible explanation is that the female farmer has the big 29-acre colony in Box Canyon, 30 miles northwest of Los Angeles.

Officers said Kamenoff blamed Venta for preventing him from his wife and child by persuading her to stay in the cult's new Alaska colony. Kamenoff also left a written farewell note, detectives said.

Both men were construction workers. Kamenoff was a member off and on for several years.

Board Hearing Ends Abruptly, Union Walks Out

TORONTO (CP)—A conciliation board hearing between Massey-Ferguson Limited and the United Auto Workers CLC ended abruptly Wednesday afternoon in confusion of company and union charges.

Ross Dowson, UAW Canadian director, walked out with a team of 13 negotiators when company representatives insisted on their right to make a full presentation of their firm's position as contained in a 185-page brief and two supplementary documents.

Mr. Burt said the move was "another tactic" that would delay the "weeks and weeks" of conciliation.

T. A. Belford, company director of personnel and industrial relations, said the UAW was flouting the law by which the union's bargaining rights were established.

He said other companies and unions were critical of Ontario's Labor Relations Act but all except the UAW "have refrained from any deliberate violation" of the act.

The union represents 5,000 workers at four company plants in Toronto, Brantford and Woodstock. It is asking a 20 cent-an-hour increase in the present labor rate of $1.54, a new 10-cent-an-hour increase in the shift differential, a new 10-cent-an-hour increase in the job classification system with 10 increments between each grade, severance pay and a revised vacation plan.

Skilled tradesmen at the company now receive a top rate of $2.25 an hour.

Centre Party To Form Govt.

HELSINKI, Finland (AP)—The minority Agrarian party agreed today to try to form a new government and the task was to be brought on by Soviet economic pressure.

The Agrarians, a centre party with 48 seats, brought down Premier Urho K. Kekkonen's cabinet last week by quitting the government. They accused Fagerholm, leader of the right-wing Social Democrats, of provoking the Russians.

Moscow brought down the last government in 1957 on the same cause Conservatives dominated it and the Communists were left out. The Communists are the largest bloc in Parliament with 50 of the 200 seats.

300 Members Catholic Order Escape Safely

LAVAL DES RAPIDES, Que. (CP)— Some 300 members of the Hermes Bleilo Order of Christian Brothers escaped injury Wednesday night when a three-storey building collapsed in the third and fourth floors of the teaching order's provincial headquarters.

The 300 are made up of brothers, including some 40 elderly invalids, and novices.

The blaze broke out in a chapel on a top floor before the collapse, sister provincial house, called Mont-de-la-Salle, and spread quickly. Damage in the fire was not disclosed.

The elderly were evacuated quickly and smoothly, taken to other institutions in private cars and ambulances.

Brothers in the two bottom floors didn't leave the building. At suppertime, most gathered in the main dining hall on the ground floor for the evening meal while foremen fought the fire above them.

New Toronto Plans to Fight Subway Scheme

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto's proposed east - west subway received a possible setback Wednesday night when suburban Scarborough council voted to take an appeal against its financing to the Supreme Court of Canada.

The appeal is conditional upon support of other municipal authorities, Mimico and Long Branch, but both have indicated they intend to join the move.

The unanimous vote was a reaction to the Ontario Court of Appeal's recent decision which supported the Ontario municipal board's approval of Metropolitan council's plans.

Two other municipalities involved in the dispute, Scarborough and Etobicoke, withdrew after the court of appeal decision.

Long Branch Reeve Mark Curtis said Wednesday night she hoped the three municipal councils involved will meet next Wednesday to discuss future moves.

GRAHAM COLDEST SPOT IN CANADA AT 48 BELOW ZERO

Vancouver Balmiest With 48 Above

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Vancouver and Graham, Ont., had something in common today.

The temperature at each place was 37 degrees.

Vancouver's was above zero—making it the balmiest in the country.

Graham's was below zero—scorning for the tiny weather station 85 miles northwest of Fort William the title of the coldest spot on the Canadian map for the third successive day.

The two previous overnight readings at Graham were both 48 below zero.

The Toronto weather office, predicting "continued cold for most of the country between the Rockies and Newfoundland, said Graham's latest temperature was even lower than that recorded at Fort Smith, NWT, in the Northern Territories—31 degrees below.

The weather was moderating in British Columbia. Alberta reported some snow in the south and cold conditions elsewhere but with the mercury.

LONDON IN RAGS

It got progressively colder moving eastward: Saskatchewan had temperatures in the minus-teens and sixties. Manitoba was clear and cold at from 10 to 32 below zero.

Northern Ontario was still in the coldest region. During the night, temperatures dropped to 40 below at White River, 23 below at Sioux Lookout.

It was warmer in Southern Ontario, where the coldest was Wednesday's 12 below at Trenton.

But at Ottawa, the mercury again took a sharp dive, bringing the temperature to 10 below by the nation's capital. It was seven below at Montreal. Most of Quebec spent the night below zero and the weather office said it saw no relief from the cold.

The Maritime Provinces for the most part reported night were mostly clear and cold.

Teller Pleads Guilty to Theft Of $260,000

OTTAWA (CP) — Bank teller Boyne Johnston pleaded guilty Wednesday to theft of $260,000, part of which financed a 10-day spree in United States night clubs.

Magistrate Glenn Strike remanded Johnston, 21, for sentencing. He could draw a maximum sentence of 14 years.

Counsel for the former employee of the Imperial Bank of Canada said Johnston's share was $12,500 and that it has been repaid.

He said Johnston's wife — in court today—intends to take up residence in Sydney with her and his jail term is served and that his family intends to remain in Renfrew, plans to make him a partner in a business to be established in another part of the province.

Johnston vanished Sunday, Oct. 26 after telling his wife he was going hunting near Renfrew. She found a suicide note ago in the wash room of the Gay Paree night club in Denver, Colo.

Rules Teamsters Obliged To Obey Reform Orders

U.S. Federal Judge Bans Convention in March

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal judge today ordered the teamsters union to comply with reform orders of court-appointed monitors. The union was barred from holding a scheduled new convention next March.

Judge E. Dickinson Letts upheld complaints of two of the three monitors that the union, under President James R. Hoffa, had failed to conduct its affairs in good faith with reform recommendations.

Judge Letts, noting that the monitors are officers of the court and subject to the court's supervision, said they have all powers "reasonably necessary to bring about a clean up of the union."

The teamsters are obliged to comply with each order of recommendation (by the monitors) unless the union "asserts with the monitors," he said.

Letts rejected a contention that the role of the monitors is merely advisory.

CONVENTION CALL

He said in his 12-page memorandum that the teamsters, without the monitors' consent or the approval of the court-appointed monitors, could not call for a convention in the early part of March, 1959.

The order said Hoffa and the teamsters to cancel all plans for the scheduled constitutional convention Hoffa admitted he arranged to seek to end the monitorship.

The judge further expanded the powers of the monitors and that their approval must be secured before a new convention can be held. A convention date was also made subject to approval by the court.

Abandoned Car Plague Paris Police

PARIS (Reuters)—Temperamental French motorists and their temperamental old cars are combining to give Paris police a giant headache.

The problem has blossomed on Parisians who will not tolerate any breakdowns in their old vehicles. When one breaks down, they just push it on the nearest convenient spot.

Police said an average of 14 cars a day are being abandoned in this way. In the last 12 months 5,000 have been left on the city streets.

With the city's mammoth parking problem at its greatest, it takes weeks for the officer on the beat to notice that a car has been abandoned and have it towed away.

Court Awards Man Million Dollars From Sister He Had Never Seen

FRESNO, Calif. (AP)—Charles C. Binkley, 73, woke up today with a cold, a headache and a million dollars.

How does it feel?

"Wonderful," interrupted son, "replied the twinkle - eyed, grey-haired man. "I haven't seen the money yet."

A Superior Court jury deliberated 2½ hours Wednesday and returned the verdict.

Binkley, a retired glass blower of Bridgeport, Conn., first learned of Mrs. Nikleev when he was shown a clipping in an Indiana newspaper.

He began what he calls a "lifethe investigation" that included a check of Civil War pension files.

Then Binkley announced his father, a Civil War veteran named Joseph Binkley, had been the father of Mrs. Nikleev. He said his father married Anna Miller Lewis in Indiana in 1886 after leaving Mrs. Nikleev's mother, Mary Ann Lewis, in Ohio in 1878.

Mrs. Nikleev, a widow, is the sister of $3,126,488, but no will has been found.

Teamsters Union Plans Fight Against Reform Orders

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The teamsters union will start an organizing drive early next year among the 10,000,000 city, county and state employees in the United States.

"I believe all Americans have the right to representation," said teamster President James Hoffa.

The teamsters were expelled by the AFL-CIO last year on' corruption charges. Teamster directors, at a meeting here, said they are not planning to seek reinstatement.

FINDS OPPOSITION

Hoffa would not estimate the length of the drive among government workers. He said there is "tremendous opposition from politicians."

Henry Feinstein, president of New York's teamsters local 237 and superintendent of transportation for the borough of Manhattan, predicted great success among New York City employees.

He said cards have been signed by 6,000 hospital workers in the municipal housing project custodians and 2,000 laborers.

POLICEMAN CASE

Feinstein announced a test case in the next week or two. He said New York policeman "will present his checkoff card for his dues."

The policeman is expected to be fired, Feinstein said. Police Police Commissioner Robert Kennedy said disciplinary action will be taken against any police who join the teamsters.

If the policeman loses his job, the teamsters will employ him as an organizer, Feinstein said. He reported 3,000 other policemen have signed checkoff cards.

ELECTION PLAN

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Mayor Johnston suggested Wednesday municipal election day be standardized throughout Ontario and declared a statutory holiday in an effort to increase voting. The mayor combined his proposal with a declaration of his conviction that nominations for councils should be enlarged and all elected members should run simultaneously for the same length of time—one or two-year terms.

FIREMEN CALLED TO VEHICLE FIRES

City firemen last night and today were called to two vehicle fires, one caused by a short circuit in the ignition system and the other from a spark from a welder's torch.

Last night the reels were called to Bridge Street, West near Kelly's and West Side Market where the wires of a truck were burning. Today firemen answered a call to Keene's Auto Wrecker's where a welder's torch set upholstering afire.

Knights Templar To Hold Service At Temple

One of the long-established customs observed by the Order of Knights Templar is a public service at Christmas time to honor the birth of the Saviour of Mankind.

King Baldwin Preceptory K.T. have made plans to fall in with this time-honored tradition with a service in the Masonic Temple Belleville, at 3 p.m. on Sunday December 14. Membership in the order is limited to Christian Masons who profess belief in the doctrine of the Holy Trinity. Therefore all Christian Masons and their wives are cordially invited to share in this ceremonial.

The special speaker will be the Rev. Canon A. S. McConnell M.B.E., L.T.h., and the guest soloist Mr. Alfred Hughes, with the Presiding Preceptor, Em Kt C. H. Burley in charge of the observance.

From the popularity of this service in past years a large audience is expected by the host Preceptory.

Back Injured When His Car Struck in Rear

Neil R. Burgess, 28, of Front Street, sitting, suffered possible back injury when his car was struck from behind on Bridge Street last night.

Police said that Mr. Burgess was westbound on Bridge when opposite the Hotel Quinte he stopped behind a stalled car. Following car, driven by Thomas L. Wyatt, R.R. 7 Belleville, failed to stop and crashed into the rear of the Burgess vehicle, causing about $200 in damage. Front-end damage to the Wyatt car totalled about $60.

Accused Admits Passing Two Phoney Cheques

Charged locally on two counts of passing worthless cheques, Robert T. Kelly, 31, of Barrie, has admitted passing cheques in another neighborhood of $2,000 in Ontario in recent weeks.

Kelly was remanded at a local cell hotel after a third Belleville merchant became suspicious when an attempt was made to pass a cheque at his place of business.

Biggest haul admitted by the alleged cheque artist was at Toronto, where cheques worth approximately $1,000 were passed with secretarial aids and banks. Other cheques were said passed at Barrie, Huntsville, North Bay, Dundas and at Trenton.

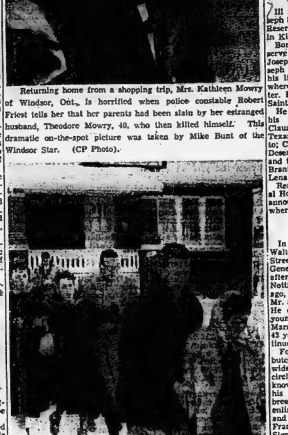
Merchants are "hungry" according to the alleged cheque artist who told local police of the ease with which he had passed cheques.

Bogus birth certificates, driver licence and liquor permit were forms of identification used.

Mayor Concurs In Proposals of London Head

"I heartily concur, the suggestion has a great deal to be said for it."

This was the approval voiced today by mayor Gerald B. Hyde to the suggestion of Mayor Stan Johnston of London, Ont., who has proposed that all Ontario municipalities vote on the same day and that municipal election day be declared a public holi-



...yor Hyde felt that a public holiday being declared for municipal election day would stir up considerably more interest in that it would be on everyone's mind. "It would be very desirable," he said.

Belleville's first magistrate also showed approval for a standardized two year term for mayor.

This would result in more continuity and more things planned by a mayor during his first year of office might "be accomplished," he said.

Returning home from a shopping trip, Mrs. Kathleen Mowry of Windsor, Ont., is horrified when police constable Robert Feriet tells her that her parents had been slain by her estranged husband, Theodore Mowry, 40, who then killed himself. This dramatic on-the-spot picture was taken by Mike Bunt of the Windsor Star. (CP Photo).

Neighbors lead Mrs. Theodore Mowry (second from left) and her daughter (right) Susan away from the modest frame home where three persons were shot to death and a fourth was critically wounded near here. Police said a spectator was arrested on a charge of murder and suicide, with Theodore Mowry, 40, doing the shooting. His body was found in a shed at the rear of the house in which police found two other bodies. They were identified as those of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Thompson. One, Robert White is in critical condition with wounds. (AP Wirephoto).

Auto Club Will Form Chapter In This City

Yesterday evening the St. Lawrence Automobile Club (St. L.A.C.) at their monthly business meeting held in Kingston, decided to establish a Belleville chapter. Discussion on the question centred on the observation of the Belleville members, who make up about 25 per cent of the club's membership, that with the large numbers of sports and small car owners and enthusiasts in the Belleville area there exists an excellent nucleus for an active independent chapter of the St. Lawrence club in this district.

It was felt by other members of the club that such a chapter would be in keeping with the policy of the club to promote motorsport activities in this area.

A committee of five Belleville members was appointed to carry out the initial work of organizing and calling the first meeting. It is expected that the future meetings and events of the Belleville chapter will complement those of the Kingston group.

The Kingston club, which is the second largest club in one of the three founding members of the Canadian Automobile Sports Club (CASC) which is the overall governing organization for motorsport activities in Canada. A report was made to club members from the CASC general meeting held in Toronto, at which delegates from all clubs across Canada, with the exception of British Columbia, gathered.

WILL HOLD PARTY

The announcement was also made of the St. LAC's annual birthday party which is to be held the evening of December 27th in the Rideau-American hotel in Kingston. An invitation to all motoring enthusiasts in the area to attend was extended. Two films were shown and a few entertainment items of the evening. One was on the international speed races at Monza, Italy, last year; the other was on the St. LAC's sixth annual Canada Rally run by the club through the co-ordination of Mr. Jack Wilson.

Local municipal and district residents who are interested in joining or helping to form the Belleville chapter of St. LAC are asked to write the club at P.O. The members of the Brewers' Warehousing Company Ltd. staff from the district gathered at Columbus Hall on Wednesday evening for their Christmas party. The guests included members of the staff from Trenton, Picton, Belleville, Madoc, Marmora, Tweed and Napanee, about 200 in all. The evening's lobby was chaired by Bruce Simpson, president of the Association, with Lum Carson, vice-president, as master of ceremonies.

As is the case in all affairs run by the Association, the evening was a most enjoyable one and delightfully served by the McAvoy Catering Service. The thanks of the gathering were extended by Mr. McAvoy and his efficient staff for the splendid dinner.

The meeting was opened with prayer by Cecil Boorits and the singing of the National Anthem after which the president, Mr. Simpson, welcomed the guests.

Be relieved of that scourge of terror. Of all our aims with respect to Hungary, that is the most urgent."

Lodge submitted a resolution.

Lodge Charges Reds Continue Reign of Terror

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) — U.S Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge charged today that a reign of terror, carried out by Soviet agents, is continuing in full force in Hungary-despite UN efforts.

He called on the 81-nation General Assembly to condemn the Soviet Union once more and to persist in trying to end the reprehensible practices.

Lodge addressed the assembly as it opened a new round of debate on the Hungarian problem which it took up first in an emergency session during the 1956 Hungarian uprising.

Lodge blamed the Soviet Union and the Hungarian regime for the execution of former premier Imre Nagy, Gen. Pal Maleter and other leaders of the uprising. He called their execution "murder in judicial disguise."

Window posters and other forms of advertising are being used by the local employment service office to promote their "Do It Now" campaign to provide winter jobs for the unemployed. Here posters in a Front Street window near the Front and Bridge St. intersection draw attention to the campaign.

More Job Placements Seen Despite Large Unemployment

The "Do It Now" campaign of the Belleville office of the Department of Unemployment Service is apparently having some effect in providing jobs for men who might otherwise be out of work.

The two-phase campaign, the first phase "Plan Now," and the second phase "Do It Now," was instituted a month or more ago with the idea encouraging the commencement of projects which otherwise might not be started during cold weather. Aim of the campaign was to provide more jobs during the winter months and thus relieve the unemployment situation.

"It is rather difficult to put our finger on any one instance and say that the job has been started as result of our campaign, but the fact remains we have had more placements this fall than was the case last year," stated Mr. Cecil Hurst, manager of the employment office here.

So far this month the local employment office has found jobs for 196 persons as compared with only 159 for all December last year. During November placements totalled 180 as compared with but 147 during the same month in 1957.

"It is hard to say what departments the additional placements, but the picture looks encouraging," Mr. Hiluser noted. In the first part of the month there were 1,054 men seeking jobs. Also the local employment service as compared with 1,050 at the same period last year. Women job seekers, on the other hand, however, the number being 532 as of December 1st this year, as compared with only 316 last year.

At the first of the month there were 571 persons on claim with the local office and by the end of the Christmas rush and for January jobs, letters went out to industry for the same purpose while local business offices and service clubs have been asked to place "Do It Now" stickers on their mailing matter.

This year up to 140 local unemployed will be taken on by the local post office for the Christmas rush.

Small Cannon Taken to Court As Evidence

TORONTO (CP)—A small cannon, mounted on big motor vehicle wheels was trundled into suburban New Toronto court Wednesday.

It was evidence in a case against Joseph Bartello, 20, charged with assaulting his 30-year-old wife Roberta and her sister Sandra, 14.

Mrs. Frank Bartello, Lundham's mother-in-law, testified had used the cannon to fire on the family car May 24. She said a hole was blown in the car and dent put in paint.

Lunham's wife said they were married last March 21 and that in June he smashed dishes all over the floor and wired a bomb to go off at six o'clock one day.

"He took the ring off my finger, later came into the store where I was working, had to take it back then rushed home and disconnected the bomb," Mrs. Lunham said.

Magistrate Fred Thompson remanded Lunham until Dec. 22 for further evidence.

Quake Shakes San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — An earthquake jolted San Francisco and a radius of up to 90 miles early today but damage appeared to be minor. It broke dishes and cracked a wall or two — but no injuries were reported.

The jolt hit at 1:52 a. m. PST — 2:52 a.m. MST and triggered a flood of calls from startled residents to newspapers and police and radio stations.

It was a fairly strong shake — and probably centred southwest of suburban Daly City," said Dr. Don Tocher, University of California seismologist who was awakened by the shock and hurried to his laboratory at Berkeley across the Bay.

BUILDINGS SHAKE

Buildings shook for several seconds in downtown San Francisco with the rolling motion of the quake.

Dr. Tocher said his instruments recorded the shock for about six minutes. He thought it probably was an aftershock of a heavier earthquake centred on the San Andreas fault under Daly City March 22, 1957. That quake caused widespread damage and that was the fault that caused San Francisco's 1906 disaster.

Minor jolts have hit the area the last two mornings. They caused no damage but aroused sleepers.

Fears Other Gas Valves May Be Faulty

BURLINGTON (CP) — "I can not avoid the awful thought that similar and unblocked valves may exist elsewhere," Ontario Attorney-General Eric Silk, QC, told a coroner's inquest jury.

Mr. Silk made this remark in connection with the evidence regarding an unsupported valve in a natural gas pipeline in the Burlington area that was found to be fractured.

The statement was made following the explosion of a home on Highway 5 near the pipeline. Mrs. Ray Gowdy and her three-month-old baby son were burned to death in the fire which followed the explosion.

After a three-and-a-half day hearing, the five - man jury retired to consider this verdict.

BLAMES GAS

Mr. Silk, who has questioned some three dozen witnesses since Monday, said: "There can be no question but that the explosion came about as a result of leakage of natural gas."

In suggesting to the jury how they went about the job of investing at a verdict, Mr. Silk said that all possible causes must be kept in mind:

The general lack of knowledge of specifications at all levels of personnel of the United Suburban Gas Company installed and allied associations; the failure of those involved in this work to refer to specifications; and the failure of those involved in the work to install blocks under the valves.

Mr. Silk said Wednesday that neither the company that supplied the gas nor the one that laid the pipe appeared willing to shoulder the responsibility for the safety of the gas pipeline.

Scouting activities

By CHRIS F. LEGGAT

In spite of bad weather conditions there was a good turnout for the local association meeting held in St. Thomas' parish hall with president F. J. Lancaster presiding.

There appears to be some misunderstanding on Scout badges and Capt. A. Watson outlined what should be done. The chairman will arrange for the examiner with the proficiency badge to visit the Scout's home. The examiner will then send the badge to the secretary with the necessary form. After the Scout has passed, the form will be returned to the S.M. the amount required to purchase badge, to Capt. Watson, who will present the badge from H.Q. and send it to the S.M. for presentation to the Scouts. Cubs will be looked after by their Akelas as in the past.

BADGES AWARDED

Capt. Watson announced the following badges recently awarded to Boy Scouts:

1st. St. Thomas: David Fort, athlete and electrician; Bill Rushlow, athlete; James Pickering, electrician.

2nd. Christ Church: Brian Wilson, D. Lavender, Bill Gibson, Bill Elliott, Larry Lake, Ricky Lazenby, Jim Lawrence.

4th. Kiwanis: Malcolm Gibson, Stewart Sprague, Willie Sprague, and Andrew.

6th. Tabernacle: Terry Simpson, Robert Wesse, disguise, leader and pathfinder; Rocque Sasser, wildlife and soil conservation.

12th Holy Rosary: Dennis Edwards, healthy life.

1st. Foxboro: Jim Churchill, camper.

District Commissioner Phil Allcorn is very pleased to note the increased interest in the Religion and Life award.

SILVER CROSS

Scout Kenneth McMillan of Kyle, Saskatchewan, was awarded the Silver Cross for saving by H. E. the Governor-General. Don is a cousin of Mr. Stewart, the property chairman. Hearing cries of help Don rushed from the house and promptly diving into the water saved two people from drowning. By exceptional ability and agility for his quick action and presence of mind Don is found to be a worthy recipient of this heroic feat to our notice. We take advantage of this to congratulate Mr. L. J. Monteith and Dr. G. H. Craig at this time. Mr. Monteith as Scout in Belleville should be encouraged to meet a similar emergency.

FIRST AID KIT

Mr. Stewart now has a first aid kit which will be available for any Pack or Troop going on weekend camps.

Group representatives should attend L.A. meetings. The fact that all contact men were present may serve as an excuse but these meetings are open to all members to attend, particularly troop representatives.

Wintertime Work Plan Used To Clean up Hanna Park

TRENTON — The members of the Trenton Parks Board decided to hire four men under the government's wintertime work plan and put them in Hanna Park to clean out the old trees and bush. This was decided at a meeting at the park yesterday. Present were Mayor Ted Parker, said they will hire more men if needed and that fallen trees will be removed as well as bush and dead trees cut out. In some cases the trees will be thinned out to make easier going for summertime visitors to the park.

Mayor Ross Burit also attended the park meet yesterday and said he was very anxious to see the town take advantage of the government's plan in any way possible. He said the government grant figure in Trenton is growing daily because of seasonal layoffs and the new plan would give men a chance to earn some cash for Christmas.

It is also believed that putting as many men to work as possible under this scheme will help to assist the town's relief funds.

"The men will go to work immediately and will be under the directions of the town gardener, Capt. A. Watson outlined one of the town's heavier manufacturers who engaged to pull stumps at the park.

Bill Ireland, who was also at the meeting, is in charge of the project for the Parks Board and Capt. A. Watson outlined where this wintertime work plan can be taken advantage of.

PARK ROADS

At the last meeting of the Parks Board it was decided that it would be posted closing the new south road leading from Dufferin Avenue to the junction of Hanna Park. Mr. Ireland pointed out that the road, as it is, the badge from H.Q. and send now, is impassable for cars. Scouts. Cubs will be looked Scouts. Cubs will be looked after by their Akelas as in the past. road must be graveled and put into good condition as soon as possible. The matter was ordered to be contacted in this regard. Mayor Burit drew the board's attention to the necessity for small skating rinks for the use of beginners in different areas and particularly the section encompassing Division Street. He stated that he believed that all the Board would provide the necessary boards to confine the water in the designated area, the town equipment could be used to prepare these rinks and he felt that the fire department could be counted on to flood them. These rinks would be approximately 25' by 50' and would be for the use of small children who were not old enough to go by themselves to the larger rinks in town. Mayor Burit stated that consideration had been given to the establishment of an open-air rink in Bay Shore Park, but on this point a question arose as to the advisability of this because of the possibility of damage to the residential district. Mr. Ireland was authorized to proceed with the establishment of an open-air rink in Bay Shore Park, but on this point a question arose as to the advisability of this because of the possibility of damage to the residential district. Mr. Ireland was authorized to proceed with the establishment of the rinks as three parks, namely: Colreil Park in Dufferin Avenue, Centennial Park (King Street) and Victoria Park (Division Street). A request from the residents of Charpleix Heights for such a park will be considered at some time ago, but at that time it was considered that the Parks Board would be required to be responsible for flooding and this project impossible because of the freezing of water mains.

LOAM NEARLY ALL IN

Mr. Boers reported that only fourteen loads of loam remained to be deposited in the lower Centennial Park (King Street) and requested that this be placed now, weather permitting, to aid with the spring work. A total of one hundred and fifty loads of loam would have been deposited in this park when the present work is done. It had been hoped that seeding of the Third Avenue Park could be done this fall but it was considered lately that anyone would be extremely foolish to attempt to use it in its present state. The entire surface of the road must be graveled and put into good condition as soon as possible. The matter was ordered to be contacted in this regard. Mayor Burit drew the board's attention to the necessity for small skating rinks for the use of beginners in different areas

Independent Reassessment Approved by Revision Court

TRENTON — The Court of Revision for the Township of Trenton passed a resolution in their meeting Wednesday afternoon that recommends to the incoming council that an independent assessor be engaged to reassess the town.

The resolution it was also stated: "That the Court of Revision for the Township of Trenton found that the assessment in the town of Trenton is not based on assessment principles. That there are many inequities and as such the Court of Revision feels that council take a new and complete assessment be made of the town and that the work be done by a qualified assessor who specializes in assessment and is independent of the town."

The resolution was reported to have been moved by Councillor Gordon Bateman and seconded by Councillor Joe Gould. Mayor Ross Burit and Councillor Ray Fox, it was appointed unanimously by the other members of the committee.

It was also noted that the councillors playing an important part in the assessment are also among the town's large property owners and will be affected by the reassessment on their properties if the proposal action takes the resolution.

One councillor, who wishes to remain unnamed, said last night that a re-assessment of the town would be a good thing in addition in the mill rate for the coming year, he said there will be a few opinions, too many "assessment by arrangement" notifications after the new assessment roll. He said he was in complete accord with the proposal and sincerely hoped the new council would take steps to implement the proposal.

The rest of the Court of Revision's report is as follows:

VERY LITTLE EVIDENCE

That in many cases of appeal it was submitted to the Court of Revision very little evidence, in some instances none, was brought to the attention. This made it very difficult for the Court of Revision to operate as such and it would be a strong recommendation by this court that the people of the town of Trenton when appealing to the Court of Revision, make absolutely sure that they have a good case and evidence to back it. This is the only basis on which a Court of Revision judges cases.

It appears that there is an assessor in the town of those who are appearing before the Court of Revision for reduction of the court to produce evidence, this is not true.

That the Court of Revision wishes to make it clear to the ratepayers of the town of Trenton that the reassessment is to be used to relieve the burden on those who at present place the burden where it rightfully belongs. It is not to encourage the relief provided by the reassessment would be chiefly to the benefit of the property owner and would suggest that those who oppose the assessment make it known to the incoming council.

That the finding of this court is that Alan Smith, our newly-appointed assessor, has proved himself without question in the manner he comported during the course of his employment. That the recommendation of an independent assessor is not of assessors, is made because it would give a more uniform assessed judgment in a very limited period of time.

That the 1959 council so desire they could have the reassessment carried out by our own assessor.

KITS GIVE US FITS

"Kits" are becoming all the rage with public relations counsellors.

In the days when they were press agents, they sent along a sheet of typewritten copy which could be tossed into a wastepaper basket with a flick of the wrist.

All that is changed. "Kits" are massive. Get a couple of them in the mail and the chances are that you have to get up out the chair, put your foot firmly on the accumulated debris in the trash bin and jump up and down a couple of times before weighting the "kit" into a crevice.

Public relations counsellors may think that this makes "kits" less vulnerable to quick disposal than the press agent's flimsy. We are not so sure this is true. Much depends on the temperament of editors.

Another thing distinguishes the "kit" from the "flimsy." The "flimsy" was tailored to measure. It might look like the cheap duplication job it was, but it was basically specifically designed for the chore it was supposed to do. "Kits" have an impressive appearance, suggest great care and personal attention -- and contain a mass of irrelevant material.

The press agent sent one "flimsy" to a newspaper. Another to a radio station, still another to a plant superintendent.

One "kit" that reaches an editor's desk will contain tips for speakers, radio addresses, lists of available films, posters and, somewhere in the mass of material, something which just might be printed.

The particular "kit" that sparked this protest was from the Ontario Department of Transport on "winter holiday traffic hazards." Enclosed was a "check list of materials in this kit." The list consisted of eleven numbered paragraphs. Several of the paragraphs covered more than one item. Even some of the individual enclosures were designed to serve many purposes. For instance, we are told that enclosed posters are "appropriate for displaying in any of the following places: store windows and doors, office buildings and banks, post offices, railway stations, bus depots, service stations and garages, community centres, factory and office bulletin boards, elevators and (take a deep breath), schools and churches, beverage rooms, cocktail bars, restaurants and tourist retail and LCBO stores."

There are also listed "rules for effective window display." No. 1 rule is "Keep it simple."

A good idea.

And now to see how hard we can tramp the waste paper.

O CANADA

The Windsor Star reports that U.S. Ambassador John Hay Whitney, in a recent visit to Londonderry in Northern Ireland, said that it was reported "the tune of the Star-Spangled Banner is an Ulster tune, originally composed as a march for the Eighth Battalion of the Royal Inniskillin Fusiliers."

The Windsor Star also notes that it was not until an Act of Congress in 1931 that "The Star-Spangled Banner" became officially the U.S. national anthem.

"Perhaps 'O Canada' may yet become officially our national anthem (if we can find it -- or for -- some better tune)," reconcludes the Star.

Never mind about the tune; it is the words which need attention.

"O Canada, our home and native land - -"

Native? In a country where so many are citizens by choice, rather than by the chance of birth?

Those who object to the use of "God Save the Queen" as our national anthem raise the point that it is not exclusively Canadian. But if this be a valid objection, surely an equally valid objection to the words commonly sung to "O Canada" is that they are not exclusively Canadian.

"O Canada, our home and beloved land - -?"

Perhaps that would be an acceptable alteration for that line. But there are other lines which need attention. Is it only Canada's sons, native-born or adopted, who love her? How about her daughters?

Now let us tune from abroad, for the language of music is universal. The lyrics must be produced at home.

GRAVE MISTAKE

NOBLENESS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

'Tis better to have tried to reach
A goal that you will never know
Than never know what failure means
Because you've clung to what is low.

'Tis better to aim high and miss
And be a failure for all time
Than keep upon the level ground
With those who never try to climb.

'Tis not the heights that man attains
That prove his nobleness of soul.
His glory, after all, remains
In some one unaccomplished goal.

Should Design Winter Auto

Ringside Wife Standard

In some ways we really make very little progress. Take, for instance, the matter of coping with winter. For example. From the standpoint of the automobile. Other things are not only just as bad, they are actually worse. Our cars, be medium or small are fine for the summer. But, big, medium or small they are clunkers for winter.

We have just dug ourselves out of the second show and sleet storm of the season. There have been many accidents, some fatalities and much inconvenience. No one knows all of this is preventable; but is a motorist being so unreasonable, so outlandish in thinking that it would be nice to have a car which was designed in some important respects for conditions its driver will inevitably be forced to meet?

We have said before that there are actually two Canadian cars. There are only cars designed in other countries and either built in whole or in part here or simply shipped here. How senseless it is, really, that the car manufacturer ever thinks of taking climate here, and in large parts of the United States, into consideration.

How simple, but vital change could eliminate about 80 per cent of the winter driving grief. That change involves tires -- admittedly only incidentally the latest word in tires, such as these "ticiest method of gearing for low speed and high power through heavy snow -- some cars have this, but most of them do not. We are not suggesting a car equipped and built like a snow tractor. Just a few minor changes and some attention to a problem, the neglect of which is a standing reproach to the builders.

Timely Warning to Papers

Ottawa Journal

Canadian newspapers exercise their right to criticize most anything which they consider, or think they should. When newspapers in turn are criticized they should take pains to receive the charges in good grace and grant at least the possibility that the critics may be right.

In such a mood do we look upon the observation of Air Vice Marshal John L. Plant, president of the Canadian Press, according to the Canadian Press Year Book, that reporters, apart from editorial writers, for placing interpretation on stories and "pontificating" are at fault.

Air Vice Marshal Plant was discussing the report of the discussion about the CF-105 and what the Prime Minister's statement meant or did not mean. We need not get into a debate with Mr. Plant for we have no reason to believe he was referring to reporters of this newspaper. But there is some weight in his criticism of today's journalism if it be made as a general statement and not related specifically to the CF-105.

In the last decade or so there has been a change in this and elsewhere an increase in the custom of what might loosely be called "interpretative journalism." First, more articles are signed by the reporters responsible, so that distinctions between news and opinion have on occasion been somewhat obscured. Secondly there is the increasing use and abuse of the "news analysis" piece and women to pub their name to a particular column of comment or interpretation and who are given some latitude by their editors to put their personality into it readers will not assume their comments to be necessarily those of the newspaper.

If a newspaper is not carefully edited there is a tendency from these two circumstances that reporters supposedly writing a "straight" news story intentionally or unintentionally lapse into the role of a reporter writing a signed "interpretive" piece, or even into the role of a columnist with some license to play favorites.

The result of any let-down in vigilance over these matters is that a newspaper reader — whether he be an Air Vice Marshal or a candymaker's assistant — is left with an understandable confusion not only as to what is fact and what is opinion, but if it is opinion whose opinion is it?

"Let us say at once that The Journal does not inveigh against 'columnists' as such; indeed we have several in our own paper, ranging all the way from Walter Lippmann on the world to John Bird on birds. We know that Lippmann likes signed columns if they are bright and interpretive and give an interesting opinion. We have a great appreciation of the more liberal use of "by-lines" in the age of personality idles who are so hide-bound in their highs under a bushel: look to the folks for example, whose archchap who tells you the time tells you the time and then tells you more of the fellow who has wound the clock!

"Let Air Vice Marshal Plant is right in suggesting that there is a danger of confusion in the clarity that should proclaim whether a newspaper is stating fact or opinion. The Ottawa newspaper opinion should not follow the vagaries of radio and television in this matter. It should be our duty to make absolutely clear the three main types of message that come into our newspaper; a signed opinion piece (signed or otherwise), a signed personal opinion, and the unsigned editorial opinion that is the opinion of the editors or, if you like, the newspaper.

The Journal, for its own part, hopes to heed this deserved warning.

Smelt May Poison Trout

Owen Sound Sun-Times

New evidence against the smelt may prove of major importance in the effort to bring back the lake trout fishing. If indications are true, then it would appear that an all out drive to eliminate these little fish is not only justified but highly advisable.

The smelt has no commercial value while its value as sport is of a very minor nature. The experience of Harry Noble, MP, well known mink rancher of Shallow Lake, indicates smelt may be the undoing of our lake trout. The lamprey eel has been placed in the role of top villain. And, no doubt, the extensive and quite costly control measures which have been devised are quite justified.

But I smelt react on lake trout and other fish that feast on them in the same manner as they did on the Shallow Lake mink then the damage they could do would be much greater, than that which the lamprey could.

Mink, fed on smelt, became paralyzed and, no doubt, would have died had remedial action not been taken. Experimental research workers found that the addition of a small amount of vitamin E to the mink's diet overcame the vital vitamin C.

It quite probably can be assumed that the fatal results would be the same on fish eating them. Fishermen have reported the smelt support for some time. Now it would seem that their suspicions are quite justified.

Anything Goes If Nonsense

Florida Times-Union

Gov. Frank Clement of Tennessee made a speech recently with a counterblast at Billy Sunday, who had labelled it "obscene junk."

Clement said that Rose once wrote a song called "Does the Spearmint Lose Its Flavor on the Bedpost Overnight?"

That revelation ought to impeach Rose's standing as an authority on lyrics of delicate sensitivity.

The truth is that silly songs have been with us for a long time. Maybe today's rock and roll is the worst ever but it didn't come utterly without warning.

Before the "With Doctor there was "Bingo Bango Bongo, I Don't Want to Leave the Congo.

Only a few years ago there was "Yes, We Have No Bananas" and further back there was "The Hut Sut Song" and "Three Little Fishes."

In fact these belong to the youth of those who are parents of today's youth. Remember Scott, "Ting-ang-walla-walla-bang" and "Yes, we have no bananas" crooning "Down in the bottom of the briny little poo, rum rum three little fiddles and a moon, ma fiddy too!"

Composer Leo McCarey has been surprised to find a song he wrote as a satire on rockin 'n' roll becoming a hit with the rock 'n' roll set.

"Heart" the record was called, both of which were intended to satirize sentimentality but described by Mr. McCarey as "dirty."

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

ELIMINATION PADDISTS DO THEMSELVES HARM

"Dear Dr. Molner: I have been waiting for you to write about the subject of bowel-happy people.

"My wife thinks that unless she has a movement each and every day she is not long for this world and life just isn't worth living. Her mother is the same.

"I have tried to tell my good wife that during the time I was in the army overseas I frequently went four or five days without a B.M. and I'm still living.

"She recently decided to make a list of foods and thought disagreed with her alimentary canal. She took this list to our family doctor and needless to say, that list was excluded in the diet that the very competent doctor had given her. How could he disagree with a patient who said certain foods hurt her?

"It must be a long story into an epilogue, I am now living on cottage cheese and salads and I'm afraid to spread that on mill-ground bread!" P.P.S.: I am thinking of using a new wife."

Friend, I think you know as much about practical elimination as I do, and a lot more about making yourself miserable. The bad your wife doesn't realize that you are entirely correct, and that she and her mother are so hipped on the topic that they are now paddists.

Personally I am in favor of a BM each day, but if one misses it, what's in most of us. I also know that some of us work best on a slower schedule. As for them, it's absolutely all right.

I have written about the use of this bit of idiocy, your wife is a fine woman. Personally I hope she gets started before the local one you. I am opposed to divorce except, of course, where mothers-in-law who brought their daughters up in such ignorance as you describe.

You must have missed some of my bowel vigorous essays on the subject of elimination, because if you had read any of them, you'd have realized that you and I agree. Maybe your wife and her mother saw the column those days; before you did, and burned the paper.

In fact, there is a word in your letter that doesn't agree with my booklet on constipation so I don't recommend the booklet to you, because you would completely normal and sensible. But if by any hook or crook you can get your female relatives to marriage to invest 24 cents, ther ought to read my booklet on this subject. Try to get either of them to send me 20 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for my booklet on how to avoid constipation. I doubt if you can get them to do it, but if they'll follow the advice, your life will be worth living and, they'll return to normal. Don't send your money. Unless you can get them to do it, it's a hopeless case.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Twice in recent months you have made the unqualified statement that nothing should be done for the correct bow legs. I have heard a number of opinions on this subject and would appreciate a discussion in your column. H.S.K.

All right, I'll qualify it. There's no way to correct bow legs — so far as I know. Wish I did know how, but I don't.

Let Us Keep Reputation

Windsor Star

United States tourists are apt to think of Canada as a "poor man's vacation spot," reports Mr. Lance Connery, manager of the Canadian travel bureau in New York. This may be as much a reflection on ourselves.

It is quite true the great majority of tourists from across the line are people of relatively modest means, though our plush vacation spots have their attractions for the "carriage trade." But it isn't a bad thing for a country to have a place where ordinary families can enjoy a nice holiday and even break-it themselves financially.

These may not leave much money individually, but in the mass amount it is a lot. Our tourist trade is an economic asset, but it should be more than that.

There are assets more valuable than money. One example is that have many thousands of our people who come to know and to like us and our country. In the years to come they may greater dividends than the immediate cash they leave with us.

Strength-for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

A PREVAILING PATTERN

There is something of Doctor Jekyll and Mr. Hyde in all of us. Once in a while to our horror there arise within us impulses which are contrary to our normal selves capable of having. We lose our tempers. We fall victim of some temptation. We are more angry at someone and that never seems justified, or we do that we should hatred.

Is this condition too extreme? Am I suggesting something that happens very rarely? On is it something which either outwardly or inwardly frequently disturbs our lives and our relations with others?

Stevenson's famous story of Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde represents the shifting of one's personality from good to evil. The point of the story was that the time came when evil was predominant. The poor victim could not bring back into his life the state of virtue in which he had been.

There is a lot of quicksand along the pathway of life, and it is only too easily dimmed as to his surroundings. Is that quicksand, that blind way, ever entirely safe? We are never safe. One wrong step and we may be involved in ruin. One unwise action, one undisciplined appetite, one affair in which moral standards are allowed for just a little while to be put aside, and ruin is upon us.

We are all Jekylls and Hydes. The best of men and the worst are such. In this situation we deal with a prevailing pattern.

TODAY'S TALK

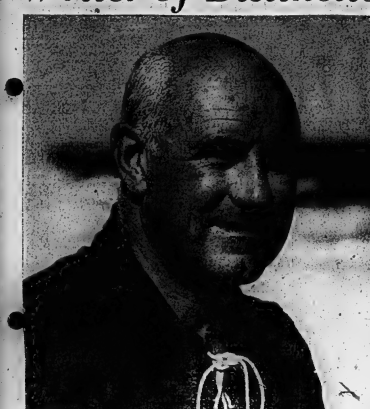
By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

SEPARATE THINGS SUGGEST ENJOYMENT

We live too much in a mess of things, so we deprive ourselves of the pleasure of much that remains hidden from us unoriginally. It is a good thing to "clean house," as the saying goes. Every cleanup proves a prize drawing, the gift of the artist, that I had almost skipped as to whose it had gone. I discovered it in with other things I had forgotten about.

If we accumulate too much we have not left room for reaction and have for many things, especially those we can enjoy most. Much is life is built. I like to find new enjoyment in some of it in things of yesteryear. I recently attended church in a new place, and listened to the chimes of bells that called for worship. I was reminded of the bell in my father's church that I used to ring each Sabbath. There is spiritual beauty in the echo of a bell. I recently bought a camel's bell in a little shop near my office. It reminded me of the jingles in Burton's "Kasidah," many ending with "the tinkling of the Camel's bell."

Separate interests are a good thing, for then you can enjoy your love in all directions.



I recently visited an friend's home. He is a collector of many things, but each has its special place in the home. Sometimes it is as etching, a painting, a rare book, and then a beautiful piece of china. Entering his home is like entering a museum, each treasure with a place of its own. All people would be happier if they filled their homes with interests instead of worries and dissension.

Have many things you can go to in case of an emergency. Quiet your mind with prayer and depend upon hope and the comfort it brings!

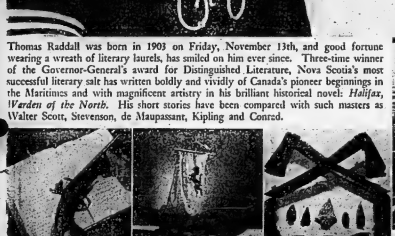
Maritimer Thomas Raddall

Writer of Distinction



Raddall and his wife Edith live in the little seaport town of Liverpool, N.S., where the author is free to indulge his hobbies of golfing, fishing and sailing small craft.
National Film Board of Canada Photos by Chris Lund.

Raddall moved to Halifax from England when he was 10 and young enough to sink his roots firmly in Nova Scotian soil. The province's misty moorlands and ocean splashed shores early laid hold of his imagination, its strange enchantment giving wings to his pen. Nonetheless, his stories are rooted in reality; intimate contact with the people and places he writes of brings the ring of authenticity to his tales of romance and adventure.

Thomas Raddall was born in 1903 on Friday, November 13th, and good fortune wearing a wreath of literary laurels, has smiled on him ever since. Three-time winner of the Governor-General's award for Distinguished Literature, Nova Scotia's most successful literary salt has written boldly and vividly of Canada's pioneer beginnings in the Maritimes and with magnificent artistry in his brilliant historical novel: Halifax, Warden of the North. His short stories have been compared with such masters as Walter Scott, Stevenson, de Maupassant, Kipling and Conrad.

f the sea is in Raddall's veins, history is in his blood. Items from his personal, historical ollection appear above (left to right) flintlock pistol used by Nova Scotia Privateers- n in war of 1812; Model of Norseman long ship; Micmac Indian relics.

On the shore of Lake Rossignol, Raddall hunts for Indian arrowheads with his wife. In his stories he displays a panoramic vision, a sharp eye for detail and an historian's passion for painstaking research. While he writes of his beloved Nova Scotia rather than the country as a whole, in so doing he has painted in bold and thrilling colour the story of the oldest and perhaps most stirring part of the broad canvas that is Canada.

Raddall and his wife check a point in his latest book before final copy goes to printers. At fifty-five, he has chalked up an impressive literary record and those who know him well say he has great stories yet to tell.

Thomas Head Raddall, novelist and historian, was born Nov. , 1903, at Hythe, near Folkestone, England. His family moved Halifax in 1913 and he was educated at the Halifax Academy. uring World War 1 when he was 15, Raddall enlisted as a wire- ss operator. From 1918 until 1922 he served as radio officer board transports and other ships and at radio stations along e Nova Scotian coast, acquiring local color that he later put to xcellent use in his books. After taking a course as accountant, became a bookkeeper at Liverpool, N.S., and began contributing short stories to British and American magazines. His work attracted the attention of John Buchan (later Lord Tweedsmuir) who wrote the introduction to his first collection of short stories, The Pied Piper of Dipper Creek (1939).

From 1938 on, Raddall supported himself and his family (a son Thomas Jr., and a daughter Frances) entirely by his pen. His first novel, His Majesty's Yankees (1942); a historical account of Nova Scotia during the American Revolution, won wide acclaim; it was followed by Roger Sudden (1945), Pride's Fancy (1946), The Nymph and the Lamb (1950), Tidefall (1953), and The Wings of Night (1956).

In addition to collections of short stories, he published several historical novels, including Halifax, Warden of the North (1948), and The Path of Destiny (1957.)

Many of his books have been translated, and all his main works have appeared in American and British, as well as Canadian editions. Several of his works have appeared in Braille. The Pied Piper of Dipper Creek. Halifax, Warden of the North, and The Path of Destiny have all won the Governor-General's Award for distinguished literature.

He lives in the little seaport town of Liverpool, Nova Scotia, where he can indulge his hobbies of fishing, hunting, golf and sailing small craft.

The history of Nova Scotia, its ships, its men and women, and the sea, which is so much the life of that province, have been, in Raddall, the force and the passion which have turned him from sea-rover into an author in the front ranks of Canadian writers.

Boris Pasternak, Absent Nobel Winner, Honored

STOCKHOLM (AP) — Russian poet-novelist Boris Pasternak, an absent winner, was honored along with seven attending in person at the 1958 Stockholm's concert hall Wednesday. Three Soviet physicists, three American scientists and a British chemist were handed prizes totalling $124,260 by Sweden's King Gustav VI on his 125th anniversary of the birth of Alfred Nobel, the dynamite inventor whose fortune finances the awards.

Secretary Anders Oesterling of the Royal Swedish Academy paid tribute to Pasternak, the author of the anti-Communist novel Doctor Zhivago who was forced by Soviet pressure to turn down the 1958 literature prize.

The academy awarded the prize to Pasternak for his contribution to contemporary lyrics as well as the great Russian epic tradition, Oesterling said in an unscheduled announcement.

Pasternak's $41,420, his heavy gold medal and leather-bound scroll are being held in trust for him in case he ever has a chance to accept them.

Soviet physicists P. A. Cherenkov, I. M. Frank and Igor Tamm came with the Kremlin's approval to collect the 1958 physics award.

Aged Woman And Her Dog Burned to Death

CHATHAM (CP)—Mrs. Angela Seiena (Dolly) Braxton, 87, of Hyslop St. and her dog Toby were found burned to death early today in the ashes of their two storey frame home in East Chatham. It was the city's first fire death since Oct. 3, 1957.

Flames enveloped the 100-year-old house within minutes after a series of three explosions were heard. It sounded just like gunshots, said Frances Marinek, 19, Pat Richardson, 26, said he heard the explosions but thought they came from freight cars shunting nearby.

No estimates of damage were available. Cause of the fire was not immediately determined.

New Yorker Without His Newspaper Like a Londoner Without Umbrella

By ARTHUR W. EVERETT

NEW YORK (AP) — A New Yorker without his daily newspaper is a cripple.

A strike of delivery men has swept the news stands bare of the nine daily papers for the first time in five years.

Hundreds of thousands of New Yorkers travel to and from work each day on subways and commuter trains. The human jam is made bearable by the privacy with which the traveller surrounds himself behind his newspaper.

Without a paper, the subway rider becomes hastily exposed and almost frightened person. There is nothing to look at but faces. And in a city of 8,000,000, face-scanning can become dreadfully unconscious.

SUGGEST SINGING

During a newspaper strike in 1953, a midwestern newspaper suggested editorially that New York subway riders might try singing to pass the time. But singing on a New York subway would be a sure ticket to the loony hatch.

But just the same the newspaper is to most of them as the furled umbrella is to the Londoner, a familiar insignia of city environment.

Radio and television stations gain in a newspaper strike. They time quickly sells out and their business jumps as much as 25 per cent. But even sharply increased news coverage cannot make up for the lack of newspapers.

A newspaper strike in New York during the Christmas rush hits the big department stores hard. Macy's, Gimbel's and Bloomingdale's rely almost entirely on newspaper advertisements to draw customers in and It's surprising how many New Yorkers don't know the day of the week without a newspaper to go by. And while many are used to listening to radio or TV weather reports, others dress for the day on the basis of the newspaper weather report they read on the way home the night before.

The Times Square news stand that handles paper has some 500 cities gets a workout during a strike. Old news is better than no news, it seems, even if it is from some place else.

The New York Enquirer, a weekly paper, is switching to daily publication for the duration. El Diario, a Spanish - language daily, plans to publish a section in English. But they cannot expect to reach the 5,500,000 New Yorkers who normally buy a paper each day.

And during a strike political activity falls off. There is little inspiration for a politician to make a speech if it gets no newspaper coverage.

Harry Bridges Wins Right to Wed Japanese

RENO (AP) — Harry Bridges wed his Nisei fiancee Wednesday after winning overthrow of a 94-year - old Nevada law banning marriages between a Caucasian and an Oriental.

The ceremony was read by Justice William Beemer after twice-delivered Bridges obtained his marriage licence from Washoe County clerk Harry K. Brown.

The 58 - year - old west coast longshore labor leader and 35-year-old Noriko Sawada went immediately across the street to Justice Beemer's. Reporters, photographers and curious onlookers were barred.

Bridges was refused a marriage licence three times Tuesday because of Nevada's 1964 law prohibiting inter - racial marriages. Wednesday district Judge Taylor Wines ruled that law is unconstitutional and ordered Brown to issue the licence.

Nothing was said about the possibility of the Nevada Supreme Court eventually over - ruling Judge Wines and upholding the inter-racial marriage ban. If that should happen, the marriage would be null.

Contact Club Has Enjoyable Closing Party

The parish hall of Christ Church presented a festive air this week to members of the Contact Club as they assembled for their closing party of the year. President Helen McCormick welcomed each member to the auditorium in company with Trudy Sands and members of her committee, who had arranged the evening. Attractively wrapped gifts piled up under the pretty silver tree with its sparkling blue ornaments, and the tea table was also resplendent with blue candles in silver holders and blue crystal balls.

Activities got under way with a game directed by Marion Connor. Members sat in a big circle and passed a much wrapped parcel until it was finally unwrapped by the lucky winner, Margaret MacInnis.

Betty Yates and Helen McCormick organized a double game of card bingo which reversed the usual procedure. Guild gave everyone a prize which each winner traded for the pre-"special" and coveted prize at the table. The lucky people holding and keeping these attractive prizes as the game ended were Gerry Carter and Diana Settle.

Betty Yates kept things moving in the next few minutes with an elimination pass-the-parcel game to music and the parcels were won by Marjory Bunnell and Eileen Talbot.

Bingo was next on the program and Helen McCormick and Marion Connor and Betty Yates were busy calling numbers and presenting prizes to Marilyn Warren, Joan Ford, Barbara Cook and Gerry Carter.

ATTRACTIVE PLACE MATS

Delicious refreshments were served by the busy girls of Trudy Sands' group, and the tables assumed a party air with the original place mats for every guest. Never have so many place mats been so carefully guarded against spills as members foresaw the delight of the young fry at each home for next meeting with these lovable and timely souvenirs!

President Helen McCormick extended a welcome to all members and the guests of the evening — Archdeacon and Mrs. J. R. Creegan and Reverend and Mrs.

Helen thanked her executive for Helen thanked her executive their help during the past year and also expressed her thanks and that of the members of the girls of Trudy Sands' group for a most enjoyable evening.

Helen introduced the executive for the coming year.

Past president — Alice Wonnacott, presented to Helen McCormick the president's spoon and congratulated Helen for her work of the past year and led the members in singing, "For She's a Jolly Good Fellow".

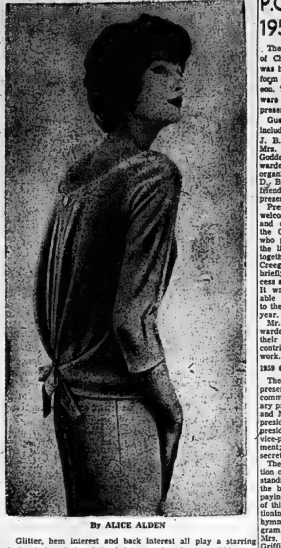
Trudy Sands proceeded to distribute the gifts which had graced the tree and their opening by the recipients provided a pleasant ending for a much enjoyed evening and a successful year.

Wedding

ASHBY—BLACK

A quiet wedding was solemnized at the rectory of the United Church at Batawa, Ontario, on December 6, at 3 o'clock, when the Rev. H. M. Beach united in marriage Joan Pauline, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond E. Black, Windsor, Nova Scotia, to Donald James Ashby, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick J. Ashby, Frankford, Ontario.

The bride looked lovely in a ballerina-length gown of silk tulle over taffeta with pleated bodice and short sleeves with matching elbow-length mitts, coming to points over the hands. Her circular, shoulder-length veil was held in place by a crown of matching pleated silk taffeta, and she carried a white Bible.



Mrs. Ted Ashby attended the bride, wearing a gown of blue crystalette with white feather hat.

The bridegroom was attended by his brother, Ted Ashby.

Following the ceremony a reception was held for the immediate family, after which the happy couple left for a wedding trip to Niagara Falls.

Mr. and Mrs. Ashby will reside in Barrie, Ontario.

Evening Glitter

By ALICE ALDEN

Glitter, hem interest and back interest all play a starring role in clothes designed for bright evening doings. This year even a minor evening occasion will prompt a simple yet outstanding costume such as this. The fabric is gold and wool knitted lame, supple and soft. The top has an intricate drape caught at the waistline with a self bow for the back interest. The scoop neckline is elegantly unadorned in front. The metal threads are on the outside, leaving only the soft wool next to the skin.

Christ Church P.G. Names 1959 Officers

The final meeting of the year of Christ Church Parish Guild was held on Tuesday, taking the form of a Christmas party luncheon. The parish hall and tables were beautifully decorated and presented a cheery picture.

Guests for this special occasion included: Archdeacon and Mrs. J. B. Creegan; the Rev. and Mrs. Everett Smith; Mr. and Mrs. Goddon and Mr. James Wright, wardens; Mr. J. C. Withers, organist; Mrs. I. Winter and Mr. D. Bylzma. A number of old friends of the Guild were also present.

President, Mrs. F. A. Beeby, welcomed the large gathering and expressed the pleasure of the Guild at having so many who play an important part in the life of Christ Church meet together in good fellowship. Mr. Creegan and Mr. Smith spoke briefly, wishing the Guild success and happiness in their work. It was announced that a sizeable sum will be presented to the Church at the close of the year.

Mr. Godden, on behalf of the wardens, thanked the Guild for their energetic and enthusiastic contribution to the Church's work.

1959 OFFICERS

The slate of officers for 1959 presented by the nominating committee is as follows: honorary presidents, Mrs. G. G. Wright and Mrs. J. B. Creegan; past-president, Mrs. F. A. Beeby; president, Mrs. H. H. Dawson; vice-president, Mrs. R. H. Dement; treasurer, Mrs. A. Jordan; secretary, Mrs. E. Colebourne.

The program, under the direction of Mrs. E. Hickey, was outstanding. Mrs. Hickey outlined the beginnings of hymn-singing, paying tribute to many writers of this beautiful music and mentioning many of the best-loved hymns. Taking part in the program were: Mrs. C. F. Bishop; Mrs. R. H. Dawson; Mrs. R. Griffith and Mrs. A. E. Wonnacott who each told the inspiring story of a writer and one of his most famous hymns. Following each story, part of the hymn was sung as a solo, the remainder being sung in unison by the entire group. Soloists were: Archdeacon Greegan; Mrs. A. Jordan and Mrs. S. C. Boyd. Piano accompaniments were played by Mr. J. C. Withers.

The thanks of the Guild were expressed by the president to all those who had contributed to this memorable program. Benediction was prooounced by Archdeacon Creegan.

Santa Claus, the exchanging of gifts and good wishes, brought the festivities to a happy close.

St. Joseph's CWL Holds Yuletide Part

Last Monday evening at St. Joseph's School the C.W.L. held its annual Christmas party, attended by a large number.

Preceding the evening's entertainment the Rev. J. J. Buckley opened with prayer, and the executive read their reports. On the agenda for the coming year is a "Valentine Tea" in February and an Easter bazaar in April. Father Buckley thanked the ladies for their fine work in the parish for the year 1958.

Gaily wrapped Christmas gifts were distributed among the members by Mrs. H. Carr-Brant. Games were played, sponsored by the C.W.L. and convened by Mrs. S. Sankey and Mrs. R. Lynch.

Refreshments, served by Mrs. V. Muldoon and Mrs. L. Goyer, were something to remember: dainty sandwiches, assorted cookies and cakes, pickles and olives, served on Christmas scene serviettes, concluded the evening's affair.

Weavers' Guild Elects Officers

The December meeting of the Weavers' Guild was held at the home of Helen Sulman, with a 100 per cent attendance. It took the form of a pot-luck supper and Christmas party.

After a short discussion on weaving the election of officers took place. The following officers were elected: president, Mrs. Grace Fairlie; secretary, Helen B. Sulman; treasurer, Mrs. C. Hayes; librarian, Mrs. William Watson; social and telephone convener, Mrs. L. Mouil.

A vote of appreciation for the 1958 officers was then given.

After participating in games and contests Santa Claus distributed gifts to all, bringing an enjoyable meeting to a close.

ADDRESSING CHRISTMAS CARDS TO THE CLERGY

Most Important To Remember: The word the should always be written before the word Reverend used with the name of a clergyman or priest. Always The Reverend. For example: The Reverend —; The Reverend Dr. —; The Right Reverend —; The Very Reverend —.

Why is this the correct form? Because "Reverend" is not a title, like "Mr." or "Dr." "Reverend" is an adjective, an adjective of courtesy used in addressing those in the spiritual profession. Therefore we should never write "Reverend John Goode" . . . always The Reverend John Goode.

To a Protestant clergyman, address the envelope: The Reverend Paul Brooks.

To a Protestant clergyman with a degree (D.D., for example): The Reverend Thomas Hall, D.D. (or The Rev. Dr. Thomas Hall)

To a clergyman and wife: The Rev. and The Rev. Dr.) and Mrs. Peter Lee.

Or: The Reverend Peter Lee and Mrs. Lee.

To a Roman Catholic priest: The Reverend Joseph Kenna. (This is the correct form of address also for Greek Orthodox priests, and Anglican priests who are addressed as "Father—.)

The initials of his order may be added:

The Revered Joseph Kenna, S.J.

To a Monsignor: The Right Reverend Monsignor James E. Martin (or

The Very Rev. Monsignor—, depending on his rank.)

CHRISTMAS CARDS FROM NEWLYWEDS

Dear Mrs. Beekman:

Kenneth and I were married last May, the first marriage for both, although we are both in our early forties. We each had many friends, but since we have been so busy buying and furnishing our new home, we haven't had much chance to meet many of each other's friends. Naturally we feel it's very important to send quite a few cards this year, and we want to sign them ourselves.

(1) When Kenneth or I send a card to a married couple, is it proper to address it to both the husband and wife, even though we know only one of them?

(2) Also, when only one of us knows the couple, should only that one's name be signed to the card?

(3) And when both names are signed, which is correct: Kenneth and Mary or Mary and Kenneth? — Readers

Very important indeed are the Christmas cards you and your Kenneth send this year . . . when you are establishing your "We-Two" social relationships!

(1) Address a card to both husband and wife, even though you know only one. The idea is: To You-Two from Us-Two.

(2) Both of your names should be signed to a Christmas card to a husband and wife, even when only one of you knows the couple.

(3) The one signing a card should write her or his name last . . . obviously this is the Rule of Courtesy. So you sign Kenneth and Mary . . . and your husband should sign Mary and Kenneth.

Proclaiming The Canadian Spy Apple

by Mary Moore

Frankly I think Spys are the best all-purpose apple ever propagated. So when my sister turned her big brown eyes on me and said "I wanna apple pie" — after I placed a requisite cup in front of her — I said "I'll make you one with Spys" and I did and I'm glad. Three women who are perpetual dieters let down all of the carriers an ate three-quarters of a 9-inch pie. It was divine and good for the eternal soul and internal spirits.

Jonathans and McIntoshes are good for this. Select 8 or 10 medium-sized ones and chill them. Having inserted a strong wooden skewer into the stem end, in heavy saucepan mix 1 cups sugar, 1 cup each brown sugar and table cream, 3-3 cup each corn syrup and butter, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 teaspoons vanilla. Cook to 246 deg. (firm ball in cold water), stirring steadily toward end of cooking to prevent burning. Remove from heat and cool until it thickens slightly — but does not beat. Quickly twirl each apple to coat it evenly all over. Drain on wax paper. Speed is essential. For the last 2 or 3 apples tip the saucepan to make syrup deep enough to coat apples.

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

THURSDAY (Guests)

Citrus Fruit Cup; Roast Lamb Leg or Shoulder; Caper Sauce; Green Peas; Carrots Vichy; Blanc Mange Pudding with Fresh Frozen Raspberries; Coffee.

SUNDAY

Baked Picnic Ham with Pineapple Chips; Candied Sweets; Succotash; Relish Tray: Carrot and Celery Sticks, Gherkins; Perfect Apple Pie (see Thursday); Old Cheddar; Coffee.

And if you are stuck for a dessert for your guests during the Christmas season, this will fill the bill and be welcome. Add a slab of good old Canadian Cheddar cheese for heaped-up measure.

PERFECT APPLE PIE
(Pyr- Syrs)

Pastry: 2 cups unsifted all-purpose flour, 1-3 cup best quality shortening, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 4 tablespoons ice cold water. Cut shortening into flour and salt until it is the size of small peas. Add water, 1 tablespoon at a time, mixing lightly with a fork; each addition should be to a dry portion of the flour mix. Pres into 2 balls and chill. Pare 8 Spy apples or enough to make 5 or 6 cups when cored and sliced. Add 2-3 cup white sugar and 1-4 teaspoon "apple pie spice" and stir in to prevent apples browning. Roll out one ball of dough on lightly floured board to fit 9-inch pie plate, add after fitting it in, trim off edges. Turn prepared apples in. Dot with 1 tablespoon butter. Roll out other ball of dough to fit top, fold it once to gash at centre. Moisten edges of bottom crust, seal top crust to it and trim edge. Brush top with milk. Bake at 475 deg. F. 10 minutes, then reduce heat to 350 deg. for another 30 to 35 minutes

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Marvin J. — She ought to stay home with the child' sa.

Rose J. — I love to get out evenings.

Marvin J. — My wife and I have been married ten years and have two children, aged f i v e and seven. I have a night job and from the looks of things now I'll be working nights for years. It's not a pleasant prospect, but nothing can be done about it.

My wife wants more social activity and I certainly don't blame her for that, but I s a y we're going to have to restrict it to weekends. My wife says she wants to belong to a certain club that meets during the week and she'd like to go visiting a neighbor's home occasionally.

I feel that she ought to stay at home with the children. They need her in the house:— especially since I'm not there. I don't like leaving the kids with a baby sitter for so much time.

Rose J. — Marvin is distorting the whole issue because he happens to be a bit jealous. He talks about this "baby sitter" as if I were leaving the children with a stranger. Actually my sister, who has been a perfect gem about it, stays with the children. She goes to college and says she can study in my house as well as home.

Marvin is really riled because our neighbor's husband has taken me home on several occasions in the past. This man is very good-looking and has an impressive personality, but he is a perfect gentleman. There certainly can't be any harm in his taking me home.

Marvin knows how I love to get out evenings. I have more patience with the children when I can have a little change.

The Council: It probably would help to clear the air if Marvin would state his full and honest reasons for wanting to keep his wife home evenings. Possibly he is ashamed to exhibit any jealousy, but we think that there is no reason to be ashamed. It is perfectly understandable that he should not like the idea of a handsome neighbor escorting his wife home at night.

We suspect that Rose takes some pleasure in this event. Probably she wouldn't want any "harm" to come of the whole thing, but she should be thoughtful enough of her husband's natural feelings to give up any trivial gratification she gets out of her neighbor's attentions. If she must go out evenings without her husband she should make different arrangements for her return.

Neither do we think Marvin is so far off the beam on the baby sitter issue. A college student who happens to be a doting aunt may make an excellent sitter, but she is still only a substitute. Children who cannot have their father's attention in the evening need a little more than a substitute mother.

We don't recommend t h a t Rose remain at home resentfully. If she feels angry and chained down by her maternal responsibilities she won't be doing h e r children much good. We would suggest instead that she try to see what she can do about rounding up a little social activity in her own home. Possibly she can have club meetings there or encourage her neighbors to visit her informally one or t w o evenings a week. She should try to find some creative things to do and she'll feel much happier about the time she must spend alone.

Mass of Spongy, Dangerous, Stinky Muskeg Which Has Delayed Northern Development Now Slowly Losing War With Scientists

By Russell Franklin
In Imperial Oil Review

Stretching across the north of Canada is a mass of spongy, treacherous, ill-smelling territory that has probably done more to hold back northern Canadian development than anything else. From the air, much of this land looks beautiful. The sun may reflect upwards in blinding flashes from thousands of small lakes and pools, between which twist delicately colored strips of land — blue, red, brown, purple. This waterland often stretches for such distances that it seems to be curving out of sight.

Muskeg — for that is the land below — covers 500,000 square miles of Canada, an area bigger than France, East and West Germany and Greece, all lumped together. It has cost Canada countless millions of dollars. The petroleum industry alone has lost an estimated $100 million as a direct result of muskeg. Seemingly barren and dead it is an almost impenetrable barrier to the north.

Most people whose lives are touched by muskeg usually hate and revile the stuff. An engineer with the Canadian Paper Company Limited, W. C. Harrison, once summed up the thoughts of many: "I have found out by bitter experience that the problems of road building through muskeg are numerous, the worries are endless and the costs are dumbfounding."

Muskeg hits every industry in the north. In fact, if it didn't freeze over each year, many industries would not be able to operate in muskeg country at all. Without a freezeup, the eastern Canadian sulfowood industry, for instance, would never be able to lug out its annual harvest by any conventional method of transport. Nor could the petroleum industry even begin to inspect or transport in much of muskeg country.

But such is the pressure in Canada to develop, to advance the frontiers of forestry, mining, petroleum and agriculture, that an extraordinary revolution is revolving muskeg right now. It is a revolution that has never been fully recorded. The muskeg country is being challenged — and beaten.

The Quebec Department of Mines is analyzing peat bogs coverine about 700,000 acres along the lower St. Lawrence Valley. This work is revealing that muskeg contains the raw materials for stock feeds and certain kinds of plastics. If these chemicals can be isolated commercially, it might be possible to work the area for chemicals while converting the bog to farmland.

At a recent conference called by the National Research Council's associate committee on soil and snow mechanics a muskeg expert made these predictions:

— Within 15 years, cities will be springing up all over the far north largely because of our defeat of muskeg.

— Huge farms, growing everything from grain to vegetables, will be common across the north, because we'll be using muskeg productively, instead of trying to destroy it.

Muskeg, a mixture of water and living and dead vegetation, is largely black, smelly, pesty muck which breeds insects and bogs down everything from horses and dogs to five-ton earth - moving tractors. More than blackflies, perma-frost and temperatures of 80 degrees below zero, it is a serious deterrent to any development in Canada's north.

Actually it is a type of terrain found in many parts of the world, often in undrained areas once covered by glaciers. In Ireland, Scotland and Russia, the peaty part of muskeg is scraped up, dried and used as fuel. In those countries it's known variously as peat bogland or just plain swamp. Only in North America is it known as muskeg — a term borrowed from the Indians.

Dr. Norman Radforth, a Canadian university professor and one of the world's great authorities on muskeg, once gave this description of a bad type of muskeg: "The peaty matrix of which this is constituted is made up of microscopic organic particles forming a loosely associated, highly saturated mass, strengthened only by a weak webbing of non-woody fibres."

A foundation engineer offered this translation: "What the hell's matter with that if you put your foot in that stuff, you'd go right up to your waist!"

Muskeg has been made up of layers of plant remains, fantastic in depth from a few inches to 20 and 30 feet. In older conditions, some bogs are rich with tools, ornaments and pottery of civilizations going back 4,000 and 5,000 years.

In Canada, every province has its share of muskeg. Generally speaking, it stretches right across the north from Newfoundland to B.C. In one surprising swoop, it comes right down into the heart of Ontario where part of it has been drained and farmed to become the famous vegetable - growing area of Holland Marshes.

Despite its beauty from the air, muskeg territory is among the world's most dreary and forbidding level. It seems to grow like cancer, cutting into healthy land, making it scary and gradually killing nearly all vegetation. Consequently, great areas of muskeg look as though some MORE . . . . . disease is marching through it.

Nobody is quite sure what total effect muskeg has had on Canada. But some of the damage can be documented. In 1942, the Shipshaw power project for the new aluminum reduction plant in Quebec was delayed when a muskeg-filled channel could not be drained. Engineers found it was actually easier to build a 23 mile highway blasting a new channel — through solid rock.

Similarly, there was building its line to Churchill, through the heart of muskeg territory, the engineers had a terrible time. Whole sections of track were constantly sinking and tilting into the muskeg. In some areas the fill sank into the muskeg so fast as engineers could pile it on. This is a common trick of muskeg which, because of the weight of fill, the more likely the muskeg is to sink eventually.

During the building of the Alaska highway engineers were baffled by the depth of muskeg over many sections of the route. Thousands of tons of fill were dumped into one section of the muskeg relentlessly out of sight.

The engineers decided they would excavate the muskeg to its full depth, then fill with gravel. At this time, it was winter, and heavy explosive charges simply blew back out of the ground without touching the muskeg. Eventually, the muskeg was hollowed out in layers as it thawed. Then the trench was filled with gravel. Despite all this effort, the road still required repairs totalling 2,000 and 3,000 cubic yards of gravel, per mile per year, to keep it from spreading out and disappearing into the surrounding muskeg territory.

It's not surprising that roads departments throughout Canada hate muskeg with a deep and bitter loathing. Quebec province once built a substantial bridge on the Lost River road near Lachute. One day it was nicely in position; the next day, the bridge, and its approaches, sank clear into the muskeg.

Because muskeg varies in consistency and treacherousness almost from yard to yard, petroleum company crews hunting for oil frequently have to use helicopters scouting ahead of them for a safe route, winter or summer. Winter is a time of feverish activity over the muskeg right across Canada. Oil companies frantically move in heavy drilling rigs, supplies and equipment, "freezing in the only favor muskeg does for us," an oil engineer said recently.

Westerners will talk for a long time about one big oil company that left its winter rush around the muskeg until too late. The spring thaw trapped men and machines in the middle of a vast plain of melting muskeg. For 100 miles across the plain, oil rigs, pipe, fuel, chemicals, trucks, trailers and tractors bogged down hopelessly. They had to be there till the autumn freezeup.

The high cost of muskeg has often made it more economical to abandon machinery than to salvage it. During the construction of the Quebec North Shore and Labrador Railway, haulage companies over the winter muskeg were found to be just about as high as the cost of charter aircraft. In fact, western oil companies find that airlifting is the only economical way of keeping some muskeg-surrounded rigs in business.

But the muskeg doesn't always win. The Patricia Transportation Co. Ltd. hauled 28,000 tons of material from Pickle Crow Portage to Moak Lake, 400 miles north of Winnipeg, in the winter of 1947. The entire route was rushed north for International Nickel Co. of Canada Ltd. to get started in its development of big nickel resources in the area.

Bell Telephone Company faced the same kind of muskeg problem during the construction of the 900-mile radar line in 1955. Bell would first establish a base at Wenisk, Ont., on the shore of Duncan Bay, then nearly 400 miles from the nearest railhead at Gillam, Man. A winter tractor train was the only way of getting into the area. The water on the bay was too shallow to allow ships to approach. In winter, during the summer, an airstrip couldn't be built until some access was secured.

Using air photos as a guide, the tractor train, consisting of two Bombardier muskeg tractors and a Caterpillar D8, set out from Gillam with its load of fuel, prefabricated huts and supplies. The journey, undertaken under the most appalling conditions, took 86 days. A story of the trip, written by Bruce Hickson of London, Ont., tells some of the drama of the journey:

March 1: Making good time through fairly open patches (of muskeg) between bush. We are now 91 deg. 49' 30 degs 24'.

March 2: Copter arrived at 4.30 p.m. with spare crossarms and mechanic. Temperature is 36 degrees below.

March 3: 7.30 a.m., 48 degrees below. Made good distance today with easier patches. Hope we reach the best route. Doctor fells through ice.

March 4: Contact The Pas and arrangements are made to bring in two more cats and blocks. Position 91 degrees 22'35 degrees 15'.

March 5: Tractor recovered from river at noon. Running again at 5 p.m. Copter having trouble.

March 6: Norseman picks up gas at Ilford for helicopter.

March 7: Scouted new river crossing with helicopter. Cross river, then east over ridges and fairly open muskeg for seven miles to Nelson River and Kettle Rapids.

March 8: Cross Kaskatinau River on ice and climbed ridge.

March 9: Radio signals dead ahead at 8 a.m.

March 10: With helicopter guiding the way, we crossed three creeks. Progress is very good today; we covered 11 miles. Radio signals still very poor but clear at short intervals.

March 11: Hollister exploded and crashed, killing pilot and foreman. Unable to get men or cargo through. RCMP finally notified.

Muskeg usually degresses people. Its air of desolation is chilling. But not to everybody. At the last muskeg conference, the Newfoundland Land Development Supervisor, J. V. Squires, said cheerfully to delegates: "There are six million acres of peat in Newfoundland and contrary to the way the rest of you gentlemen might feel about muskeg, we like it."

He told how the province was systematically draining the peatlands and selling farmers on them. Enormous swamps down existing furrows five feet wide and three feet deep, were ripping the muskeg open. Ditcher machines that flung overwrited peat more than 50 feet from a ditch 15 feet down were being put into service at $30,000 a piece to speed the effort of Newfoundland's muskeg.

In British Columbia, muskeg is also getting a minor way. Large quantities of it are scraped from the surface of peatlands, dried and exported to California crop growers at $20,000 a ton. But it is Russia that muskeg is being tackled most enthusiastically. More than 10 million tons of peat are burned in Russian steam boilers every year. When Dr. Radforth visited Moscow early in 1958, he was astonished by the 1,000 students and 400 scientists — many skilled in both engineering and botany — working at the Peat Institute. All the researchers were in the middle of a vast wasteplain of melting muskeg. For 100 miles across the plain, oil rigs, pipe, fuel, chemicals, trucks, trailers and tractors bogged down hopelessly. They had to be there till the autumn freezeup.

The high cost of muskeg has often made it more economical to abandon machinery than to salvage it. During the construction of the Quebec North Shore and Labrador Railway, haulage companies over the winter muskeg were found to be just about as high as the cost of charter aircraft. In fact, western oil companies find that airlifting is the only economical way of keeping some muskeg-surrounded rigs in business.

But the muskeg doesn't always win. The Patricia Transportation Co. Ltd. hauled 28,000 tons of material from Pickle Crow Portage to Moak Lake, 400 miles north of Winnipeg, in the winter of 1957. The entire route was rushed north for International Nickel Co. of Canada Ltd. to get started in its development of big nickel resources in the area.

Bell Telephone Company faced the same kind of muskeg problem during the construction of the 900-mile radar line in 1955. A winter tractor train was the only way of getting into the area. The water on the bay was too shallow to allow ships to approach. In winter, during the summer, an airstrip couldn't be built until some access was secured.

Licking Canada's muskeg problem calls for vehicles which can travel over surfaces which wouldn't even support a man walking.

"Centipede" (above) which went into service this fall as a supply vehicle for Imperial Oil exploration parties operating in muskeg country, spreads its weight—and that of a load of up to eight tons — on two jointed surfaces which move along on tracks 42 inches wide. Alex Hemstock (left) and Dr. Harold White of Imperial's research laboratory in Calgary stand beside a recording instrument which has been mounted on the "Centipede" for field tests.

Imperial's hopes at the moment are pinned on a vehicle called the Muskeg Ox. It will weigh more than 20 tons and will carry 15 tons. With the gross weight spread over tracks totalling 10 feet in width, the track pressure will be only about two pounds per square inch. Although it is destined primarily to carry oil well drilling equipment over muskeg, the Muskeg Ox could become an important means of transportation for all types of equipment — if it's successful.

of muskeg at any time of year.

"In some ways," says Alex Hemstock, "our vehicle development activities are putting the cart before the horse. We still don't know enough about muskeg itself. This work falls within the framework of a new science called 'terra-dynamics' — a study of the relation of terrain to vehicle. There's much to learn before this science can be used to the full in northern projects. But the success of any new vehicles suggests we're on the right track."

Hemstock, who has been working on these problems since 1953, talks like a realist about muskeg, but he reveals the thinking of an idealist when he gets talking about Canada's north. He sees a clear relationship between the conquest of muskeg and eventual realization of the dream of a populated and developed northern territory.

"Ten to fifteen years from now," he says, "we'll be travelling through that muskeg in machines as a matter of course. And when that time comes, you can watch for the development of agriculture and forestry in muskeg areas that today are considered waste land."

Hemstock sees Canada being literally forced into muskeg development. He points to the land around into the north; and muskeg is the frontier. "It won't happen for a while," he says, "because we've still got quite a bit of non-muskeg development to do. But after that . . ."

Although the conquest of muskeg is considered the essential first step toward northern development, many look beyond this stage to the time when it's just as important — stage when oil is discovered in islands in the far north. Once that happens, he theorizes, Canadians will see the development of the far northern ports, served by muskeg-crossing railroads and freighters navigating under the ice for thousands of miles. Last year's cruise of the U.S. atomic submarine Nautilus proved the feasibility of navigation under the ice and meanwhile the British have been working on an enormous submarine tanker.

When muskeg is conquered, they say, it will be the ideal production to provide most of its own food supplies. At Norman Wells, 20 miles from the Arctic Circle, crops such as potatoes, oats, barley and wild cranberries already grow — some of them flowering earlier than those in Alberta because of the long days of sunshine. Control of the muskeg would also remove residents the use of the ener-

Court Is Told Of Peterborough Mountie's Death

GRAND FALLS, Nfld (CP) — The details of a 12-hour gun battle that resulted in the death of RCMP Constable Terry Hoey of Peterborough, Ont., unfolded here Wednesday.

Ten witnesses took the stand to testify in a preliminary inquiry into the officer's death and the death of two Chinese Canadians.

RCMP evidence told of Constable Hoey and Const. A. A. Nowen going to a restaurant at nearby Botwood to investigate a complaint that the owner, James Ling, 52, had barricaded himself inside.

Grocer Harry Fong, a friend of Ling, testified that Ling had barricaded himself in the building on several occasions previously. He said Ling had attempted suicide in St. John's in 1948.

Fong said his friend had many worries — before the incident boys and sailors had "tormented him." And more recently the department of health closed the kitchen.

When the two constables entered the building Const. Hoey was shot through a closed door. Police engaged in the gun battle and tried to bring Ling from the restaurant by throwing tear gas bombs.

During the battle the building caught fire. When police finally gained entrance they found Ling and his 21-year-old son dead.

It is believed Ling died as a result of the fire. Unofficial reports said his son had been dead several days. Before the inquiry opened an RCMP official said it was "highly unlikely" that the gas bombs would touch off a fire.

The inquiry is continuing.

Eight New York Papers Suspend Publication

NEW YORK (AP) — Presses of New York's major daily newspapers were stilled today as the papers discontinued publication in the face of a strike by their deliverymen.

Last to call off efforts to keep limited publication going were the five afternoon papers published in Manhattan and Queens. They were The World-Telegram and Sun, The Journal-American, The Post and the Long Island Press and Long Island Star-Journal.

Earlier, The Daily News, a morning paper, skipped all editions after composing room workers defied their union president and refused to cross picket lines.

Two other morning papers, The Times and The Herald Tribune, suspended publication after their final editions were out.

The lone remaining morning paper, The Mirror, did not announce its plans immediately but was expected to follow the lead of the others.

Legislation Planned to Create National Crop Insurance and Better Farm Credit System

OTTAWA (CP)—Plans to give only to persons earning in the Canadian economy a shot in the arm are under study as the federal government considers legislation aimed at greater employment and production.

Measures to combat winter unemployment, to help farmers achieve a greater return for their labor and to assist Canadian industry in highly competitive world markets are to be brought before Parliament when it meets about mid-January.

Agriculture Minister Harkness has said he plans legislation to create national crop insurance and an improved system of farm credit.

It is understood the crop insurance would be available to all farmers with premiums paid by the farmers with some federal and provincial government assistance. The farm credit program may be expanded to make it easier for farmers to get bigger loans, perhaps on easier terms, to enlarge their farms or make them more productive, or to relocate away from sub-marginal lands.

In the field of foreign trade, Canadian exporters may get some help in the way of long-term loans to help purchasers abroad finance the goods they buy from this country.

Authorities say legislation involving large-scale revision of the Export Credits Insurance Corporation likely will be brought before Parliament. The plan might include more agricultural products, such as wheat, as well as capital goods but it would not likely cover consumer goods.

A long - term lending scheme would attempt to give Canada a share of markets that cannot afford to pay cash for big orders. Its effect might be to stimulate production at home and keep men working instead of where this is right not be the case otherwise.

Also on the agenda for action by the government likely will boost tariffs on imports of wool cloth from Italy. Action has been asked to ratify a new Canada-Russia trade treaty, now being negotiated.

Two new categories of unemployment insurance benefits are expected to be proposed. They would provide maximum benefits of $33 and $36 weekly but would

Pearson Thinks Railway Subsidy May Be Planned

WINNIPEG (CP) — Liberal Leader Lester B. Pearson speculated Wednesday night that the federal government might introduce a subsidy to the railways to combat inequities of the freight rate structure.

He was commenting in a public address on government announcements from Ottawa that the Conservatives have a plan to help shift remote parts of the freight rate burden from the Prairie and Maritimes provinces.

"Why didn't they do that three or four weeks ago before they decided to approve a 17-per-cent freight rate increase?" Mr. Pearson asked.

He was speaking in support of Anton Wesolig, Liberal candidate in the Dec. 15 federal election in Springfield. About 85 persons turned out to the meeting.

Mr. Pearson said Liberals opposed the freight rate increase, arguing that it should complete the investigation of all transportation facilities. He said a short-term grant should be made available to the railways while the investigation was in progress.

GRAND MARAIS, Man. (CP)— Pearson be reported later in parliament, said Wednesday that the board of transport commissioners should not have considered railway workers' wage demands while studying requests for freight rate increases.

He told a public meeting here the board also should not have considered the Maritimes' freight rate boosts only on the basis of freight revenue. The company's other sources of revenue — transport trucks, hotels, steamships and land investments — had resulted from rights granted by the state, he said, in an agreement to keep rail rates down.

Mr. Argue was speaking in support of Jake Schuh, CCF candidate in the Dec. 15 federal by-election in Springfield. About 30 persons attended the meeting.

Frost Says Nobody Interested In Public Ownership of Gas

TORONTO (CP) — Premier Frost says the province will stay out of the gas business because Ontario municipalities have shown little interest in participating in natural gas distribution.

Generally, municipalities have agreed over their gas distribution systems to private corporations, the Ontario Municipal Association Wednesday.

The premier made his remarks after a resolution at the association's convention on the province's government to study the merits of public ownership of natural gas.

"For such a plan as has been advanced here," he said, "you would have to acquire municipal participation and we just don't have it.

"I think this is one case where Ontario should stand or we will find ourselves caught in the middle of something we don't want any part of."

Mr. Frost said he believes municipalities have not indicated a desire to control gas locally because it would compete with other types of fuel sold in the municipality by private citizens.

The association's resolution suggested public ownership might "remove gas from politics."

It would enhance employment opportunities for his own Hamilton-based firm, he said.

Mr. Bradley estimated that construction equipment by the Hamilton-harvester plant would be increased by about $5,000,000 in 1959, Cobb, Chatham, now employing about 300, would be increased to about 500 workers.

For the last four years, the company had been operating at 40 per cent of capacity, shutting down every 40 days a year.

This situation now would be eliminated.

The new truck production was part of an $8,500,000 expansion program. Other products planned include cat-wheel tractors principally for the U.S. market; a new type of farm combine; a new line of seeding equipment and other agricultural equipment.

Mr. Bradley said the subsidiary International Harvester of Canada is competing against its own U.S. parent company for a share of the U.S. market, in his four years in Canada, the company had spent $13,000,000 for expansion purposes.

In these years, the company expected to increase its share of the U.S. market to some $27,000,000 from its present $13,000,000.

Mr. Bradley said the new Canadian product would be sold "because our shareholders want us to be good Canadians." But there was no indication that the subsidiary would allow its shares to be purchased by Canadians.

Canadian Firm Plans to Build Diesel Trucks

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada will start producing a new line of heavy diesel trucks next year, reducing imports from the United States and switching several millions of dollars worth of trade to Britain.

Federal spokesmen said this was an example of the kind of trade mission to Britain last year.

In a $5,000,000 switch, which it is estimated will create some 575 jobs, the International Harvester Company of Canada today announced it will turn out seven models of the new trucks at its Hamilton plant, powering them with Rolls - Royce engines imported from Britain. Sheet metal work will be done at Chatham.

Harvester previously imported some 250 of the trucks from its parent company in the U.S. at a cost of about $5,000,000 a year. Under the new plan, the company will set up production in Canada with the idea of building up a bigger market in Canada and possibly expanding into Commonwealth countries under the preferential tariff system.

Harvester President R. H. Bardley, 53 - year - old Oklahoma native who has been with the firm for four years, said Rolls-Royce has agreed, after months of negotiations, to set up a factory in Britain and ship them to Hamilton. Opening of the St. Lawrence Seaway would cut delivery costs.

R. M. Kendall, general manager of Rolls-Royce of Canada, Montreal, congratulated the Canadian market important. Selling engines in the Commonwealth would enhance employment opportunities for his own company, he said.

Mr. Bradley estimated that construction equipment by the Hamilton-harvester plant would be increased by about $5,000,000 in 1959, Cobb, Chatham, now employing about 300, would be increased to about 500 workers.

Violence-Ridden Dispute Between Turks and Greeks In Cyprus Is Britain's Baby

LONDON (CP) — Since the Second World War, some Britons have complained that their country has been consigned to a back seat in international councils, yielding too many of its diplomatic responsibilities to the United States.

The problems of Cyprus offer them a wry measure of consolation.

It is tacitly recognized by the great powers that the violence-ridden dispute between the Greek and Turkish residents of the Mediterranean island colony is Britain's baby.

To the foreign office, the baby is growing into an almost unmanageable delinquent.

When Greek Cypriot students first rioted four years ago in support of the transfer of the island to Greek sovereignty, the British government treated the matter as a colonial affair. But it was evident long before Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd formally took charge of the problem last June that the roots of the trouble lay far beyond the jurisdiction of the Colonial Office.

Although Cyprus was ceded to Britain in 1878 by Turkey, which had held it for three centuries, 80 per cent of the residents are of Greek origin. They lived peacefully enough with their Turkish neighbors until Greek nationalism — the irredentism on the mainland became the fad — poisoned the atmosphere.

The Greek government, newly liberated from German occupation and faced by the threat of Communist subversion, espoused the cause of the Greek Cypriots with popular results. It was a popular cause to them active encouragement.

Turkey's counter - claims also were pressed for political reasons, reinforced by strategic factors. The island lies only 40 miles off the Turkish coast and Turkey has always insisted that Turks feared that the passing of the British would be followed by what leaves them virtually isolated from the West if Athens and Nicosia fall under Communist influence.

Britain's military interest in Cyprus was a diminishing one. Its Middle East headquarters has become obsolete. Even in an age of intercontinental missiles and jet aircraft, Lloyd's chief dilemma lies in the fact that the British withdrawal would result in war between two fellow-members of the North Atlantic alliance.

Terrorist activities by both Greek and Turkish Cypriots have aggravated the situation, shedding the blood of British soldiers and civilians as well as Cypriots of both races. More lives were lost as the troops stepped up their campaign against the terrorists.

British policy has steered clear of offering any long-term plan for the island's status, arguing that no political solution is possible while violence continues. But the resulting uncertainty has bred more violence.

Occasionally both sides have indicated a willingness to bargain. The Greek Cypriot leader, Archbishop Makarios, offered to drop his demand for immediate Greek sovereignty in favor of self-determination with eventual United Nations supervision governing any future change of rule.

The Turks, whose proposal to divide the island into equal Greek and Turkish sectors met with violent opposition, have indicated their willingness to reconsider it. They also have indicated their willingness to renounce partition.

Most of the other major problems facing the foreign office appear to be in negotiations with the Western alliance — those arising from the cold war or aggravated by it.

Anglo - American differences have by no means been papered over by the Eisenhower - Macmillan meetings in Washington. The great rift over Suez was sealed when President Eisenhower sent to Jordan simultaneously with the dispatch of British troops to Amman in the wake of the coup that ousted the pro-Western government there.

There were no noticeable disagreements over Lloyd's demand for evacuation of West Berlin, with the U.S., British and French governments standing by their determination to stay put. But British misgivings were as to the degree of support of Chiang Kai-shek's garrison on the offshore islands of Formosa, regarded as the crisis between the two states slackened somewhat.

Disarmament negotiations dragged on at Geneva with simultaneous conferences seeking agreements to end nuclear tests and to provide inspection machinery to guard against surprise attack. There were no prospects, of early success.

Diefenbaker Gets Free Day To Fish or Loaf

WAIRAKEI, New Zealand (CP) — A 250-mile drive through some of New Zealand's most spectacular scenery today brought Prime Minister Diefenbaker to this hot springs region for 24½ days of rest.

The Canadian leader, in ardent fisherman, would not even commit himself in advance to a fishing outing on the New Year's nearby Lake Taupo.

"I have only 24½ days of world travel, he asked that Friday be left free for him to decide on the spur of the moment whether he will fish, go sightseeing or simply rest at Lake Taupo hot springs bath, or simply rest.

PRIME MINISTER

On the drive from Wellington Diefenbaker literally found himself in the lap of luxury when he stopped for lunch in the officers mess at the New Zealand Air Force base at Ohakea.

The feature of the menu was Crevic Diefenbaker Supreme—creamed asparagus soup with crayfish.

"The one position a politician doesn't want to be in," he said in a brief thank you speech.

STOP FOR SWEETS

At the market town of Taihape Diefenbaker stopped the car and chatted with school children and newspapers in local shops. He bought a box of chocolate creche at a town square surrounded by flower gardens.

The party spent on across the sandy wastes of the Onetape Desert but clouds blocked a view of 7,500-foot Mount Ngauruhoe, the country's only active volcano.

The outlook for fishing Friday was dim. A drizzling rain threatened to continue for another day.

Kassem Walking Tightrope In Dealing With Many Forces

By JOSEPH MACSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Premier Abdel-Karim Kassem's crackdown against alleged plotters in Iraq rumbles again at a background of confusion, possible conflict between communism and Arab nationalism, and strained "neutrality."

Many warring influences—all explosive—have been at work in Iraq since the overthrow of pro-Western government and took control in a military coup last July.

Some of these probably arose from the conflicting ideologies well known in Middle East countries, jealousies and struggles and jealousies that Kassem must face to stay alive.

WHERE HE STANDS

But it's apparent that Kassem's current action has far wider impact and is to the cold war, the struggle between Western and Communist blocs and Arab nationalism.

Kassem has often been pictured as a sincere advocate of a truly independent Iraq, balancing outside forces. But recent reports have told of a strong Communist buildup in the country's armed forces.

Kassem also has consistently expressed friendship for President Nasser of Egypt, United Arab Republic but he has pointedly vetoed suggestions that might bring him and his country under Nasser's sway, as happened to Syria.

DANGEROUS GAME

Nasser admirers in Iraq were thwarted last month in an attempt to oust Kassem. Arab Reds backed Kassem in beating the would-be coup. Nasserite Col. Abdel Salam Aref, fellow-revolutionary and former deputy of Kassem, was arrested and awaits trial on a charge of conspiring against the state.

Some Middle East experts say Kassem's apparent shift leftward is nothing but a temporary move —they say he is allowing Russia and its satellites to offset the West's old grip on the country. They describe this as a natural sequel to the July revolt.

In this thinking, Kassem is walking a tightrope between opposing forces, while trying to give an impression of neutrality to the West, whose support he comes from. This, observers concede, is a dangerous game.

NASSER'S FEARS

Nasser, for his part, is said to be disturbed at the event of Communist grip in Iraq. He fears that it will interfere with his own plans for a pan-Arab state.

Kassem — heavily dependent on oil royalties — has maintained good relations with the Iraq Petroleum Company, owned jointly by a group of U.S., British, Dutch and French firms.

He has balanced this by accepting Russian jet fighters, tanks and other arms as well as signing full - scale trade pacts with Russia, East Germany and Yugoslavia.

Forgets Purse, Then Her Son, Retrieves Both

WASHINGTON (AP)—Christmas shopping is frustrating even if you never enter a store.

Mrs. Dorothy Moore and son Dale, 8, stepped from a bus. As it pulled away, Mrs. Moore realized she had left her purse—with $100—on the vehicle. She raced after it and finally caught it with the help of a police officer. She retrieved her money.

Then she remembered her son, left eight blocks behind. Back she hurried, running where she could, walking when traffic was too heavy. She finally reached Dale, window shopping where she'd left him.

"I was so glad to see him I was no good after that," said Mrs. Moore. "We just took the next bus home."

Milk Surplus Talk Nonsense Says H. Arnold

ATWWOOD, Ont. (CP) Less than two per cent of all milk produced in Canada is in surplus and is available for consumption, Hector Arnold, of Campbellford, said at a meeting here yesterday. He was guest speaker at the annual meeting of Perth County Milk Producers and Cheese Producers Association.

Mr. Arnold, of the Ontario Cheese Producers Association and chairman of the Ontario Milk Board, said talk of a milk surplus is nonsense.

"But some of it does get into the wrong channels."

This has been a record-breaking year for the Canadian cheddar cheese industry, Mr. Arnold said. "There is no reason to doubt prices will be as good next year as they are this year, and predicted that exports will increase substantially."

He said that the 1958 pounds of surplus cheese from 1958 has been shipped down to about 2,-500,000 pounds, and the government has only about $1,250,000 in the support account.

Said: "It is not true Canada is losing her export market for cheese he said, explaining that about 19,000,000 pounds were exported this year.

Unusual Political Activity Among Two Older Parties And Possible New One Seen

OTTAWA (CP)—A degree of political activity unusually high for a general election year seems likely in 1959.

The political atmosphere will be a blend of three elements that emerged during 1958 after the Progressive Conservatives swept to the biggest Commons majority in history.

The first of these is an intensive campaign by the Conservatives to consolidate the gains, particularly in Quebec, made since the electoral sweep to keep the party machinery well-oiled.

The Liberals, checked only briefly by their fresh leader Lester B. Pearson called the "temporary alert" on March 31, are out to apply the lesson politicians say it taught—the need for vital grass-roots organization.

The final ingredient came from the political stirrings of a new political movement of the left which the CCF and Canadian Labor Congress hope will result in the formation of a new party.

The election left the Liberals strength in the Commons leap to 208 members from 113, while the Liberals dropped to 48 from 106 and the CCF to eight from 25.

The Conservatives have built an executive meeting and a national convention in the offing, the former probably during the parliamentary session that starts about mid-January and the convention next fall.

Party officials say they expect to be firmly entrenched in most federal constituencies by the time the convention opens. This will serve the double purpose of keeping the Liberal organization on its toes and lending support to provincial conservatives who may face elections in British Columbia, Alberta, Saskatchewan, Manitoba and Ontario.

A consolidation of Quebec Conservatives under the Progressive Conservative Association is in the making for 1959. Sources say the party's aim is to remain strictly in the federal field without engaging in provincial politics.

After their stunning election defeat, the Liberals started to regroup. Mr. Pearson went on a speaking tour that covered all regions and the national advisory council of the Liberal party met here to plan a reorganization that goes into effect in 1959.

The new Liberal president,

Maj-Gen. A. Bruce Matthews, a Toronto financier, begins a concentrated period of reorganization during an Ottawa visit planned for early in the New Year.

A new director for the party's Quebec wing also is to be appointed along with an information officer.

After the work of building at the constituency level will be completed, the party will begin again during the advisory council meeting here in December, 1959.

The party, Mr. Pearson said, would be "built from the bottom up." Each member must be given a chance to participate.

Social Credit whose 19-member Commons representation in 1957 was wiped out in the March election remained relatively inactive in 1958.

In December the party's national leader, Solon Low, was named a two-man committee to prepare for a national leadership convention before June 1960. Low succeeded Solon Low to continue as national leader after Low had ordered his resignation following the election.

The two - man committee also was charged with organizing at the federal constituency level.

Gerald Baldwin, a joint CCF - CLC committee headed by Stanley Knowles, MP for Winnipeg North and vice-president of both bodies, expects to speak sometime next year on discussion of a new party.

The committee is distributing a questionnaire on labor problems through both bodies to stimulate discussion on ways of improving labor, the CCF, the farm unions and small-business.

Mr. Knowles, the committee hopes to come up with firm plans to recommend to the CCF convention in 1960 and a CCF convention later the same year.

225 United Soldiers Criticize 22 Other Students Who Quit over Crowe Case

WINNIPEG (CP)—The controversy over an intercepted personal letter and firing of history professor John Crowe at provincial university has produced a petition to boil at United College today amid increasing demand for a judicial inquiry.

About 225 students have signed a statement criticizing the action of they remain loyal to the college and its principles and desire that justice be done.

The statement criticized 22 other students for the action of they were transferring to the University of Manitoba in protest over the Crowe dismissal.

IS IN PROTEST MARCH

Meanwhile, 48 other students staged an orderly protest march to the Manitoba legislative building where premier Duff Roblin is being held to mark the 10th anniversary of the universal declaration of human rights.

Prof. Crowe claims the college board of governors committed a breach of a fundamental human right by using the contents of the letter as the confidential letter to his detriment.

He was dismissed in September after the letter, written to a colleague while Prof. Crowe was on leave of absence, was diverted anonymously into the possession of college president Dr. Lorne W C Lockhart.

SUPPORT PLEA FOR PROBE

Negotiations for a reconciliation broken down earlier this week. The board of governors will offer to reinstate Prof. Crowe.

Other developments Wednesday:

1. Twenty-five members of the United Church congregation supported a call issued by the board of regents for a judicial inquiry into the case. Allan H Watson, chairman of the board, said the United Church of Canada has been asked to throw its weight behind demands for such an inquiry.

The 25 faculty members said they did not believe there had been a breach of academic freedom in the dismissal of Prof. Crowe

2. Marion Martin, a lecturer in French, submitted her resignation, raising the number of members resigning in protest from the United College faculty to 15. Three resignations have been accepted by the board, effective April 31, 1959.

3. A meeting of 35 United College graduates called on the regents to make "public acknowledgement of their mistake in the case and formally ask the resigning professor to return." The alumni group does not represent the Official Graduates' Association which has yet to take any action.

A BREACH OF FAITH

4. In Fort William Rev. R S McLeod, president of Manitoba conference of the United Church, said he did not believe the board of regents broke a confidence in releasing the letter and its related statement offer which Prof. Crowe had written.

The professor and three colleagues took part in a recent television negotiations said there had been an agreement not to release the letter to newspaper sections.

Dr. McLeod, who acted as mediator, said he took the board's final proposal to Prof. Crowe last Saturday.

Dr. McLeod said "it was my understanding with the representatives of the board of regents that their final proposals would be made on Monday evening, if they were rejected and conversations ended, they would be considered no longer in confidence."

He said he told Prof. Crowe this and said he planned to make a statement on the matter. Professor Crowe asked and Dr. McLeod said he decided against making a public statement.

The board of regents' statement of the final proposal to Prof. Crowe, Dr. McLeod said, was "clear and correct."

After hearing Dr. McLeod's statement, Prof. Crowe said "Dr. McLeod did not indicate to me in any way that the board proposed to make public its ultimatum."

Trenton Flyers Win Second Game of Season

TRENTON The Flyers, Trenton's entry in the Eastern Ontario Intermediate "A" League, won their second game of the season, last night when they downed the visiting Minden Monarchs 7-4 in a game at the Community Centre at which only 34 paid admission.

Happy with their victory but very disappointed with the turnout of fans, some members of the team felt the public had not been informed the rink was now heated and they can watch future games in comfort. It was also felt that many fans stayed home to watch the Archie Moore-Yvon Durelle champion-ship fight on TV and contented themselves with phone calls to the rink in keeping a check on the game's score.

The home team showed considerable improvement over their last game at home and gave their smaller goalie the support he has badly needed in the past games.

During the final frame of the game last night the Flyers lived up to their name and fairly zoomed up the ice" but failed to score until the dying minutes of the game.

With the game 5-4 in favor of the home club and with only one-minute left to play the manager of the Monarchs pulled out the goalie in favor of another forward. With the face-off deep in the Trenton end and to the left of goalie Carr, young Gillis shot high into the air from around centre ice which landed in pack deed centre between the posts of the empty goal, at 19.11 From the face-off Lewis broke loose with the disc and rushing in on the goalkeeper rolled the mol in a beautiful shot at 19.30 to give the Flyers their 7-4 victory.

There were 26 shots on the Trenton goal compared with 46 on the Minden net-minder.

Referees were Mike Bain and Corn Goyer.

The race-track bettor is a privileged character and should be given every comfort and consideration, says the Ontario Jockey Club. The OJC is doing something about it.

Next year the ground floor of the suburban Toronto New Woodbine clubhouse and general admission stands will be enclosed in glass to provide protection against possible freezing weather for the early spring and fall autumn meetings.

OJC officials, jubilant over its most successful year in history, decided on the glass protection after the 1958 season ended Nov. 20. The track is situated in Malton, about 25 miles northwest from downtown Toronto.

It stands out alone in a vast, almost-treeless acreage, and is an easy mark for bone-rattling early-winter blasts.

The 196-day season attracted 1,697,231 spectators who poured $33,498,483 through the mutuels. The previous records were set in 1957 when 188 days of thoroughbred racing drew 1,497,195 spectators and total wagering was $73,460,319.

HARD TO REPLACE

It's almost axiomatic in sport that when you let an established player go to a rival club he consistently beats your brains out. The situation seems to work in reverse for this season. But have you noticed Canadiens haven't yet found an adequate replacement for the lanky winger from Scepter, Sask.?

Coach Toe Blake of Canadiens has experimented with Rookie Ab McDonald, Rookie Ralph Backstrom, tough little Marcel Bonin and also, by means of breaking up a line, Andre Proovost.

The net result has been that Blake is still looking. His latest move was to send McDonald back to the leftwing spot, working with Jean Beliveau and Bernie (Boom) Geoffrion. Much had been expected of McDonald, a tall, angular and husky boy, but he is still to produce acceptably. Montreal fans have started to get down on him. Before he since Canadiens let Bonin go to Rochester of the American Hockey League. His stay there is supposed to be limited.

Thus, while Olmstead isn't pulling the puck into the net against his former mates, that spot he vacated still has a vacant look about it. Olmstead was the feeder for Beliveau and Geoffrion, the man who could get into the corners, dig out the puck and whip it to either of the two blistering shot artists.

In his last two seasons or so with Canadiens Olmstead was bothered with a gimpy knee. It's a safe bet that at the moment Canadiens would welcome anybody of Olmstead's calibre, even with two gimpy knees.

INJURY GRIEF

Player injuries of any kind can cause lots of grief to a coach and his club, to say nothing of the fellows injured. This season Boston Bruins have been hard hit. Both defenceman Doug Mohns and Centre Bronco Horvath have been sidelined with fractured jaws. Doug Harvey, all - star Montreal defenceman, was out with a serious ankle injury.

The matter of injuries has prompted the great Art Ross, now in retirement in Boston, to come out with a suggestion aimed at curbing serious injuries. Ross as an outstanding player in his day and later headed the top brass of the Bruins for years.

Ross' suggestion is this: Side-line the player who caused the injury. Keep him out of the game until the injured player returns.

If Ross' suggestion was followed, Bob Pulford of the Leafs would be out. It was his elbow—it is claimed the Leafs were wearing a larred type of shoulder pad—that broke Mohns' jaw.

"But the NHL will never adopt the plan," said Ross. "I've advocated it for years to keep down stick-high slashing.

"The penalties haven't been severe enough. If you cross-check a man in the face, breaking his nose, and that man is out for two weeks, the player inflicting the penalty should not be permitted to play for the same length of time."

Further, Ross declares elbow pads are to protect a player falling to the ice. They are not to be used as a weapon on referee.

Bombers Finished In the Black

WINNIPEG (CP) — The Grey Cup champion Winnipeg Blue Bombers operated for an estimated surplus of $15,022 for the 1958 Western Interprovincial Football Union season.

In his report to the club's annual meeting Wednesday night, Gordon Lawson, club vice-president and chairman of the budget committee, said some of the figures are estimated as final totals are not in from WIFU and Grey Cup playoffs.

The club's estimated total revenue $592,961 as against record-high expenses of $577,939. Last year Bombers, then Grey Cup finalists, showed an estimated loss of $11,656. Lawson reported Wednesday night that the final figure for 1957 deficit was $12,837.

Operation of the team, which included salaries, bonuses, travelling, training, hospital, and away games outlay, was the largest expenditure. It hit an all-time high of $423,936—$9,440 above last year.

Home-park rental — for league games only—added another $65,256 in expenses.

Western Club In the Red

VANCOUVER (CP) — Coley Hall, manager of Vancouver Canucks, says New Westminster Royals aren't the only Western Hockey League club with financial troubles.

He said Tuesday attendance at Canuck games is down 20 per cent from last year.

"But I feel we'll recover some of the loss by the end of the season."

Hal Laycoe, general manager of the Royals, said Monday his club is headed for an estimated $30,190 loss this season.

Hall placed most of the blame for the decline on football. "Everyone's been talking and thinking football since June," he said. Lack of a "color guy" in the league's Coast Division was another reason for the recession.

Hall said that if the Canucks lose money, it will be the first time since he started operating the club in 1945.

WHL president Al Leader said after interview from Seattle that the picture isn't as bleak as it has been painted.

"There's an over-all increase of 2,681 paid admissions for the first 74 league games," he said.

Sugar Ray Gets 'Fabulous' London Offer

LONDON (AP) — Middleweight champion Sugar Ray Robinson has been cabled a "fabulous" offer to defend his title against Britain's Terry Downes in London next summer.

The offer, believed to be around $150,000 was tendered Wednesday by British fight promoter Jack Solomons. Solomons promoted Tuesday night's bout in which Spider Webb of Chicago stopped Downes in eight rounds.

In New York, George Gainford, Robinson's representative, said: "If Sugar fights next year, he might be receptive to such an offer. We will consider all offers and $150,000 is in the right neighborhood."

Robinson has been idle since last March when he regained the crown from Carmen Basilio in Chicago on a 15-round decision.

Solomons seemed to be paying little attention to Downes' loss. The referee stopped the bout after eight rounds with the British champion bleeding freely from eye cuts.

"If Robinson will defend his title again Downes, then I am confident Downes will not only beat him, but stop him," said "Downes was ahead on points when his eye was cut in the seventh round."

Solomons said he would like to arrange the match for outdoors in June—either at Wembley or Twickenham. Both places hold about 60,000.

BOXERS FINED

ROME (AP)—Two leading Italian boxers have been fined $1,000 each for allegedly failing to do their best in a title bout. The two-Italian middleweight champion Italo Scortichini and challenger Giacarlo Garbelli — met for the Italian title in Milan Nov. 29.

McGILL SWAMPED

MONTREAL (CP) — University of Montreal Carabins fired 43 shots at McGill goalie Alex Herron and got 13 past him to blank the Redmen 13-0 Wednesday night in a Senior Intercollegiate Hockey League game. Marcel Landreville scored four goals. The Redmen were so thoroughly outplayed that they managed only 10 shots at Carabins goalie Pierre Schooner.

Eastern Senior A League Scoring Statistics

Whitby centre Bobby Attersley, held to four assists during the past week, hung onto first place in the O.H.A. Eastern Ontario Senior "A" scoring race but saw his lead shrink as teammate Sid Smith and Belleville's Ike Hildebrand narrowed the gap.

Attersley leads the loop in points with 41 and in assists with 27. Whitby coach Smith is second with 34 points, including a top mark of 18 goals, while Belleville coach Hildebrand is third with 33 points. Hildebrand had six goals and two assists during the week, while Smith had two goals and five helpers.

Kingston's line of Savard, Maxwell and Garnon follow in the next three spots, Savard with 29 points and the other pair with 28 each. Belleville McFarlands hold five of the positions in the top ten while Kingston has three and Whitby the remaining two. Hull and Cornwall are not represented.

In the goalies' race Whitby's John Henderson is still tops with a 2.73 average in 22 games. Belleville's Gordie Bell has taken over the runner-up spot with a 3.54 average in 26 games and leads in shutouts with two.

Defenceman Vigor Gendron of Kingston has compiled 65 minutes in penalties to top the badmen.

In the Dressing Room

By JOHN YORSTON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP) — Archie Moore sat in his dressing room Wednesday night, his benign exterior belying the blood-curdling battle he'd just been through to retain his world light - heavyweight boxing crown.

Down three times in the first round—though only two were official knockdowns—and once in the fifth in his brawl with Canada's Yvon Durelle, the champ sat unruffled and grinning.

"No, I'm not tired," said the old ring magician who knocked out the husky fisherman in the 11th round, "but he's a very strong man. He hurt me every time he hit me."

HIT HARD EACH TIME

Moore, who is somewhere in his 40s, said each of four knockdowns he took was legitimate — "He caught me clean every time he caught me."

The champ said he'd be willing to meet Durelle, 30, again. He said he would also like a crack at heavyweight king Floyd Patterson.

"A return match here in the summer, at the ball park, would be a great draw," said Moore's manager, Jack (Doc) Kearns. "It would be another great fight. Durelle's a good, game kid."

Moore talked calmly and quietly, his voice sometimes hard to hear above the hubub of shouting photographers and radio and newspaper men jostling for position.

ROCKE UNTIL FOURTH

"I knew I had him after the fourth round," said Moore, "but before that I was awfully rocky.

"Durelle is one of the very top light-heavyweights I have ever fought. I have to feel sorry he lost.

"But of course I have to look out for myself," he hastily added.

On the other side of the ropes, Durelle's dressing room was almost as chaotic, although the fisherman's sobbing put the damper on newspaper men and sympathizers.

"I was trying too hard, that was my mistake.

His co-managers — Chris Shaban of Moncton, N.B. and Lew Myers of New York—hesitated to discuss a return match.

NOT SCARED

But Durelle chimed in: "I wasn't scared tonight. I'd be less scared if I were to meet him again."

Did he think he had Moore after the first round?

"I was never sure of anything of that sort. He was really smart in that round. He covered himself so well right after coming back after each count that I never had a chance for a follow-through after my best blows."

Three Talk Pro Contracts With Kramer

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP) Three of Europe's leading Davis Cup players are talking professional tennis contracts with promoter Jack Kramer and several others are reported ready to forsake the play-for-fun ranks.

"If I signed everybody who is anxious to join the pros I'm afraid Davis Cup competition would be just a skeleton," Kramer said today. Talking contracts are Ulf Schmidt of Sweden, Orlando Sirola of Italy and Jackie Brichant of Belgium.

"I have told them all and others who have approached me on the subject that I can assure them of around $50,000 a year, much more than they are making now," said Kramer. "But I can't give them contracts and guarantees such as I have given Pancho Gonzales, Lew Hoad and Ken Rosewall in the past. My commitments are too big."

Kramer recently added Australia's Mervyn Rose to his cast and announced plans to sign this country's Davis Cup aces, Ashley Cooper and Mal Anderson.

SWIACKS MAY QUIT

LOS ANGELES (AP) — End coach Bill Swiacki, credited with much of the success of rookie end Jim Phillips, said Wednesday his business interest in Southbridge, Mass., may force him to quit Los Angeles Rams next year. Swiacki, who owns an insurance, investment and real estate office, is a former head coach of Toronto Argonauts in the Big Four League.

'The Christmas Tree' Will Be First of Many for Season

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP) — Helen Deutsch says of her latest work, The Christmas Tree, that it is "a sort of Christmas bonbonniere, a pot-pourri of tinsel, candies and dreams."

The hour program, to be presented Sunday (at 7 p.m. EST) on NBC-TV by Hallmark Hall of Fame, is not a musical, drama or variety show. But it does combine a variety of music, drama, fantasy, sentiment and humor with a variety of talented performers—some of them, most appropriately at this season, on skates.

Also of these talented performers will be Carol Channing and Cyril Richard and they will appear in a number combining pantomime and song. Neither needs any introduction to the television audience.

But it does seem that Miss Channing, the tall, leggy blonde comedienne and singer, will introduce an element of great suspense into the show. For her appearance raises some breathless questions:

WILL SHE SKATE?

Will Carol Channing really be skating by Sunday? If she should fall, will she carry Richard with her? If they both fall, will both continue singing from the ice?

Miss Channing confessed that she hadn't been on skates in 21 years until last Monday.

By Tuesday she was being pushed about the ice. She had even discovered a convenient way of stopping by bumping into Richard without once knocking him down.

"During rehearsals," said Miss Channing, "Miss Deutsch often will become so excited as to come here. She doesn't seem to understand that I can't unless somebody gives me a push."

Leswick Charges Quakers With 'Cripple' Intent

EDMONTON (CP) — Tony Leswick, coach of Edmonton Flyers of the Western Hockey League, says Saskatoon Quakers "deliberately sought to cripple us" Saturday night in Saskatoon.

Flyers, Prairie Division leaders, won the game 3-2.

"I never thought," said Leswick, "that my old mentor, Frank Boucher, would resort to such tactics."

But I don't know what else to think after Ge inee injuries to Brian Smith and Eddie Diashuk, plus the head cuts to Don Pelle, Bud MacPharen and Myron Stankiewicz.

"Undoubtedly I'll hear plenty from Mr. Leader (Al Leader of Seattle, WHL president) but these accusations but I'm going to get them off my chest.

"I'm not sore games either because we won the game quite handily, 5-2," Lewick said.

At Saskatoon, Boucher, general manager and coach of the Quakers, said he may ask for Leswick's suspension.

Commenting on Leswick's statement that his remarks may result in a fine from Leader, Boucher said:

"If he doesn't hear from the president, I'm going to make sure that he does. And if he does not substantiate his charges—and I know he can't—I'm going to ask Mr. Leader to suspend him.

Boucher added that Leswick "has no business running around making loose statements on so serious a matter. I don't like it one bit and I don't think the president will like it either."

AT THE PARK — A scene from the adventure action sea epic "The Golden Hawk", in Technicolor, starring Sterling Hayden and Rhonda Fleming with a cast of thousands On the same program more action and adventure in Technicolor, "The Man From the Alamo", starring Glenn Ford, Julia Adams and Chill Wills. Both features open tonight at the Park Theatre.

AT THE McCARTHY — The spirit of Dunkirk is epitomized in this study of John Mills, portraying the heroic Corporal in "Dunkirk", telling the dramatic story of the evacuation of the British Expeditionary Force from France during World War 11. The Michael Balcon-Ealing production is released by MGM, opens today at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre.

AT THE BELLE — Flaming romance between Jean Wallace and Cornel Wilde is a counterpart to the flaming action in Paramount's Technicolor adventure, "Maracaibo", which opens today at the Belle Theatre. Abbe Lane and Francis Lederer co-star in the VistaVision thriller. Paramount's based-on-fact thriller, "When Hell Broke Loose", hitherto unrevealed story of the "Werewolves," and the plot that almost changed the course of history, is the companion feature attraction.

Alien 'Ban' Not Worrying Michigan Coach

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—Don Canham, coach of the University of Michigan's internationally-flavored track team isn't fretting about a proposal to bar aliens from U.S. National Collegiate Athletic Association meets.

"I don't think it has a chance of going through," said Canham, whose four best performers reside abroad.

Big Ten Conference coaches have mapped a recommendation that would keep foreign students out of NCA track and field championships. They still would be permitted to compete within their conferences.

The Big Ten's policy makers were to study the plan at their winter meeting which started Wednesday in Chicago with the idea of passing it along to the NCA. Michigan is a member of the Big Ten.

WOULDN'T CHANGE

Canham said approval by the national group would not force a change in his recruiting methods.

"Just because a kid is barred from the national collegiates doesn't bar him at Michigan," he said.

"Why should a student from Hawaii, 3,000 miles away, be eligible, while one from Canada, 40 miles away, not be able to compete?"

Canham expects to field a strong contender for both Big Ten and national honors in the coming indoor and outdoor seasons. His strong squad is spearheaded by Keles Landstrom, a 15-foot pole vaulter from Finland, Pete Stanger, the Big Ten outdoor champion in the 220-yard low hurdles from Montreal, Tom Robinson, a British Empire sprint champion from the Bahamas, and Tony Seth, an outstanding half - miler from British Guiana.

"I think this proposal is aimed at getting the Big Ten's age rule through to the NCA," Canham said. "It's aimed at such schools as Arizona State and Houston with 26- and 30-year - old athletes."

The age rule affects a foreign athlete by lopping off one year of eligibility for each year he competes after his 20th birthday.

"I would like to see the age rule put in force all over," said Canham. "And I have as many foreign athletes as anybody."

"But we shouldn't bar all of them. There are close to 2,000 foreign students at Michigan and it doesn't seem logical to bar those in good standing who are in the same age group as American students."

Northwestern's veteran coach Charles (But) Walter disclosed the proposal in Chicago Monday.

"It has gotten to be a joke the way some coaches are going out and recruiting overseas," Walter said. "We no longer have national championships — they are international . . . It has gotten so there are running boys who become back and beat us in the Olympics."

Variety Reports Sinatra Got The 'Treatment' at Miami

By BOB THOMAS

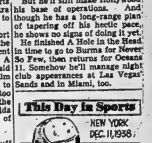
HOLLYWOOD (AP)— Reports to the contrary, Frank Sinatra loves Florida. He even plans to live there part of the year.

This is in the face of a report in Variety that Sinatra got the "treatment" during his recent visit to Miami Beach to film A Hole in the Head. It was said that the local press needled him by claiming he didn't want to work and had engaged in too much partying. Also that the film company had fled Florida after "an aborted two weeks of shooting."

Not so, says Frank.

"We got some wonderful stuff down there," he said. "The scenery is just fabulous and we've got a lot of it on film. I don't think it has ever been shown in a movie before.

"We came back to Hollywood early because we had finished nearly everything we wanted. The only thing left undone was a scene in a cafeteria. We didn't go through with it because we did not have enough crowd control."



Far from hating Florida, Sinatra wants to go back there. "I've got a couple of guys looking for a house for me there," he said. "In another two or three years, I'd like to slow down and arrange my schedule so I can spend at least two months of the year in Florida.

"I want just a small place like the one I have in Palm Springs, where I can turn the key and go away and leave it without a staff to keep it up."

But he'll still make Hollywood his base of operations. And though he has a long-range plan of tapering off his hectic pace, he shows no signs of doing it yet.

He finished A Hole in the Head in time to go to Burma for Never So Few, then returns for Oceans 11. Somehow he'll manage night club appearances at Las Vegas, Sands and in Miami, too.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

If you want to believe all the Chic Sales rumors that pop up from time to time, origin pool room, factory, corn crib, tavern and various news outlets, we will have a team representing Belleville and Canada at the world tourney that will make Casey's Army look like the ollio of Napoleon's guard.

Rumors spread faster than smallpox in an epidemic and some of them are so ludicrous and far-fetched they reek of a softening of the brain on the part of the originator.

Some of them are started just for the mere hell of it. We know a chap, who is a spirit of dare-devilry, and to prove his point that it could be done, whispered to a fellow worker that the Macs had signed Turk Broda as a spare goalie for the tournament trip.

"It less than a half hour," he said, "the whole department was humming with the news, and later I heard it from other parts of the plant, then went down town and heard it again from several sources. By the time the rumor got back to the starting point, it had Turk Broda taking over Ike Hildebrand's job as playing coach."

On the heels of the rumor that was started in a Cornwall newspaper to the effect that Hildebrand was on the way out, and which later was emphatically denied by the McFarland management, comes the story that Jim Thomson of New York Ranger fame and more recently coach of a Kingston senior club, was slated to take over the helm of the Macs' championship cruiser.

The most recent brainchild of Rumormongers Inc. is that Conny Smythe had left for Washington to confer about players. The only reason we can think of for the Macs' manager to go to the American capital would be to get John Foster Dulles to take a few days off from the club during their safari to various European capitals.

And those for whom the Bell tolls will get a huge gaffaw out of the telephoned query asking this department if it were true the Macs were after Eric Nesterenko. Any day now we can expect the query "Is there any truth in the rumor Toronto's Mayor Phillips is taking over Drury Denyes' job and will take the Macs to Turrop."

Stories that have a scintilla of truth in them that somehow leak out before being authorized by the powers-that-be, get the blow-up treatment along Rumor Row. They had Frank Baltgate taking over Wally Brabin's job as manager of the Kingston Memorials, while Baga Raglan was offered a fifty per cent cut in the St. Lawrence Seaway first-year take, if he would consent to don a Cornwall Chevies uniform.

Pete Conacher is slated for a job as flying wing, according to the Boys of Baxter Boulevard, while Mike Grahame, stellen star and pawn luminary of the Kitchener Dutchmen, turned down a half interest in the McFarland Construction Company rather than take a measly trip to Europe and probe the precincts of Prague in hockey battle.

Out west in the Okanagan Valley League, the Vernon Canadians have introduced a new player gimmick. He is named the "Masked Marvel" and wears a slitted black hood over his features. The gimmick is that he will unmask when he scores three goals in one game. So far in four outings he has failed to hit paydirt once, but the innovation is packing the faithful in the various arenas. How the official scorekeeper put him down on the official sheet is another question.

On the heels of this story came the suggestion from the Rumor Row Romeos hereabouts that the Macs obtain the services of Bobo Brazil and the Miller Brothers as a subdefence corps. Bobo could koko-bonk the Russians back into the steppes while the Millers could by mere chest expansion hurl back any European forwards with goat-getting ideas.

Funny boys!

The juiciest morsel today is that Jean Paul Lamirande has been called by the Montreal Canadiens to bolster the Habs defence corps. The truth of the matter is Lamirande was picked up on waiver by Providence for duty with the Washington of the International League. It is more than likely when the wrinkles are ironed out, "Lammy" will be back with the McFarlands.

Amazing Moore. Up From Floor Knocks Out Durelle

STILL THE CHAMPION!

Ancient Champ Blasted Down In First and Fifth Rounds; Stages Sensational Rally

By W. R WHEATLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP) — Champion Archie Moore's sensational comeback after four floorings at the hands of Canada's Yvon Durelle left the way open today for a return match of what was perhaps the most spectacular light-heavyweight title bout in boxing's history.

Durelle, the hardy 29-year-old fisherman from Baie Ste. Anne, N.B. went down three times before finally passing out Wednesday night after 45 seconds of the 11th round.

The wild, savage battle, in which Moore was toppled three times in the first round—two of them officially — had the crowd of 11,000 hysteria in Montreal Forum.

DURELLE UNCERTAIN

The end for Durelle, whose uncertainty as to strategy may have cost him the title, built up from the sixth round. The remarkable champion from San Diego, Calif., ing on all the courage and experience of his long ring career, came back in a magnificent display of punishing rights and lefts.

Durelle downed Moore, whose age is between 41 and 49, for counts of nine, two and seven in the opening round.

Referee Jack Sharkey, former world heavyweight champion, said afterwards that the second knockdown was not official was a push. But he will have a hard time convincing the onlookers that Durelle didn't club down accident Archie.

Moore was down again in the fifth for a five count. From then on the fast-recovering champion had more in reserve than his younger challenger.

Durelle went down for a two count in the seventh. Staggering and reeling under Archie's right and lefts, Durelle went down again in the 10th and was slowly rising at the count of eight when the bell saved him.

ALL OVER IN 11th

The end was in sight for the New Brunswick fisherman, who had let old Archie get off the book. Socking rights and lefts to the head had Durelle down early in the 11th for nine count. On Yvon's next trip to the canvas it was all over.

At the official weigh-ins Wednesday, Moore weighed 175¾ and Durelle 175, each having shed 25 pounds or so since they began training.

It was Moore's seventh defence of the title he won Dec. 17, 1952, from Joey Maxim. It was his first defence of the crown since he knocked out Tommy (Ambusy of New York in the seventh round at Los Angeles Sept. 29, 1957.

Moore's unbeaten string now has reached 16, including a draw with heavyweight Howard King Aug. 4, Moore's last fight before meeting Durelle. Moore has also set a record for knockouts at 127, one more than the late Young Stribling of Georgia, a heavyweight of a quarter-century ago.

Durelle, a challenger, had a four-straight winning record after losing in the seventh round last March 14 in New York to Tony Anthony. No. 1 challenger.

GROSS RECEIPTS $69,540

Gross receipts of Wednesday's fight were $69,540. Moore came out of the exciting brawl with $75,000—his' guarantee—with an alternative of 40 per cent of the television money and net gate. The television payment was $75,000.

Durelle's profit was uncertain in view of no announcement of the net gate. He was guaranteed $12,000 or 20 percent of the net gate.

The fight was telecast in the United States and Canada except for Quebec province and border stations.

The champion was in trouble early. Durelle landed solidly with a left hook and Moore went down for a nine count. He came up shaking his head and went down again in his own corner.

The toll of two was counted off — one of the few counts heard distinctly in the uproar of the crowd. That was the knockdown ruled a push by referee Sharkey.

Moore tried to cover up but was hammered by Durelle and went down again under a smashing right to the face. He took a seven count this time. He hung on and was recovering as the round ended.

STILL PUZZLED

With lefts and right that ultimately proved Durelle's undoing, Moore gained a close margin in the second round but lost the third to his rugged challenger, although Durelle still appeared puzzled as to whether he should continue slugging it out for a knockout or try to hang on to a big point advantage.

The fourth was Moore's. His jabs and hooks kept Durelle offbalance and the challenger was missing, but in the fifth a solid right to the head by Durelle sent Archie down for a five count. He came up ungracefully, covered up and kept away from and was fighting back as the round ended.

Durelle was warned for a rabbit punch in the sixth and left himself wide open for a smash to the face and left jolts to the head.

SEVENTH TO MOORE

Moore easily won the seventh; cracking rights to the face sending Durelle down again for a two count.

The eighth round was Moore's by a wide margin and in the ninth Durelle almost went down again under solid hooks to the head.

Midway in the 10th Durelle was groggy, rights and lefts bouncing off his head. He tried to rally but was pushed into the ropes by Moore while the crowd booted. Lefts and rights sent Durelle down once more and the bell came to his rescue at the eight count.

Durelle came out for the 11th willing to fight but had nothing left. It was a steady target for Moore and the champion still had his title.

Bisons Blank Providence 3-0; Bears Beaten

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Marcel Pailie, the American Hockey League's leading goaltender, waited for the opportune time to turn in his first shutout of the season.

He blanked Providence Reds Wednesday night as Buffalo Bisons came through with a 3-0 victory. The triumph, coupled with Springfield's 4-3 win over Hershey, moved the Bisons three points ahead of the second-place Bears.

Eddie Kachur got two of Buffalo's goals and Doug Barkley the other.

Don Cherry's goal in the final period gave the Indians their margin over Hershey. The most sensational shot of the game came in the second period when Springfield's Colin Kilburn speeded one from 50 feet out.

Other Indian scorers were Dennis Olson and Ken Schinkel. Les Duff, Arnie Kullman and Jim Haley counted for the losers.

Baie St. Anne Was 'Up' For Fight

BAIE STE. ANNE, N.B. (CP) The telephone office in this tiny fishing village closes at eight o'clock every night.

Wednesday night, Baie Ste. Anne's pride and joy, Yvon Durelle, was fighting in Montreal. It was a sad night because Durelle was knocked out in the 11th round of the title fight by world light-heavyweight champion Archie Moore.

A reporter, calling to learn how fisherman Durelle's neighbors were taking the loss, was told:

"The office closes at eight o'clock, you can't get through unless its an emergency."

"What do you call an emergency?" asked the reporter.

"Oh, a death or a sickness," was the reply.

"Well, Yvon Durelle's been knocked out. Would you say that's a sickness?"

Ih 10 seconds, Harvey Brenfield, who lives two miles from Durelle, was on the phone.

"I thought Yvon had him," Brenfield replied over the noisy connection. "But that old fella Moore is pretty tricky. I think Yvon will fight him again . . . maybe he'll win next time."

Asked if he watched the fight Brenfield said:

"Dunh right I did. Me and everybody else here. There's a television set in every second house."

This tiny village, where Durelle berths his fleet of fishing boats, has a population of approximately 950.

Red Wings Nudge Rangers; Leafs Tie With Chihawks

Howe Sets up Both Tallies In 2-1 Victory Over Blues; Tod Sloan Scores Tying Goal

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Like all great National Hockey League goalie Howie Howe of Detroit Red Wings lends some greatness to those around him.

The big right winger has played with a variety of centres and left wings during his 12 years in the NHL and nearly always those linemates, along with Howe, have ended up close to the top in league scoring.

This season his linemates are centre Norm Ullman and left winger Alex Delvecchio, both having the greatest seasons of their careers. Wednesday night it was Delvecchio who picked up Howe's rebound and scored to give Detroit a 2-1 victory over New York Rangers.

In Chicago, the Black Hawks collected a 2-2 tie with Toronto Maple Leafs on a third-period goal by Tod Sloan, one of many players the Leafs have seen go on to greater things after leaving Toronto.

STANDINGS UNCHANGED

The games did not affect the league standings. Detroit remained in second place, two points back of Montreal Canadiens, and Chicago hangs on to fifth, one point back of New York and three in front of Toronto.

Delvecchio's goal—his 10th this season—came at 6:54 of the third period after Howe took a pass from Ullman and burst in alone on Lorne Worsley.

The Ranger netminder made a diving save on Howe's shot but the puck bounced away and Delvecchio flipped it in.

Detroit's first goal, scored by Marcel Pronovost, and also set up by Howe, gave the Wings a 1-1 tie in the first period after captain Red Sullivan had put the Rangers ahead 1-0 earlier in the period.

Both netminders played fine games. Worsley made 24 saves, 14 in the first and 13 in the third. Terry Sawchuk stopped 23 shots, 12 in each of the last two periods.

At Chicago Sloan's goal which scored with a Maple Leaf in the penalty box and Leafs were also shorthanded when Eddie Litzenberger scored in the first. Forcach it was the 12th goal this season and five of Sloan's have been against his ex-teammates.

Brian Cullen scored Toronto's first goal, in the second period and left winger Dick Duff gave them a brief 2-1 lead early in the third.

Honor Campy 'Man of Year'

NEW YORK (AP) — Roy Campanella heard himself described Wednesday night as one of the great men of America and one who has done more for the Negroes in baseball than any man of his race.

These tributes were heaped upon the paralyzed Los Angeles catcher by New York State Governor - elect Nelson Rockefeller and baseball commissioner Ford Frick at a dinner tendered by the Baseball Writers' Club of America honoring Campy as "man of the year."

A hand-lettered citation plaque, similar to once awarded ex-governor Thomas E. Dewey a year ago, was presented to Roy. It cited Campy's "contribution to sportsmanship, helpfulness to youth and magnificent fortitude during his active days as a player and his long period of confinement following his tragic automobile accident last January.

Palmer, Caspe Golf Favorites

SANFORD, Fla. (AP) — Golf's two biggest money winners of the year — Arnold Palmer of Latrobe, Pa., and Billy Casper Jr., of Apple Valley, Calif. — teed off as favorites in the $15,000 Sanford Open.

The tournament continues through Sunday.

Sentimental favorites include three former winners of the tournament — Al Balding of Toronto, Mike Fetchik of Yonkers, N.Y., and Walter Burkemo of Franklin Hills, Mich. Balding won in 1955 .

Dutchies Avenge Dog Defeat, Greyhounds Shade Wolves

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A desperation bid by Sudbury Wolves failed Wednesday night and Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds regained sole possession of third place in the OHA-NOHA Senior A race.

Wolves called their goaltender in the dying minutes of the game in favor of a six-man power attack with Greyhounds leading 3-2. Jim McBurney killed the comeback bid by firing a shot into the open net.

In the night's only other action Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen defeated Windsor Bulldogs 7-5 to avenge the 2-1 loss they took in Windsor the night before.

At the Soo the Sudbury skaters couldn't quite match the Greyhounds' scoring finesse. It was a reversal of Monday's game at Sudbury in which the Wolves won 6-2 and drew even with Greyhounds in league standings.

NEWCOMER SCORES

John Lumley, Lou Dietrich and John McLean got the other Soo goals. Dietrich, a defenceman who played with the now-defunct Cincinnati Mohawks of the International - League last season, was playing his third game in a Greyhound uniform.

Sudbury scorers were (John Mayer and Nick Pavlomlik).

Referee Jim Kelly of North Bay gave Sudbury coach-manager Bud Forehan a match penalty in the second period for using abusive language.

At Kitchener the Dutchies gave Greg Sawchuk his first period and twice held the fifth-place Bulldogs scoreless while playing two men short. The win helped Kitchener close the gap with Chatham Maroons who lead the league by three points.

Kitchener goals were scored by Ron Ingram, with two, Ken Laufman, Bill Wylie, Butch Martin and Gerry Ehrmann and Bob McKnight. Erwin Gross fired two for Bulldogs with Walt Pawlyshyn, Reg Abbott and Bob Brown getting the others.

WELSH DEFEAT SCOTS

EDINBURGH (Reuters) — Wales beat Scotland 1-0 Wednesday night in the first under-23 soccer international between the two countries. The goal was scored in the first half.

Injured Dutchie Star Moved To Toronto

SUDBURY (CP)—Jack McMaster, injured hockey player with Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen, was moved by train Wednesday to Toronto General Hospital.

He was paralyzed when he slid head-first into the boards here Friday in an OHA-NOHA Senior A game against Sudbury Wolves. The 20-year-old left winger suffered a broken vertebra and other injuries to his spinal cord.

Accompanying McMaster was Dr. Bill White, Sudbury Wolves' club physician. Mrs. Donald McMaster of Niagara Falls, Ont., Jack's mother, also made the trip.

Dr. White said McMaster is improving each day. He was moved to Toronto because of better facilities for treating his head injury and because it is closer to his home. Doctors hope he will be able to walk again.

Messages containing good wishes continued to pour in. The first was from players with Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League.

Minor Hockey

Rangers, Maple Leafs and Canadiens clashed up victories over the Red Wings, Black Hawks and Bruins last night as three games were played in the midget section of the BMHA.

J. Lewis, with able help from D. Dafoe and D. Sinclair, sparked the Rangers to a 5-3 victory over the Red Wings. Lewis scored three goals, Dafoe pol-ted the other two and Sinclair had a pair of assists to account for all the Rangers' points. D. Boomhower and B. Seames scored for the Wings with G. Scott claiming one assist.

Maple Leafs registered a 5-2 triumph over the Black Hawks. H. Pointer, with a goal and assist was the only two-point man for the winners. Single goals were scored by R. Grant, T. Boyle, N. Boulter and R. Dugan while R. Jones drew one helper. L. McFee and P. Weston were the Hawks' marksmen.

Stu Muirhead sparked the Canadiens to a 6-3 decision over the Bruins with three goals. Singletons were scored by G. Reid, D. Blakely and G. Duval. Y. Dahl had a pair of assists and C. McGrimmon one. A. Waddell fired two Bruin goals with M. Foxon assisting on both. T. Johnson also scored.

CHATHAM WINS BONSPIEL

SARNIA (CP) — Gordon Gilbert skipped his Chatham Curling Club entry to a decisive 8-3 win over Irvin Fraser's Sarnia entry to capture top prize as the 30th annual Imperial Bonspiel concluded Wednesday night. Second prize went to a Sarnia rink skipped by Logie Allen that ousted Dr. William Hieborourgh's St. Thomas rink 12-7, in another close contest was for the fourth prize when Ed Smith plulled his St. Thomas foursome to an 8-7 edge over Dr. Stan Mackenzie's Detroit Curling Club entry.

HOPES FOR FIGHT

NEW YORK (AP)—British promoter Harry Levene said Wednesday he is "most optimistic" about his chances of signing heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson for a title defence in London next year. Cus D'Amato, Patterson's manager, said "if and when a British heavyweight meets Patterson for the heavyweight title it will be under the promotion of Harry Levene."

PRINCE HAS A PARTNER AT TENNIS

Crown Prince Akihito of Japan and his bride-to-be, Michiko Shoda, are shown at the Tokyo Lawn Tennis club where they played a few sets. This is the first picture to be taken of the couple together since the recent official announcement of their engagement.

Hog Producers Will Not Change Marketing Plan

TORONTO (CP)—County delegates of the Ontario Hog Producers Association have resolved to make no change in their co-operative hog marketing system despite requests by big meat packing companies for auction.

The association maintains that the Meat Packers Council of Canada is seeking to control Ontario hog sales and fix market prices.

President Charles McInnis, told 192 delegates from 42 counties that the association's own marketing organization is enabling Ontario producers to get $35,000 to $40,000 more for their hogs each week.

Hogs now are marketed in Toronto on a bid-and-asked basis as they arrived at 16 assembly yards throughout the province.

"In protracted, secret meetings with Agriculture Minister Goodfellow as mediator, the council has tried to force us to accept the auction system of selling," Mr. McInnis said.

"They tried to insist discussion be kept secret and promoted the idea that would reduce competition and make it easier for the processors to fix their own prices."

Mr. McInnis said the packers want concessions from the hog producers but their proposals would mean the number of agents bidding would be reduced from 31 to five or six. They want a specific limit on the small-processor at a disadvantage and break down competition, he added.

"The packers made it clear during the meetings we must say nothing to the press or public about their proposals.

During a long discussion, members defended their stand in talks with the present system of selling.

Vice-chairman C. Fry of Sarnia said "we started with an objective—to sell our hogs to the best possible advantage. Don't change that objective."

NATO Military Leaders Start 8-Day Parley

PARIS (Reuters) — Berlin European security and Western global strategy all were due for discussion in eight days of talks that began today with a meeting of NATO military leaders.

Following the two-day military meeting, officials from Britain, the United States, France and West Germany will meet Saturday to prepare the way for a Sunday meeting of the four countries' foreign ministers.

Then comes a full-scale conference of NATO foreign, defence and finance ministers.

The chiefs of staff of all 15 NATO powers except Iceland, which has no army, were attending the military session.

Gen. Lauris Norstad, NATO supreme commander, is expected to consider the possibility of a meeting with Soviet Premier Khrushchev, of the whole problem of German reunification and other related questions.

SURPRISE QUESTION

Among other things on the agenda is a proposed round table conference on the future of Berlin, successors of Premier Georg Dimitrov, talks on nuclear tests and European trade difficulties.

Prime Minister Macmillan told the British House of Commons Wednesday that confidential talks on Cyprus will take place during the NATO conference. He spoke five days after the UN General Assembly voted a just settlement of the question of Cyprus, where Turkey, Greece and Britain, all NATO partners are in dispute.

Strikers' Wives Ask Officials To Intervene

SUDBURY (CP) — Wives of members of the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers Ind. are to ask mayors and reeves in this district to use their influence to help settle the International Nickel Company strike.

Strikers' wives met Tuesday night at the union hall and decided to ask other officials to intervene in an effort to end the wage strike now 12 weeks old.

More than 14,000 workers are idle at the company's mining and smelting operations here and at its refinery in Port Colborne.

TIRED, RUNDOWN, LIMBS JOINTS SORE,—PAINFUL

Many people suffering from Faulty Digestion, Backache, Rheumatic Pains, Nervousness and rundown conditions tell of the grand relief they have obtained by taking a short treatment of Syntona Herbal Compound.

"Gave Quick Relief"

Mr. Orvie Benjamin, 315 Mackinaw Street, Sarnia, Ont., said in a recent letter:

"I had rheumatic pains for years in my limbs, joints and muscles. They were stiff, sore and painful. Also, my digestion was very bad. I was troubled with gas, indigestion and would belch up hot, sour liquids after almost every meal. My nerves would be all on edge, often I couldn't get my proper sleep and I was always feeling tired.

"Then I took Syntona helping so many people and decided to try it. Before the first bottle was finished I felt better, so I kept on taking it and now I enjoy relief from the rheumatic pains, my digestion is good, I eat better and feel like a different person."

Syntona is sold and recommended in Belleville by Dolan The Druggist.

$150,000 Block Will Be Built By Mom Whyte

TORONTO (CP) — A start has been made on a $150,000 addition to Mrs. Bertha Mom Whyte's home for children. Plans for the new block which will accommodate 150 children include dormitories, kitchen, dining room and classrooms.

Mrs. Whyte, placed on suspended sentence last month for operating Whyte hayen as an unlicensed home for children, said sh was not building the addition in defiance of the provincial government.

"If we had been forbidden to enlarge, we would not have gone ahead."

Toronto, Oshawa, and Peterborough businessmen have raised $1,000 in a "Whyte Haven Building Fund." Their target is $50,000. The rest of the cost will be borne by voluntary labor and donations of material.

Henry J. Foster, Publisher of Tribune, Honored

WELLAND (CP) — Henry J. Foster, publisher of the Welland Tribune, was honored Wednesday night at a testimonial dinner marking his 50 years in the newspaper business.

K. R. Thomson, president of Thomson newspapers which own The Tribune, presented the 79-year-old publisher with a painting from his private collection, The Rescue After the Storm by the 19th century British artist Richard Ansdell.

Mr. Thomson also read a message from his father, Roy H. Thomson, chairman of the board of Thomson newspapers and owner of the Edinburgh Scotsman. The message spoke of Mr. Thomson's warm affection for Mr. Foster, who is a director of the Thomson newspapers.

Others who paid tribute to Mr. Foster were Ontario Provincial Treasurer Allan Grossman, Claude Farrell, general manager of The Canadian Press, Mayor Gabriel J. Macdonald of Welland, T. H. Morrison, Tribune managing editor, and J. P. Dawdy, Tribune general manager.

A native of Derby, England, Mr. Foster started work as a bookkeeper with the Gait Reporter in 1907. He dates his 51 years service from 1908 when he joined the paper's editorial staff as a reporter. Subsequently he became city editor, editor and business manager. He came to Welland in 1926 to prepare the weekly Tribune for daily publication which began three years later.

He has been a member of The Canadian Press, Canada's co-operative news agency, since 1919, first with The Reporter and later with The Tribune. His 40 years as a CP member is exceeded only by one other publisher, Frank D. Leslie, Niagara Falls Review, with 41 years.

Neither Company Appears Willing To Shoulder Onus

BURLINGTON, Ont. (CP) — Who was responsible for the safety of a gas pipeline that exploded last month killing two people — the company that supplied the gas or the one that laid the pipe?

Deputy Attorney-General Eric Silk said Wednesday neither one appears willing to shoulder the onus. He made the observation at a Halton County coroner's inquest into the Nov. 5 deaths of Mrs. Roy Skinner, 34, and her infant son, trapped and burned in their home at neighboring Palermo when fire mushroomed in the wake of a gas-valve explosion.

Today is the fourth sitting for the five-man jury and Ontario Chief Coroner Smirle Lawson, the presiding officer, it is probably the last. Only one witness—there have been 40 so far — is still scheduled for testify. He is R. L. Comstock, a supervisor for the Gas Machinery Co. Canada Ltd., who laid the lines.

The deputy attorney - general said it appeared from the testimony and evidence neither Gas Machinery nor the United Suburban Gas Co. Ltd., of Hamilton, the supplier, were taking responsibility for ensuring that the code of standards for pipe-laying projects was being followed.

Heard Hyslop, United Suburban general superintendent, testified Gas Machinery has agreed to accept full blame in the event of damage claims, for field supervision and laying the line.

Richard Gillett, 22, and Dorothy Manewal, 16, talk on the phone at his home in Oregon City, Ore., after they discovered that they were brother and sister, parted 16 years ago. They made the discovery while out on a date together. As children they were adopted into separate homes after their mother died in 1948, and they hadn't seen each other since.

TWO KILLED AS TRAIN HITS SCHOOL BUS

Deep Freeze Still Exists In Many Parts Of Canada

Western Provinces May Be in for Mild Spell

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

It got warmer in Northwestern Ontario during the night and with the change went Graham's claim to national fame.

For three nights in a row, Graham, 83 miles northwest of Fort William, was the coldest known spot in Canada, with overnight lows of 46, 48 and 37 below zero.

Thursday night—although bitter cold kept its grip on most of the country—Graham had a mere 12 degrees below zero. That was no better than Edmundston, N.B. or Quebec City could do.

The Toronto weather office reported during the night that the coldest place in the nation appeared to be Norman Wells in the Northwest Territories, 39 below.

The warmest overnight reading was recorded at Pacena Point, Vancouver Island at 52 degrees above.

MILDER ON PRAIRIES

Alberta and Saskatchewan Thursday reported the mercury hovering between zero and 20 above. The prairie office at Edmonton said the western prairies may be in for a mild spell.

No break in the intense cold was forecast for Manitoba and most of Northwestern Ontario. Winnipeg looked for an overnight low of minus 20 and Armstrong, Ont., the same.

At 2 a.m. EST it was 26 below at White River, Ont. It reached minus 29 before morning.

Southwestern Ontario got snow Thursday night and today was expected to be clear- and cold.

But none of the night temperatures was below zero. Toronto's reading was 10 above and St. Thomas had five.

GOLD AT OTTAWA

At Ottawa, the weather office forecast cold, cold weather for the next three days and said Thursday night's low would be eight below. It was 16 below the night before.

The Montreal weather office said readings generally in Eastern Ontario and Quebec were 10 to 20 degrees below normal.

A snowfall of from four to six inches was predicted for Nova Scotia. The temperature was low for the east coast—Sydney, N.S., and Charlottetown.

OSWEGO, N.Y. (AP) — The worst snow storm in the history of this city of 23,000 by Lake Ontario appeared to be over today. A bright sun broke through Thursday and no heavy snow was reported in sight today.

However, the weather bureau predicted periods of snowflurries in the area today.

The streets were open, the men were working, the women went shopping, and children still had a holiday.

The storm, which began Sunday noon, left extensive damage. Buildings and roofs had collapsed under the weight of the 10 feet of snow and fell. Workers lost nearly a week's wages. Merchants estimated what was to have been the first big holiday sales loss.

SCHOOLS STILL SHUT

The schools, which remained closed today, were a big problem to schedule.

The Chamber of Commerce expects the December business will show a 25 per cent drop.

Sports, a big business, residents took a chipper approach to it.

Spirits were raised Thursday when a bright sun broke through the gloom and a light snow which had snarled the city in 20-foot drifts.

"We're doing a brisk business today, things are perking up," a store-owner commented.

Many people poked their noses outside for the first time.

"It was a funny sight," said Mrs. Robert D. Helsby, who lives west of the city, after driving to the city through drifts twice her height.

"There were so many people walking with shovels on their shoulders, or carrying cameras. I've never seen so many pedestrians."

Oswego State Teachers College students joined teen-agers on the shovel brigade. Many volunteered to help sick and elderly persons from their homes to remove the roofs.

The college kept a library open so students might work on term papers. An indoor swimming pool and a bowling alley on the campus were jammed.

Niagara Mohawk Corporation, largest industry in this city of 23,000, reported restoring all service. Practically all the 700 employees were on the job.

"It was a marvelous performance," Philip Johnson, the personnel manager said. "They bucked terrific odds to get here, and they had to come on foot, but they did it."

The downtown business section was ablaze with Christmas decorations, but sidewalks are non-existent. To reach some shoppers, it must walk along the street and then duck through trenches cut through 15 ft. and 20 feet deep.

Some profited from the heavy snowfall. Farmers in outlying communities rushed in tractors to clear service stations, restaurants and other businesses at $10 an hour. One man said he paid $50 to have his driveway cleared.

Four Daring Britons Attempt To Cross Atlantic in Balloon

SANTA CRUZ, Canary Islands (CP)—A small balloon took off early today with four daring Britons aboard in an attempt to cross the Atlantic. Only cool heads saved the departure from disaster.

A 16-knot wind dragged the gondola and balloon along the dock and 500 yards out to sea before the crew could jettison enough ballast to start the rise into the air.

The 46-foot balloon's destination is Barbados, in the British West Indies, 3,000 miles away.

Leading the expedition is 51-year-old businessman Arnold Eldert. With them are his 21-year-lanic.

Truck Driver Lay Unconscious Fo' Three Hours

GANANOQUE (CP)—A young truck driver was unconscious for three hours early Thursday in a wrecked vehicle in the cab of his transport truck after it plunged off the highway onto the frozen St. Lawrence River near here.

Jean-Guy Sabourin, 19, of Alexandria, suffered a few cuts and scratches when the truck went off the highway, which is packed with ice and snow.

Sabourin suffered no serious effects from exposure although the temperature dropped to three below zero.

Diefenbaker Cuts Trip Short Speeds Home to Ill Mother

AUCKLAND, New Zealand (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker left Thursday night en route home to Canada. He departed ahead of schedule after receiving word that his ill mother had suffered a relapse.

The Canadian premier's visit to New Zealand originally was scheduled to last until Monday morning. His plane took off here 30 minutes before 3 a.m. local time.

Mrs. William T. Diefenbaker, 86, has been in hospital in Saskatoon since spring when she fell and broke her hip. The prime minister, returning to New Zealand at the tail-end of his world tour, is expected to reach her bedside Sunday.

A message relayed to Diefenbaker said his mother suffered a mild stroke Tuesday night but had recovered well with no paralysis.

Diefenbaker, his wife and brother, Elmer, and their party were to have left Auckland by airliner at 5 p.m. Thursday night en route home to Canada. He reached Saskatoon Sunday night.

Mrs. Diefenbaker's two sons and the prime minister's wife are the only remaining members of her family. Her husband died about 10 years ago.

Hold 5 Toronto Businessmen For Possessing Stolen Bonds

TORONTO (CP) — Four businessmen and a former bank manager were charged in police raids Thursday night on charges of possession of stolen bonds that police say were taken in a series of robberies totalling some $10,000,000.

The arrests were made by Metropolitan Toronto detectives and RCMP officers in a province-wide investigation. They said they believe they have "blown the lid off" the Toronto end of an international gang.

Some $67,000 worth of bonds were recovered part of the loot from a $3,500,000 robbery from a Brinks-like truck company, a more than $2,000,000 haul from a Montreal bank and several hundred thousand from other parts of Canada.

"The bonds are from robberies as far away as Chicoutimi, Que., and Tomkins Village, Sask., and the total loot is easily $10,000,000," said one of the detectives.

Arrested were:

Robert F. Robinson, 29, of suburban Etobicoke, former manager of Royal Bank of Canada branch at Lawrence Avenue and Victoria Park Avenue. He is charged with possessing $32,000 worth of stolen bonds.

Samuel Morgenstern, 47, of Toronto, a tailor and a furrier, charged with illegal possession of $32,000.

Donald A. MacPherson, 43, of suburban East York, charged with possessing charged with possession of $32,000 worth of stolen bonds.

Manny Britstone, 40, a storekeeper, charged with illegal possession of $1,500 worth of stolen bonds.

Schwartz, 36, wholesale clothing store owner, charged with possession of $3,000 worth of stolen bonds.

Awaiting trial on charges of receiving $23,000 in stolen bonds is Harry Bergstein, 40, arrested earlier.

The bonds recovered have also been traced to a $40,000 robbery from the town hall at Estevan, Sask., and a $70,000 theft from the Toronto Villa-Marie Club.

Police said the stolen bonds were taken to banks and attempts made to use them as collateral on loans. At one bank $32,000 worth of stolen bonds were deposited and a $27,000 loan obtained.

Soviet Union Makes New Bid For Summit Meet on Berlin

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union put in another bid Thursday night for a summit conference to end international tension. It included the Berlin situation and discussion of German reunification.

The statement from the official news agency Tass said in effect that any Western use of force to maintain access to Berlin would be met by Soviet force and would touch off nuclear war.

Some Western officials have proposed that Berlin be discussed only in connection with the future German unification problem. Tass renewed the Russian stand against negotiating on reunification and also rejected again the Western demand for free elections.

The Soviet Union repeated, however, its readiness to talk

Election Day Holiday Could Hurt Autonomy Says Minister

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Mixed reaction from Ontario mayors has greeted Attorney-General W. A. Johnston of London that municipal elections be held on the same day and that he made a statutory holiday to increase voting.

Municipal Affairs Minister Warrender says the move might hurt local autonomy but is willing to discuss it.

Mr. Johnston made his suggestion Wednesday as Ontario municipalities encountered the coldest and most severe storm of the winter—one of two-year terms.

A Canadian Press survey found the mayors of Kitchener, Waterloo, Niagara Falls, Hamilton and Stratford favorable to a uniform voting day but sceptical of making it a holiday.

"I don't think declaring election day a holiday would increase the vote one iota," said Mayor Keith Hymmen of Kitchener.

"Give everyone a holiday on election day and you'd probably find that most people would stay home and use the holiday or start their time off to visit friends," said Mayor Lloyd Jackson of Hamilton.

"People should value their civic privilege sufficiently to go to the polls and register their choice of candidates without having a holiday to do so," said Mayor Ernest Hawkins of Niagara Falls.

Mayor Harold Parlin of Waterloo said he favors anything that would dispel apathy "but I'm not sure this suggestion is the thing."

Support for the holiday idea came from Toronto, Windsor, Peterborough, Belleville and Fort William.

Jury Finding May Bring Check of All Gas Lines

2 Companies Held Responsible for Blast

BURLINGTON, Ont. (CP) — The possibility of a provincial government check into all existing Ontario gas pipelines arose after a coroner's jury recommended such action here Thursday on a gas explosion at Palermo.

The five-man jury, which deliberated more than five hours following a four-day inquiry into the deaths of Mrs. Roy Skinner and her three children in their blast-torn burning home, also laid full blame for the explosion on two Hamilton firms.

A two-page written statement by the Major Trunk Darton, foreman, asked provincial authorities to set up a board or commission to approve or reject all pipeline applications. It also recommends periodic tests and to direct inspection of existing pipelines.

The jury asked installation of the gas pipeline valve, which allowed gas to press into the area on the Highway 5 home, was not in accordance with specifications laid down in the contract between the United Suburban Gas Company and Canada Limited, the installing contractor.

FIRMS RESPONSIBLE

Both companies "must be held responsible, the jury decided, for the fault in the fracture valve was caused "by their negligence."

Before it retired, the jury, which heard about 40 witnesses, was told the explosion which was told by Assistant Deputy Attorney-General Eric Silk not to consider expense in its recommendations.

Mr. Silk said it was "of interest to all the province" to learn how the future handling of this potentially dangerous commodity can be done so as to prevent such happen again."

When the jury's statement had been read, Mr. Silk, who acted as counsel to chief coroner Smith, asked him and County coroner Russell Dingle, said he approved of the finding. He added he had no doubt Attorney General Roberts and provincial police would act on the recommendations are carried out.

Mr. Roberts has a particular interest in the jury's finding because of the number of explosions that have claimed lives, he said.

Greece Ready For Round Table Talks on Cyprus

ATHENS (Reuters) —Greece today is a major bid to restore friendly relations with Turkey and work together on a solution of their dispute over Cyprus.

At the same time, Greece conditionally accepted a NATO-proposed round table conference to determine Cyprus' future.

Foreign Minister Evangelos Averoff pointed out Greece's new policy in a major parliamentary address.

Greece, Turkey and Britain have been involved in a protracted dispute over the future of the British island colony, which the United Nations General Assembly unanimously urged the three governments to seek a solution.

Russia Charges Canadian Wrote Plan for Revolt

NATO Book Article Under Attack in UN

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) — Renewed East - West political clashes threatened today to hold off the expected adjournment, Saturday of the 13th United Nations assembly.

With most of the procedural problems out of the way, the assembly is faced with continuing heated debates on the long-standing problem of Hungary and renewed demands by the African-Asian group for the independence of France's North African territory of Algeria.

The Hungarian issue was brought back to the assembly Thursday by the United States, backed by 36 other countries including Canada, and while assembly session immediately provided one of the most hectic word-slinging sessions of the year.

ARTICLE DENOUNCED

Soviet bloc spokesmen, with a strong denunciation by Soviet delegate Violetin Zorin of an article in an official NATO publication by Capt. D. J. Goodspeed of the Canadian Army, said the Russians claimed was a blueprint for the overthrow of governments by organized guerrilla movements "by a judicious assassination or two."

Zorin pegged his reply to the U.S. charges mainly on Goodspeed's article last year in the NATO's "subversive activities" publication. He said the author of the officer's article last year in the NATO magazine General Military Review.

Goodspeed is attached to the Canadian army historical section. His article in the NATO publication was a theoretical study of how to overthrow governments. The Soviet delegate, however, chose to interpret it literally in the assembly session.

NO COMMENT SOON

Canada's UN delegation had no immediate comment on Zorin's charges. But Ambassador Charles Ritchie is expected to address the assembly in the general debate—perhaps by this evening—and the issue undoubtedly will be mentioned.

Aside from the article, the Soviet Union had filed a note with the assembly in defence of its charges against Goodspeed. The note defended the executions of insurgent premier Imre Nagy and other Hungarian as completely justified for their "acts of treachery."

Woman Killed, Hit by Train

OTTAWA (CP)—The body of Mrs. George Clark, 47, of Ottawa was found early today on a footpath beside CNR tracks in west-end Ottawa. She apparently had been hit by a train.

The body was spotted by the engineer on a CNR west-bound freight - passenger train who stopped and told a taxi driver who passed along the message to police.

Delinquent Dogs May Get New Deal But Not in Time for Lassie

LONDON (AP) — Delinquent dogs may get a new deal in Britain. But it comes too late to save Lassie, the two-year-old Alsatian whose death sentence prompted demands for reform.

Home Secretary Richard Butler has asked a Council of Commons Thursday night to change the law that makes stubborn dogs to death.

He also was asked to change the law that costs owners a $5 penalty every day they defy the death sentence.

Lassie, the culprit who got the sentence, is pregnant. Parliament has been under sentence of death for chasing motorcycles. Before police could get around to carrying out the execution, Lassie's owner, 23 - year - old Ruby Bowring, whisked her off to a dog sanctuary.

Police have no authority to enter the sanctuary, and Lassie has been there ever since, living well-behaved and much loved," says Miss Bowring's Member of Parliament.

But every day that Lassie spends in the sanctuary is adding a $1 fine. Already she owes more than $100 and has indicated that her purse soon may force her to surrender the dog to the law.

Lassie's crime was not to go against a court order. But he invited Conservative Sir Jocelyn Lucas—who raised the case—to talk the matter over with him. The government let the word go out it would give its backing if a member introduced a bill to change the present law.

But could it come in time to save Lassie?

Vehicle Stalls Just Three Feet Short Of Safety

Injuries to 8 Children Considered Serious

WINDSOR (CP)—Two children were killed today and eight others injured when a school bus was struck by a New York Central freight train on a level crossing at nearby Essex.

The driver of the school bus was also injured. The condition of some of the injured children was described as serious.

The bus was heading to the St. Ignatius School in Essex, 12 miles east of here.

The train, the Detroiter, was travelling west from Buffalo to Detroit.

The two boys killed were the sons of Ed Purvis and Louis Bezaire. David Purvis, 11, and Paul Bossey, eight.

The bus was sheared in two by the speeding train.

CROSSING ICY

The crossing where the accident happened is steep and this morning was icy. Several cars failed to make the grade and their first run up the incline.

Mayor Leonard Seymour, who lives near the scene, said the accident sounded "as if the boys' bus had exploded."

A brother of the dead Bossey boys, Monaghan and Ronald, was home to tell of the fatal crash.

The injured boys were: Brian Bezaire, the seven home and were treated by Dr. Collin Markland, Essex. At first examination many were found to have multiple fractured arms or legs.

"It's a miracle all of them weren't killed," Dr. Markland said.

Driver of the bus was Albert Slacht, 24, who was also treated for multiple cuts and burns.

CHILD MAY DIE

It was fortunate the bus was broken in half an observer said, otherwise more of the passengers would have been crushed by the train dragging the vehicle.

The two-track crossing is not protected by any signals.

The train hit the rear of the bus, where the two boys who died were sitting.

The bus is owned by Albert Heil and Edward Ottell.

A boy who was believed to have a broken leg was taken to hospital in Windsor.

The driver and three other children were taken to the Essex Professional Centre where they were treated by Dr. Markland, Dr. D. W. Lee and Dr. W. V. Daniels. None was seriously injured. Mr. Slacht said.

DIDN'T KNOW

Slacht said he didn't know the two youngsters had died until he counted the children nearly 15 minutes later.

He said the accident occurred two thirds of the way through his regular route. Each day he picked up 10 children and five more were waiting outside their homes when the bus turned into Essex.

"It was foggy and my windows were frosted over," Slacht said.

"When I saw the train coming I put on the brakes but apparently I didn't apply enough pressure to stop. I started to skid. When I realized what was happening I gunned her and the motor cut out on me."

When the bus stalled only three feet of it was left on the railroad tracks. The two boys who were killed were sitting in the rear seat.

BUS UPSIDE DOWN

The bus was upside down when Slacht pulled himself from the wreckage. He gathered eight of the children and carried them up the embankment leading to the roadway. Most of them could walk to the home of Miss Seymour, 300 yards away.

The train was reported travelling at 80 m.p.h. at the time. The engineer was Louis Jagoe St. of St. Thomas.

The engineer said he saw the bus as it was moving northacross the first set of tracks while the train was about 100 yards away. Then the 1,800 provincial police the train's headlight was on and that the whistle was blowing.

The engineer said he applied his brakes and that he saw the bus. The train continued another five-quarters of a mile before it finally came to a stop.

A priest on the train from Fort Erie, Rev. Joseph Ryan, C.S.B., a Fr. Hogan, assisted Rev. M. J. Monaghan who is the Basilian Master, both of Holy Name Parish, Essex, in administering the last rites of the Roman Catholic Church to the two boys.

FUNERAL DECIDED

Raymond King, 14, in hospital here under treatment for shock and a possible fractured leg, had nothing but praise for Slacht.

"We could see the train coming, but it was a long way away. The bus was going nice and then it started to slip. Then it started to go nice again and that was all. There was a crash. . . ."

Slacht said he never went, but we got up okay and Albert was there to look after us. He told us all to the farm house. I hope they do blame Albert. He couldn't help it."

Two Landmarks Being Torn Down For New Station

Two old residential landmarks in the centre of Dundas are being torn down to their present lowest level, nearly half a century ago, are being torn down to make way for a new gasoline station.

The old houses, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Harry Smith were sold to British Petroleums Products, who are razing the structures to prepare the property for a new service station.

One of the houses being torn down was formerly situated on what is now the Armouries lawn at the corner of Bridge and Peel, nacke Street. The building, was at that time owned by Messrs. Joseph and Ed Tickell.

Child Succumbs To Severe Burns

KINGSTON (CP) — A two-year-old girl, one of nine children of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Shelly, died of severe burns she suffered Thursday when her dilapidated family's home at Adolphustown, 40 miles west of here.

Mr. Shelly was at Kingston General Hospital, about to take his wife and five-day-old baby home to Adolphustown, when news reached him the house had been badly burned. His and his wife waited at the hospital, where the child was pronounced dead on arrival.

The other seven children in the family were rescued from the blaze by neighbors.

Liberals Ask Arrest of Paper's Outdoors Writer

QUEBEC (CP)—Speaker Maurice Tessier in the Quebec legislature is to rule Tuesday on a Liberal motion to have Tessier, outdoors columnist of the Montreal Gazette, arrested and brought before the legislature bar.

In a motion Thursday, Rene Hamel, Liberal member of the Legislative Assembly asked that a reference in a Mr. T. column by Izaak Hunter to "a certain moocher-protecting MLA" be declared a violation of the privileges of the assembly.

Izaak Hunter is the nom-de-plume of George Carpenter, executive editor of the Gazette who has travelled widely in Quebec and other parts of North America contributing information about the outdoors and wildlife conservation to his readers. Rod and Gun.

Mr. Hamel's motion, seconded by Oswald Parent, Liberal member for Quebec South for Mr. Carpenter to be brought before the House Dec. 17 "to tell us the precise whom he meant in his article."

GOVERNMENT STUNNED

The government side of the assembly was obviously stunned as Mr. Hamel read his motion.

Premier Duplessis jumped up and said the motion was out of order because no advance notice had been given.

Mr. Hamel said his was the kind of motion which could be made specifically without advance notice.

Speaker Teiller allowed Mr. Hamel to finish reading his motion, then asked whether a vote would be taken.

Mr. Duplessis said a decision on the point of order he had raised should be given first.

The Speaker said he would take the question of the point of order under advisement until Tuesday.

QUOTES FROM COLUMN

The Liberal motion contained quotations from the column which referred to reported seizure of guns and other hunting equipment from violators of Quebec game laws.

The quotation read in the legislature by Mr. Hamel was:

"Visitors from Ontario who are many up the Gatineau Valley might really lose their guns and equipment if caught erring, but there are justified doubts as to what would be the case in isolated cases from voters for a certain poacher-protecting MLA on the Quebec side."

Store Manager Suspicious of 'Good' Cheque

OTTAWA (CP) — A suspicious clothing store manager refused a certified cheque Thursday and helped police stop what they described as some of the best looking "phoney paper" they've seen.

Three Sudbury men were charged with attempting to utter a forged document. The trio are wanted on similar charges in Toronto, Ville Marie, Quebec and Huntsville, Ont., police said. They are Donald Girard, 26, Wilfred J. Rene, 40, and Peter Kyrzakos, 36. They were to appear in magistrate's court today.

Store manager Joseph Handel took the extra precaution of phoning a bank when the man handed a $140 cheque by Girard for purchase of a coat. Although the cheque appeared authentically certified, the bank said it had no account in the name for which it was made out.

In the men's car police found a cheque-writing machine, a typewriter and a bank certifying stamp which police described a "beautiful copy."

Out of Hospital, Dulles Confers With President

BY JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower and State Secretary Dulles confer today on efforts to obtain solid Allied unity in the face of mounting Soviet pressure against West Berlin.

Their afternoon conference was interrupted between Dulles' discharge from hospital and his takeoff for a series of conferences starting next week in Paris.

Dulles has been in Walter Reed Hospital since Friday, undergoing treatment for diverticulitis, an intestinal inflammation.

Dulles' chief task at Paris as far as the Berlin issue is concerned apparently will be to try to resolve a split between Britain and West Germany.

DISAGREE ON POLICY

The two powers differ on the best policy that should be made to Russia's recent proposal to transform West Berlin into a free city and end the Western occupation there.

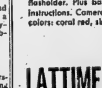
Chancellor Konrad Adenauer of West Germany has taken the stand in Bonn that Berlin issue should be disposed of before any new proposals on Germany are made to Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

Prime Minister Macmillan and Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd, on the other hand, decided in favor instead Western counter-proposals designed to open the way for negotiations with Khrushchev. A German problems generally.

Adenauer is understood to feel the British reaction is too soft.

ACCUSED OF STALLING

A 4,000-word Soviet statement Thursday night accused the western powers of stalling. A tour by them of force, it said, would be met with force by the Warsaw Pact.



The statement called for a "realistic" attitude toward Berlin by the Western governments and warned that if a military conflict should break out it would hardly be possible to limit it.

It is a long statement commented that the Tass statement repeated the arguments of Khrushchev's proposal with what it called "an added sting" and reiterated the statement added:

"The United States, which has made no threats, will not be deterred by threats from defending its rights and discharging its responsibilities to the 2,250,000 free people in West Berlin."

Officials said privately that such a propaganda assault on the west was to be expected in advance of the Paris meetings of NATO foreign ministers.

Lake St. Peter New Villain in Drama With Ice

MONTREAL (CP) — Three icebreakers are grinding their noses against the ice-choked mouth of Lake St. Peter, new villain in the drama of gales against the shipping.

The shallow lake, a swelling of the St. Lawrence River near Trois-Rivieres, was holding seven ocean freighters prisoner and blocking passage to the ocean.

Between Montreal and Quebec City also have been delayed opening up, there were ice jams 20 feet thick in places.

The powerful icebreaker D'Iberville reached Lake St. Peter Thursday night to help out the icebreaker Ernest Lagoinie and the smaller Montcalm.

ICE EAST OF QUEBEC

Navigation conditions east of Quebec City also have deteriorated. A convoy of four freighters heading for the Gulf of St. Lawrence was stuck 75 miles downstream despite the efforts of two rescuing icebreakers.

Twenty-four ocean vessels in Montreal harbor were among the winners of a long struggle against ice in the Lachine Canal as they advised by the department of transport not to attempt to downstream run until icebreakers and a hoped-for change in weather improved conditions.

The department expects to get every ship out of the river, officials said, but not for a while.

Meanwhile the battle to clear downbound ships through the canal system above Montreal and into Montreal harbor dragged on.

Four Canadian canallers were moved through Thursday, but still in the nine-mile Lachine Canal were 16 ships, six of them ocean-going.

"I can't see all these ships getting out," admitted one of the usually cheerful canal bands.

But they offered all the ships in the canal may be cleared by this weekend, just a week later than usual. The canal was closed for the winter, "if nothing goes wrong."

Ice in the canal was reported 18 inches thick in places. But tugs were patrolling a channel down the middle, and the official said ice is not yet bad enough to halt the ships by itself if the icebreakers can be kept open.

One giant, the Canadian Seikirk, is still upbound in the Lachine Canal attempting to reach the Great Lakes with a cargo of merchandise.

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian Labor Congress is prepared to act as a mediator in negotiating contributions for the relief of striking base metal workers at Sudbury and Port Colborne, President Claude Jodoin announced today.

The CLC head announced the appointment of a three-man committee to hear suggestions from the striking union as to how the congress can help. Chairman is William Dodge, CLC executive vice-president here, and the committee members are general vice-presidents William Mahoney and William Jenoves, both of Toronto.

Top Racehorse In Yugoslavia Now in Canada

WINDSOR (CP) — One of Yugoslavia's top racehorses arrived in Windsor this week, brought by a newly-immigrated family.

It is believed to be the first time an immigrant has been allowed to bring a racehorse into Canada.

Lund, a three-year-old trotter, is owned by Steven Miletaski, 26, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Panich, Windsor.

Mr. Miletaski came to Windsor 10 days ago with his wife, Ivanka, 26; a daughter, Marie, 16; and a son, Jovan, 14.

The horse has won four races in Europe placed second three times, and third four times and is tops in his class in Yugoslavia.

It took a month to bring the horse here: 30 days on board ship, 10 days in New York quarantine, and a truck trip to Windsor. That was preceded by six years of negotiations.

Mr. Miletaski had a stable of five to eight horses in central Yugoslavia, and it was hoped he would be able to bring them all to Canada.

It was tearful reunion for Mr. Miletaski and his mother, Anne, who last saw her son when he was only a few months old. Mr. and Mrs. Panich took out their Canadian citizenship papers several years ago, and now operate an airport snack bar.

Mr. Miletaski hopes to race Lund next season, but as a hobby. He has already had three offers of employment to make the unique type of highly-spiced sausage in which he specializes.

BC Asks Longer Sentences for Sommers, Gray

VICTORIA (CP) — This British Columbia attorney-general's department has launched an appeal to increase the jail sentences against former lands minister Robert Sommers and timber executive H. Wilson Gray.

They were sentenced last month to five consecutive one-year prison terms for bribery and conspiracy involving timber deals in the province. Sommers and Gray appealed for a reduction in their sentences and are free on bail pending a hearing.

Sommers said at his home in nearby Saanich Thursday night the appeal was instituted by his former cabinet colleague, Attorney-General Robert Bonner.

Sommers said he was "floored" by the appeal. Mr. Bonner "apparently wants 10 years."

The papers served on Sommers indicate six points of appeal, including the contention that the sentence was not sufficient punishment either in view of the case or to act as a deterrent. The appeal says Mr. Justice J. O. Wilson of the BC Supreme Court erred when he ruled the maximum term provided by law for conspiracy to bribe a minister of the Crown was one year.

Tentative Committee Heads Named at Council Caucus

TRENTON — A special meeting of the new council was held on Monday afternoon when tentatively name the chairmen for the various committees that will meet in the coming year. The meeting was chaired by Mayor Ross Burtt and all the new council members present with the exception of Councillors-elect William Bradshaw who is in the hospital at present.

It was quite plain the chairmen named to the various committees represented those who are not to be up until the first council meeting of the new year which is expected to be on January 5.

Mayor Ross Burtt will again take over the chairmanship of the Government Committee and Councillor Elmer Lange named head of the Financial Committee. Mr. Burtt was also chairman of the same committee, last year and Tentatively also Mr. Lange has confidence when they returned him to office. He has served for the third highest number of votes.

Councillor Lloyd Worrall the only other member of the 1958 council to be re-elected for another term will take over the Court of Revision Committee. Mr. Worrall was the head of the Protection to Persons and Property Committee for the past year and has made many improvements in the police and fire departments.

Tentative head of the Protection to Persons and Property Committee is Councillor-elect Claude V. Graham. Mr. Graham is no stranger to this post which he held the past year by Councillor Jim MacDonald. Mr. MacDonald was defeated at the polls this year when he gave up his council seat to seek election as Mayor. Mr. Aziz, who has always been interested in sanitation, was the logical man for the job.

ONLY TENTATIVE

Chairmanship of the Sanitation and Waste Removal Committee was given to Councillor - elect William Bradshaw, who was not present at the meeting. However it was only a tentative appointment and Mr. Bradshaw will be consulted on his views towards this as soon as possible. This committee was headed by Councillor Charles Hilton in 1958. Mr. Hilton was defeated at the polls on December 1 by a narrow margin.

However, it will be a tough job for ever-smiling Mr. Hilton to ably gets it with the present plans for the building of a sewage disposal plant in the 1959 committee. In doing this it would give an insight on what has been done during the past year in detail and would allow the councillor to decide his course of action for the coming 12 months.

Some discussion was held on the possibilities of holding the inauguration ceremonies of the new council on January 5 a civic holiday this season.

The suggestion is reported to have been made by Clerk-treasurer O. W. Larry, who pointed out that if it fell on a holiday, more citizens would be free to turn out to the meeting, something which has not been enjoyed in previous years. No definite decision was made on the date, although two of next year's council were said to be in favor of the suggestion by the club.

Dos and Don'ts on Handling Christmas Trees Outlined

TRENTON — Fire Chief Ellis of the Trenton Fire Department urges citizens to be careful about fire this Christmas in a statement yesterday.

He said that at Christmas time when the tree goes up and the lights are put on it becomes a potential fire hazard. "Don't let carelessness into a disastrous one because of carelessness," he said.

Concerning the Christmas tree the chief says it is best not to buy it before until the time comes to decorate it. It is best, he said, to keep it outdoors and in snow if possible. If it is to be brought in for Christmas decoration, cut an inch or more off on a slant and when erected the slanted or cut end should be placed either in water, which comes well up over the cut end, or in moist sand. It is important to keep the water high enough and the sand wet all the time the tree is in the house.

In decorations the chief urges that only approved type be used. These decorations have been treated and will not burn. Make sure the lights have no frayed spots on the cord and when buying be certain they have the CSA approval stamp on them. Never use lighted candles on the tree.

Hydro Workers Challenge Claim Of Commission

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario Hydro Employees Union has challenged a commission claim that its 10,000 union employees receive fringe benefits "among the highest in the province."

The power commission, locked in a wage dispute with the union, sent a letter to employees claiming that hydro employees now average $2.16 an hour.

The commission statement said sick benefits and pensions are worth an additional 27 cents an hour, while a further 39 cents is provided by vacations, statutory holidays, shift differentials, overtime, isolation pay, compassionate leave, special retirement allowances and workmen's compensation payments.

The commission said its offer of a 14-per-cent increase in each year of a two-year contract would bring composite wages to $2.86 next year. The union's demand for 25-per-cent increases would bring composite pay to $2.99, a spokesman said yesterday.

In its answering statement the union, affiliated with the National Union of Public Service Employees (CLC), said the $2.16 average wage includes the pay given "such highly-paid groups as technicians, design draftsmen and electrical writers who would not be found in such bargaining units as Steico and International Nickel."

The union also said the 39-cent figure used by the commission should not have included overtime payments because this was "something over which the commission had complete control."

The union said that payment by the commission of 60 per-cent of the cost of health benefits compares with 100-per-cent payment by most of the other large employers in Ontario.

"In this light the union's demand for 70 per cent is very reasonable."

MAKE IT A SAFE CHRISTMAS TREE

Ontario Fire Marshal W. J. Scott has issued his annual appeal to Ontario fire chiefs to wage war on Christmas fire hazards.

(Notification of this fact comes to us not in a "kit," like those against which we inveighed the other day, but in three double-spaced typewriter-size sheets of paper. We should be tempted to put this down to the fact that Bill Scott is a former newspaperman, having wielded pencil and camera for the Toronto Star during his college days, but we then recall that the public relations counsellors who produce "kits" are nearly all ex-newspapermen and not of the "working-my-way-through-college" variety either. It must, therefore, be the lawyer's liking for logic which leads the Fire Marshal to treat newspapermen as he would have liked to have been treated in his newspaper days. Perhaps there ought to be a law that all public relations counsellors must be barristers as well as ex-newspapermen. This would greatly reduce the number of practising public relations counsellors, while slightly paring the list of practising lawyers. What more could one ask of one law?

But back to the fire hails, where ex-reporter, ex-barrister Fire Marshal Scott is in full voice.

"We do not wants to do away with the many age-old and beautiful traditions of Christmas trees and decorations," says Mr. Scott, "but we can reduce their potentially high fire hazard in a number of commonsense ways."

While there is no such thing as a fireproof Christmas tree, trees can be treated to greatly reduce the fire hazard. The fresher the tree, the less inflammable are its needles. Do not bring the tree inside the house until Christmas Eve and remove it as soon after Christmas as possible. (Besides reducing the fire hazard, this adds to the impact of the tree. Nothing makes a child's eyes pop like discovering Christmas morning a fully decorated tree which was nowhere in sight when Mummy tucked her tribe into bed on Christmas Eve.) Saw the tree off at an angle at least inch above the regular cut and stand it in water for its entire stay within the house. Do not put the tree near any radiation or hot air ducts. Beware the overloading of frayed electric wires. Hot bulbs should not be permitted to touch dry needles. Do not use more than four strings of lights on one electric circuit. Do not use inflammable decorations on the tree. Beware of the use of cotton wool as trimmings on costumes which burn easily.

Last year's holiday season toll in Ontario: 5,000 fires, $10,000,000 property damage, 58 lives.

ONCE MORE TO THE BREACH . . .

Apparently Christmas is here. Besides the Santa Claus parade last Saturday another incident occurred which forces upon our shocked attention the fact that the festive season is upon us. We strolled into the Post Office around noon today with the intention of purchasing two five-cent stamps. At least this was our intention. No sooner did we enter that edifice than we retreated. Apparently we had ventured onto a de little production of the main scene from Caesar; at least that is what it looked like.

We returned later, during mid-afternoon, cautiously selecting an hour during which we felt all good citizens would be hard at work. Our judgment was fairly good Caesar's ghost and retinue had departed and only a dozen or so souls were about. We joined with the exception of one hasty soul (there always seems to be one in every queue who has to dash to the front of the line no matter how many have stood waiting), the prodigious task of acquiring two five-cent engravings of Her Majesty's fair countenance was uneventfully achieved.

A word to the wise . . . .

TWO WAYS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

What go ye forth to do?
To labor till the run goes down
For board 'n' cloth or fair renown?
To rend and tear your brothers, heart
And fill his life with ache and smart
That ye may build the thing Success
Upon your own grim selfishness?

What go ye forth to do?
To gather gold, no matter how?
To claim the laurel for your brow,
Despite the weaker things you brush
Beneath your heedless, onward rush;
Fateful of only battles lost,
And winning at whatever cost?

What go ye forth to do?
To smooth life's rough and rugged way
For those who follow you, or may?
To toil, but not alone for gain,
But that you may stain
But for the Master's perfect plan
Also to serve your fellow man?

What go ye forth to do?
To cheer the faltering and afraid?
To give the weaker brother aid?
To try to win, but to disdain
To stoop to what is wrong for gain?
To strive for what men call Success,
But show no trace of selfishness?

A Korean Folktale

By Peter Kyne in UNESCO Features

Early one morning Her Majesty the Queen of Fishery slipped out of the palace all by herself and went for a stroll. On the way back she saw a jolly young fisherman sitting on the bank of the palace sea. Cheerily, Her Majesty hailed the lad and he grew only to get a hook through her nose. When her nose looked as the lobster would on a screen for help; it was only when the fisherman's good deed ping from her nose reached the guard-house that guards rushed out and broke the line, thus saving Her Majesty's life. But, alas, they failed in removing the book from her nose.

Her Majesty grew very ill. The palace's official doctors were summoned and met in the Council Chamber. The squid and the whale, the crab and the shark, all wore solemn, anxious expressions and did their best to find a solution. But none could be found. At last the turtle put in when asked his opinion, said that his learned grandfather had once cured his grandmother in similar circumstances with a decoction made from fresh liver of a rabbit. His suggestion was received politely and forthwith, but it was considered impractical, since no fresh rabbits were known to be in the Dragon Kingdom of Fishes.

Again the turtle had a ready solution. He had, he said, a rabbit friend whom he had met on the shore of the land, the beach, and he undertook to entice the rabbit to the sea by the promises would then take charge. The sight of blood, he added, was disagreeable to his sensitive nature. He was royally thanked for his offer and duly departed for the land.

It was blazingly hot as the fat turtle, puffing and sweating, climbed the hill up to the hill; luckily he soon saw the rabbit, who leaped away a short distance, rested, then ate more tasty and looked over his back to see who was coming. When he saw that it was the turtle, his old friend from the sea, he gave a real relief. "Ah! What are you doing up here, Mr. Turtle?"

"I have come here for the view," said the turtle wearily, wiping the sweat off his fat neck. "I have always heard that the view over the ocean from your hills is unsurpassed and I know that it is not worth the trouble of climbing unless up to, re fine."

"You are not high enough," said the rabbit, anxious to show the turtle the marvellous view to be seen from the hill-top. "Just follow me up to the top and you will see a real view."

"No, thank you," said the turtle. "I have had enough of your hills. I much prefer the water. Friend, you should see the wonderful things down there. There are beautiful aquarium forests of villosy plants and the coral reefs are a perfect rock, valleys and caves where colorful fish dance And what's more, the water carries you everywhere without exertion. What have you got at show on this hot, dry land of yours?"

The turtle pretended to be curious and the rabbit wistfully followed him. "Isn't it uncomfortable in the water?" he asked. Doesn't the water get into your mouth and ears and nose and eyes?"

"No, no, no, Mr. Rabbit. The water is the air of the sea. And the fish are used to it in less than no time," explained the turtle, carefully hiding his delight.

"I should very much like to see and feel the water there," said the rabbit wistfully, "but I wouldn't survive in the water like a fish."

"Nonsense, Mr. Rabbit," said the turtle. "Of course you can breathe under water Now if you really wish to visit our Kingdom of Fishes, just get on my back and I will carry you down there with pleasure."

After some hesitation, the rabbit accepted the generous offer in kind effer. On the beach he climbed on to the turtle's back and down they slid into the water.

The rabbit was fascinated by the splendour of the palace. Immediately, he was escorted by beautiful mermaids-in-waiting to the dark chamber of the Queen's where he was interviewed by a distinguished assembly of learned doctors But as he did in an elegant sentence, he didn't like the breathtaking surroundings. What he longed for overhear sniffches to a discussion as to the quickest way of removing his liver. Hesitatingly he questioned one of the mermaid attendants, who whispered the whole plot to him. The poor rabbit scratched his head and wondered if he would ever get out of the palace alive. Then he suddenly had an inspiration and grinned.

Nobody help those who help themselves. Why, of course. That would certainly fool them." He explained to the learned assembly that the liver was an organ that could be put in and taken out of the abdomen at will, just as eye-glasses were put on and removed, and that it was sold, though expensively, in every market in land. For that the water might wet his liver, the rabbit explained, he had taken it out and left it on a rock before getting on to the turtle's back.

He then expressed his willingness to present his liver to cure the Queen at once, but only in a humble animal from the arid land, he said that he had been honored at being allowed to assist in such a historic piece of surgery, and that with Her Majesty's permission he would hurry back to the land and get his liver

The learned doctors so marvelled at the rabbit's courtesy that they blushed in shame at their unattractive plot to abduct in kidnapping him, when a mere invitation would have been sufficient. The turtle was severely reprimanded, and commanded to apologize to the delighted guest back to land.

This was done. But directly the turtle and the rabbit got back, he shook the water of his coat and scampered up the hillside, crying to the turtle: "Catch me if you can! I have only one liver and I am not going to die if I'm away even to a queen." So saying, the rabbit disappeared over the hilltop and, since then, he has avoided the turtle.

Snobs Among Railwaymen

St. Thomas Times-Journal

We have heard it whispered by only whispered, mind you — but the wife of a railroad man whose standing was not very high, that some of her sisters of the railroading fraternity were, shall we say, just a bit standoffish in their attitude toward her. There are various grades in the railway service, and it is quite possible that there is in any other line of work, the wives of those in the higher ranges are not very pally with the wives of men in the lower brackets.

We mention the women because we cannot imagine one railway worker highlighting another The man at the bottom of the ladder can see that this is as vital as that of a man much higher up, and he knows that no better than the men up high. But we were surprised to read the other day of a certain amount of snobbery among British railroaders. It was revealed by a union official.

The official, Aldcrman Norman Bligh, secretary of the Associated Society of Locomotive Engineers and Firemen at Wolverhampton, pertained that the complaint was brought to a boycott of canteens in a new railway building. He told them they did not have to pair with the other men.

One of the drivers said: "The result is that we have some of the canteens like frying our bacon and eggs on the same stoves as some of the ouppers are using. We don't even like using the same ouppers. We don't like that kind of thing."

The retort courteous would be for unions men in the lower grades to shove the engineers away from the stove and tell them to take their frying pans somewhere else.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

In the small tobacco shop where I buy most of my smoke, I was surprised to see a lively jet of steam rising from behind the counter.

"Air conditioning?" I asked young man who is sole proprietor and entire staff of t h shop.

"Coffee break," said he.

I peered over, and s u r e enough, there was an electric kettle at full steam, and beside it, on the shelf, a bottle of instant coffee, a mug and a sugar bowl.

"Everybody else," explained the young man, "has a coffee break in the morning and afternoon. So why not I?"

It being a one-man business he can't run out to a neighboring cafe for his fifteen-minute coffee break.

"The purpose of the coffee break," I told him, "as I understand it, is to break the monotony of the three-and-a-half-hour morning and the three-and-a-half-hour afternoon in business and industry. Not merely to take nourishment, or a rest.

"Three-and-a-half-hour?" said he, astounded.

"Sure. With lunch hour o u t, that's about all most of our contemporaries work."

"Jee," he said. "I open at eight, and close at eight."

"Have you another mug?" I asked.

So, by golly, I had a coffee break with this tough young champion of private enterprise.

Brown Eggs Just as Good

London Free Press

Why does the Canadian housewife actually show discrimination against brown eggs? Brown eggs have equal nutritious value and they normally are slightly larger than the white egg. Yet this habit, result of which is unknown to the user, unless the egg is boiled, actually is costing the consumer money, possibly a couple of cents per dozen.

Why should this affect the price? Largely because the brown eggs are not in demand, are slightly larger and with much better-eating fowl than the temperamental and typical-by-skinny White Leghorns, keener of the white egg layers. This peculiarity of appearance, too; Boston and New York are at odds. Former likking the brown egg, the latter while. Like all discrimination this is stupid — and in this instance costly.

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

FATTY TUMORS ARE MYSTERIOUS BUT HARMLESS

"Dear Dr. Molner: I have had lipomas (multiple fatty tumors) for a number of years, some large and some small. I think they grow a little larger with the years. What causes them? Is it O.K. to have a surgeon remove them? And are they cancerous? They are on my arms, legs and body. — H. L."

For some time now I have given only brief comments on lipomas, or fatty tumors. It is evident that this gentleman is only one of many interested in the subject. (And there are a ton of them in women, too.)

A lipoma is not anything to worry about. It is a benign growth consisting principally of fat — although I do not mean to say that anyone need be fat to develop one. Rather, that has little if anything to do with the matter.

Exactly what causes them to appear is just as mysterious as what causes cancer. Or maybe I should say it is just as mysterious as the reason why some people are susceptible to colds and don't.

Freckles are a matter of pigment in the skin — but we don't know why. Lipomas are growths of fatty tissue — but we don't know why. It may be that some people are especially prone to get a bump or other small injury — but if so, we still don't know why.

In short, it is unexplained why cause of lipomas, and while it is true that occasional surgeons may know further shreds of information, nobody can really explain the whole business.

The rule at which these fatty tumors grow varies. Sometimes they change very little over the years. Sometimes they grow steadily and noticeably — but not often — reach great size.

THEY'RE NOT CANCEROUS

They are not cancerous, and they do not turn into cancer. They are harmless and need to be removed only if they become such that they cause trouble. The way to remove them, of course, is by surgery, and that is a simple and straightforward sort of procedure since the fatty tissue is just under the skin. Once removed, they are gone for good and forever. Of course there is no assurance that another may not form elsewhere.

In the case of a few, or even so many of them, I would apply exactly the same rule. If any of them become large enough to be a bother, have them removed. And forget about the rest of them.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Beneath one eye I have some small white blisters. Can surgical doctors give me every hope and said I was in fine health.

"A stranger came to me in a store and said I should have them removed Every year I should be on the lookout for condition. Are those spots so very bad that I had a very bad heart? Should I be on the lookout for very dangerous a sign? I was 40, am 5 feet 5 1/2 inches tall, never have an ache, work, walk, sleep, enjoy every hour. I suppose some people are prompted to advise total strangers, scare them to death really. — Mrs. H."

Total strangers ought to stay that way — total strangers.

Your remarks are a striking example of trouble-making but-ting-in. I would not even tell the eye were such a "dangerous" sign, why would we have bothered? I'd like to explodingly that. Maybe someday somebody will diagnose that total stranger's symptoms — advanced case of protuberus proboscis. That means the nose that sticks out too far and gets in other people's affairs. A terrible affliction No known cure. The while spots sound like tiny plugged sweat glands — your doctor would have told you if these were serious.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Enclosed is 40 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope for booklets on 'You Can Stop Sinus Trouble,' and also one on hay fever and asthma. — Mrs. E."

I am sending the booklet on sinus, and returning 30 cents to you. We like to help out a hay fever booklet; I'll have one ready when the next hay fever season starts.

How to Reply To Machine

Playboy, New York

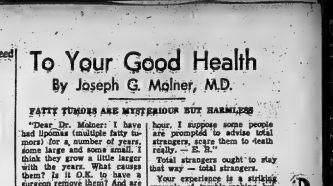
The use of recorded messages for answering telephones is becoming increasingly popular.

You call a friend and get a mechanical voice which drones: "This is an answering machine. If you care to leave a message, please wait for the tone signal . . ."

For the benefit of readers who are unsettled by conversations with machines and wish to unsettle the machines' owners in turn, we offer the following responses:

Response A: "Mr. Smith is calling Mr. Johnson. He can be reached till 7:30 at MA 6-0974. This is a tape recorded message." This response suggests you have a machine that calls other machines.

Response B: "Mr. Smith's machine speaking. Be on certain of Mr. Fred Sheffield at midnight. We machines are talking over."



Response D: When you finally get Johnson instead of his machine, say: "Hello, Johnson! This is Smith. Let me speak to your machine."

The best and most effective thing to do in order to overcome evil is by forcing as much good as we can into the heart every day. Two things cannot be in the same place at the same time. ANONYMOUS AND UNKNOWN

I carry around in my mind many a poem and saying that I have stored away for future use. Usually such quotations are marked "Anonymous" or "Author Unknown." Scores of thoughts have been uttered, but their originators say that Anonymous, or merely "Author Unknown."

I often read over again that immortal poem by Gray, "Elegy Written in a Country Church Yard." I think of the Unknown and the others that the poet Gray paid to them in this deathless poem. Thoughts and deeds alone live on and on. Perhaps

Series of Political Storms Rocked Socred Ship in B.C. With Heavier Seas Ahead

By H. L. JONES
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER (CP)—A series of political storms rocked the Social Credit ship in British Columbia in 1958 and the prophets are saying there may be even heavier seas ahead for Premier Bennett's administration in 1959.

During the year a former minister was sentenced to five years in prison for bribery and conspiracy while in cabinet office. One party member crossed the floor of the legislature.

There were increased attacks on the government by opposition parties and the premier was repeatedly criticized for his debt-reduction policies. Squalls also blew up over the proposed development of the Peace and Columbia Rivers for power.

BIGGEST STORM

At the year's end the biggest storm of all developed when H. Lee Briggs, manager of the government Government B. C. Power Commission, attacked the premier's policies as finance minister. He said Mr. Bennett was trying to bugle commission finances to fulfil a political promise to make B. C debt-free by 1960.

The premier denied it and promptly announced a royal commission inquiry into all phases of the commission's operations.

Mr. Briggs, a former manager of the Winnipeg Hydro system, was promptly fired from his job. He said he had no political motives but he made a speaking tour, reiterating his criticisms and calling for the ousting of the Social Credit administration.

Premier William Andrew Cecil Bennett, a Skeena-raid hardware merchant turned politician who entered politics in 1941 and took the premiership in 1952, steered the Social Credit ship through all the squalls. He professes to like it best when the going gets rough.

The premier has denied CCF assertions that he is preparing for a spring election. He has indicated that his party, re-elected in September, 1956, plans to stay in office until 1960 or 1961.

LIVELY SESSION

The next session of the legislature scheduled for Jan. 22, promises to be lively. There the 39 Social Credit members face their main opposition in 10 CCF representatives led by Robert Strachan who is expected to lash out anew at the government. There are also two Liberals and two Independents.

By that time the vacant seat in the 52-seat legislature will be filled. A by-election is to be held Dec. 15 in Rossland-Trail, long-time seat of former lands and forests minister Robert Sommers who resigned on his conviction in November for bribery and conspiracy. He left the cabinet when the bribery - conspiracy case broke in 1956 but continued to hold his seat as private member. He now is appealing his conviction.

Deane Finkerson, provincial Progressive Conservative party leader, has said the government is "on trial" in Rossland-Trail.

The political undertones of the Sommers case first hit the Social Credit regime in February even before it got into court.

North Vancouver Social Credit MLA Mel Bryan crossed the floor of the House to sit as an Independent in protest against Attorney-General Bonner's handling of the case. He said Mr. Bonner had not explained why he waited until 1957 to have charges laid when the evidence was put before him in December, 1955.

REMINDER TO PREMIER

Premier Bennett lashed out at Bryan. Other opposition members reminded the premier that he had done the same thing himself once, leaving the Alden Hart coalition government to cross the floor and sit in opposition because of a policy disagreement in 1951.

In regard to the controversy over development of the Peace and Columbia Rivers, Premier Bennett says there is room for both projects in B.C

"The more power we have in B.C., the more industries we shall attract," he says.

Development of the Columbia River, estimated to cost $200,000,000, would be a joint Canadian-American effort. Canada would share in the additional electricity developed on the American side and have control of the water storage facilities on the Canadian side in the Kootenays 20 miles east of Vancouver.

The Peace River project calls for a giant power development and an industrial empire in the north involving a $1,000,000,000 project backed by small-mill-ion dollar interests of Swedish industrialist Axel Wenner - Gren. It has the backing of the B.C. government.

Police Blotter

Pleading guilty to two charges of passing bogus cheques in the city, Robert Thomas Reilly, 21, of Barrie, was this morning remanded until December 19th for sentence. Reilly appeared before Magistrate T. Y. Willis in city magistrate's court.

He was arrested earlier this week following a trip from a local merchant who became suspicious when Reilly attempted to cash a cheque.

Otherwise police circles were quiet with only one mishap reported yesterday, John T. Lybch was southbound on Pinnacle when his car skidded during an attempted left turn and the vehicle bumped into a traffic light standard breaking it off at the base.

HIGH PRICES

GREAT YARMOUTH, England (CP) — Herring brought to this Norfolk town reached the British record price of £18 a cran—about 3½ pence per fish.

Mead Johnson of Canada Limited have donated to the Belleville General Hospital a tract of land fronting on Dundas Street adjacent to the Mary Ritchie Memorial residence. This land was requested by the Board to enable them to construct a new educational building for the teaching of nurses.

Mr. G. A. Wishart, vice president (manufacturing) of the Mead Johnson Company, is seen handing the deed to Mr. F. Domenico, Chairman of the Board of Governors.

Consulting Engineers, Architects Top Money Earners

By JOHN E. BIRD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Income tax statistics issued Thursday show that consulting engineers and architects in 1956 were Canada's top money earners as they had years for a third straight year.

Their earnings in the year again topped those of taxpayers in other lucrative professions—law, medicine, accounting and dentistry.

A revenue department taxation analysis—called the Green Book, also showed that the Manitoba mining communities of The Pas and Flin Flon in 1956 replaced the British Columbia smelting centre of Trail and adjoining Rossland as the cities with the highest average personal income in Canada, $4,278.

The 132-page document said the average income of taxpayers in 1956 rose to $3,673 from $3,535 the previous year and from $3,433 in 1954.

Canadians who earned $100,000 a year or more in 1956 declined to 632 from 667 the previous year. Number of taxpayers who earned less than $1,000 a year increased to 31,421 from 25,200 in 1955.

Consulting engineers and architects remained the country's top money earners although their average incomes decreased to $13,646 from $14,007 in 1955. They paid an average tax of $3,212, down from $3,484 the previous year.

The statistics list the average income of cities with more than 5,000 taxpayers. Sarnia, in fifth place in 1955, was second in 1956, with an average income of $4,221, while Sault Ste. Marie second in 1955, was third with an average of $4,204.

Medical doctors and surgeons jumped from third place in 1955 to second place in 1956 with average incomes of $13,653. Lawyers and notaries, second in 1955, dropped to third in 1956 with average incomes of $12,617.

The nursing profession remained at the bottom of the 16 occupational classes into which taxpayers are divided, with average income of $2,094.

Canadian taxpayers receiving pensions were in second last position with an average income of $3,091.

Accountants remained in fourth place, earning an average income in 1956 of $9,940.

Some other averages for 1956 with 1955 figures in brackets:

Dentists $9,230 ($8,541); salesmen $5,197 ($4,868); business proprietors $5,257 ($5,095); fishermen $4,414 ($3,813)—self farmers $3,065 ($3,437).

The statistics are based on tax returns made by 3,308,176 taxpayers.

Accountants Enjoy Panel Discussion

Twenty-two members and guests of the Bay of Quinte Chapter of the Society of Industrial and Cost Accountants of Ontario, gathered in the Club Room of the Hotel Quinte to enjoy an interesting and instructive panel discussion on the subject of "Internal Control and Its Relationship with Audit."

Mr. G. Brooks, C.A., comptroller of Dewey Warner Corporation, Mr. R. G. Walsh, general manager of Deloro Mining & Refining, Mr. B. Irvine, C.A., of George A. Welsh and Company and Mr. Charles Holmes, R.I.A., of Mead Johnson of Canada Limited, acted as panel members, under the guidance of Mr. Blake Walker, C.A., of Deloro Stellite.

Mr. Holmes and Mr. Brooks made their opening speeches with vigor, and Mr. Walsh, speaking from the viewpoint of management, and Mr. Irvine, whose auditorial function necessitated the interest of the shareholders, responded in kind.

Criticism was made by all members of over-conservative accounting, but all agreed that over optimism was as serious a fault. Unanimity was achieved when control systems came under discussion. This control is essential to the success of any enterprise and contributes immeasurably to operating ease, it was stated.

Earlier in the evening Chairman Mr. Hickson, comptroller of Mead Johnson, expressed his pleasure at the large attendance of members and welcomed the newcomers who were attending their first meeting. Before closing the meeting he reminded members of the visit of the Ontario President of the society on January 19, when the next meeting of the season would be held at Hotel Quinte.

Mr. W. Mills expressed the thanks of the members present to the panellists.

Ten Churches Participate In 'Every Member Visitation'

The victory meeting of the Church's Every Member Visitation of the Belleville area under the Sector Plan, was held in the host church, Holloway Street United, on Monday evening, December 8th. The following churches participated: St. Paul's United, Bancroft; Centenary, Cherry Valley; College Hill; Grace United, Napanee; Grace United, Trenton; King Street, Trenton; Holloway Street and Tabernacle, Belleville, and the Picton United Church. These churches were represented by ministers, laymen and women.

The Rev. Douglas R. Pilkey, McMaster missionary and maintenance eastern field secretary of the United Church of Canada, who had counselled the Sector, led in an opening hymn-sing with Mr. Clifford Templer (Minister in Music) presiding at the organ. Mr. F. W. Ramsay of Bath, Ont., director of the Sector, conducted the worship and welcomed all to the meeting.

The various reports by ministers, general committee chairman, and laymen all took up the theme and emphasized wonderful inspiration derived from the four training dinner meetings held in Holloway Street United Church through September, October and November when an intensive course in Christian stewardship was given. The fact that—the Rev. Douglas Pilkey was counselling three other Sectors in the Montreal area at the same time, and that there were 859 churches participating in Sectors across Canada was indeed a spiritual uplift.

On Stewardship Sunday, November 23rd, over 17 thousand teams of men and women went out "two by two" as consecrated ambassadors from their churches to visit their people and tell the story of their church. Each church in the Belleville Sector held a special service on Stewardship Sunday when the visitors were dedicated by their minister to go out on this great mission.

Finding new people, renewing acquaintances with some who had become lax in their church interest; finding people who expressed desire to work in Sunday School or other organization of the church gave the Visitors much encouragement. They were blessed and indeed they were a blessing to many homes they visited. All these people have been strengthened, the churches in which they work will be stronger, the communities in which these churches stand will be better places because these ambassadors of Christ have gone out to revitalize the church and knit the people together in closer fellowship with God.

The greater enthusiasm, deeper spiritual values enriched lives of consecrated men and women are the results of a Sector 'o any community. The sincerity, love and devotion of the people for God the Father,

Kinette Club Sponsors Yuletide Party

The December meeting of the Belleville Kinette Club took place on December 4 in the form of a Christmas party. Members and guests were entertained at a cocktail party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hamill before going on to dinner at Hotel Quinte.

The club room was decorated for the occasion with a tree and attractive candles on the tables.

A member of Kinsmen took part in the evening. Kin Jack Stewart was song leader and led the singing of carols and Christmas songs. Kin Jim Conrad provided piano accompaniment. Kin Mac White acted as sergeant-at-arms and provided a lively time for all during dinner.

Kinettes Mary Atkinson and Thelma Stefan thanked these Kinsmen for coming.

President Norma called upon Kin president Jack Hamill to say a few words to the club. Kin Jack encouraged the girls to build up the club and expressed the hope that the guests attending the meeting would join the club. Kinette Heather White thanked Kin Jack.

Kin Murrey Hunter gave an outline of plans as chairman, for the district 6 convention in May.

President Norma mentioned a few of the Kinette projects for this event.

BUSINESS SESSION

The Kinsmen retired while a short business meeting took place. During this time, Kinette Bud Hamill thanked the club for flowers presented to president Jack and herself, and Kinette Rosemary Selkirk gave a report on the rummage sale held on November 29.

A raffle was held among the girls and Kinette Heather White was the winner of an attractive Christmas apron.

Santa Claus appeared at the close of the evening and distributed gifts to those present.

will bring the world together in closer Christ-like brotherly love.

Where Sectors operate financial increases have resulted also but no amount can be estimated of the spiritual increase.

Mr. Ramsay expressed his own personal gratitude to all the workers, to Holloway Street women who prepared the four dinners, to the Session of the host church for providing comfortable room for the Sector, to Mr. Templer for his leadership in music; to the Secretary for her service and to Rev. Douglas Pilkey for his counselling.

The appreciation of the assembly also was expressed to Mr. Ramsay for his spiritual and efficient management in directing the Sector again this year. No one could leave this meeting without feeling a great victory had been won once more for the King of kings at this happy season.

ENGAGED COUPLE MAY SEND CHRISTMAS CARDS TOGETHER

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Is it considered correct or even permissible for an engaged couple to send Christmas cards together? When "my Bill" left for Mr Army Service in Europe we had an understanding that, when he returned, we would consider becoming engaged. He returned a month ago, we are now officially engaged, and my parents have announced our engagement in the newspapers here. We're planning to be married in April. Naturally we'd like to send our Christmas cards together this year. Proper?

— Bill and I.

Yes . . . It is entirely proper for you to send your Christmas cards together this year, thus, I know, adding another big measure to your happiness! Such intimate card should, of course be sent only to your and his relatives and intimate friends. To not-close friends and to mere acquaintances you should send separate cards.

GOOD MANNERS — SR

ADDRESSING ENVELOPE TO HUSBAND AND WIFE?, BOTH DOCTORS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When both husband and wife are doctors, how should an envelope be addressed jointly to them? — Reader

When the correspondence is social, the envelope is addressed to: Doctor and Mrs. John Clark. (For example, this form is correct for addressing a Christmas card to the couple; or an invitation, formal or informal; or a wedding announcement.)

When the correspondence is professional (or a matter of business that concerns them both) this is a correct form for the envelope:

Dr. John Clark
Dr. Mary Clark

Or, when the wife uses her maiden name professionally:

Dr. John Clark
Dr. Mary Foster

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Richard S. — I want to loaf.

Nora S. — It's hard to part with my business. I

Richard S. — I am in my late 60's and I am planning to retire next year. I'm looking forward to a period of loafing and travel and then hope to settle down and enjoy my hobby, which is painting.

The problem is my wife. She is ten years younger than I am and about twice as energetic. A few years ago after our youngest son left for college, she started a little business that has become quite successful.

Nora now spends some 12 hours a day working for her business. I certainly think this is too much for a woman of her age. In any case, I want her to sell it this year so that she can make preparations for our trip next year. I want to take off as soon as I retire. But Nora seems reluctant. I had looked forward to enjoying this phase of o u r life together.

Nora S. — Richard is so eager to retire that he can't begin his preparations fast enough. But I don't think there is any necessity to hurry like that. I think it would be pleasant for him to relax at home for a while—in the meantime I can take my time about looking around for a satisfactory buyer for my business.

Richard just doesn't realize how hard it is for me to p a r t with my business. I started on less than a shoestring and built it up into something really worthwhile. I had been a homemaker for 30 years, yet I found I was able to make the transition to business-woman very successfully.

I want to travel and loaf with Richard, but I wonder how I'll like it on a full-time basis. Besides, in spite of my husband's confidence, I doubt whether we'll be able to do much on our retirement income.

The Council: As we size up this situation, Richard does understand very well how hard it will be for Nora to part with her business and that is why he is starting his campaign rather early.

Advance planning, however, is no guarantee of successful retirement. The plans have to be right and we wonder whether Richard has thought this through as fully as he can.

Loafing, travel and hobbies are great, but most individuals in physically good condition want something more in their lives. They like to feel that they are part of the activity of the present-day world even though their roles may be more subdued than at an earlier period.

In view of the fact that giving up her business would be a real sacrifice to Nora at this time, we think that Richard should give a little—thought to taking some part in her business. If he spends the next year looking over all aspects of it, he may find a way of playing some role. This would relieve Nora of her heavy responsibilities and may be able to lead a more balanced life of work and recreation together. They may be able to satisfy their wanderlust in vacation trips — and take in a satisfactory income.

FRIDAY

Homemade Cream of Tomato or Vegetable Soup; Scrambled Eggs with Bread Cubes (see Saturday); Buttered Asparagus (fresh frozen); Cheese-stuffed Celery; Hot Tea Biscuits or Cornmeal Muffins; Warm Applesauce; Christmas Cookies; Tea.

Answer:

BARBECUED CHICKEN

(To serve 25). 12½ two or two and one-half lb. broilers or 8 3- or 3½-lb. fryers cut into quarters — plus one additional one-quarter chicken. Barbecue Sauce: 2 cups cider vinegar, 2 tablespoons salt, 2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce, ¾ teaspoon pepper, 2 tablespoons freshly grated onion, 1½ tablespoons paprika, ½ cup tomato paste, 3 cups melted shortening. Clean chickens, wash and dry and cut in halves or quarters as desired. Brush with melted fat using some of the 3-cup amount, place in shallow roasting pans, skin side down, cover and bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 35 minutes until half done. Turn over and brush with Barbecue sauce ingredients which have been well blended. Return to oven to bake for 40 to 50 minute longer or until tender, basting the chicken every 5 minutes with the sauce. Serve the sauce which accumulates in the bottom of the pan with the chicken in bowls or gravy boats. Top off excess fat layer which rises to top.

Five pounds of string beans will serve 25. Since the chicken has a sauce I would advise you to put salt, pepper, monosodium glutamate and butter on the Frenched or cut beans after boiling in as little water as possible.

CHEF'S SALAD

(To serve 25). One cut clove of garlic, 2 large heads of lettuce, cut or broken in bite-size pieces, large bunch of watercress, 1 wafer-thin sliced unpeeled but scored cucumber, 3 chopped hard-cooked eggs, 1 cup chopped celery, 24 rolled anchovy fillets or 2 tablespoons anchovy paste dotted through salad, 1 cup shoe-string strips Swiss cheese, 1 cup (or more) French dressing. Rub wooden bowl well with cut garlic. Sprinkle other ingredients in bowl with French dressing and toss.

Letter: I read Elizabeth C's request for a cookie that is short but not crumbly, no larger than a quarter . . . I inherited this one from my mother-in-law . . . always make them during the Christmas season:

RICH COOKIES

(Courtesy, Leslie H.W.) One-half cup butter, ½ cup SUGAR, 1 egg, vanilla. Cream butter and sugar, add EGG and vanilla. Add ¾ cup flour, twice sifted, and blend well. Drop by teaspoonful and spread with the back of the spoon. Bake 8 to 10 minutes at 350 deg. Makes 4 dozen. (Recipe may be doubled with success. For Christmas look top with holly leaf cut from angelica, bits of maraschino cherry, or half pecan . . . Leslie H.W.

Answer: I think I should add that the flour in this is unsifted before measuring should I not, Leslie? These can be put together, sandwich-like, with rich butter-icing between. Hearty thanks!

Petes Slap Down Irish; Bilts Beaten

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Peterborough Petes of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series, ousted from second place Sunday when Toronto St. Michael's Majors beat them, slapped Majors down Thursday night.

Breaking a 1-1 deadlock after the first period, Petes launched a two-goal rally in the second period and finished ahead 4-1 to return Majors to third spot.

Petes have 27 points, one more than St. Michael's and five more than Guelph Biltmores, who were upset 5-3 by Barrie Flyers in the night's other game. St. Catharines leads the league with 37 points.

Biltmores' loss was their first in 10 games. Danny Patrick led the fired-up Flyers with two goals. Barry Ashbee, Marcel Tessier and Terry Gagne got singles.

Larry Jones scored twice for Biltmores. George Usitalo added the third.

Ford is co-starred with Julia Adams, seen here gathering the women of the town for the start of the perilous trek. On the same program the action adventures sea epic in Technicolor "The Golden Hawk" starring Sterling Hayden and Rhonda Fleming with a cast of thousands. Both features are now showing at the Park Theatre with continuous shows on Saturday starting at 1.00 p.m.

Movie Column

Althea Gibson, Tennis Star, Starts New Career in Movies

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — This week three movie greats—John Wayne, William Holden, and John Ford—were feted at a press luncheon celebrating the start of a film career for a lusty Negro girl who never even acted in a high school play.

Her name is Althea Gibson, and she is one of the leading names in recent tennis history.

The Harlem girl who has conquered the world's best in tennis is here for her movie debut—in fact, her acting debut in any medium. She explained: "No, I never even had a chance to do any acting in school. I've never had any coaching nor anything. I've been too busy travelling all over the world."

She is playing the maid to a southern belle Constance Towers in the Civil War epic, "The Sixteen Soldiers."

How did this come about?

"I don't know about it, my agent called and said they wanted me to come out and make a test for the picture," she said. "So I did, but I didn't know if I'd get it or not. I much would come of it; there

Ski Conditions

TORONTO (CP) — More than half of Ontario's ski centres reported good or excellent skiing Thursday.

The following powder snow conditions were reported, depth of snow on hills in inches: Bracebridge, 20; Collingwood, 13; Dagmar, 6; Flesherton, 8; Hunstville, 8; Lake of Bays, 10; Owen Sound 10; Simcoe Township, 12; Snow Valley, 6; and Woodstock, 4.

Packed snow was reported from Larder Lake, 14; North Bay 6; Orangeville 3; Peterborough, 3; Sudbury 13; and Woodstock, 4.

were a lot of experienced novitiates up for the ride, too."

But she won out, and she reported for work Monday, her first day called for some difficult dialogue scenes, but she came through in championship style.

"At least Mr. Ford said 'Cut! Print it!' So I guess it was all right," she said. "He has been very kind to me."

TOOK IT CALMLY

For a gal who has never acted in her life, Althea certainly took the whole thing calmly. But she explained: "It's not much different from playing in a tournament. The camera is the same as the spectators. I just go out there and do the best I can."

Is there more acting ahead for her?

"I hope so," she said. "I have retired from tennis for a year to see if I can develop other phases of my career. I have three things working for me now: The picture; an album of songs I recorded and my autobiography."

She still retains her amateur status and may return to tennis if her other careers don't take precedence.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

Sammy Pollock's hopes for a 1959 Allan Cup, the Hull-Ottawa Canadiens, have been taking a protracted tour of Ontario Senior "A" centres, and the results to date have been anything but gratifying.

The Hullians had two strikes on them to start when a number of their topflight stars were waylaid with injuries, and expected reinforcements failed to materialize.

The Pollock-mentored crew will be the guests of the Maze tonight, and the Ikemen will be gunning for their eleventh victory in thirteen outings and the fourth in their current win string.

There has been nothing wrong with the Hildebrand-ers' shooting eye recently. They have scored 33 goals in their last five outings, an average of nearly seven goals per game, while in their last two encounters with the enemy from Kingston they fired 85 shots at lanky Lynn Davis, 19 of the pellets finding paydirt.

The Hull-Ottawa crew coached by Lou Pazzador, took a weakened crew to Whitby the other night and were shellacked by the world champions to the tune of 10-4. They played in Cornwall last night but at this writing the score was not available. They double back on Ontario highways today to visit, as was said before, the Allan Cuppers in their Moira hideaway.

Pollock has been negotiating for the services of Connie Broden, a pro who helped Whitby Dunlops to the world championship last year, but so far no clearance has been obtained. However, "Broden might see action against the Macs tonight.

To add to Pollock's headaches, Claude Richard, younger member of the famous hockey family, was slated to undergo a knee cartilage operation on Wednesday. Gillis Tremblay, one of the Hullmen's better players, is put supposed to see action until December 24, and Bob Rousseau, another topnotcher, won't be back in active service until Sunday. Dick Dumouchel is also a doubtful starter in tonight's game.

As far as Broden is concerned he has been cleared by the National Hockey League, but four from the Western League and one American League club must wave on the former Canadian player before he can line up with the Hull-Ottawa lineup.

Broden, it will be recalled, was with Jean Paul Lamirande, one of the last-minute reinforcements given to the Dunlops before they started on their world tournament jaunt to Europe. He was one of the brighter stars of the club and a big factor in their ultimate success. He should be a big asset to the Pollock crew.

The McFarlands, or the "American League 'Old Boys' Association," as they have been unkindly dubbed by Senor Frank Orr, the old timer of the Cornwall Standard Freeholder, will swing down Quebec-province way the first of the week.

They play the Cornwall Cheviots on Sunday afternoon and leave immediately following the game for Shawinigan Falls where they take on the Quebec Aces of the Quebec Hockey League on Monday in the first of a series of three exhibition games with clubs of that league.

On Tuesday they again clash with the Aces, this time in Sherbrooke and on Wednesday they trek to Chicoutimi where they play the Saguenays a night later in the final game of the triumvirate. They will arrive home on Thursday and rest for the following night's tilt with the Cornwall Cheviots.

It will be interesting to note how the Mac stack up with the pros of various vintages in the Quebec League. If it is to any extent, and memory serves us correctly, the Hull-Ottawa Canadiens tied and defeated one of the Quebec League clubs in a two-game series earlier in the season.

BASKETBALL

Any local fellows who might be interested in playing on a Belleville basketball team in a league, including teams from Trenton, Napanee and Picton, can attend the initial organization meeting in the "Y" tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. There is no age limit and the only restriction is that you cannot play for a high school team at the same time. If you can't make the meeting Dave Deneau at WO 2-3434 would appreciate a phone call to indicate your interest.

Don't forget the social get-together at the Elks hall after the game tonight. Come as you are, and meet the boys and their wives.

Tris Speaker Buried in Texas Soil

HUBBARD, Tex. (AP) — The sandy soil of his youth claimed Tris Speaker Thursday as baseball said goodbye to its Grey Eagle.

The man called the greatest centerfielder of all time was buried in a little cemetery on a hill overlooking this town as hometown friends and some of the great names of baseball looked on.

Speaker died Monday of a heart attack after a fishing trip.

Those from baseball attending the services included ex - big le-guers Art Shires, Bobby Reagan, Pete Donohue, Otis Maerin, Fred Marberry, Dale Mitchell, Buster Mills, and Hal Rochester.

Among the officials of baseball here were George Medinger, vice-president of Cleveland Indians when Speaker managed to the world championship in 1920, Spud Goldrick, road secretary of Cleveland; and Dick Butler of Dallas, president of the Texas League.

Ole Arch Wants Return Bout With Yvon In Montreal

Calls Win Most Sensational Of Colorful Fistic Career; Fisherman's Right Surprise

By MURRAY ROSE

Associated Press Sports Writer

MONTREAL (AP) — Archie Moore calls his amazing comeback victory over Yvon Durelle "the most sensational of my career" and says he would like a return light-heavyweight championship bout next June in Montreal ballpark.

"He really surprised me with his right - hand power," said Archie as he relaxed in a steam bath. "He put on a tremendous fight and deserves another shot.

"One thing, though, he'll have to agree me he's have any important fights until then that might spoil the return. He and I can make a lot of money the next time."

FINE WITH DURELLE

"That's great," said Chris Shaban, Durelle's manager. "Yvon deserves at least that fight. I'm sure we'll go along with what Archie wants. Everyone is talking about the great fight. Yvon made a sensational fight and everyone knows now that he might be able to beat Archie the next time."

"He didn't look like any 41 longshot to me, did he?" Archie said he most likely would make a vacation and fighting tour of South America first and very soon.

How much heavyweight king Floyd Patterson and middleweight champion Sugar Ray Robinson? He and manager Jack (Doc) Kearns had mentioned them, too, as possibilities for Archie's next fight.

"I've thought it over," said Archie, "and they're out now. I tried to get them to fight me several times before and they didn't want to. Now let them wait."

UNDERESTIMATED HIS FOE

How did Archie get nailed in the first round?

"I was bobbing and weaving," said Archie, "figuring to set him up on his right side. I didn't think he had much of a right.

"All of a sudden, as I weaved, I got hit with a right.

I didn't know what happened. The first thing I remembered was looking up at Sharkey's face. I said to myself 'what's he looking at me for?'

"Then it struck me that I was on the floor. I could hear the fans yelling and I said to myself 'why don't they stop yelling so I can hear the count?'"

"The first count I heard was five. I said 'I've got to get up.' Then I remember going down again and getting up and going down again. I was woozy. But at the end of the round, the cobwebs were beginning to clear.

WOOZY AGAIN

"He hurt me again in the fifth when I went down. I was woozy again. Everything began to clear up late in the round and I thought I'd better be more careful and use that left hand of mine more."

After that, I was all right. I kept pumping that left in his face and belted him with those short left hooks and rights to the head. He was always dangerous but I knew then I was going to get him because I could feel him weakening. But I was going to do it without making mistakes because I knew this boy was real dangerous with his right."

The antique gladiator, who becomes 42, 43, or 44 this Saturday—take your pick—hasn't been beaten by a light heavyweight in seven years.

"I must man ain't gonna be 42, 43, or 49," said Joe Louis, the old Brown Bomber, who was here for the fight. "The way that man looked, he can't be no more than 30."

Browns, Giants Game May Hinge on Foot

NEW YORK (AP) — The winning margin in next Sunday's vital football game between Cleveland Browns and New York Giants may be decided by a foot the foot belonging to either Lou Groza or Pat Summerall.

Summerall, the Giants' kicking specialist who suffered a leg injury last week and was not expected to play, has made rapid progress in recent days. The Giants' trainer now thinks he will be available. That could mean victory to tie the Browns for the western title.

Groza Browns' great tackle and kicker, is anxious to put a finish ending on what has been a subpar season for him.

If Summerall recovers from his injury, as now seems likely, the game might feature a kicking and scoring duel between the two.

FIELD GOAL KICKER

Summerall leads Groza in field goals, 15 to 9, and holds a one - point scoring edge, 57-56. Lou, however, has booted 33 consecutive pat for the Giant marksman.

Groza, last of the original Browns who began with coach Paul Brown in 1946

Rocket Richard

Was Never All-Round Equal Of Gordie Howe, Says Abel

By BEN OLAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Sid Abel, coach of Detroit Red Wings, says Montreal Canadiens' Maurice Richard is "as opportunist who never was an all-around equal of Gordie Howe."

"Howe is the best player in hockey, great on defence and scores goals when we need them the most," added Abel, a former star skater for Detroit. Abel played on the same line with Howe for several seasons.

The Wings' coach made his comments in rebuttal to Richard's charges that Howe lacks enthusiasm, should hustle more and is used excessively as a penalty-killer.

"Richard has no reason to speak," snapped Abel. "He never was good enough to be used for killing penalties."

"Howe makes everything look easy. But he knows instinctively what to do and does it without too much effort. We'd be in a heck of a fix without him."

Richard, 37, is the National Hockey League's all-time leading scorer with 539 regular season goals. Howe, 30, is a runner-up with 399. The rocket is in his 17th season in the big league and Howe is in his 12th.

"I don't want to take anything away from Richard," Abel added. "He's amazing and I'd take him on my club anytime."

"He's colorful, certainly more so than Howe. But the Canadiens' offensive is geared for Richard to put the puck in the net. Gordie works hard for a lot of his goals."

Top Bowlers On Television

CHICAGO (AP) — Some of the leading men and women bowlers in the United States make their initial bids today for top honors in both world's national tournament. There was a possibility both defending champions would fail to retain their titles.

Eddie Lubanski of Detroit held a fairly comfortable lead as the 16 men finalists started firing in the final 16 games. However, Don Carter of St. Louis, 1957 winner, still was considered in the race for the $5,000 first prize.

In the women's division, the title held by Miss Marion Ladewig of Grand Rapids, Mich., appeared up for grabs. At least seven of the 16 finalists, including Mrs. Ladewig, were considered in a position to take the crown.

Tonight's final match will be televised by NBC starting at 10 P.M. EST, replacing the regular Friday night bowling program.

Stamps Lick Quakers 6-3

SASKATOON (CP) — Calgary Stampeders spoiled Saskatoon's chance to emerge from last place in the Western Hockey Leagues prairie division, defeating the Quakers 6-3 Thursday night. The win put the second-place Stamps within three points of leading Edmonton.

Calgary was rugged with two misconduct penalties late in the third period. Rino Robazza and Howie Glover drew the 10-minute sentences, both for unexemplimentary remarks to referee Al Paradise.

Peg Honors Blue Bombers

WINNIPEG (CP)—The city of Winnipeg honored the Grey Cup champion Winnipeg Blue Bombers Thursday night, passing out gold signet rings to the players, coaches, manager, equipment men and club president.

There wasn't a humble during the entire proceedings as the Bombers moved up to centre ice—a miniature of Winnipeg Stadium set in the middle of the dining tables — to receive the rings from Alderman F. W. Crawford, who was carrying the ball for absent Mayor Stephen Juba.

The dinner was tendered by the city for Bombers' 33-28 victory over Hamilton Tiger-Cats in the Grey Cup final at Vancouver.

Only two imports—end Ernie Ladd and defensive end Herbie Gray — were on hand for the event. The remainder have returned to their homes in the United States.

Arch Thought Of Old Lady Small Boy

MONTREAL (AP) — One of Archie Moore's first thoughts after he'd survived four knockdowns to win the light heavyweight championship Wednesday night was of a woman in her 90s and an 11-year-old boy he first met only two months ago.

Interviewed by television announced Jack Dress seconds after he had kayoed Yvon Durelle, Archie said he wanted to send his regards to the woman and the boy in a La Jolla, Calif., hospital.

Reporters asked him to elaborate.

"The woman is about 95 I guess and she is confined to bed most of the time," Archie said. "I don't remember her name. The boy is Ian McLean. He's 11, and was having trouble with his eyes. He learned about them from our baby's private nurse, a Mrs. Davies, in San Diego. She asked me if I could visit them and cheer them up.

"The woman is a remarkable person. Why she can even read newspaper without her glasses. Imagine, at that age.

"I hoped they both were watching (the fight) and I said hello to them on television hoping I would make them feel better."

Cub Players Given Access To Club's Financial Status

CHICAGO (AP)—In what is believed to be an unprecedented move by a club owner, Phil Wrigley of Chicago Cubs is going to throw open his ledgers to his players.

First baseman Dale Long, the Cubs' player representative, will look over the books Monday.

"The light of truth is the strongest argument," Wrigley said Thursday. "Remove the aura of secrecy and it's no longer a cause for suspicion. The thing I want Dale Long and the players to learn is that gross receipts and net income are vastly different things."

Wrigley created something of a furore in 1957 when it became known the Cubs were paying players'on an incentive basis — boosting salaries as rewards for their play.

"Our policy has been that we want our players to be well paid and we impress on them that the rewards come from team play," a Cub executive said.

SOX BOOKS CLOSED

Charles Comiskey, vice-president of Chicago White Sox, said his books will remain closed.

"I consider our books nobody's business except the stockholders. I have discussed figures and percentages on our operation with Sherm Lollar, Sox players' representative, but letting him look at the books is something else again."

Club owners last week in Washington voted unanimously against a players' association proposal that players' salaries in the future be equal to 20 per cent of the gross intake of each club.

Most teams at that time said more than 20 per cent of their total operating cost goes toward players' salaries.

The Cubs, however, wanted time to check their Wrigley Field figures, which include rent received from the Chicago Bears professional football team.

The Tribune says the Cubs now have determined beyond question they are paying their players in excess of the 20 per cent.

WITHHOLDS ACTION

SEATTLE (CP) — President Al Leader of the Western Hockey League says he will withhold action on a squabble between the coach of Edmonton Flyers and the manager of Saskatoon Quakers "until I can talk to the principals." Coach Tony Leswick of Edmonton was quoted as saying the Saskatoon players "deliberately sought to cripple" his skaters. Saskatoon coach Frank Boucher said he would demand that Leswick substantiate his charges. "I know he can't. I'm going to ask Mr. Leader to suspend him."

Cornwall Edges Hull-Ottawa, Trappers Muzzle Greyhounds

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

The hard-time clubs had a good time Thursday night in Ontario senior hockey.

In the Eastern OHA league, the second-last Cornwall Chevies outscored Hull-Ottawa Canadiens 3-2 to move within two points of the junior Hawks and pull four points ahead of Kingston Merchants.

In OHA-NOHA play, the last-place North Bay Trappers came in wrath to club the third-place Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds 6-2 at North Bay. But the Trappers have a long way to go; they still trail the fifth-place Windsor Bulldogs by five points.

At Cornwall, Brian McClay, Bill Burke and Gord Houghton built the Chevies margin. Johnny Bucyk and Guy Blaek scored for Hull-Ottawa.

The Trappers' display of power at North Bay set the 1,311 fans on the edges of their seats. Cleland Mortson, an old Soo hand, fired three goals. Stan Maxwell, playing coach Chuck Scherza and Ken Gribbons got the other three.

John Offidani saved the Greyhounds from a shutout.

Ottawa Riders Seek Top U.S. Draft Choice

OTTAWA (CP) — Rough Rider coach Frank Clair said today that quarterback Randy Duncan, top college player in the United States this year, will end up wearing Ottawa colors.

The Big Four coach said following a club executive meeting Thursday that he is convinced the 22-year-old passing whiz, who leads his Iowa State University teammates into the Bowl New Year's Day, will accept Ottawa's offer rather than the Green Bay Packers who had first choice in this year's NFL draft.

Clair had just returned from a recruiting tour through the U.S. He did not say what his offer to Duncan involved.

Large Canadian Industry Moves Plant to Jamaica

PRESTON, Ont. (CP)—Sunny Jamaica, which for years has beckoned Canada's tourists, is drawing its first dividend from a new economic sign—a $7,500,000 Canadian industry.

After 12 years in this Western Ontario industrial town, George Pattison and Co., Ltd., woollen blanket and cloth makers, has almost completed plans for the wholesale removal of the manufacturing plant to the island next year.

All that remains is the signing of contracts and selection of a site, probably near Kingston, a company spokesman said today.

Machinery will be ripped out of the Preston plant next May and by the end of the year the company expects to be back in production in Jamaica.

Its lure: The island offers duty-free imports of raw materials and fuel, tax exemption for seven years, big Commonwealth markets through imperial preference, and cheaper labor.

The planned move is a triumph for Jamaica's trade ministry and its government-sponsored industrial development corporation. The ministry sent a trade mission to Canada last spring. Pattisons was one of a number of firms that got invitations to consider opening factories in Jamaica.

When the firm showed interest, the IDC sent experts to discuss potential savings and promised help with recruiting workers and choosing a site.

The development corporation says negotiations are going on with several firms. A spokesman said it is natural to name them.

Pattisons will vacate most of the factory space on its present 30-acre site, retaining only its sales department in Preston.

As a beginning, says factory controller J. Bregman, all materials produced in Jamaica will be shipped to Preston for distribution.

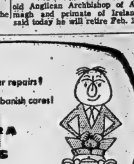
The firm said it hopes the 250 workers whose jobs will disappear in the reshuffle will be absorbed three ways.

First: A small proportion would go to Jamaica as supervisory and training staff. Jobs would be found for others on the sales staff.

The remainder, Mr. Bregman hoped, would find employment with firms who would move into the space vacated by Pattisons. "Already we have had inquiries from firms interested in leasing it," he said.

He said there have been no representations so far from the shop union which represents the employees affected.

"We expect they will accept the matter as it stands.



"We have always been on good terms with our employees, some of whom have been with us many years, and as far as possible we will see no one loses a job."

PRIMATE TO RETIRE

BELFAST (AP) — Dr. John Allen Fitzgerald Gregg, 85-year-old Anglican Archbishop of Armagh and primate of Ireland, said today he will retire Feb. 19.

Some Strikers' Wives Defying Union, See Mayor

SUDBURY" (CP) — Strikers' wives who don't see eye to eye with the union in its conduct of a strike against the International Nickel Company of Canada planned to see Mayor Joe Fabbro of Sudbury today and ask him to intercede in the dispute.

One group of wives said they would disregard the request of president Mike Solski of Local 598 of the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers (ind.) that they postpone the proposed meeting.

Another group agreed to abide by the request and to drop the meeting idea, at least for the present.

MAYOR READY

Mayor Fabbro said he plans to be at Sudbury arena to see any of the women who show up for the meeting. Earlier he said he would ask Reeve Bill Ellis of McKim Township and Reeve Don Gillis of Neelon-Garson Township to be on hand too.

The decision to call on the mayor to intervene is the stirke which began 81 days ago was reached after a meeting Wednesday night at the union hall during which heated debate developed. At one point a number of women walked out of the hall, contending the meeting was "rigged."

Mrs. Lisa Breen, wife of one of the strikers, said she felt "strikers should be given a chance to express themselves in a supervised secret vote on whether or not they wish to return to work."

SOLSKI'S PLEA

Solski said: "We appreciate the support by our women in the conflict. However, in the interests of co-operation with the Ontario government in its efforts to bring about further meetings we have asked them to call off their plan until further meetings with the union either committee are held."

Government - sponsored talks broke down Nov. 28 when the union turned down a company offer of a three-year contract with no wage increases in the first year but increases of one per cent and 1½ per cent in the other two.

The union instead called for a three - year agreement with increase of 2½ per cent in each year. It originally asked for an eight-per-cent front in the average $2.32 hourly rate.

The strike, called by Mine-Mill Sept. 21, has made idle more than 14,000 workers at Inco plants at Sudbury and Port Colborne.

ELECTION

"I heartily concur," said Mayor Gerald B. Hyde of Belleville.

Mayor Michael Patrick of Windsor said it is "very much exciting" and so did Mayor John Dewart of Peterborough.

Mayor Hubert Bastedo of Port William said it would eliminate the possibility of elected members affecting voting in neighboring municipalities. He also said the voting holiday should be earlier in the year to avoid bad weather.

In Toronto, Mayor Nathan Phillips was unavailable for comment but city clerk Edgar Norris called it "a very good idea."

"I can see no reason to have uniformity throughout the province," said Mayor William Mills of Kingston. "If ever our present system of local autonomy."

Mayor Lyman Gifford of Oshawa said if adopted they were a holiday even fewer persons might vote. If it fell on a Monday the voters would leave town for a long weekend.

Mayor David Hastings of Guelph, at 28 the youngest mayor in Canada, said a later remedy would be for employers to heed the Election Act and give their workers specific time off in which to vote.

Unanimous-elected two-year terms of office were favored by Mayor Hawkins of Niagara Falls and Mayor Leslie Saville, Mayor Cox of Stratford and Mayor Dewart of Peterborough.

Mayor Gifford of Oshawa said he would result in less continuity. He favored electing half the members of a city council one year and the other half in the following year, with mayoralty elections every year.

Mayor Patrick of Windsor said he doesn't think a standardized two-year term has any particular advantage. It had no bearing on efforts to increase the vote.

It was regarded as a matter for local autonomy by Mayor Jackson of Hamilton, Mayor Mills of Kingston and Mayor Hastings of Guelph.

Mayor Hastings also said enlarging municipal councils would lead to cumbersome and unwieldy civic government. Councils should be for "small and efficient," he said.

JURY

"The shocking part of the whole affair was that only one of the dozen or so officials of both companies questioned during proceedings considered the investigation important enough to stay and hear the jury's decision, Mr. Silk continued.

"They are plainly not interested," he told the court room.

Before the jury adjourned, Mr. Silk said evidence had shown lack of knowledge of the code of standards governing pipeline installation by those in the gas business and its allied industries at all levels.

If necessary, he said, the jury's plan for inspection will mean tripling the staff of gas mains in Ontario. Only in this way could qualified inspectors see whether mains had been laid according to code specifications.

EXTEND STATE OF SIEGE

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — The Argentine house voted today to extend indefinitely the state of siege decreed 30 days ago. It is a modified form of martial law invoked by the trium fvirdnl as a means of curbing what he called a series of insurrectional strikes led by Peronists and Communists.

MORE CHARGES

TORONTO (CP) — Charges of shoplifting, theft and receiving against 13 Metropolitan Toronto police officers and one former police constable were increased to a total of 103 when they appeared in court Thursday. The 45 new charges, laid against 10 of the men, were nearly all for theft of goods worth less than $50. The accused were remanded on $2,000 bail. Their cases will be heard Jan. 14.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Saturday, December 13

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — In order to get a true picture of your financial standing at present, it is important you take stock of revenue as against expenses and comments on personal ambitions and dreams. Get your social and business affairs nicely segregated.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — Here is a day when outside activities and regular partnership matters appear to be crackling with one another. You are not getting your time scheduled properly. Adjust this and all will be well. Use utmost diplomacy.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — You would be unwise to follow those new ideas you picked up lately in conjunction with present activities, fellow workers and close ties. Stick to the tried and true, go it alone as much as you can and come up on top.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — You have your heart set on a fine and enjoyable day of recreation as best suits your particular temperament, but either money problems or a closte tie puts a dampener on this. Get dating attended early, then be off just the same P.M. and have fun.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — A weather-vane sort of associate could taday annoy an important close tie who is steady and very capable. Better see that they do not meet and theerby you benefit from both, who mean much in your life right now. Schedule hours nicely.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — You are very alive mentally today to ways and means of increasing efficiency and output, but a strange-acting fellow worker stands in the way. Relax and reason with him or her and you will eventually get support you want. Be happy.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — Fun is what appeals to you today, which is quite all right, provided you do not go overboard financially. Also, take time to please a business bigwig who is your friend and can be very helpful in the fouire.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — Be clever and do not permit yourself to be caught in an argument with a relative. And since you could be very cutting today, this would only lose you a valuable future ally. Be as objective as you can, use energies fruitfully.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Private worry could really set you back today when you have so many things to accomplish, if you permit. Stewing and fretting over the inevitable does no good, but constructive activity works wonders. Run the good race.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Take care you do nothing to upset the present setup where property is concerned, since future abundance depends on sitting firm now. Take the advice of dependable, loyal friend and make no changes.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Mighty important you look and feel your best today. See those persons who can help you, if necessary. Then take care you do not argue with an authority, but impress him or her with your true friendliness. Be good to yourself.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — Fortunately, today many novel ideas and system come to your attention which you would contemplply set aside ordinarily. Give them your undivided attention and resolve to adopt some of these fine innovations. Expand.

If your child is born today . . . The fine child born today will when grown have the happy faculty of utilizing the most modern methods and things in conjunction with what seems antiquated and almost obsolete. This is a rare gift and you should give your progeny the benefit of a thorough education for highest attainment. Good chart for government work, anything connected with philanthropy, and all work before the general public.

Sunday School Lesson

Let's Get on With the Work

BY ROY L. SMITH

A vast amount of time, energy and piety is being wasted by religious people who are more concerned about the theological quibbles, doctrinal differences, and ecclesiastical trifles than they are about achieving the objectives of Jesus. It is about time someone arose to say, "Let's get on with the work!"

THERE IS NO OTHER PLAN

Dr. S. D. Gordon, the popular religious writer of a generation ago, had an effective story he was accustomed to tell about a conversation that went on in heaven between Jesus and one of the Old Testament prophets. It seems that our Lord had just returned from his harrowing experience among men, and the aged saint asked, "What are you going to do now? They killed you, rejected you, and buried you. What is your plan for redeeming the earth?

"Well," said Jesus, "there's Matthew, and Peter, and Mary and Martha, and the leper whom I healed. I left the message with them."

"But suppose that Peter goes back to fishing, and that Matthew gets his job back with the Roman government and begins collecting taxes once more. And suppose that Mary and Martha get discouraged. What then?"

"I have no other plan," the Master replied.

LESSON FROM COMMUNISTS

Christians could learn a lesson by taking a leaf out of the communists' book. Mr. J. Edgar Hoover, in his very recent book entitled Masters of Deceit describes the way in which the communists infiltrate their way into respectable organizations and contrive to secure actions, resolutions, and interests favorable to their cause.

It is a known fact that the total number of actual communists in the United States is well under the 100,000 mark, but the influence they wield far outweighs all such statistics. If the Christians, on the other hand, were as zealous in presenting their viewpoint and testimony, they could transform the nation over night for they have the numbers.

Every card-carrying communist puts the cause of his party above every other interest in his life. There have been those instances in which individuals have even been required to divorce their spouse after years of happiness together for the sake of promoting the communist cause, and the demand has been acceded to. Suppose that the testimony which says, "I can do all things through Christ which strengtheneth me" is as a little difficult to argue with an exact experience.

The Uniform Sunday School lessons for December 15: "JESUS SHARES HIS MINISTRY," Mark 6:35-13, 30-44.

RELIGION OF JESUS WORKS

The true testimony concerning the religion of Jesus is not the argument that convinces the disbeliever in some doctrine, but the testimony of a changed life because for Christ enjoyed any such comparable loyalty!

Centenary

CENTENARY — Mr. and Mrs. Earle Bonisteel of Frankford spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Roy Thrasher.

Pleased to report that Mrs. Phil Ray is home from the Belleville General Hospital much improved in health.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Hart spent the ten hour on Wednesday with Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Ray.

On Sunday an impressive White Gift service was held in Centenary United Church. The children presented their gifts which were received by Mrs. Mac Nobes and Mrs. Dawson Douglas and laid under two decorated Christmas trees. These gifts were later given to the Salvation Army for distribution. Mr. Reg. Edmondson and Mr. Elger Ray assisted Rev. R. Rickard in the service.

Girl's Tongue Freezes to Pane of Glass

MOUNT FREEDOM, N.J. (AP) — Jenny Lee, 5, stuck her tongue out at her brother. It took an hour and an ectyplene torch to get it back in.

Jenny and Billy Lee, 8, were waiting for a school bus. It was two above zero.

Billy went inside a phone booth and stuck his tongue against the glass. Jenny stuck hers against the colder outside glass. It froze to the pane.

While Jenny stuck to the booth, Billy went for help. He got Charles Winters, a service station attendant who got an acetylene torch and heated the glass gradually until Jenny's tongue came free.

Mrs. Lee took her to hospital for a tetanus shot.

Weathermen See Little Hope of Any Change

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Nearly all of Canada lay gripped in a vast Arctic air mass today and the weathermen see little hope of a change until next week.

Vancouver was the only major city to escape zero temperatures overnight. But that west coast area had troubles of its own with fog.

From the British Columbia interior down through to the Maritimes generally clear skies pushed the mercury down.

A storm which dumped from one to 14 inches of snow on Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island Friday whirled into Newfoundland with a mixture of sleet and driving drizzle.

Chill air is following behind the storm which is expected to blow itself out off North Atlantic tonight.

MERCURY DIPS OVERNIGHT

Overnight temperatures in Newfoundland and Nova Scotia were in the low 20s. New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island the mercury dipped to around the zero mark.

Quebec and Ontario also had a chilly night with Montreal, Ottawa and Toronto registering four degrees, three below and 11 respectively.

Northern Ontario temperatures fell to zero and below. At North Bay the overnight low was zero at Kapuskasing below and at Little River 22 degrees below. Lakehead had 11 degrees below zero.

The deep freeze continued on the Prairies with these overnight lows: Winnipeg -16, Regina -5, Saskatoon -4, Edmonton 1 and Calgary 8.

It was a little boy from Texas who wrote to Santa Claus and asked, "What can I do for you?"

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: — The prevailing cold weather continues unabated across Canada from the Rockies to Newfoundland and there is no relief in sight.

Snowflurries are occurring near the Great Lakes. Otherwise skies are clear over Ontario.

A disturbance in Texas will move eastward through the Gulf of Mexico today and then northeastward along the Atlantic coast on Sunday. It provides a slight threat of snow to Southern Ontario Sunday but present indications point to the snow area remaining east of the province.

The forecast for today and Sunday calls for continued cold weather with mainly sunny skies in Northern Ontario and snowflurries in Southern Ontario.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Four gunmen, one of them disguised as a patrolman, stormed the home of a well-to-do building contractor Friday night. They ran into a police ambush and a barrage of bullets.

One gunman was killed. Two others were wounded critically. The fourth escaped.

Deputy police chief Edgar Scott said the four men had intended to kidnap Felix Marchegiani, 61. A tip from the FBI foiled the plot.

Marchegiani was shot in the shoulder during the gunfire that almost wrecked the living room of his home. The wound was not considered serious. The FBI tipped police that a gang planned to kidnap Marchegiani, take him to his office in suburban Coral Hills, Md., and force him to open his safe.

HOUSE STAKED OUT

Two detectives took Marchegiani's wife and the county's chief child, Antoinette, 19, upstairs and then hid in a bedroom. Three detectives crouched behind living-room furniture.

Four policemen were deployed in cars near the house.

Almost four hours later the gunman showed up in two cars and Marchegiani shouted the clue.

"This is a holdup," one of the men said. "Where is your money?"

The man and a companion marched the contractor up the stairs and into the bedroom where Mrs. Marchegiani and the daughter had been sent — and where the cops detectives were hiding.

The officers, fearing they might hit one of the family if they fired into the room, remained hidden.

BULLETS FLY

Just then one of the two gunmen spotted detective Leonard Krapf behind a living room curtain. He fired at Krapf.

But Krapf and the other officers began shooting, all four gunmen dashed for the door. Police believe they got three of them. The fourth escaped.

The dead man was identified as Raleigh Morton of Washington and the injured as Gene C. Sandusky, 35, and Charles L. Cross, 38. They were charged with assault with intent to rob and kill.

BLIND RIVER (CP) — Fred Switlyk, a 30-year-old laborer from Sprague, Ont., was killed Thursday night when struck by a car while walking along Highway 17. Police said the car was driven by Hans Persson of Elliot Lake.

Kenneth Giroux, 38, clenches his fists and weeps in helpless anguish as his wife, Eris, 33, lies trapped beneath the undercarriage of an auto which struck her in nearby Lakewood.

Mrs. Giroux, pinned 20 minutes until the auto was lifted by a wrecker, was hospitalized. Her condition was reported as not serious. (AP Wirephoto.)

STUCK FREIGHTER PLUGGING ROUTE TO OPEN OCEAN

Squats Stubbornly in Lachine Canal

MONTREAL (CP) — The barrel-bowed Canadian freighter Westcliffe Hall squatted stubbornly in a Lachine Canal lock Friday night, defying the ingenuity of canal crews trying to move her and plugging the route to Montreal harbor.

The unseasonable sub-zero cold continued to make ice as fast as chilled and weary canal crews could smash it; ice has piled up in the St. Lawrence below Montreal, blocking access to the sea and trapping ships.

And it has chilled the dreams of shipping men who have championed Quebec City as a winter port.

Behind the Westcliffe Hall were eight downbound ships, including three foreign freighters.

They were the last of more than 40 ocean and canal ships that would have been trapped inland for the winter had the canal closing deadline been enforced on schedule a week ago.

FRUITCRS CROWDED

Two trucks, two tugs and another ship were used Friday night to try to drag the Westcliffe Hall through the ice-plastered Cote St. Paul lock. The

Foreign Ministers Assemble To Fix West Berlin Policy

PARIS (AP) — Foreign ministers of the Soviet Union and the Three Plus West Germany gathered today to plan what to do about Russian efforts to get them out of West Berlin.

Advance indications were that they would take a firm stand for maintaining Western protection of the city 110 miles behind the Iron Curtain.

State Secretary Dulles of the U.S., Selwyn Lloyd of Britain, Maurice Couve de Murville of France and Heinrich von' Brentano of West Germany will meet Sunday to begin studying Khrushchev's Nov. 27 note.

Any decisions they reach will be reported to foreign ministers of the other 11 Atlantic alliance powers, who are expected to join in a united front against the Soviet move. The regular December meeting of NATO foreign ministers and other officials opens in Paris Tuesday.

Dulles flew in from Washington on the presidential plane, before leaving, he had accused Moscow of going back on its own pledges when Premier Khrushchev proposed to make West Berlin an unarmed free city.

Berlin was not on the official agenda for the NATO meeting but was certain to assume a large place in the discussions, as the military talks within NATO have indicated support for a firm stand by the big powers.

There was a wide variety of opinion, however, on just how much firmness should be expressed in the formal answer to Khrushchev. London, Washington and Paris have made it plain in their informal comments that they do not intend to be squeezed out of Berlin, which they have maintained troops by joint agreements signed by the Russians.

Khrushchev gave the west six months to get out of West Berlin. Russia warned Thursday that any Western attempt to cross East Germany without the regime's permission would be considered aggression against the entire Soviet bloc. A nuclear war could result, the Soviet news agency Tass said. This was seen by some as a warning against rearming Western garrisons in the city.

MINERS' WIVES URGE RETURN TO WORK AT INCO

Defy Striking Husbands in Issue

SUDBURY (CP)—An emotion-charged meeting of 2,000 women, held in open defiance of a union leader's order, issued an appeal Friday to get their striking husbands back to work because "our children are suffering."

The women, gathered in the community hockey arena, encored resolutions calling for a vote by members of the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers (Ind.) to end the International Nickel Company strike, which has run for 43 days.

"As wives and mothers we are shocked by the way the union is destroying our homes," one resolution read. "But most of all we are upset by the fact that our children are suffering and many have not a lot of food and clothing."

The meeting nearly turned into bedlam at one point when Mayor Joe Fabbro, acting as chairman, read the resolutions and called for a vote. He banged down on cries of "scab" echoed above the pandemonium.

Mr. Fabbro finally got the meeting back to order.

The arena meeting was suggested by the mayor after a group of elderly women began organizing a march on city hall to demand municipal intervention in the long and costly Inco dispute. Mr. Fabbro suggested it would be too cold standing in front of city hall and offered the women use of the arena.

Mike Solski, president of Local 598, the meeting's sponsor, said he hurt the union's stand and called for a boycott. Women entering the arena were handed leaflets by union members which called the idea disorganized and untimely.

FORM RESOLUTIONS

The four resolutions presented to the audience were drawn up by the mayor by Mrs. Leon Breen who headed the chief organizers of the meeting.

One urged district municipal leaders to act at once to call a meeting of the Inco and union negotiating committees.

Two addressed to Mr. Solski asked the union to agree to new talks and accept the terms of a wage increase in the first year of a new contract.

"We are prepared to see our husbands go back to work under the old-hour week without gains', one read.

The 1,000 Inco workers here were on a 32-hour week prior to the strike because of lack of production cutbacks due to a slumping world nickel market.

The Mines local held a vote of all Inco employees who pay dues

Declines in Total Shipping Tonnage on Great Lakes Seen

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A marked increase in foreign shipping but declines in total shipping and tonnages has been reported by Great Lakes ports this year.

All but a trickle of shipping will be dislodged in the next few days with the close of the navigation season on the canals at Welland and Sault Ste. Marie.

Figures on 1958 traffic are still incomplete but they are expected to show that use of the lakes by foreign ships increased by about 20 per cent, a prelude to next year's opening of the St. Lawrence Seaway.

The seaway facilities are expected to attract a flood of ocean vessels into the inland waters. At Toronto, where foreign vessels unloaded 200,000 tons of cargo in 1957, a port official says the foreign increase is expected to be 34 per cent. About 300 foreign ships are located at Hamilton, up 100 from 1957.

Total tonnage through the Welland Canal up to Dec. 1 was 39,896,964 compared with 22,134,000 tons at the same date a year earlier. It was carried by 3,584 vessels, a drop of about 500 from the 1957 figure.

Most other points do not have figures completed but the general traffic trend is believed to be lower than that of a year ago. Port spokesman note that 1957 traffic was among the record volumes of 1956.

Grain shipping maintained its pace. Wheat is being shipped through the Welland Canal rose to 3,414,000 from 208,000 a year earlier Grain handling at the elevator at Owen Sound topped 11,000,000 bushels, to 2,000,000. That port's grain storage facilities were almost empty by the twin cities of Hamilton and the Canadian section of the canal closed Friday to the American lock remains open.

City of London Will Sue Queen For Possession of Old Roman Can

LONDON (AP)—The coroner of the ancient City of London and the jury in an informal inquest on an old can Friday.

Before them was not a mangled body, but a handsome metal container, about a foot high and available for cigars or possibly ale.

They decided it was an object of great value to the City's treasure trove; and that it belongs to the Queen.

The affair of the canister stirred up the dust of ancient British law. The canister was brought here by Romans who occupied Britain from 55 B.C. to Britain era. It was found four years ago by construction workers digging a basement in the old city, unearthed an old Mithras temple.

The Mithras cult was a religious movement with a strong leaning among Romans in Britain.

British law says broadly that anything lost becomes the property of the finder if the owner cannot be found. But this does not apply to treasure trove,"—valuable objects which have been hidden.

Frequently, in olden times, such hidden objects were stolen property, concealed to outwit the law. So, if discovered and unclaimed, the sovereign took possession.

The coroner, ancient law provides, holds an inquest to determine whether an object is a treasure trove, and so the matter, made partly of gold, was brought to court.

Professor William Francis Grimes, an archaeologist, testified the canister undoubtedly was hidden to keep it away from Christians, a common practice during the Mithras cult. He estimated it had been hidden—under some roofing tiles—about the year 300 A.D.

Coroner J. Milner Helme and his jury then ruled formally that it was a treasure trove and belongs to the Queen.

Now had it been found anywhere else, that would be the end of it. But the City of London, a few square miles in which financial houses and shipping firms are situated, has a special charter under which the sovereign agrees to surrender treasure troves to the community.

So now the City of London will institute the appropriate suit. The Queen undoubtedly will not oppose it, and the canister will come to rest in a City of London museum.

Youth Whom Family Befriended Slew Mother and Her 4 Children

EL CAJON, Calif. (AP) — A homeless youth a family had befriended was sought today for slashing four children to death and shooting their mother.

The six-foot-four-inch youth had been living with the Pendergasts for a long time, usually doing odd jobs around the house.

Thomas J. Pendergast discovered the bodies of his wife and children, but not before the youth, identified as Charles Harrison of Rochester, N.Y., had disappeared.

Pendergast, an aircraft worker, said Harrison was waiting for him outside the house when he arrived home from work Friday night. The teen-ager aimed a rifle at him and said:

"I have a cop tied up in the house. You're going to drive us out of here."

Pendergast drove at gunpoint toward San Diego, 10 miles away. On the outskirts of the city the youth ordered him into a service station rest room so they could exchange clothing. The man grabbed the gun away from Harrison and then slipped outside and disappeared.

Pendergast told police he had picked up Harrison hitchhiking last Nov. 2.

"He told me he had run away from home in Rochester because his father had taken his college money away," said Pendergast. "He was a quiet, studious-appearing boy and was a big help to my wife around the house."

Politicians, Generals, Press Get Ready for War - - Eaton

CLEVELAND (CP) — Getting ready for a third world war has become the chief preoccupation of the United States government, Cleveland industrialist Cyrus Eaton said today.

He said in an address to the City Club of Cleveland that the "overwhelming majority" of U.S. politicians, generals and journalists are "relentlessly driving us toward war."

Eaton, 74-year-old native of Pugwash, N.S., who heads an empire of railway, steel and utility interests, gave what he said would be the last of a series of speeches following a visit this year to the Soviet Union.

A summary of his remarks was released to the press in advance of delivery.

He described the politicians, generals and journalists as a "truculent trinity" which "heedlessly fans the flames of blind hatred against the Communist world, while blatantly besting the

First Attempt To Fire Primate Into Space By U.S.

Though Cone on Target, Hunt for It Abandoned

WASHINGTON (AP)—The search for a nose cone of a U.S. army Jupiter missile which carried a monkey 600 miles into the air has been given up, the army announced this morning.

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) The U.S. Army fired a monkey into space early today in the nose cone of a missile. But the chances of recovering the tiny rider alive appeared slim.

Hours after the firing of the Jupiter intermediate-range ballistic missile at 4 a.m. EST there still was no announcement of the fate of the little squirrel monkey nicknamed variously Gordo—and "Little Old Reliable."

"We haven't given up, we're still trying, but the chances don't look good," one source close to the project said, referring to attempts to recover the monkey alive from the South Atlantic.

FIRST ATTEMPT

This was the first attempt by American scientists, as far as is known, to fire an animal into a brief journey into space and bring it back alive.

Scientists already know from the flight of about 15 minutes that the monkey as well as he soared some 600 miles high into space.

The missile narhead but the predetermined target area more than 1,500 miles from the launching site. However, indications were that the U.S. Navy recovery team that awaited the nose cone's re-entry into the earth's atmosphere apparently ran into trouble.

If all had gone well the self-powered cone and its precious cargo should have been retrieved from the Atlantic in the space of about two hours at tie most.

NO ADVERSE CHANGE

In Washington, Capt. Norman A. Ritter of the army medical corps said information radioed back from the monkey's flight indicated gravity-free travel does not cause adverse physical change.

Barr called this the most significant finding so far in the monkey's rocket flight.

In his statement, Barr said:

"The heart rate was only slightly accelerated and the electro-cardiogram was normal and throughout the entire period of observation. . . ."

Nearly two hours after the 4 a.m. EST launching Brig.-Gen. Clark Barclay issued a statement of the army ballistic missile agency, announced in Washington that the nose cone hit in the expected target area. Navy vessels were searching for it.

The Jupiter's maximum range is 1,500 miles but the rocket was declined to say how far the mis-

Four Former Iraqi Leaders Are Executed

BEIRUT, Lebanon (Reuters)—Four former Iraqi leaders sentenced to death last month on spy charges and conspiracy have been executed, it was reported here today.

They were former premiers Fadhil Jamali and Ahmed Mukhtar Baban, former Defence Minister Birhandeddin Bashayan and the former army chief of staff, Gen. Rafiq Aref.

Jamali's wife is the former Sarah Pamadi of Regina. She met the Iraqi statesman when they were students at Columbia University in New York. They married in 1932.

STILL IN IRAQ

Mrs. Jamali still is living in Iraq and is back at her government job there.

"I am living with my son as before and holding the same government position," she told a correspondent in Baghdad this week. "The less publicity I get the better."

The executions were reported by an Arab nationalist source in Beirut.

Ahmed Baban was premier of Iraq at the time of the July coup in which King Faisal and Nuri Said, premier of the Iraqi-Jordan union, were slain.

FORMER UN DELEGATE

—Jamali, 56, a former United Nations delegate, was premier in 1953 and 1954 and was regarded as a strong pro-Western. He was one of the architects of the Baghdad Pact.

News of the executions came amid reports here that the Iraqi police chief, Tahsr Yahyia, and a former education minister, Jafar Omar, have been arrested in Iraq.

Rashid Ali Gaylani, veteran Iraqi nationalist leader, was reported to have been arrested at his home in Baghdad last Sunday.

These Arab nationalist sources said today that Rashid Ali Gaylani was arrested on the new year's exile and that his nephew, Muhammad Gaylani, and a brother, Abdul Rahim Rawi, were also executed.

Christmas Card Buyers Have Widest Choice in Many Years

Looking for a special Christmas card to send the boss, postman, favorite secretary or garbage collector? Well you won't have any trouble finding just the card you want this year.

For local Christmas card buyers have the widest possible variety of cards to choose from this season, and in larger quantities than ever before.

Up to 110 different styles of boxed cards are being offered for sale, four times as many individual cards range "into the hundreds," local card retailers state.

Price of boxed cards range anywhere from 59 cents to $4.50 for a collection of 12 cards. The average price of "good quality" cards is around $1.50 or $1.50 a box. Individual cards sell anywhere from 1 cents to $1 for the larger, gaudier style card.

"The biggest sales are on better quality cards this year," one local stationery store proprietor stated, in noting he had a large surplus of cheaper priced cards on hand.

Christmas card retailers estimate sales have increased between 15 and 20 per cent this year over last year's volume of sales. One store even opens a special Christmas card department in the basement this year.

The Postmaster General estimates an $8,000,000 business in the sale of Christmas cards in Canada this season.

BIG RUSH ANTICIPATED

While sales have been selling well since November, a big rush is anticipated this week-end. One merchant estimates he sells approximately 75 per cent of his total stock of Christmas cards between December 10 and 17.

The most popular type of boxed cards sold this year are those containing about 25 cards all of one design.

As one card retailer explained: "People this year are sticking out a style of card they like best when buying and buy three boxes of them, rather than buying boxes of cards containing three or four different style cards.

Among the "best sellers" in boxed cards this season are those containing religious messages of hope and faith by Norman Vincent Peal, poems by Edgar A. Guest, reproductions of paintings by such well known artists as Frank Panasoker Tom Roberts, Emily Sartain, and illustrator Norman Rockwell. Reproductions of original Currier and Ives paintings of country winter scenes are also popular.

COME LONG WAY

Christmas cards have come a long way in style and design since their inception approximately 113 years ago. An English educator and art patron, Henry Cole, is believed to have originated the now world-wide custom in London around 1843.

Cole commissioned a Royal Academy artist, John Calcott Horsley, to design the card, had a thousand lithographed and hand - tinted by a professional "colorer", and after posting some to his friends, offered the remainder for sale in a London stationer's shop.

What were probably the first Christmas cards ever printed depicted a typical Victorian family gathered at a festive board," and bore the now - classic greeting, "A Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year to You."

Today's Christmas cards can be found in all sizes from two inches to two feet, expressing a wide variety of sentiments, and in a variety of styles from the cute to the elegant, and from the humorous to the religious.

In individual cards the variety is almost unlimited. Special cards can be purchased to send to the fireman, newsboy, janitor, employer, doctor, nurse, teacher, as well as the usual cards for members of the family, relatives, neighbors, friends, sweethearts, and those away from home. A special type card has also been designed for those "in religious service", such as a minister, missionary, or nun. A large section is also devoted to cute cards for children to send and receive.

SPECIAL OCCASION CARDS

Cards for "special occasions coinciding with Christmas", such as Christmas birthdays, Christmas anniversary, or "first Christmas in your new home" are also on sale in local stores, as well as Christmas cards expressing sympathy and comfort for those recently bereaved, and "get well wishes" for those who are ill at Christmas time.

In boxed cards the trend is toward cards of one design and color although boxes with three or four different designs or assorted assortments containing multiple designs are also on sale.

Card manufacturers have used a great deal of imagination and ingenuity in designing cards to satisfy almost any taste — from beautifully artistic to plain, and stated, in spite of the increasing surplus of cheaper priced cards on hand.

Christmas card retailers estimate sales have increased between 15 and 20 per cent this year over last year's volume of sales. One store even opens a special Christmas card department in the basement this year.

The Postmaster General estimates an $8,000,000 business in the sale of Christmas cards in Canada this season.

Province Will Inspect Lines Of Gas Company

TORONTO (CP—Ontario Fuel Board inspectors will make a complete inspection of Union Suburban Gas Company's distribution system and a check of all lines where there have been gas explosions or indications of defective pipes, Fuel Board Chairman Minister Spooner said Friday.

United Suburban was formed by two companies blamed by a coroner's jury at Burlington Thursday for the Nov. 7 natural gas explosion in nearby Palermo which killed three persons.

The board's decision announced by Mr. Spooner is partly in keeping with the jury's recommendation that all existing Ontario gas pipelines be checked by a government agency.

TO INSPECT 6 MILES

Mr. Spooner said the United Suburban inspection will cover about 50 miles of pipeline. Fuel General Roberts said his department will study evidence given at the inquest in the coroner's jury.

The five-man jury at Burlington recommended asking provincial authorities to set up a board or commission to approve or reject all pipeline applications, to issue permits or licences and to direct inspection of existing pipelines.

Although there will be no general inspection throughout the province, said Mr. Spooner, spot checks will be made of the distribution systems and a complete examination will be made where there is any indication of defective pipeline installations.

MUST BARE ALL

United Suburban will be required to uncover all "shielded" valves installed since Jan. 1, 1957, as well as sections of pipeline. Pressure tests will be exercised out and welded joints will be spot-checked.

Mr. Spooner said terms of inspection of the gas system by engineers will begin the examination Monday.

The coroner's jury said the installation of the pipeline valve which allowed gas to enter under the road into the home of Roy Skinner where two died after an explosion and fire was not in accordance with specifications contained in the contract between United Suburban and the Gas Machinery Company of Canada Limited. Both companies were held responsible by the jury.

TO REGISTER PLANS

The fuel board will require that plans of all gas pipeline laid since Jan. 1, 1957, be registered with the board by Dec. 19.

In areas where there have been gas explosions or indications of defective pipe or valves, the board will require inspection and approval by Jan. 15, 1959, of all valves installed since Jan. 1, 1957.

Mr. Spooner said "serious consideration will be given to an order cutting off the supply of gas unless an exceptionally good reason is shown for non-compliance to this order."

Management Night At Foremen's Club

The Quinte District Foremen's Club will hold its annual Management night on Tuesday evening, December 16th. The club has been fortunate in securing as their guest speaker, Gordon G. Cushing, Assistant Deputy Minister, Department of Labor, Ottawa. He is former General Secretary of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, Mr. Cushing joined the Federal Department of Labor in May, 1953. He has been very active in welfare and educational work and is a member of the Board of Governors of the Canadian Welfare Council, a member of the Executive Council of both the Canadian Association of Adult Education and the Canadian Council on Social Development. This appearance at the Foremen's Club is one of Mr. Cushing's first engagements since joining the Federal Department of Labor.

Youngster Makes His Own Arena

Perhaps he is a throwback to his ice-skating antecedents.

Maybap he is just a youngster who wanted something different and went about his hard way to get it.

Anyway, the sight of it caused nostalgic waves to flood memories of a veteran newspaperman who witnessed the episode through news room windows.

The youngster, a lone ranger in his own right, laboriously cleared off a large patch of the Moira River ice just below the lower city bridge. He worked alone and it wasn't long before his natural miniature rink took shape.

He cleaned it down to the smooth glare ice and this morning saw the climax of his efforts.

He was out there bright and early with his hockey stick and puck, having the time of his life, skating up and down his private arena.

There was not another outdoor-minded kid within a mile of him.

'Kidnappers' Prove to Be Detectives

PORTSMOUTH, Eng. (AP)— Police have called off the search for 65-year-old Mrs. Ralph Christian, reported missing for three days.

He is more or less safe.

After getting word from Christian's worried wife Sylvia Friday, police searched, and are very concerned about the circumstances surrounding his disappearance."

They said they couldn't rule out the possibility of foul play.

Mrs. Christian told them three mysterious men in a car called on Ralph Wednesday. He went away with them and never came back.

Out flashed messages to police stations across the land. Find this man. Scotland Yard was called in.

Friday the arm of the law reached out—and found Christian only 20 miles away in a place called Petersfield.

He was in jail.

Those three mysterious men in soft hats? They were detectives. They were watching Christian on a charge of receiving stolen goods.

Seems one long arm of the law had not known what the other arm was doing.

IN MEMORIAM

CHRISTOPHER. — In loving memory of a dear mother, Margaret Christopher, who died December 14th, 1956.

Sadly missed and always remembered.

We know that she is happy,
In God's home above,
Growing fairer as she knows it,
Sweeter as she loves it.
—Sadly missed and always remembered by her son, daughter-in-law, grandson, Phyllis.

CHRISTOPHER. — In loving memory of a dear mother, Margaret Anne Christopher, who passed away December 14th, 1956.
A loving mother, a woman and wife,
One who was better God never took.
A wonderful worker, as loyal and true,
As in a million as Mother you.
Lovely in judgment, always right,
Honest and fearless, ever upright.
Loved by your friends, all you knew
A wonderful mother — Mother you were.
—Ever remembered by daughters and sons.

CHRISTOPHER. — In loving memory of a dear wife, Margaret Christopher, who passed away December 14th, 1956.
One hour I would like to clasp your hand,
Your dear, kind face to see;
Your lovely smile, your welcome voice,
That meant so much to me.
No one knows what a heartache,
No one knows but I alone,
I would forfeit that home in Heaven
For the one I loved so well.
—Ever remembered by husband Harry.

DOOLITTLE. — In loving memory of my dear brother, Bruce Doolittle, who passed away December 13th, 1951.
Mother can never take away,
The love a heart holds dear;
God removed Bruce in His way,
Remembrance keeps him near.
—Ever remembered by his sister Beatrice.

DOOLITTLE. — In loving memory of a dear son, Bruce, who passed away December 13th, 1951.
The years have gone by fast,
The friends have day to day,
But never shall he be loved,
From memory pass away.
—Ever remembered by Mother.

CLARE. — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Arthur I. Clare, who was so suddenly taken from us December 13th, 1957.
A name — a shock we didn't expect
A hard and bitter blow;
Something we can't understand,
Some things have to be so.
But in His wisdom, God has planned
What our sorrow'd know.
Some may think the wound is healed,
But only those who have suffered
Can understand the pain of severed love.
Within the heart concealed.
—In loving remembrance, by his wife Bessie, son Malcolm and family.

500 Yards Sand Spread Already This Winter

TRENTON — Already this winter Trenton Public Works Department has spread a total of 500 yards of fine sand mixed with salt on the town streets and sidewalks to make walking and motoring for the general public safer and more convenient.

"In a normal winter we use about 2,000 yards of sand for this purpose," Eric Aldersey, town engineer said yesterday. However there is no telling what amount will be used this winter. It is something which is hard to gauge."

The VanAirline Construction Company has been awarded the tender to deliver the sand and goes through quite an operation to prepare it for town streets.

He sends his trucks to Belleville where they are loaded with salt at the Stiffo Salt plant and bring it back to his gravel pit beside Mount Pellon. Here it is dumped near the shovel working in the fine sand pit and, first the trucks is empty the sand are loaded with the salt being added. Then it is hauled to the town yards at the corner of Meyers and Ontario Streets where it is dumped again and stock piled.

From here it is loaded into the town trucks equipped with special sanding machines and spread over the streets when needed. By the time it lands on the streets the salt is well mixed with the sand because of the several times it is handled.

While the majority of the sand is kept at the town yards there are also truck loads of it hauling to various points in town and dumped in small piles. These piles are placed in convenient areas and where they are easily reached by men who spread some of the material when it is needed.

The town ordered 1,000 yards at the beginning of the winter and have now ordered another 500 yards of salted sand. There was about 600 yards left over from last winter to make up the 2,000 planned for use this winter.

Town Briefs

TRENTON — The old Titus block ruins have now been completely removed and the area covered with crushed rock. At present it will make an ideal parking space in down town Trenton being situated between the Odeon Theatre and Vic Scott Men's Shop on Dundas Street West. The newly-formed Retail Merchants' Association has been trying to get permission to take over the area for parking but Gordon Little, who is handling business negotiations for Mrs. Titus, said yesterday he has not yet made up his mind whether to turn it over to the merchants or to set up a parking system himself. Either way he feels it will still serve the same purpose and it will be an additional parking space in the shopping area for another 40 cars.

BUSY REPAIRING TOYS

The repairing of Christmas toys is being given the full attention of the members of the Trenton Fire Department. They say there are not as many toys coming in for repairs this year as usual but they feel certain residents will clean out their closets, basements and attics and send the toys along to the department. Of course, it doesn't have to be just broken toys sent in. If the younger member of the house has outgrown the toy and is due for a replacement this Christmas wher. Santa makes his annual visit the firemen will make good use of it by seeing that some needy young-ster in Trenton receives it. Each year the Trenton firemen take over this work in making Christmas merry for the young-ster who would likely go without.

INSTALL LIGHTS

The traffic lights on the corner of King and Division Streets have been being installed and it is expected they will be in operation during the first part of next week. The crews of the hydro utilities are in charge of the work, under the direction of PUC manager Jim Page and traffic engineer Alan Blowers that were installed during the repairs of the town's bridge. The traffic lights on King and Division streets were recommended by the Traffic Committee a few weeks ago when it was found the blinker stop light was not satisfactory. The council approved the installation at a later council meeting.

ADMITS BOOKMAKING

TORONTO (CP) — A Crown counsel in court in nearby Cookstown asked a stiff penalty Thursday for a farmer's wife after she admitted she was in charge of a bookmaking business. Mrs. Kathleen Wodor, 45, who pleaded guilty to a charge that she had recorded $22,850 in illegal bookmaking bets in 40 days, was remanded to Jan. 14 for sentence.

drums for even bigger expenditures for armaments.

Much of his attack was aimed at State Secretary John Foster Dulles and his press conferences.

"Warlike exhortations" from Washington, he said, were swiftly followed by editorials threatening Russia.

He blamed the situation mostly on "the insane fanaticism of John Foster Dulles who, by default has been permitted to dictate American policy for an unintercupted period of six years without let or hindrance from any quarter."

He said: "The longer we delay accommodation with the Communist bloc, the greater the likelihood of war, and if war is miraculously averted, the more costly and painful the eventual settlement will be."

Minor Hockey

Five games were played in the peewee section of the Belleville Minor Hockey Association this morning with close action featuring all the fixtures.

In the only game where more than one goal separated the clubs, the Bowmen defeated the Red Wings 4-1, with Robert Lancaster scoring two goals for the winners. Don Adams bagged the other Brown goal with Ron Poole, Adams and Jeffery Eastwood sticking up assists. Larry Stewart was the Red Wing marksman with David Hussey assisting.

Maple Leafs and Bruins fought to a 1-1 deadlock. Brian Smith scored for the Leafs and Ted Mackey for the Bruins, both goals being unassisted.

Quinte and the Rangers also tied 1-1. B. Fullerton, on a pass from D. Arthurs, accounted for the Quinte scoring play. B. Hallam replied for the Rangers with B. Purney and B. Taylor drawing assists.

The lone high-scoring game of the morning saw Canadiens shade the Macs by a 9-5 score. Jimmie Meens marked for Canadiens' attack with three goals while Larry Price and Rene Drysdale had a goal and assist each. Teddy Arthurs also scored while Harry Vanhamme had on the helper.

Tommy Locke had a big day for the losing Macs, scoring three goals and assisting on a fourth. Lloyd Lewis and Bobby Noon also scored while David Simpson and Bruce Lasalle and Rodney Salter one.

Black Hawks squeezed out a narrow 2-1 victory over the Harrons. Jimmy Pringle and Gary Lewis were the Hawk marksmen while Doug Maracle irrigated the Baron goal. All were unassisted.

Missing Girls Located in Stolen Auto

Two young Belleville girls, age 14, and the other 15, who left their homes Thursday night, were located outside of Trenton early today.

The two girls were in the company of two Trenton youths, one a juvenile, and were in a car taken earlier from a Trenton parking lot.

Police Chief Jack Taylor of Trenton, said one of his constables was on his way home outside of Trenton when he came onto a car stuck in the snow. Further investigation revealed the car had been taken from a parking lot.

This morning the two girls were turned over to their parents and the Trenton juvenile was allowed to go home. The second boy is being held by the Trenton police.

THE GOLDEN YEARS

Feel Adventure in Your Soul? Then Try a Big-City Retirement

By THOMAS COLLINS

"Why don't you write something, for those of us who don't live in the big city, about what it has to offer for retirement?

I spent a few days in Chicago this fall, the first visit I had made in 25 years, and was smitten, absolutely with its dynamic life. It seems to me, a man with the leisure that comes with retirement could spend years in exploration alone.

"What could, or should, an ordinary man expect to find if he had time to enjoy it all?"

He could expect to find a treasure house. The city has almost everything that can make retirement good, in abundance and unendingly, and could end with enchantment. Yet probably eight out of every ten men who retire from a little town to a big one are unhappy.

But about eight out of ten who retire from a big town to a little one are unhappy, too.

So it is the personality of the man, not the density of the population, that holds the key to the question. A man who is impressed with the dynamics of the city would, I think, be among the 20 per cent who find it their Golden Years there.

Each man must decide for himself whether he is the type. Here are some practical facts that may help him.

Friendliness — There's much misconception about this. The big city is still just people, and is just as friendly as the small town. Not in the offices and at the gates to the commuter trains. Not on the downtown streets. But outside the hurry-make-a-buck environment. The big city hasn't a street where people don't yearn to be friendly. And in the big city, where you came from and who you are don't matter much.

Living costs — About the same as where you are, if you have no vegetable garden in either place. Housing can be had in the city as cheaply as anywhere, or cheaper. The difference is that cheap housing ranges from a good neighborhood in a small town to a bad one in the city. Maybe next door to people who don't speak the language and to flotsam. But safe enough.

Glamour — Many men in their mature years, who don't live in the big city, are inclined to regard it through the eyes of their youth. But they don't run on the same gas anymore. There's magic to the city, the moving masses and all those lights. But the glamor that was associated with their youth wears off in a few months.

The big city has often been regarded as a retirement graveyard, largely because children have brought their aging parents in to live with them and then left them to the park benches. And because so many desolate old people have gravitated to the cities for relief.

The big city has treasures beyond the belief of many people in smaller towns . . . museums you can study for years; big trains, big planes, big cranes, big buildings, big ships, big everything to marvel at; schools that teach in everybody and teach everything; fabulously rich neighborhoods and very poor ones to walk through; things without end to be indignant about; and more jobs, of course, than anywhere else.

I would suggest this: If you feel some adventure in your soul, and the big city looks alluring, go. But go on a round-trip ticket. Don't tell anybody you're not coming back.

Once you're in the city don't wait for anybody to speak to you and don't expect anything to happen. You have to do it all. Dive in. If you are timid and unaggressive you will go back home in two or three weeks. If you aren't, you are likely to have your Golden Years.

Brewing Firm Criticized for Using Portrait

TORONTO (CP) — The use on a brewing firm's Christmas card of a portrait of the Queen and Prince Philip square dancing in Canada in 1951 has been criticized by officials of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union.

Permission for the use of reproductions of an oil painting done by Hilton Hassell of nearby Port Credit, based on National Film Board photographs, was given the firm by the Secretary of State department.

Mrs. I. H. Perigoe, president of the Toronto branch of the WCTU, said: "I certainly don't think this is very flattering to the Queen. I think she is above this sort of thing, but it is out of our hands."

Mrs. John D. Crabb, president of the Windsor branch, said: "I don't think it is right to use royalty to publicize the sale of beer."

Mrs. John Jackson, president of the country branch, said: "I feel it is in bad taste and objectionable to the majority of the church-going people."

A senior official of the secretary of state department said in Ottawa that the brewery's permission for reproduction had been carefully considered and in view of instructions from Buckingham Palace, had been approved.

Diefenbaker At Honolulu On Way Home

He arrived here Friday night after a 21-hour flight from Auckland, New Zealand. Soon after his arrival he received a telephone message from the condition of his mother, Mrs. William T. Diefenbaker, 86, who suffered a stroke in Saskatoon Tuesday night.

A spokesman said Diefenbaker was told there was no immediate cause for alarm. The prime minister is due to leave Honolula at 2 p.m. local time today (5 p.m. EST) and arrive on San Francisco for a 90-minute refuelling stop early Sunday.

Justice Will Give Decision On Monday

OTTAWA (CP) — Hearing of an application to free two men awaiting execution in cases of murder has been adjourned until Monday in Toronto.

William Warren, 35, and Merrill Ploche, 27, were committed last Monday to stand trial on charges of murder in the death of Alvin Butts, 19, one of five children and two adults who died in a Sept. 13 apartment building fire.

Counsel for the two men are seeking their release on writs of habeas corpus on the ground that they should have been charged with manslaughter instead of murder. The lawyers claim there was insufficient evidence to warrant murder charges.

Mr. Justice J. L. Wilson of the Ontario Supreme Court heard argument as to his jurisdiction in hearing the application. He will rule on the jurisdictional question in Toronto on Monday.

NOT THE GOVERNMENT'S ROLE

The Toronto Globe and Mail, in a staff story from Montreal, says that Transport Minister Hees maintains "it is the responsibility of government to create an atmosphere in which risk capital can be assured of a fair return on its investment."

That is not precisely what Mr. Hees said. His exact words, according to the same report, were: "It is essential that the government assure enterprise a fair return for effort expended and money invested in developing and industrializing the nation." There is no mention of "risk capital" in that sentence, but the phrase "risk capital" seems a fair interpretation of "money invested in developing and industrializing the nation."

The duty of a government to "assure" a fair return for risk capital? Oh, come now, Mr. Hees, or the Toronto Globe and Mail! How can talk in the same breath of "risk" capital and "assured" return? How often have we been reminded, by organizations like the Canadian Chamber of Commerce and the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, that it is unsafe to speak of our "profit" economy, that we should refer to our "profit and loss" economy? Wasn't one of the main reasons why the Canadian electors substituted Mr. Hees and his party for the Liberals in the seats of the mighty at Ottawa the fact that the Liberals tried to talk the "risk" out of the private investment in the Trans-Canada Pipe Line?

It has been said that the world owes no man a living, but that it owes him the opportunity to make a living for himself.

Similarly the government has the responsibility of creating an atmosphere in which investors are assured of a fair return on their investments, but it has a responsibility to create an atmosphere in which the possibility of profit bears a reasonable relationship to the risk of loss, so that the money necessary for "developing and industrializing this nation" is forthcoming.

Probably this was what Mr. Hees meant to say, but if it was what he said in the first place it certainly was not what he said by the time the Globe and Mail had got through paraphrasing him.

An economic system in which the government assured risk capital of a fair return would probably not be free and would certainly not be enterprise.

"TIMID" INDUSTRIALISTS?

Prof. Harry Woods of McGill University says the "restraining hand of institutional responsibility" weighs on Canadian captains of industry, that they are reticent about making their opinions known publicly.

It ain't necessarily so!

Oh, we don't doubt for a moment that there are many industrialists who refrain from commenting on controversial issues because of the effect these comments might have on the business enterprises with which they are connected.

The part of Prof. Woods' observations which we question is the assumption that this restraint "weighs heavily" on the industrialists in question. The phrase suggests that they find the restraint irksome. Some may. The majority, we suspect, "play it safe" because it is their nature to play things safe and they have been selected to fill the positions of institutional responsibility for the precise reason that the restraints which these responsibilities impose are not irksome to them.

This may be very regrettable, but it is not regrettable in any other way as would be the existence of a large body of energetic, informed men with firmly-held convictions forced to remain silent against their most ardent wishes.

We can think of a couple of examples of industrialists who do not hesitate to voice opinions -- Rhys Sale of the Ford Motor Co. and R. H. Winters of Rio Tinto.

WASHYAT YEWSHAY?

It has started already; we are beginning to hear that well-known Christmas carol: "Good King Wenceslas last looked out on the feet of Stephen . . ." This carol, we might add is almost as popular as that old favorite "Darn body oatmeal stream, where a first mate' shoe, Oulija eyesore bitue, Dresden gingham two . . ." — Peterborough Examiner.

A PERSONAL QUESTION
By EDGAR A. GUEST

Could you hang onto a dollar
If you knew some little kid
Would on Christmas morning "holler"
In real anguish, if you did?
Could you keep your fingers on it?
With a tightwad's selfish clutch,
With a kid's joy stamped upon it?
Did I hear you say: "Not much!"?

Could you eat your Christmas dinner
Add enjoy your Christmas stuff
If you knew some little sinner
Found the going mighty tough?

If you knew that, broken-hearted,
With a kid who sobbed and wept,
Don't you think you'd wish you'd parted
With the dollar that you'd kept?

There's a kid that just a dollar
From the wad that you possess
Would, on Christmas, make him wallow
To his neck in happiness.
It would buy him far more gladness
Than You'll ever bring your way.
Will his Christmas Day mean sadness?
It is up to you to say.

Britain's Pony Roundup

By E. E. Dalderfield in Events in Britain

Visitors to the Exmoor area of Devonshire and Somerset in autumn are quite likely to find themselves in the centre of a miniature rodeo if they travel some of the moorland roads. And if they can attend one of the autumn pony sales, they will be witnessing an event that has been carried on virtually unchanged for 700 years.

The ponies which run wild on Exmoor are the direct descendants of the various moorland farmers, who probably brought them in for marketing and perhaps selling. They have had a glorious year of running free, and most of them have only seen human beings from a distance.

The annual pony gathering, calls for skill, stamina, patience and fine horsemanship.

Early in the morning, the farmers and their men start the round-up. Zeph ares undertakes its own operations, so that there may be several of these operations in progress simultaneously. L. different parts of the Moor.

Those involved in the gathering have been keeping their eyes open for weeks, watching the ponies, and the wild ponies are likely to be found. With this knowledge, they have their display in a wide circle over their section of the Moor. Each man is mounted on a fast and experienced hunter, which seems to know instinctively what is required and treats with disdain the antics of its wild brethren. The operation is carried out with a whooping and yelling, a waving of sticks and the cracking of whips, and much galloping here, there and back again.

The faster ponies do the major share of the chasing, the ponies are accompanied by two know all the lanes, openings or other break-away points that may be encountered on this route, and one of them goes ahead of the main party to head off the wild ponies as groups of them come at a full gallop. Here the pace seems to promise freedom. Many of the ponies are accompanied by lovely long-legged suckers, and how these youngsters keep up the prolonged pace is a mystery, particularly as most of them were only born in May or even later.

About mid-day the ponies find themselves in a corral, melee.

Lane-Changer Gains Little

Timmins Daily Press.

You've probably encountered Swerving Sam and Weaving Willie, two fellows who always move from traffic lane to traffic lane in an almost insane attempt to get ahead at the speed body else and lead the parade.

And you've probably caught up with them at the next traffic light, and have observed to yourself that there is no reason you are going almost as fast by remaining in the same lane and detesting them.

The Los Angeles police department conducted some tests recently, in an effort to prove that the "hula driver", as the department calls them, is little more than a futile while risking his life and the lives of other motorists with his nonsensical driving.

The Ohio Motorist, quoting from Highway Highlights, told how the test was conducted:

Four unmarked police sedans were driven by officers in civilian clothes over the Hollywood Highway for a distance of 10.2 miles during morning and evening rush hours.

Vehicle 1 was to remain in the extreme left lane and flow with traffic.

Vehicle 2 was to remain in the centre lane and flow with traffic.

Vehicle 3 was to remain in the extreme right lane and flow with traffic.

Vehicle 4 was to change lanes at will to make the fastest possible time consistent with safety.

So what happened?

On the outbound trip vehicle 1 did it in 15 minutes 34 seconds; vehicle 2 in 16 minutes 16 seconds; vehicle 3 in 16 minutes 52 seconds and vehicle 4 in 17 minutes 39 seconds.

That is how the hopper "beat" vehicle 1 by only four seconds.

On the inbound trip vehicle 1 in turn won by four seconds; vehicle 2's 14 minutes 30 seconds; vehicle 3's 14 minutes flat; vehicle 4's 13 minutes 14 seconds.

Weaving Willie's time was only 53 seconds better than that of the careful driver in the extreme right lane.

A repetition of the test on two other days revealed that the fastest time made by the lane hopper was only 2 minutes 10 seconds better than the best time of the car that was being driven properly.

Certainly this proves that a line hopper is not only endangering his own life but the lives of other motorists on the road—he is simply kidding himself.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Old Sir William Mulock, late chief justice of Ontario, who died in his hundredth year, told me that the best thing he did in his life was plant several thousand trees.

"You compliment me on my age," he said. "Do you realize that I will be a hundred years dead before some of the walnut trees I have planted will be ready to harvest?"

Sir William, in his infancy in Toronto, was dandled on the knees of several people who had been born before the French Revolution. It will be 2038 A.D across what abysses of history none of us can imagine, before the walnut trees will be cut. Old Sir Bill's triumphant glitter of the eye, as he mentioned the trees, things, indicated his satisfaction in the vast span of the centuries he personally had touched.

Out Nor hunting the other morning, not where he had left it, came on a farmer in his woodlot digging a trench in the half frozen ground around a fine-looking young pine tree about six f e e t high. The trench was four feet deep, and circled the butt of the t r e e four feet out.

"When the ground freezes," he explained, "I will come and hoist it out, roots and all in a solid ball, and replant it where it can be seen from the house."

"But, why not get pine seedlings from the government?" I asked.

"This will be a personal tree," said the farmer, smiling. "I owe my grandson to see. My daughter is expecting."

Sentimental men are the treeplanters.

We wonder how and where the Arab of the Sahara catches the initial fish, and what kind of a chain reaction which culminates in roasted camel, is responsible for the dessert.

But we reprint the recipe at this particular season just to point out how fortunate Canadian housewives are to be able to start out with simple turkey or stuff it, yes, but with no elephant, fowl or animal— and end up with an overblown delicacy that tastes delicious with cranberry sauce.

As for roasted camel, may it never become a large item of export of the Near, Middle or Far East. The recipe for it sounds suspiciously like the Arabian version of haggis.

TWO-MOVES AT ONCE

That was a pretty wise saying we were all taught early in l i f e that it is well not to carry all our eggs in the same basket.

Every leader has a dozen alternatives.

Bank everything on the move that you have carefully thought out and which you believe is worth making. But be sure y o u have another move next door all that one fails — or succeeds.

Try to learn two moves at once — the move you intend to make directly and the move you see in your mind just ahead of that one.

I am inclined to think that the "assistant boss" is quite a little better than the "real boss." For this reason: the "real boss" feels quite secure in his well-feathered nest — whereas the "assistant boss" visions himself in the job of the "real boss" and he will never be satisfied until he is there.

Everybody admires and looks up to the man of resources, just as everyone looks up to the man who has the most money in the bank beyond his needs. You believe in smart to us all, no matter how smart we may be.

Another valuable point connected with always having other plans "saved up" is this: there is a great incentive back of the man who knows he is not going to be beaten once, nor twice, nor three times, but that always he has something ready to spring, in case of miscarried plans.

And incentive is one of those magic feelings that help to rule the world!

Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

THE BLOOD VESSELS KNOW SHERRY AS 'ALCOHOL' IN BEER

"Dear Dr. Molner: My husband is troubled with a red nose. He stopped drinking alcohol six months ago, thinking that was the trouble. He still drinks beer. He works outdoors and has a ruddy complexion the year around. But his nose is always more red than the rest of his face. Can you give me any information?
— Mrs. W."

He has "stopped drinking alcohol . . . but still drinks beer"? He's kidding himself! He might as well say he stopped drinking it all — and I know some steady sloppers who have the whites set nose you ever saw. (In fact, sometimes they have a complexion like a soggy sheet!)

However, alcohol does have a tendency to dilate the small blood vessels, and if there is a natural tendency toward ruddy complexion, he may, indeed, likely to become redder. After years of being dilated these little blood vessels are not going to spring back into their accustomed place when you stop drinking. And if you have considerable fat around the blood vessels are smarter than you think. They have them all locked in.

"Dear Dr. Molner: This man had sterilization surgery about a year ago because of his wife's health. He has gained weight and has difficulty relaxing at night. Do you think sterilization has caused the having this type of surgery? — B. W."

No. The operation does not affect the production of male hormones. Apparently he has all of them. Other factors are causing his nervousness.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Please give me your opinion on this non-surgical treatment for rupture with a certain clinic that guarantees their success in most hernias. I understand this is done by injections around the break, causing it to heal over with scar tissue. Do you think there would be no risk in this treatment? I have corresponded with three former patients of this clinic who recommend it very highly. Any information you can give me will be kept strictly confidential. — W. C."

O.K. Nobody else read this. It's strictly confidential. I don't think these injections are good for hernias are worth much. When you have a hernia, the abdominal wall underneath the skin, has been broken. You can sew it together surgically, and usually get a nice tight repair. You can't use injections to cause it to heal over with scar tissue."

From your letter I have no idea which outfit you have been corresponding with, but I'd put the answer this way: Even if the trict treatment gives temporary results (which I am inclined to doubt) you still haven't gained anything. Because, for the same amount of money, not to mention time, you can see a surgeon do the job and save a lot of money, not only to be sure in saving the travel costs. Check up on costs! Cost isn't paramount, but it isn't to be ignored, either.

Mrs. H.S.: Medication will not "dissolve" an ovarian cyst. A cyst is a cyst. The only method is closed so it cannot drain. Ovarian cysts sometimes are left alone (except for periodic examination) but if they finally demand removal, surgery is the only way it can be done.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Would worry cause atrophy or shrinkage of the brain? Is there some medicine for this condition?— Mrs. W."

No, worry would have no effect on this. It is a physical matter, and serious, but fortunately a rare condition. I cannot comprehend why that medicine could do more than perhaps retard the progress of the disease. Want to look over it again?

Want to lose weight? It can be done if you follow the advice given in my pamphlet, "The Last Secret of Reducing". For 4c copy, write to me in care of this Chicago Sun-Times Syndicate, 211 N. Box 138, Toronto, Ill., enclosing a large, self-addressed stamped envelope, and 5c in coin to cover handling.

Use of Tape Avoids Scars

South African Press Service

A South African surgeon has found that transparent adhesive tape — the sort of thing one buys at any stationer — is better than silk thread for closing wounds.

Cuts healed under plastic tape very almost as well as the best of expert moment to people, especially women, with injuries to the face, reports "The Star", Johannesburg.

Research by Professor T. Gilman of the Durban Medical School has revealed that wearing is dramatically reduced by the use of plastic tape. His investigations are detailed in "Medical Proceedings", a journal for doctors, followed the development by a Durban surgeon of a new technique for closing wounds.

The surgeon uses stitches only for about two or three days after an operation. Then he removes the stitches and the wound is held closed overnight with tape. When this is removed the skin is found to have healed almost as good as new — with only the "finest" most delicate scars.

After a week of tests with five volunteers, Prof. Gilman found that when damaged tissue is closed by tape it is not repaired so much as it is regenerated. The tissue grow like new.

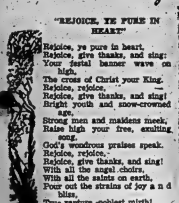
Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

ONE AT LEAST IN A LIFETIME

It would be interesting to know how many honest-to-goodness, original ideas men really have. The probability is that most ideas are hand-me-down ideas. They are ideas which someone has been reading a book on, attending a class, or belonging to a certain organization. Somebody else did the thinking in the first place. They passed on to us an idea they wanted us to have. This has come to be called brainwashing. This term really means that the forcing of ideas upon people with such persistence that the people at whom such ideas are directed fall victim at last a n d collapse.

It would be better for everyone of us to have one good idea a year than a dozen thousand hand-me-down ideas which we peddle about in a disgusting and foolish fashion. Do not be afraid to be original. What satisfaction can possibly come from parroting the crowd. Everyone w h o has ever developed power of leadership displays himself or herself down in the very apex of the ages when we do our own thinking are we free. Only when we are free do we really begin to live.



The world goes bumping along for centuries with everybody pretty uncomfortable. Then a genius turns up who has an original idea. He may sail s ship (Columbus). He may make a great medical discovery (Pasteur). He may invent something useful (Edison). The Wright brothers did something original. So did Dr. Salk with his vaccine.

Our ideas may be little. But let's be sure they are ours — not hand-me-downs.

Stories of Famous Hymns

By HOWARD B. POWELL

"REJOICE, YE PURE IN HEART"

Rejoice, ye pure in heart,
Rejoice, give thanks, and sing;
Your festal banner wave on high,
The cross of Christ your King.
Rejoice, rejoice,
Rejoice, give thanks, and sing!
Bright youth and snow-crowned age,
Strong men and maidens meek,
Raise high your free, exulting song,
God's wondrous praises speak.
Rejoice, rejoice,
Rejoice, give thanks, and sing!
With all the angel choirs,
With all the saints on earth,
Pour out the strains of joy and bliss,
True rapture, noblest mirth!
Rejoice, rejoice
Rejoice, give thanks, and sing!
Then on, ye pure in heart,
Rejoice, give thanks, and sing;
Your festal banner wave on high,
The cross of Christ, your King.
Rejoice, rejoice,
Rejoice, give thanks, and sing!

This delightful hymn was written nearly a century ago, in May, 1865, as a processional hymn for an English choir festival in Peterborough Cathedral. It has been a favorite for choir processionals in Christian churches of the world ever since and holds an enduring place not only in most church hymnals but in many recorded collections of fine religious music.

Its author was the Rev. Edward Hayes Plumptre (plum-tree) D.D and the public had its first glimpse of the hymn in a collection entitled "Lazarus And Other Poems" which Dr. Plumptre published soon after "Rejoice, Ye Pure In Heart" was written. Each of its stanzas ends with an impressive trumpet-like refrain:

"Rejoice, rejoice,
Rejoice, give thanks, and sing."

Dr. Plumptre was a distinguished English clergyman, theologian, and author. Born in London on August 6, 1821, he was educated at Oxford University. He was graduated with high honors in 1844 and was ordained to the ministry two years later. He rose to high place in the church and held a number of important offices. He served as prebendary of St. Paul's, as professor of exegesis of the New Testament in King's College, as dean of Wells, and as a member of the Old Testament Company for the Revised Version of the Authorized Version of the Holy Scriptures. Another of Dr. Plumptre's hymns, "O Light, Whose Beams Illumine All", is sung to the tune, "St. Petersburg", composed by Dimitri Bortniansky who once was a director of the Russian Empress Catherine's choir. Its lines are suggested by Jesus' words in St. John 8:12 — "I am the Light of the world".

Arthur H. Mesaller, a famous English organist and musician who came to America about 1866 to serve for 31 years as organist of Trinity Church in New York City, wrote the tune "Marion" for "Rejoice, Ye Pure In Heart". He was a composer of ability, published several widely read books on music, and edited the Episcopal Hymnal in 1892, four years before he retired at Trinity Church.

Well, ponder the world before Christ came. William Jasper Kinkaid described prehistoric man as plunged in ignorance and preyed upon by grotesque superstition. Of course, by the time Jesus appeared men had risen far above primitive savagery. The great Hebrew prophets had proclaimed the righteousness of God. The ancient philosophies of India and China looked down with condescension on the rest of the world. Egypt had her pyramids and her great library at Alexandria. Greece had produced her Pericles, her Socrates and her Plato. But education was limited to the select few and the great masses lived in the darkness of ignorance and superstition. The world was believed to be peopled with demons. These evil spirits lurked everywhere, inferring bodies, haunting minds, causing accidents. Primitive man feared darkness, since ghosts were supposed to stalk abroad at night. He was afraid lest vampires suck his blood while he was asleep.

THE MASTER TEACHER

Into such darkness Jesus came as the Master Teacher, saying in the common people, "Ye shall know the truth and the truth shall make you free." He bade them break down the doors of ignorance saying, "Knock and it shall be opened." "Seek and ye shall find." He kindled a passion for learning which has pushed back the shadows of many dreadful fears and left the world strewn with schools seeking ever more light.

Yet our world tosses restlessly like a sick patient waiting for the dawn. And superstitions have been dispelled by science, but a new superstition cloud the world's horizon. With jet planes and atom weapons the human race could commit suicide. As James Russell Lowell said, "right seems ever on the scaffold" and "wrong seems ever on the throne." Yet he went on to say that God stands ever in the shadow "keeping watch above his own."

This faith in God's care comes to brightest light at the Christmas season. More people will celebrate the Christmas festival of light this year ever before because the believers in God are growing in number. Our streets will be gay with lights, our Christmas trees will twinkle with stars, our windows will be lighted with welcoming candles.

Is this brilliance merely man's brave effort to generate cheer? No. Christmas is not just a lovely dream in an endless night. It is the dawning which is dawn. It is the glimpses, of the sun which ensures long shadows which pass.

As the Scriptures say, "The light shines in the darkness and the darkness has not overcome it."

A Lift for Living

Delivered From the Darkness

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

After his long experience in the Arctic, Admiral Peary declared that the worst months which his men had to fight was not the cold but the darkness. Those long nights near the North Pole took a heavy toll of health and morale.

I often try to imagine what terrors the nights must have had for primitive men before they learned the laws of nature and the explanation of darkness. Now I say it is even yet to conjure up spectres lurking within shadows. The dawn delivers us from many a doubt and fear.

Well do I remember a night in my early 20's when the nurse's supply of medicine was exhausted and we had to wait for the pharmacies to open. As I lay facing the eastern windows, I realized the feeling behind the poet's cry, "Will the night soon pass?"

Hence it is little wonder that the Holy Scripture should signal before the coming of a Saviour with the dayspring of light breaking into darkness. And in the last chapter of the Old Testament, Malachi interprets the Lord as saying: "Unto you that fear my name shall the sun of righteousness arise with healing in his wings."

When we open the New Testament we find the gospels preceding the Babe born in Bethlehem as the bringer of light. One of the most beautiful descriptions of the Christmas event is that given by Zacharias, the father of John the Baptist, in the first chapter of Luke. This is the way Zacharias puts it: "The dayspring from on high hath visited us, to give light to them that sit in darkness and in the shadow of death, to guide our feet into the way of peace."

The dayspring, as you know, is the first flush of rosy-tinted light that precedes the eastern horizon before the solid orb of sun rises into view.

How aptly the figure of the dayspring fits the coming of the Christ. Christ did not burst upon the world in the full splendor of the sun. Thirty years were to elapse after Bethlehem before this Boy was to become known even to His own people. Even after Jesus began to teach, the full light of His gospel did not break upon His listeners. It took a resurrection morn to reveal His real significance and cause His followers to hail Him as the Light of the World.

Do we think our day is dark? It

This - and That

By HARRIET STEVENS

A gentleman who is an observant man possessed with a sense of humor related to us an experience he had on a local bus. One Friday morning since winter descended mercilessly upon us, he climbed aboard a bus for downtown. The sidewalks were snow covered, the roadway was a mess and the bus was filled with women. Paying his fare he noticed that the driver looked harassed. He wore a defeated look. There was something of desperation in the driver's expression as though he should be rushing an expectant mother to the hospital, but this was a bus. There were no sirens or outward signs of urgency unless the inconvenience of winter brought urgency in its train. Our friend clutched the back of a seat as he tried to figure out the cause for the driver's obvious look of desperation. It was dinned in on him it was the din. A quick glance about him revealed that he and the driver were the only two males on the over-crowded bus. Laughingly he assured us that he "never did I hear such a clatter." And they talk about equal pay — what chance did the lone driver have? Our friend said that he tried to send a message through a smile for the driver to keep his chin up, but the driver was too far gone. He was overwhelmed. Probably in the first month of this little story, and the important thing is that the patient driver drove his bus through winter's worst in spite of the avalanche of chatter. The schedule is the thing and the bus must go through, which it did.

The yarn made us think about the item we mentioned recently in T & T about the men who gathered their women in purchasing many a tent. In this it was the women in a Belleville bus. One wonders if a bit of protestation had been indicted. Maybe that is our secret; that is the power of woman in on congregation. Anyway, our friend got a big kick out of his bus trip on a wintry morning as the bus driver survived, and doubtless many menfolk down to a fine dinner that evening because their womenfolk were on a shopping trip downtown.

The Wise Traveller Will Not Carry a Large Amount of Cash

By SHIRLEY AND BOB SLOANE

Cheap and largely chargeable though travel may be today, the one essential ingredient of any trip is still money. Here are some facts you may find useful in handling your finances on a journey:

Funds can be spent in three forms — traveller's checks, personal checks and cash. The best days it is accurate to carry more than no one in his right mind carries any appreciable amount of cash, certainly no more than he would under normal circumstances at home.

To do so is unnecessary and dangerous. There is no need to run the risk of losing it or having it stolen. Thieves love to prey on the tourist, particularly in foreign countries and particularly if he is a North American loaded down, as he usually is, with Western currency. Tourists rarely can keep around long enough to prosecute any search for their money or its new owners.

A good round sum for an upper limit is $100, enough to pay taxis, and restaurant checks. These occasions are the only ones when your signature either won't suffice or may be too awkward a way of paying your obligation.

Many wise travellers today carry a personal check, a service policy which insures their belongings against theft or mysterious disappearance away from home. The best of these include a clause ranging up to $100 cash.

PAY IN ADVANCE

Traveller's checks, in case you didn't know, are drafts that are guaranteed valid because you pay for them in advance and sign them twice, once when you buy them and then you cash them. If your signature matches, any business man will cash them. If lost, you can get your money back so long as you have a record of the serial numbers. They cost one dollar a hundred, regardless of denomination (usually $20 up), at most banks.

Contrary to a general misconception, personal checks are not at all difficult to cash. Most hotels will perform the service for residents after proper identification and most business places will accept them in payment for merchandise, especially if they are familiar with the bank on which they are drawn. Even in Communist China, that huge nation of hundreds of millions, the change is immeasureable. China of course is not a member of the UN, but we all know that the family life in China has been strong and male-dominated down through the millenniums. Women now have equal rights in work, divorce and family status. Men's sons may re-marry, and arranged or child marriages and polygamy are illegal.

These changing patterns and the problems which result from natural corollaries are not by any means unfamiliar to us. Our family pattern is in a state of flux for better or for worse. In Algeria, the change is there. There are still brides of Algeria who have never left their abode since the day they were married. This change is a modern trend that is receiving the attention and concern of UN agencies. It is realism at its finest because education is not an unmixed blessings. Aspirations, stirred by education, create their own problems and education bears its own responsibilities to endeavour to live up to its constructive purpose. The ways that the changing family pattern takes different people around the world is relative to the customs that have been in existence. Africa, Asia, S. America, Europe and N. America are involved in different degree as men and women weave a new pattern in the tapestry of human society.

About Early Church Councils

BY DR. HOWARD V. HARPER

Sunday, Dec. 11: Sometimes back we had a letter from a reader suggesting that it would be a good idea to say something about the Council of Nicea in Christian Church. His point was that Christians don't understand and appreciate the basic things about their faith before they start to study the refinements of belief as they begin to be formulated. To tell the story of the Council of Nicea in Christian doctrine is to talk about the early Church.

In its infancy days Christianity had no lengthy creed. "It believed in God the Father, Son, and Holy Ghost" was enough in those days. As time went on the Church got together and settled it. (One thing to remember about the Church is that they were called only when there was some widespread disagreement that was threatening to divide the Church on some point of belief.)

In the early years of the fourth century a man named Arius was stirring up trouble in the Church with his teaching that since Christ was the Son, He must logically be inferior to the Father. He was a creature. There was a time when He did not exist.

The agreement about this became so hot that in 325 the Emperor Constantine called a Council at Nicea, a town in what is now Turkey, to get the matter settled once and for all.

At this first of the great Councils, most of what is now called the Nicene Creed was hammered out. Arius was rejected completely and it was made clear that the Church believes the Son to be equal with the Father. "Begotten of the Father before a l l worlds, very God of very God, being of one substance with the Father," the Council said.

One thing the Council of Nicea decided to do was to define the date of the Holy Ghost, a n d e within 50 years it became necessary to call another Council to establish the principle that the Holy Ghost was not divine to the same extent as the Father and the Son.

This matter was settled by the first Council of Constantinople, in 381, at which 150 bishops declared the Holy Ghost t o be definitely "the Lord, and giver of life."

The next big trouble began in 428, when a priest publicly said

Mrs. F. S. — They are 17 — and want to marry.

Wendy S. — They liked Al before. . . .

Mrs. F. S. — Your husband and I have been through a terrible experience with our 17-year-old daughter, Wendy.

Six months ago she came home after a date crying hysterically. We finally shook out of her the fact that she had gotten into bed with her friend. She said it was the one and only time it had happened. She was prepared to death and positive she would become pregnant.

Well, things did work out for the best and Wendy gradually calmed down. At first she didn't want to go out at all, but in the p a s t month or so she has gone out two or three times. Finally, she said she wanted to go out again with her old friend. Now she claims they are in love and want to marry. They are only a few months older than she is. We don't know what to do with her.

Wendy S. — My parents are being just awful. I have been above-board with them. I told them the whole truth and I feel I should be willing to trust me now. They know that I wouldn't be crazy enough to get myself in a mistake again. I've promised and I mean it.

My boy friend feels the way I do. We want to go steady again and to make plans for getting married. When he gets out of school at the end of May, Al is going to work in his father's business. His parents want him to marry me, too, but they'll just have to accept it. My parents don't, and until that thing happened.

When Al started calling me Sue, my father threatened him over the telephone. I don't think that was right. I was just as much to blame as he was. He is really wonderful and I am very much in love with him.

The Council: The F. S.'s have a tricky problem on their hands and it can't be solved by acting out-of-temper. Mr. F. S.'s fierce against Al represent little more than temper.

When youngsters of 17 want to marry, both sets of parents must take a guiding hand in the relationship. Simply banning the friendship is not likely to work in today's world. Children don't accept that much parental authority gracefully.

The F. S.'s must take up this issue with Al's parents. It is necessary to discuss what has gone before and the F. S.'s should avoid public battle. The important issue now at stake is the fact that the youngsters say they want to marry and both sets of parents must decide whether to agree to or discourage the relationship entirely or to give a measure of approval and try to get Wendy and Al to make intelligent, realistic preparations for marriage.

It is possible that Al's parents may misread the reasons for the idea of marriage and that the whole issue will be dissolved at the end of the line. On t h e other hand, if Al persists in the idea, the F. S.'s will have to decide whether they believe that Al will make suitable husband material in the near future. If they feel that he won't they must be firm in their opposition to the idea for this fellow and hope for t h e best. If they feel that he will, they must help their daughter plan for the immediate future.

Mrs. F. S. — Wendy should not be misled to her parents is a reasonable good sign in a troubled picture. Certainly it is no indication that she wants them to help her avoid future mistakes. They should see that she is well-armed with information involving the physical and spiritual aspects of marriage and they should encourage her to be down-to-earth about such practical aspects as budgeting and homemaking and the kind of life she wants to live.

From Shelf To Oven To Table In Thirty Minutes

Eleanor did it in 30 minutes. She had been at the Home and School meeting and knowing she would be late planned a bacon and egg and toast and salad supper. The boys objected to such a breakfast-y meal. What's to do?

At five-thirty she switched on the oven, opened the soups and tuna, drained them and 1-2 cup fine water in to a large casserole and pushed that in the oven three too and to see the anxiety on her dear face made us all resolve to do it again. Have you a household friend to whom you could transport a little Christmas party?

(Serves 10 or 12)

I boiled 2 3 1-2-lb. chicken (cost about $2.50), stripped the meat from the bones and arranged it in big chunks in the bottom of two medium-sized casseroles. To the macaroni from 1 package of quick macaroni and cheese dinner I added a handful of fine noodles an boiled them in plenty of salted water until tender. At the last minute I tipped in 1 cup of frozen peas to thaw. After draining it gently I mixed it with the undiluted turkey noodle and chicken vegetable soups. This I poured over the chicken pieces in the casserole. I poured in enough chicken broth to just show below the surface, and salted and peppered it. I sprinkled a mixture of 2-3 cup of fine cracker crumbs and the grated cheese from the macaroni over the top and baked the 2 casseroles at 427 deg. Paris Sending Furs Flying Into Round-Clock Fashion

By PEGGY MASSEN

PARIS (Reuters) — Paris seems for flying into round-the-clock fashion this winter. The opulently furred look is seen in everything from milkmen's white blood milk coats to plebeian mustard sweaters.

The new relaxed silhouette is ideally related to furs in softened lines, high waists and shirred and draped effects, with emphasis on bulky top treatment in the form of slashed sleeves of cocooning fur. There are new oval and bat-sleeved shapes emphasizing three-quarter and five-eighth lengths, worked in horizontal pelt treatment.

Pierre Balmain features the chamois coat in mink or beaver, with flowing panelled back or additional shawl collar.

The high-waisted empire silhouette spreads from fabric to fur with pelts pleated under the bosom or casually gathered scarf knot. Lanvin-Castillo uses black Russian broadtail with a drawstring waistband, while Jacques Heim features a convertible model with kerseille panels. These flare and loosen from yoke in front, the silhouette is transformed.

Sportier models feature empire trends by means of soaring mandarin collars or flattering double breasted fastenings.

LONG FELTS POPULAR

Pierre Cardin uses mushroom silhouette, with bulky cape and coachman collars, mitres and hoods of the same strongest single influences. Deep-pleated, ruffled or flared collars, often in white mink or ermine, lending a "lingerie look" to dark furs, fall to elbow or waist length. Some Parisian hurriers feature these collars with detachable treatments to be worn separately as a cape-let over formal clothes.

Paris revives many long, unseen pelts of unpretentious origin like the badger, the raccoon, guanaco, Australian opossum, Kolinsky, and even muskrat fur. These are practical, inexpensive and long-wearing skins which, cleverly used, offer a serious fashion challenge to mink and more valuable furs.

Revillon shows a wonderful theatre coat made entirely from silky black monkey fur. Jacques Heim wraps his mannequins, a la Marenka, in yards of silver fox. Pierre Balmain revives Kamchatka fox again.

Canadian imports have gained new favor here, both wild forest pelts and domestic skins from breeding farms. The best sellers in Paris today are Saskatchewan muskrat, Alberta squirrel, and pale foxes from the Arctic region. Guy Laroche uses snow-bleached beaver from Ontario'in a full length coat as well as keeping "beaver in trim" by means of collars, cuffs and detachable neckbands.

Badger, practically obsolete since before the First World War, makes a comeback for both day and evening wear at Pierre Balmain. He marries the shaggy oldtimer with pebbled and lateral tweeds, and puts it around the neckline of a net ball gown, printed to imitate the actual fur markings.

Yul Brynner's Wife Happy Over Praise

By DOROTHY ROE

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — When adoring women fans mob Yul Brynner on the street, tear buttons from his clothing and fight for autographs, his wife, the former Virginia Gilmore, doesn't turn a blonde hair.

Says she:

"I think it's fine. If nobody noticed him, I'd worry. Yul is big enough to take care of himself."

If there is any jealousy in the Brynner family, it's probably on Yul's part. And the couple is not another man, but a microscope. For the last two years the glamorous Virginia, a former star of stage and screen, has spent most of her waking hours doing microscopic photography in connection with her work in cancer research at Mt. Sinai Hospital here.

EARLY CELEBRATION

The Brynner family — Yul, Virginia and Rocky, 13-celebrated Christmas early this year, before Brynner left to take over the part of the late Tyrone Power in the movie, Solomon and Sheba, being filmed in Israel.

Virginia will miss her dynamic mate while he is in Israel, but Yul, for his part, says he won't have much time to waste in moping. She's much too busy herself, anyway.

"I find the study of living cells very romantic and fascinating," she says. "I've never been happier than any part I ever played on the stage," says she.

Rocky is an established actress, with 30 movies and a number of TV appearances to her credit, when she met Yul Brynner.

"After our marriage I never had any desire to go back to the stage or screen," says Virginia.

ANNOUNCING GUESTS AT WEDDING RECEPTION

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When one wishes to "announce" to announce the names of the guests to the hostess at the wedding reception, how does a person who is with her husband, give her name to the announcer? Does she give only her name, and then her husband give h i s? Or does the announcer say, "I never saw him before in my life"?

Mrs. Beeckman: When one wishes to "announce" to announce the names of the guests to the hostess at the wedding reception, how does a person who is with her husband, give her name to the announcer? Does she give only her name, and then her husband give h i s? Or does the announcer say, "I never saw him before in my life"?

When one walks with one's husband, and when the announcer asks her, "Name, Mrs.?" she answers "Mr. and Mrs. Holmes" — which is the form the announcer will use in giving the names to the hostess.

CONCERNING PRINTED STICKERS ON CHRISTMAS CARD ENVELOPES

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Several months ago my husband and I (at long last!) moved into the new house we have been building. I had very good-looking return name, printed with our names and our new address. Would it be correct for us to put stickers which proudly carry your new address?

LITTLE GIRL'S NAME ON ENVELOPE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When I address Christmas cards to the Ellis daughters (for three or four or five years old) of relatives and friends of ours, should I write "Miss" or Christmas? I think not, but I've been told that this is the right thing to do. — G W

You have been given the right advice. No matter how young the little girl is, you should write "Miss" before her name on the envelope: Miss Cynthia Hall.

'Let's Cut Out Poisoning' Campaign on in Ontario

By EDNA USHER

Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — Accidental poisonings (not deaths) reported in Canada for the first six months of 1958 averaged 325 a month. Almost half of the cases were those of children from 18 months to five years old.

The figures are mentioned in the latest report from the Canadian Association of Consumers of its drive to eliminate accidental poisonings in the home.

The CAC is working with federal and provincial authorities on the publicity aspect of the "let's cut out poisoning" campaign.

Poison control centres have been established in hospitals across Canada, and at these centres (35 were open in September) lists are kept of household products with a poisonous content, along with household remedies and antidotes against specific poisons.

The CAC says women should guard against accidental poisoning this way:

Get down on your knees and look at life from a child's point of view: then put out of reach all poisonous household goods that a child could get at.

Investigate handbags — they may contain medication which could be poisonous to a child.

Find your nearest poison control centre and write its telephone number and the emergency numbers in your directory.

If the local hospital has no poison centre, start campaigning for one to be set up.

The CAC also reports on a recent campaign against treating stamps, coupons and premiums on poisonous packaged goods.

"We have support from all across Canada in this move," says the CAC bulletin.

"Complaints have been received stating that retailers often give preferred space to the package with the premium, or neglect to replace the package without the premium when the shelf is emptied. Customers should complain-to the retailer in every such instance."

Consumers are also on the warpath concerning cups, plastic and labelling.

"Cups have a short life span compared with saucers, and consumers want to buy them separately or in open stock patterns," it says.

Groups of rural women don't like plastic to be applied to garments. "They want the plastic run through-casing, so it can be replaced when worn."

It also recommends that canned and frozen fruit and vegetables should be graded A, B and C.

"Lack of uniformity in terms used in grading and labelling is very confusing to consumers," the bulletin says.

Toronto, Second Largest City In Canada, Remains One of Its Major Points Artistically

TORONTO (CP)—The fashionably - dressed audience crowded into the new building with its gleaming stone front, up the wide stairways and into the big auditorium. There they sat enthralled by the voice of an unassuming woman who sang like a nightingale.

The voice was that of the world-renowned Swedish soprano Jenny Lind. The place was the city's St. Lawrence Hall. The date was Oct. 21, 1851.

Toronto, then a city for only 21 years, already was a lively cultural centre.

Today the second-largest city in Canada remains one of its major focal points artistically.

VARIED ASPECTS

This is what some authorities in their fields have to say in interviews about various aspects of Toronto's artistic life:

Charles Comfort, president of the Royal Canadian Academy of Arts: "Excluding Quebec province, Toronto as an environment has stimulated more interest in art than any other part of Canada."

Donald Davis, vice-president of the Crest Theatre Repertory Company: "As far as English-speaking theatre goes, Toronto is to Canada what New York and London are to their respective countries."

Boyd Neel, dean of the Royal Conservatory of Music: "I don't know any other city in Canada that comes close to Toronto as a musical centre, although Montreal comes nearest."

BALLET STRONG

Carman Guild, general manager of the National Ballet Company of Canada: "Torontonians support ballet more strongly than the people of any other Canadian city. No other city in Canada has been so generous to ballet as Toronto."

Theodore Shtarich, director of the Royal Ontario Museum: "London apart, the Royal Ontario Museum is the biggest in the Commonwealth and ranks with the first 10 in North America. The Chinese collection is without a peer in the Western world."

Outlining Toronto's contribution in the realm of art, Mr. Comfort said the Ontario Society of Artists, formed here in 1872, was instrumental in forming the National Gallery of Canada eight years later and the Art Gallery of Toronto, which opened its doors in 1916.

Out of Toronto emerged the Group of Seven, seven painters "who began the emancipation of Canadian painting from European influence.

"They tried to portray the youthful vigor of their country—its raw-boned vitality."

WIDE RECOGNITION

Two present-day Toronto painters, Harold Town and William Ronald, have won international awards, Mr. Comfort said.

Turning to sculpture, he said the city can take pride in the late Walter Allward, whose work includes the Canadian war memorial at Vimy Ridge and the South African war memorial in Toronto. Among others were the late Emanuel Hahn and Frances Loring and Elizabeth Wyn Wood.

For those who enjoy looking at works of art, Toronto's Art Gallery has a permanent collection of more than 3,500 paintings, prints and sculptures conservatively valued by gallery officials at between $1,000,000 and $2,000,000.

Martin Baldwin, gallery director, mentioned as a significant aspect of its activities special exhibitions held in recent years such as those of 18th century British painting, the golden age of Dutch painting and the Vienna art treasures.

MUSICAL CENTRE

As a musical forum, Toronto has won high acclaim.

Mr. Neel pitched his enthusiasm high. He said the CBC Symphony Orchestra is "as good as any orchestra on the continent; it's magnificent." The Toronto Symphony Orchestra he rated as not far behind it.

The Opera Festival Company's performances this autumn were "every bit as good as opera performances at Sadler's Wells."

"Given a proper theatre for opera and a greatly-extended season I don't see why we shouldn't create one of the finest operas in the world—we've got the talent."

David Ouchterlony, organist of Timothy Eaton Memorial Church, said "the fact that Toronto can attract people like Walter Susskind and Boyd Neel, who are internationally known, is a tribute to our musical standards."

Mr. Susskind took over as conductor of the TSO from Sir Ernest MacMillan in 1956 and Mr. Neel has been dean of the Royal Conservatory of Music for two years.

Mr. Ouchterlony said Sir Ernest in his 25 years as TSO conductor had done an impressive job in elevating it to its present standards.

FAMED COMPOSER

Composer Dr. Healey Willan, who came to Toronto as the age of 33 and now is 78, is "a world musical figure we owe him a great deal," the organist continued. "His name will live long after other musical figures are forgotten."

Mr. Guild said the National Ballet Company of Canada, started in 1951, is based in Toronto. Its headquarters because of the generosity of the city, financial support from individual citizens and the interest in ballet already shown by Torontonians.

Now going into its eighth season it has 75 people — 40 dancers and 35 musicians among them — on a tour just started which will include four provinces and states on the Atlantic seaboard, in the Middle West and the Southwest.

Canada's only professional opera company is the Opera Festival Company of Toronto, which has just completed its 10th anniversary season with a two-week presentation of three operas. Its artistic director is German-born Herman Geiger-Torel.

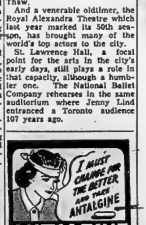
NOTED WRITERS

Turning to literature, Lorne Pierce, editor of the Ryerson Press, has hailed the poetry of Newfoundland-born E. J. Pratt of Toronto as "the great that Canada has produced." In a paper delivered at Mount Allison University, Sackville, N.B., he described the Pratt poem Brebeuf and his Brethren as "a great work "which will remain a cornerstone in the Canadian palace of art."

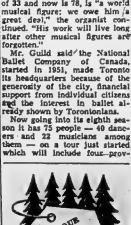
Among other Toronto writers, he has termed Mazo de la Roche, author of the Jalna novels, as "a world figure," pays tribute to novelist Morley Callaghan for his "stark realism and trenchant style" and commends the late Sir Charles G. D. Roberts, a native of New Brunswick, who spent his later years in Toronto, for his versatility and originality as poet and story-teller and Wilson MacDonald for the quality of his lyric verse.

The role played by the CBC in promoting dramatic activity in Toronto was stressed by Mr. Davis of the Crest Theatre. The city had become a mecca for English-speaking actors fairly because the bulk of English-speaking radio and TV dramas were staged here.

Although the Crest has lost money since it was launched as a repertory company five years ago, Mr. Davis said he is optimistic about the theatre outlook in Toronto. Crest productions originally ran for only two weeks. Now they were playing for five to six weeks.



Hart House Theatre, now directed by Eric Gill, helped keep theatre alive in Toronto when it seemed to be flickering out about 20 years ago.



POKES FUN

A relative newcomer, the New Play Society for eight years has poked fun at the behavior of Torontonians and Canadians at large in its annual revue, Spring Thaw.

And a venerable oldtimer, the Royal Alexandra Theatre which last year marked its 50th season, has brought many of the world's top actors to the city.

St. Lawrence Hall, a focal point for the arts in the city's early days, still plays a role in that capacity, although a humbler one. The National Ballet Company rehearses in the same auditorium where Jenny Lind entranced a Toronto audience 107 years ago.

Three Eskimos visiting the Art Gallery of Toronto laugh at the resemblance between an Eskimo carving and Modigliani's portrait of Madame Zborowsky." Toronto, already a centre of culture in 1851, remains one of Canada's focal points artistically. (CP Photo).

Bird Feeding Station Good Way to Become Watcher

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

A Winnipeg newspaper man who makes no claim to being a professional bird - watcher, has found a great variety of birds make their home in the wooded area near the south bank of the Assiniboine River in south-central Winnipeg.

Chris Vickers says he doesn't know how many birds make their home in the area between the Midtown and Osborne Street bridges, but he has become well acquainted with about a dozen.

"I have never gone forth with a pair of binoculars searching for rare species," he said. "The bird - watching fraternity might say I am a lazy man claim I am missing a lot of fun.

"But my method suits me best. I just set up a feeding station, sit down on a fallen log and wait for my bird friends to come. "The results have always been good."

This year, Vickers set up his feeding station on Sept. 11.

"Within a few hours I had six white - breasted nuthatches removing sunflower seeds from the container. This is the first year I have ever made close friends with the white-breasted nuthatch."

Vickers say what while the nuthatches are permanent residents of the area, the chickadee wanders off for the summer.

"The feeding station, however, that lacks a few cheerful chickadees is missing much," he says. "This year I did not have long to wait. The first pair arrived Sept. 13 and an amazing pair they were.

"One was so quiet that it perched on my head, on my shoulder, even on my pipe and cameras, and accepted food from my hand.

The second chickadee had lost its tail.

Vickers says the pair disappeared after three weeks and three days later a second crippled chickadee arrived, a bird with one leg who later became the host of a group of four.

Other visitors during the fall months were a downy woodpecker, a red-breasted nuthatch, a fox sparrow and a white - throated sparrow. But they later went on their way.

Ducks Unlimited report that the final exit of waterfowl from the western Canada breeding grounds took place Nov. 15-18 indicated it was a movement of considerable size," says chief naturalist Bert W. Cartwright.

Regarding the 1958 breeding season, Cartwright says there was little over-all change from last year. "The duck population remained on a high plateau."

Deer hunting in Manitoba ended Dec. 6, with the closing of area three in the southwestern part of the province.

Because of the poor hunting conditions due to snowstorms, cold and strong winds which caused severe drifting, the provincial game officials could see no sense in extending the season as hunters couldn't get back to hunting spots.

Normally during a poor season, the government extends the hunting date.

PRACTICAL MANAGEMENT IDEAS . . . ONE OF THE EXTRAS IN THE CHECKERBOARD BAG

This metal-sheeted Pig Parlor was erected by Mr. and Mrs. Hans Wilchelm, Mossley, Ont., after their barn burned down last spring. It provides economical, labor-saving accommodation for 250 pigs.

80 x 30 foot plywood-finished Pig Parlor built by High Bros., R.R. 2, Markham, Ont., will handle 240 hogs. Extra capacity pen room for exercise are provided by extending the concrete slab beyond the overhang of the roof.

Part of a Purina Pig Parlor owned by Lloyd Alyea, near Woodstock, Ont. Note a large capacity hopper feeder, also automatic waterer in background.

Lay Your Plans Now to Make More Money with a PURINA PIG PARLOR

At the PURINA RESEARCH FARM, over the years, Purina has successfully grown thousands of market hogs in confinement, on concrete—cutting labor cost by hopper feeding and automatic watering. From this extended experience and observation of methods used by successful large-scale hog producers it has developed the "Purina Pig Parlor" plan . . . a plan designed to help hog men take full advantage of the latest housing and management practices with minimum investment and minimum time and labor for the number of hogs involved.

The fact that you may not have the necessary cash on hand to get your hog business established on a modern assembly-line basis need not deter you from taking advantage of this money-making plan. Your Purina Dealer and your Purina Salesman can assist you in making the necessary financial arrangements.

Existing buildings may be converted to modern Parlors and equipped for as little as $10.00 per hog, where you do your own work. On the other hand, new Pig Parlors, constructed to plans provided by Purina, can be built and equipped for about $20.00 per hog, provided again that you furnish your own labor.

Designs call for hopper feeding and automatic watering equipment with concrete slab floors sloped for natural drainage and easy cleaning. In actual practice it takes less than one hour a day for one man to feed and keep a 200-pig parlor clean.

Farmers using the Pig Parlor plan find that they can

- —market more hogs for a very low investment of time and money.
- —get fast low-cost gains and fast turnover of investment both in building and in pigs.
- —control sanitary conditions more quickly and easily.
- —get the advantages of assembly line production and a regular source of added income.

Ask your Purina dealer or district sales manager where you can see a Purina Pig Parlor in operation. Ask him to look over your existing buildings with you, with an eye to conversion and check into the costs of both converting and being the first in your community to build a specialized Pig Parlor. He knows the score, has the plans, and can help you make the necessary financial arrangements.

It was the sixth cheque of similar amount presented on a ten thousand dollar pledge. Expressing appreciation of the Legion's support were J. M. Hartwick, chairman of the hospital board, James Clemison, chairman of planning committee and Dr. K. E. McQueen, medical representative on the board.

Heavy winds jammed ice into the western end of Lake Erie near Windsor, Ont., trapping several ships including the Detroit Edison (foreground). A second ship is also shown trying to work free of the ice pack. Council Gives Solid Support For Causeway

PICTON — Prince Edward County Council members, at the final session of the year, reaffirmed their solid support of the proposal to erect a causeway or bridge to connect Prince Edward County with Hastings County at Deseronto. A motion by Reeve D. O. Reynolds and Reeve Leland Doxsee was passed asking the united support of the County Councils of Hastings, Lennox and Addington and the Chambers of Commerce of Picton, Belleville and Napanee and several active service clubs in the matter.

Various members of council expressed the need for a bridge at that point and felt that it would benefit all the municipalities concerned. It was considered as the most likely location that any bridge would be built.

Council presented Warden Ander with a gavel as a memento of his term in the Warden's chair.

Reports indicated that the club has the largest membership in its history and that it is being used by many summer visitors.

Santa's Helpers Prepare Presents For Belleville And Area Kiddies

Anyone venturing into the basement of the Kiwanis Centre over the past seven weeks would quite probably be cheerfully greeted at the bottom of the stairs by a congenial bespectacled gentlemen with the words, "Here, you can carry some of these things too." On looking about one would see hundreds upon hundreds of toys in various states of repair or disrepair, depending on whether they had yet been touched by the hands of Santa's helpers.

The man responsible for this state of affairs is Eric Cooper, who has been assisting St. Nick for the past seven years in making sure that no child in Belleville has reason to think that he has been overlooked when he looks under his Christmas tree on the morning of December 25th. Eric had been repairing old or discarded toys in his home up until two years ago. When the overload of toys threatened to move him out of house and home he came to the Kiwanis and they allowed him the use of the basement of their centre as a permanent site for storing toys and reconditioning them.

Although the repairing and refinishing of the dozens of doll buggies, bikes, wagons and dolls, amongst other things, begins in the latter part of October, toys do not usually start coming in until around the latter part of November and early December. The disparity between these two periods is covered by the fact that there are still boxes of toys left over from the preceding year to fill the gap. Those toys which come in after the first of December usually will not reach the kiddies until the following year unless the toys' condition is good enough to warrant redistribution with little or no effort.

50 PEOPLE AT WORK

About fifty local people work Monday through Friday evenings at the Kiwanis Centre in the course of the eight-week period during which the toys are prepared for Christmas. Some are "old regulars", whilst others can only set aside the occasional evening for it. Nevertheless the tremendous project of reclaiming buggies with only three wheels, and dolls with only one arm moves forward without too many hitches. Many of the toys require little more than a new coat of paint and a little touching up. These are dispatched fairly quickly. Other toys, especially mechanical ones, require a bit more work and they get the full benefit of a well-experienced crew.

Looking in on an evening one might see a hurried consultation as the "experts" diagnose the trouble with a toy and then prescribe the proper treatment to cause some youngster's eyes to shine when he spots it under an evergreen tree some Christmas morn. Or one might spot two fellows deviling into a large cardboard carton as they fish out one toy after another deciding which can be repaired, which are okay as they are, and which go into the junk pile. Or back in a far corner one may see a spray gun being judiciously applied to a line up of tricycle frames.

All around the basement are signs of renovation and reclamation. Over in one corner is a bench with all sorts of nuts, bolts, and nails on it. On the floor beside it is a pile of wheels of various types and sizes. Against one wall is a pile of stuffed animals and rag dolls. Over beside the door is a group of refinished or repaired toys ready to go upstairs into the waiting room until the time comes for their distribution. Everywhere there is a bustle of activity.

VOLUNTEER HELP

Next week the men from the Belleville Fire Department will be picking up the toys for distribution to children whom they know might be lacking on toys come Christmas Day. To these toys the firemen will be adding one gross of new dolls and six dozen hockey sticks, together with candies and fruit, warm mittens, scarves and toques. There is no excuse for any child lacking once these Santa's helpers swing into action. There will be over one thousand toys for local distribution this year. Anyone knowing of a child who might be overlooked this Christmas is asked to write or phone the Belleville Fire Department or the City of Belleville's welfare office and give them the name and address of the child, the sex and age as well. Santa's helpers will take care of the rest.

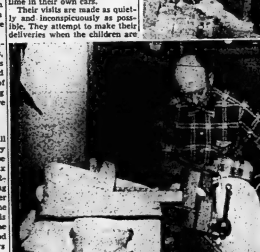
Besides those toys which are distributed locally another lot is shipped up in the mission at Combermere for distribution throughout that area each Christmas. This year a truckload of brightly colored playthings has already been sent up to that district. Thus a few Belleville citizens have spread the spirit of Christmas to an area outside of this community as well as taking care of those within it.

If you think that chief toytown repair man Eric Cooper is well surrounded by toys you could be right. Actually Eric is located in just one corner of a large room which was just literally bursting with kiddies' delights. The Ontario Intelligencer photographer, who was fifteen feet away, was performing his duty amidst a veritable sea of tricycles, doll carriages and pedal cars.

Belleville Firemen Assist In Kris Kringle's Rounds On Coming Christmas Eve

As everyone knows there is going to be a very busy gentleman making his rounds on Christmas Eve together with his reindeer. As in the past, he is going to get a big assist in distributing the many toys, which Eric Cooper and his crew have put into ship - shape order, from the members of the Professional Firefighters Association, Local 497, from Belleville. Except for those men who must remain on duty, every man on the local fire department will be out in this community, providing happiness for many children the day and evening before Christmas. Those on duty in the fire halls will be checking off the names of the good little boys and girls in this city and readying the many gifts for distribution.

Besides those articles which have come from the toyshop down at the Kiwanis Centre there are many which the local firemen have purchased themselves for the kiddies. Mitts, overshoes, hockey sticks, candy, dolls, oranges, and many other things are purchased from funds obtained through the regular Monday night bingoes which the firemen hold in the Elks Hall. The firemen only concern themselves with the children and every cent which their association raises through various means is spent on the welfare and good health of the young ones. All operating expenses are met through the annual dues and levies paid into the association by its members. Adults are not included in the firefighters' annual Christmas project so that there will be no duplication of the efforts of other agencies. The firemen, thirty-six in all, will be making the rounds on their own time in their own cars.



Their visits are made as quietly and inconspicuously as possible. They attempt to make their deliveries when the children are not at home so that the source of the presents is not always known, and the parents may give the toys on Christmas morning.

Sometimes it is difficult for Santa's helpers to find all the deserving children since some people do not bother to call into the fire hall to give the name, address, age and sex of the children they know would not be receiving Christmas gifts otherwise. The firemen would appreciate hearing of any children who do not appear to have any chance of having a merry Christmas. Anyone may contact the firemen by calling WO 2-4545.

There are a few problems which are encountered every year by Santa's helpers as they

Much time is spent at the workbench in the basement of the Kiwanis Centre by two of Santa's Helpers. Ed Beeman (left) and Cliff Crooks are diligently repairing several of the many thousands of toys brought into the "shop" for restoration.

Ken Burkett labors away industriously at fixing a shopping bag onto a doll carriage which will be found by some lucky Belleville child on Christmas morning.

Well over several dozen doll buggies have been refinished by the toytown "fixit" men for distribution this season.

Christmas Spirit - - - - What Is It? -

Once again preparations are in the making for Christmas. Perhaps the nicest thing about this season is that so many people take the time to think of others besides themselves. The normal everyday cares and worries which most of us have seem to be superseded by a thoughtfulness and happiness instilled by the Christmas spirit.

We see evidence of the festive and decorative activities more and more each day. Christmas parties are being held by various groups and organizations throughout the city. The Ontario School for the Deaf will be putting on its annual Christmas pageant over this weekend. Christmas music is being played throughout the dinner hours at Albert College. City works department men have been putting up street decorations throughout the downtown area. The first Christmas trees have made their appearance on the open market.

Belleville merchants have decorated their store fronts and are displaying a large selection of goods for the Christmas shoppers. The annual Christmas shipments of Belleville cheese abroad are being handled by the Post Office and shipping firms. The Post Office is preparing itself for the yearly rush of mail and parcel post which is expected to begin next week. About 150 temporary staff will be taken on to handle the seasonal overload.

Besides the more material things there are the religious ceremonies and celebrations carried on in the churches throughout the city. Decorations and preparations for the carol services, the candlelight services, and midnight mass will soon be under way. Sunday school parties and pageants are in progress as the story of the Nativity and its meaning is brought to the attention of all of us.

MANY HELPERS

Then there is that side which is sort of a combination of all the many small and large things which make up Christmas. Elsewhere on this page are stories of two groups of local people who have put the spirit of Christmas into practice. There are many others as well. The girl cadets of the St. John Ambulance who will be going out to the Hastings County Home to bring the Christmas spirit to some of our older citizens is a good example. The Salvation Army people stand along the streets beside their donation kettles collecting money to bring Christmas to the needy families in the area. The Army's personnel were out last Saturday and they will be out again this evening and tomorrow. The RCAF personnel at Trenton have made a contribution to our local kiddies having a Merry Christmas.

The giving of one's time and effort to those less fortunate reflects in a small way the greatest gift of all—that of the Lord giving Christ to mankind. We feel that the spirit behind this gift and the example which was set up for us by Him is evidenced also in the works of helping others which are performed around this time of the year. The works and acts of selflessness are the true spirit of Christmas. Freely given they express man's faith in the Almighty, in himself and in his future.

A Word to the Wise

Christmas trees are now on the market this year. Although it is advisable to buy early to ensure obtaining a suitable tree, area residents are cautioned against putting their trees up too early. Fire prevention authorities advise that it is in the best interests of safety to put the tree up the night before Christmas and take it down as soon as possible thereafter. This forestalls the tree drying out and becoming a fire hazard.

These two chaps are not playing at the game of "firemen." Nor has Chief Gerald Vance (right) acquired a new fire truck for the Belleville Fire Department. Deputy Chief G. L. O'Brien may looked pleased with the buggy full of dolls but he will not have them long.

Christmas trees completely camouflage the truck they were brought to market on. Perhaps this is a new development in avoiding the parking tax. The people above seem more interested in the trees per se, however.

Thanks Due Trenton RCAF Fire Fighters

This year the local effort to provide toys for Belleville kiddies was given a great boost from the firefighters on the Trenton RCAF base. A campaign was conducted through Middleton Park, the married personnel's subdivision, for contributions to the toy fund. An excellent response was given the efforts of the RCAF firemen and they were able to donate a truckload of toys and playthings to the Belleville firefighters.

These toys were turned over to Eric Cooper's toy repair depot in the Kiwanis Centre for processing and reclamation. The Belleville Firefighters' Association would like to acknowledge the fine work done by the RCAF department and express their thanks for the generosity of the RCAF personnel concerned.

there are unfortunately no gifts which the local firefighters can distribute amongst this age group.

Have you ever replaced a bad tube in your television only to have the set quit the next day and then all several other things went?

This is not a coincidence. TV tubes and components age and weaken more or less at the same rate and when a brand new tube is introduced into the system, older parts sometimes cannot take this new surge of power. It's like "dad" running a race with his teen-age son — rather than with someone his own age!

AT CIRCLE TV SERVICE, 366 Coleman St., only top quality tubes and parts are used and they're guaranteed for 90 days. Producer Could Make Good Profit on Peter Gunn if Sold

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The new TV show they're talking about in Hollywood is a back reworking of the old private eye gimmick, Peter Gunn.

I've heard predictions from insiders that Gunn will shoot down his opposition. I've heard rumors about the originality of the show, also complaints about the amount of brutality. So it was time for a chat with the show's papa, a bright young film maker named Blake Edwards.

"Yes, I've heard it said that we have too much brutality in the show," said Edwards. "We've revolutionized our scripts with that in mind.

"But I think we have a lot less brutality than most westerns. Maybe it's the way we show it. You seldom see actual blood being landed. A fist will come right at the camera, then we'll cut an d you'll hear the sound. Perhaps it seems worse that way."

Edwards is one of the brightest young talents in movies today. He had a comedy, Perfect Furlough, coming out and on Jan. 1 starts another with Cary Grant and Tony Curtis, Operation Petticoat. So why does he dive into TV?

"For the money," he was frank to admit. "I don't make any now, because the show is too expensive to make. But if I ever sell out, I could make a good profit on a capital gain.

"Also, I did it for the creative liberty it afforded. I can try new things in a TV series that would be impossible in a movie."

Peter Gunn has topnotch scripts, written or supervised by Edwards. He has directed about half of the shows. The Monday night offering has a notable cast, headed by Craig Stevens, Lola Albright and Hope Emerson. But Edwards credits 50 per cent of the show's effectiveness to the musical score by Hank Mancini.

Pitching Coach Shows 'Em How to Bat

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Johnny Sain, new pitching coach for Kansas City Athletics, has up-of-beat approach to his job. He starts in the batting box, not on the mound.

General manager Parke Carroll told about it Friday.

Sain believes a pitcher can add several victories to his total throughout a season by making himself an asset with the bat in well-placed sacrifice bunt, a successful fly or a hit can be important contributions by a hurler.

And, the onetime ace of the old Boston Braves and later with both the New York Yankees and Kansas City, stresses another point: If the pitcher can become even a minor help to the attack, he is less likely to be removed for a pinch-hitter and will be more often given a chance to finish his own games. At the end of the year he can look back on several shutouts which he helped to achieve by his bat.

Instead of working with the Athletics' young hopefuls on their pitching deliveries, Sain has been spending his time showing them what to do with the bat.

AT THE BELLE — Cornel Wilde is cast as a Gascony rifle-fighter in "Marcaibo", Paramount's Technicolor production which opens Wednesday, playing today on the last times at the Belle Theatre, with Jean Wallace co-starring. A second action feature from Paramount is "When Hell Broke Loose" co-starring Charles Bronson and Violet Brissac.

AT THE PARK — Handsome Robert Wagner stars with Terry Moore and Broderick Crawford in the Technicolor and CinemaScope war drama "Between Heaven and Hell" opening Monday at the Park Theatre. On the same program the addition to Tennessee "Halls of Montezuma", stars Richard Widmark, Jack Palance and Robert Wagner.

The Canadian Chamber of Commerce announced late Thursday the group it has got together will leave Canada Jan. 15 and visit Jamaica, Trinidad, British Guiana and Barbados.

Calibre of the persons selected indicates the mission will be a powerful one, similar to the big Canadian mission that went to Britain last year.

The government will send Jack H. Warren, assistant deputy trade minister. Mission members will be accompanied by their wives.

Share Lead Sanford Golf

SANFORD, Fla. (AP) — Bob Keller, civilian golf pro at Elgin AF base here, Florida, and big George Bayer of Glen Eagles, Ill., both shot a four-under-par 67 Friday for 135 totals and shared the lead at the halfway mark in the $15,000 open golf tournament.

The one-stroke lead Doug Sanders held at the end of the first round vanished as he soared to 76 for a second-round total of 141.

The stroke behind the leaders at 136 were U.S. open champion Tommy Bolt and Chick Harbert. Bolt, the 1957 Canadian open champion, was tremendous on the third under par 68 and his driving was prodigious.

The field was cut to 61 pros and low amateurs for the third round today, with a score of 145 or better qualifying for the pros.

Al Balding of Toronto, winner in 1955, fired a 78 for a total of 144 to remain in the running.

Biltmores Nip Hamilton 6-2

GUELPH (CP)—Guelph Biltmores outskated Hamilton Cubs for a 6-2 decision Friday night, the Cubs' fifth loss in 19 games.

The last-place Hamilton club turned it into a real scrap despite an early Biltmore lead which made the outcome apparent after the first period.

Referee Bill Balmer handed out 19 penalties in the rugged contest including five-minute majors to Guelph's Lloyd Haddon and Stan McNeill and the Hamilton goals during a flurried third-period upsurge by the visitors.

The win moves Guelph to within two points of the third-place Toronto St. Michael's Majors.

LONDON (CP)—Toronto photographer Donald McKague went to Buckingham Palace Thursday and took portrait photographs of the Queen to be used in connection with her visit to Canada next year. A palace spokesman said McKague, 37, spent about two hours on the job. No other details were disclosed.

Hoffa Declares Teamsters Will Appeal Ruling

WASHINGTON (AP) — James R. Hoffa declared Thursday night that the Teamsters Union will appeal an order that the union quit blocking reforms recommended by court-named monitors.

F. Dickinson Letts, 81-year-old U.S. district judge, directed Hoffa and other teamsters chiefs Thursday to obey the monitors' order to accomplish a general housecleaning of the 1,500,000-member union.

Letts threatened to oust Hoffa as union president and with punishment for contempt if the monitors are thwarted.

In Miami Beach, Hoffa conferred with the teamsters' international executive board and said: "We will appeal it all the way."

He said his union had done nothing "we consider contrary to good unionism."

On another front Thursday night, Labor Secretary James P. Mitchell said state, county and city employees "deserve a better fate" than to be organized by the teamsters.

Hoffa had announced that an effort will be made by the teamsters to organize state, county and municipal workers.

"Any effort of Jimmy Hoffa to enlarge his jurisdiction would discourage me," the secretary said at a press conference, because it seems to him that "the people of this country, and union members particularly, have a right to union leadership that is respected and above reproach, and I don't think Mr. Hoffa has those virtues."

Whooping Crane on Upward Trend

Each year, along through October and November, the wildlife men, naturalists, bird watchers, and interested outdoorsmen of the Nation all go through a worrisome time while watching the last remaining flock of whooping cranes make its fall migration to its wintering grounds in the Aransas National Wildlife Refuge on the Gulf coast of Texas.

For some years it was feared that this impressive big bird was extinct. Then in 1938 a naturalist discovered a flock of 14 of these birds in the vicinity of Great Slave Lake, British Columbia. Immediately they were given every protection possible — vermin and predator control during the nesting season, and soon amounted almost to a guided tour on their southward migration.

Gradually the flock increased and before many years has passed a new wildlife refuge was established in Texas so that the birds could spend their winters in unmolested grandeur.

This year the reports have come in as the flock made its way to the wintering grounds. A pair here, three or four there, one fellow completely off course in Missouri — and then with a sandhill crane. At last a release dated November 4th from Fish and Wildlife announces that nine young whooping cranes have arrived at Aransas, the all-time high on youngsters. If the 38 birds which went north in the spring all return safely, the grand total, which includes 1 + 6 + six birds in zoological gardens, will be 44 — the highest since 1938. Here's hoping.

GROWTH OF ANGLING —

When I was a boy (which was so many years ago that the contemplation of these years is a n o t pleasant) not very many men were ardent fishermen. Men who spent most of their leisure time in the relaxing sport of angling were apt to be frowned upon by the more staid and industrious members of the community. The fact, that such men as President Cleveland and Dr. Henry Van Dyke spent most of their spare time fishing had but little weight. T h e s e were the exceptions which, so they said, only served to prove the rule.

Now the tendency of folks to turn to angling quite naturally as a healthful and beneficial pastime is clearly reflected in t h e sales of fishing licenses throughout the country. Briefly the annual increase in fishing-license sales for the past 25 years h a s averaged about 600,000. In other words, the increase has been an average of 3½ per cent annually.

Small wonder that our lakes and streams are crowded and that the conservation commissions find themselves hard-pressed to provide angling sport for such a multitude. We can't help but wonder whether hatchery and stocking facilities are keeping pace with this set trend of increase.

If you are a fly fisherman and have the time, and the inclination, it is interesting to dig back into the annals of antiquity and read therein of the ancient flies and lures which were used by some of the more sporting-minded proponents of the honorable and relaxing pastime known as "Fynahyme with an angle" or, in more modern rebellion, just angling.

Artificial flies turn up in t h e most surprising places. For example, the unwary fish in t h e Macedonian streams which flowed into the Aegean Sea were being lured to their destruction by means of strange concoctions of black wool and a red cock's hackle, tied on a bronze hook. That was about 2000 B. C.

Down through the centuries the red and black combination persisted. Dame Juliana Berners, Prioress of a nunnery in Great Britain, wrote what is generally supposed to be the first published discussion on angling which is in the English language. While primarily a fly-fisherman, or, to be more exact, "fisherwoman," the good Dame was not above the use of the little red worm when occasion demanded. In short, Dame Juliana was an opportunist, not a purist.

Be that as it may, she recommended a certain fly pattern for each month of the year and for fly dressings, red and black predominated as they did in earlier times. By the a d d i t i o n of the scarlet body of t h e "red hackle" of early Dutch and Scotch angling soon gave way to the peacock herl body (almost black when wet) of the "brown hackle." This, in turn, was embellished with a white wing by Tom Bosworth, coachman to three generations of royalty in Great Britain, among them Queen Victoria. He called the fly quite naturally the "Coachman" and the pattern persists to this day in the fly boxes of modern anglers.

Recently a party of American Indian was catching trout a n d salmon on a lure of deer h a i r tied to the bone hook. How far back this lure was used nobody knows for sure, but the oldest Indians of the white man's knowledge were quite familiar with the method.

But the use of lures was by no means confined to artificial flies by the ancients. The natives of the South Seas knew, thousands of years ago, that a mother-of-pearl wobbler or spoon, equipped with a bone hook, was an effectual fish-getter.

One of the interesting lures of antiquity is that mentioned by Homer in his "Odyssey" written about 850 B. C. Therein he mentions quite frequently his "crimson lure with its barbed hook." About the only sort of lure that could possibly be of such an order would be a wobbler or spoon, much as we use them today. Truly, that writer who coined the phrase, "Nothing new under the sun" knew whereof he spoke.

Frisco Gridders Bar Scribe From Dressing Room

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Joe Arenas has announced he has been banned by San Francisco 49ers because of things he said in his newspaper column.

Arenas played seven years with the professional football team, and recently has been writing for the San Francisco Call-Bulletin. His column, on page one Friday, reported receipt of a letter from 49ers owner Vic Morabito.

"Vic wrote that . . . since my former teammates on the present 49er squad had not appreciated my comments about their playing and were adamant about it, I'd been barred from the locker bench and dressing room.

Arenas has been critical of the way the 49ers are run this season. He has said, among other things, he thought V. A. Tittle should have quarterbacked the entire season, instead of being spelled occasionally by the younger and less experienced John Brodie.

Rule 10-Pin Bowling World

CHICAGO (AP) — Eddie Lubanski, the perennial runner-up, ruled the 10-pin bowling world today, capping a steady climb that started when he shocked his baseball flannels in 1949.

Lubanski, stocky Detroit native, won the world invitational game match championship Friday night.

While Lubanski powdered his way to a $5,000 triumph in the gruelling nine - day session, a slender 36-year-old Steelton, Pa., secretary scored a tremendous upset by taking the women's division title.

Mrs. Charlotte (Rusty) Grubic rolled a 695 to Peterson pinfalls over Mrs. Elvira Toepfer, Detroit veteran. Her prize was $2,500.

Lubanski was pitching baseball strikes for the Muskegee, Okla., Giants in 1949 and leading his team in victories when he thought his baseball career was announcement to a higher classification in the St. Louis Browns organization. He was rebuffed, quit baseball and took up bowling.

CRANDAL IS GUEST —

OTTAWA (CP) — Catcher Del Crandal of Milwaukee Braves will be guest speaker at the sixth annual Sportsmen's Association dinner Feb. 2 at which the outstanding Ottawa area athlete will be announced. Lucille Wheeler of St. Jovite, Que., world skiing champion in the downhill and slalom events, also will attend the dinner.

BCI Hoop Teams Defeat Kingston In Exhibitions

By TONY WRIGHT

Thursday night the three BCI basketball squads travelled to Kingston to play Queen Elizabeth High School in an exhibition set.

In the bantam game the passing was wild and the shooting was poor. Eric Blakely, however, came up with 14 points to lead his BCI teammates to a 30-8 victory. Muirhead 6, Blakely 14, Blaker 10, Muir, Howland, Rushton, Tosh, Hurdy, Townsend, Burr, Ian Hoope and Seames.

In the junior game the tempo was fast and the passing and shooting were good. Play was very close in the first half with Q.E. leading 18-17 at the half. However, after the half BCI started to click and began to penetrate the Q.E. defence. When the whistle blew for the end of the game, the score was all for BCI. Big gun for BCI was McKenzie with 21 points; Annis 1, Davis 2, Hogle 1, Weston 3, Roberts, Wilson 3, Hook 4, McMartin, Hallam 2, Richardson 2, McKenzie 31, Dulmage.

The senior game was the highlight of the evening with the dribbling and passing being fast and accurate. BCI grabbed an early lead and never looked back. Coach "Red" Townsend used all of the players, who came up with a 37-29 win. High point man was Jim Morton with 9 points.

All three teams played heads-up basketball.

Ted Power Leads Western Scoring Race

SUDBURY (CP) — Veteran centre Ted Power of the league-leading Chatham Maroons is making a strong bid to win his second successive OHA-NOHA Senior A scoring championship as of Thursday he was leading the race with 37 points.

Willis is just a point edge over linemate Jim Connelly, Power has collected 14 goals and 23 assists, to Connelly's 23 points from 21 goals and 12 assists.

Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen' two fine centres, Ken Laufman and Bill' Wylie, are both within striking distance with 32 and 31 points respectively, while the Mcrooon's Don Head leads the goalies with a 3.27 goals-against average.

Blues Blank Carabins 3-0

TORONTO (CP) — University of Toronto Blues shut out University of Montreal Carabins 3-0 Friday night to move into second place in the Senior Intercollegiate Hockey League.

Two goals by Mik Elik and a single by Dune Reoak wrapped up the victory as the Blues edged to within two points of Laval University.

Ray Dunn in the Toronto net stopped 20 shots for his first shutout of the season but Carabin goalie Jean Louis Bourget earned honors as the hardest-working man on the ice.

He turned aside 34 shots in facing a fearsome bombardment by the Varsity attackers.

Montreal Kids Almost Mob Ole Archie

MONTREAL (CP) — Archie Moore, who retained his world light-heavyweight title Wednesday with a knockout victory over Yvon Durelle, had another tough struggle on his hands Thursday night.

There were 150 opponents. Archie visited the Lions boys and girls club and his practically assaulted by youngsters seeking his autograph. All games stopped and when Archie made the cheering children quieted down he told them: "I carry out a promise by coming here. Two years ago I promised one-and-four club officials I'd visit you."

Archie toured the premises and played pool with the boys but had trouble getting a clear table because the youngsters perched on the sides. He posed for pictures and signed autographs.

The club presenten him with a trophy — a gold cricket lion on a green marble base. He was also given a Lions Club Christmas cake.

What price professional hockey?

Jim Norris, owner of Chicago Black Hawks in the National Hockey League, can tell you all about it. He has poured more than $500,000 into the faltering Hawks since 1954 and the way things are going now for his fifth-place team he'll never end up in the black.

Last Saturday afternoon, for instance, the Hawks were hosts to Detroit Red Wings and a crowd of only 3,329 turned up at Chicago Stadium. That was the smallest NHL crowd in years.

LESS THAN $18,000

The gross gate receipts from Saturday's game probably were less than $10,000 and an NHL team must gross $700,000 each season to break even. Each big league club has 25 home games and, from all indications, Norris will have to dig into his jeans again this year to keep the club operational.

Norris probably will be lucky to get back the $105,000 he spent last summer when he purchased eight new players.

Hockey could be tough all-over. Hal (Edmonton Journal) Pawson reports that a Juvenile Hockey League doubleheader at Edmonton earlier this month attracted a "grand total of 25 spectators and the fantastic sum of $7.25 at the gate."

With more than 70 boys in the league, it works out to about 10 cents a boy and one parent in attendance for every three youngsters playing instead of being on the streets.

"No wonder the youngsters are discouraged."

Pawson said that years ago parents crowded around Edmonton open-air rinks in below-zero temperatures.

HIT BY WEATHER

On a comparable basis, look at the crowd figures for the East-West all-star Shrine football game at Hamilton last Saturday. That game, played in 17-above weather with winds up to 25 miles an hour, drew fewer than 5,000 to watch the best talent available from East and West.

It was the fourth annual East-West game and all have been played in December when the weather has been atrocious. The Shriners, who sponsor the game and turn over proceeds to crippled children's hospitals in Montreal and Winnipeg, have been able to net about $10,000 in the four years.

Executives of the nine professional football cities from Vancouver to Montreal have a real problem on their hands. They supply the players and, as everyone knows, the early-December classics have been a flop at the box-office. The only solution appears to be that the game should be played in mid-July before the opening of the Big Four and Western Interprovincial Union schedules.

Executives are fearful of losing key players in such a game before the season opens, but they also realize that the all-star game is an annual Canadian sports institution that must be retained. Officials probably will thrash out the matter at the January session of the Canadian Football League when the heads of all nine clubs get together for their annual meeting.

Toe Blake Has Problem-What To Do With Beliveau

Sport Slices

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Way out yonder in the Okanagan Valley where the native sons "Pick More or throw 'em away," except when they win the Allen Cup, they have discovered at least temporarily that like whisky and spoon salts, hockey and "rassling" do not mix.

An enterprising promoter in Vernon, home of the Canadians' hockey team, members of the Okanagan Valley Senior League, disgusted at the fact so many fans were staying at home watching wrestling on television when they should be at the arena cheering the Canadians and paying for the privilege, decided to inject a little "rasslin" into the local puck-chasing scene.

So, borrowing a gimmick from the pro pachyderms, he decided to introduce a "Masked Marvel" into the puck put-and-take game. This was after seeing hand cars, bedroom suites, Christmas turkeys and other assorted door prizes failed to pry the Vernon faithful loose from comfortable living rooms and television sets.

So they dropped a slitted hood over the noggin of an unemployed native son, garbed him in Vernon hockey gear and sent him out with the puck-chasing troops. To the natives in particular, and the valley and world at large, they announced the "Marvel" would unmask after he had scored twenty goals in one game.

The "Marvel" it appeared has about as much senior hockey savvy as Sir Galahad's charger. He took two turns on the ice in the first game, injured a groin and sat out the second. He did not attract enough extra fans to pay for the slitting of the hood.

An enterprising Vancouver columnist, Dick Beddoes, set out to unmask the "Marvel." He felt probably that from the hood's scoring record to date it would take a couple of hundred years before the cat escaped his mug to daylight, so he slanty his curiosity and possibly save a life he decided to conduct a private unveiling.

He did.

The Marvel proved to be Gordon Lyons, recently of the provincial power commission, and an intermediate hockey player who, Beddoes said, didn't know he was that good.

But the author of the gimmick, Frank King, a Vernon Canadians winger, aided and abetted by Coach George Agar, is not downhearted. They have not given up the Masked Marvel idea. What they want now is a bigger and better one, one who can play hockey, and hold his breath for at least ten minutes of each period. Goal-scoring is another necessary attribute, although three in a row, we should, will be barred until the faithful are bulging the Vernon arena, and the whole hockey world wonders.

Mr. King authored the Masked Marvel stunt because, he said, "we're in bad trouble. No hockey fans. People are staying home watching 'rasslin' on television."

Surely the intelligentsia of the Okanagan Valley know "rasslin" is a travesty of sport?, he was asked.

Mr. King spat. "The intelligensia don't know no such thing. So hockey had to attack. One night—presto—my beam goes belanged! The light flicks on. If the people want 'rasslin' and we'll give 'em a Masked Marvel. We got nothing to lose, because we're lost any way."

Beddoes concluded his unveiling ceremony with Agar and King. They found the hood in a paper bag under a car that looked as if it had been in straight falls to a ten-ton truck.

The Hood came out and answered questions. He said, "there ain't no future in the Marvel business and no money neither."

He said the Hood's nose-holes were too small and he hadn't breathed fresh air in a month. When asked if he ever thought of removing the mask, he said it was a hell of a good idea and with a tearing motion ripped away the hood.

So there is a job open for an enterprising out-of-work, top-notch senior hockey player. Or if those western buckaroos want to inject some real "rasslin" into their hockey picture, we know a couple of Toronto referees who could fill the bill. And they wouldn't have to wear hoods.

Second to Go Bobo Tied It But the Wolves Lost Anyway

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Chatham Maroons had to do it the hard way Friday night in putting down the scrappy Sudbury Wolves.

The power - packed Chatham squad, which had the OHA-Senior and NOHA Senior A circuit all season, took a 3-2 overtime decision after the visiting Wolves had pulled their goalie to tie it up with one second in the third period.

In the OHA's eastern Senior A division, Belleville McFarlands had an easy time turning back Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds 5-1 to take their second-place margin.

Ted Power was the Chatham hero, scoring his second goal of the game midway through the overtime session. His first goal was a fierce drive from 15 feet out deflected off a skate into the net.

EX-MAN THRUST WORKS

Sudbury pulled goalie Ray Fredericks in favor of a six-man attack in the dying moments of the third. John Bobnic's goal stopped the clock at 19:39.

Injured Star Back Tonight But Coach Is Not Expected To Disintegrate Hot Combo

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Montreal Canadiens' coach Toe Blake has a problem, but it isn't one that's likely to earn him much sympathy from other National Hockey League coaches.

Blake's dilemma concerns a six-foot-three-inch, 205 - pound centre who has been an all-star for the last four seasons and this year, according to his coach, is playing better than ever.

But Blake isn't quite sure what to do with him.

The big centre is Jean Beliveau, and what is puzzling his coach is where to play him when he returns to action, possibly next Thursday when the Canadiens play host to Toronto.

Beliveau has been sidelined since suffering a torn finger ligament in a Nov. 29 game here against Detroit. In the same game Canadiens meet here tonight.

Before Beliveau left the lineup he had scored 14 goals and assisted on 12 others in 22 games—a pace that would rank seventh in the league points-race.

STAR LINE

But when he was injured Blake did some fancy juggling. He moved rookie Dave Balon centre with left wing to centre beside Beliveau's winger Bernie Geoffrion and put another rookie, Bob McDonald, at left wing.

The result was the hottest line in the league. Backstrom scored twice in his first game at the new position; Geoffrion piled up enough points to pull into a brief tie with New York Rangers' Andy Bathgate for the league scoring lead and McDonald scored goals at will.

Obeying the maxim that you should leave a winning combination alone Blake hesitates to put Beliveau back at centre between Backstrom and Geoffrion, but you don't keep a Jean Beliveau on the bench.

TRY NEW LINE?

Most observers think Blake's move will be to put Beliveau between Don Marshall and Claude Provost, two youthful wingers who have labored in penalty-killing obscurity most of their NHL careers.

The three might become another Montreal line to put terror into the hearts of NHL netminders.

In any event Blake won't have to make the decision tonight when the Canadiens and the Red Wings meet. Sunday the two clubs play a return match in Detroit. The last time this happened two weeks ago—Montreal won 6-2 and 7-0, but during the second game Wings seemed to have regained their touch.

In other Saturday games Boston Bruins are host to Chicago Black Hawks and Toronto Maple Leafs—on a five-game unbeaten streak—host New York Rangers. Sunday Toronto is in Boston and Chicago is in New York.

Browns, Giants Clash Looks Like Grid Tops

By BEN OLAN

NEW YORK (AP) — Something's gotta give in Yankee Stadium Sunday when Cleveland Browns, the best road club in the National Football League, take on New York Giants, one of the top clutch teams, in the highlight of the final regular season.

A victory for the Browns will send them into the title game against Baltimore, the western conference champs, Dec. 28. A triumph for New York will necessitate a playoff with Cleveland next Sunday in New York. Cleveland leads the eastern conference with a 9-2 mark while the Giants are 8-3.

Both of the Browns' setbacks came on home grounds 21-17 to the Giants and 30-10 to Detroit Lions. Cleveland has won five games without a setback on enemy grounds.

Giants lost when least expected, first to the Philadelphia Eagles then to the Chicago Cards and Pittsburg. To remain in contention Jim Lee Trowbridge must check Brown and Browns in their first meeting Nov. 2, beat Baltimore Nov. 9, and won another "must" game against Detroit last Sunday with a final-period rally.

Pittsburgh and the Cardinals kick off the last week-end of the campaign today.

In Sunday's other games, Baltimore is at San Francisco, Detroit at the Chicago Bears, Green Bay at Los Angeles and Philadelphia at Washington, each battling for the Giants-Browns tussle, expected to attract a crowd of more than 70,000. The most important ones are in Chicago and Los Angeles. The Bears and Rams are tied for second place in the western conference at 7-4.

The Rams will be seeking their fifth victory in a row over Green Bay.

Rematch With Moore First Says Manager

MONTREAL (CP)—Chris Shaban, manager of Yvon Durelle, says that any question of Durelle defending his Canadian and British Empire light - heavyweight championship will have to wait until a re-match with Archie Moore is settled.

Durelle and Moore put on such a spectacular battle—six knockdowns in Montreal Forum Wednesday, with old Archie retaining his title by a knockout in the 11th round, that a return fight has been considered a must.

Archie is for it and Shaban can't see any better pay day ahead for his fighting fisherman from Baie Ste. Anne, N.B.

BALL PARK POSSIBILITY

"If the fight is arranged it probably will be held in the Montreal Royals baseball park in June or July," said Shaban between lawyering for Moncton.

"I'll talk things over with Jack Kearns, Moore's manager, first suggested an overweight match saying Yvon may have been weakened by making the weight for Wednesday's fight. I can't see much purpose in an over-weight match. It certainly wouldn't draw as well as a title match. Anyway, I think it's pretty well agreed that Yvon was far from his best on Wednesday's fight.

Shaban said Durelle collected a great $25,600 from the Moore fight.

GIANT WELCOME

MONCTON (CP)—Yvon Durelle, a hero in defeat to many New Brunswickers, will travel from his home in Belle Baie this June, today for a giant welcome by the town fathers.

This afternoon's festivities will start from the Moncton Stadium. A motorcade will travel to the Legion Hall for a public reception. A concert party is slated for the Canadian and British Empire light-heavy champ at the Beaujeour Curling Club.

Pike Won't Make Jump To National

WINNIPEG (CP) — Alf Pike, coach of Winnipeg Warriors of the Western Hockey League, will not make the big jump to the National Hockey League coaching ranks next season.

In an interview Friday Jack Perrin, Warrior general manager, said this was agreed to in a long-distance telephone conversation with George (Punch) Imlach, general manager of Toronto Maple Leafs, who had been pickering for Pike's services.

Imlach and Leaf forward Bert Olmstead will continue to guide the NHL team until the end of the season. They take over the task of trying to raise the Leafs from the cellar when Billy Reay was fired last month.

LEAVE JOB OPEN

Perrin said the Toronto Job would be left open until the hockey season ends, then the Leafs would resume negotiations.

Speaking with Perrin's permission, have been negotiating with Pike for more than a week.

In Toronto, Imlach said: "We found Pike unobtainable."

Pike said:

"Winnipeg wanted us to give them some compensation for Pike but we're having our own troubles and we aren't in a position to compensate for a coach now. But we'll try at the end of the season."

Joe Crozier Says Quebec Loop Will Fold, Will Tell All Monday Night

MONTREAL (CP) — Joe Crozier, who is reported to have practically decided the doom of the four-team Quebec Hockey League within the next two weeks, has promised to "tell all" Monday night when the pro league holds its general business meeting.

Crozier, general manager-player of Quebec Aces, declined comment Friday night on a Chronicle - Telegraph report which quoted him as saying the QHL will fold "within two weeks" and that any league with only four teams "is practically doomed to failure."

Joe did say he would make a statement at the league meeting here.

He and his club were in town for a game against Montreal Royals blanked the Aces 2-0.

NO SUPPORT

Crozier's prophecy has no support from officials around the league which includes, besides Montreal and Quebec, Chicoutimi-Saguenean and Trois - Rivieres Lions.

League president Byron Higgins said the "new nothing of Crozier's" is not planned to investigate the situation.

Syd Holmes, QHL secretary-treasurer, said the league meeting is for general league business, including arrangements for playoff offs.

The four clubs, in money or players or both, get help from National Hockey League clubs. Boston Bruins have second-place Aces, the third-place Royals have an agreement with New York Rangers and also with the American Hockey League Buffalo Bisons, and the tail-end Saguenneens have had support from Toronto Maple Leafs.

EIGHT STARTED OUT

The league was formed in the 1952-53 season when the old Quebec Senior Hockey League decided to form two divisions. It began with eight teams.

There has been talk that Detroit Red Wings and Chicago Black Hawks will sponsor clubs next season, but the QHL still total to six.

Total attendance last season was less than 300,000, worst since the league began operations.

Ken Doherty, representative for the Royals in the QHL, said Friday he was not overly concerned we have no intention of folding and intend to finish the season—and to play a playoff.

Rollie Hebert, Chicoutimi general manager, said his club is down about $10,000 and attendance is off 20 per cent. He added:

"If we get an average of 2,000 fans a game we'll break even."

Macs Defeat Hull-Ottawa For Fourth Win In Row

Wrap Up Neat 5-1 Victory With Two Quickies in Second For 11th Win in 13 Outings

By GEORGE M. CARVER
Sports Editor

Goal lightning striking twice in the same place in six seconds in the second period rallied sway a 5-1 verdict for the McFarlands over the Hull-Ottawa Canadiens here last night.

The Macs had grabbed a 2-1 first-period lead over the fast-skating, hard-checking protegee of Pollock when they hit hard and suddenly for the two clinching markers.

Moe Benoit's pretty slapshot from the point got the first with Lou Sneke's picture-passing effort accounting for the second.

The clean, hard-fought game was marred in the third period when Hull's John Annable was given an automatic game misconduct following mix-minor misconducts by Referee Ned Vitarelli. Annable started pushing Linesman Bill Hurst and narrowly missed a sterner punishment.

The victory was the fourth in a row for the McFarlands and their eleventh in 13 starts. They play Cornwall tomorrow afternoon then leave for Quebec for a three-game series with teams of the Quebec League.

They will return Thursday.

The Macs, matching speed for speed with the fleet youngsters from Hull, scored two goals in the first period with a single turn, then struck swiftly for the pair of quickies in the second. They added the fifth with 14 seconds to go in the third period.

Johnny McLellan, Lou Sneke, Paul Payette, Moe Benoit and Wiener Brown triggered the Macs goals with Don Eliet accounting for the Ottawans lone marker in the first period.

Both clubs fanned the puck to the man, with the referee handing out but one penalty, two minors to the Macs. Two of the Canadiens' four sentences were Annables misconducts.

Three minutes had gone in fast hard-checking first period before Johnny McLellan opened the scoring with a hard low shot from a difficult angle after taking a passout from Crawford.

Both defences broke up opposing attacks almost completely mainly in the centre ice zones. The Macs got in the closer and Claude Cyr pulled off a couple of saves from Macs on his doorstep.

Fourteen minutes had gone when Paul Payette driving hard with Eddie Mariseau took the wingers pass in front of the Hull net and his low backhander put the Macs two up.

The Canadiens had the slight edge of play near the end of the period and the line of Black, Eliet and Annable worked in close with Eliet poking in the goal. Annable's short pass behind Sneke to cut the margin to 2-1. There were no penalties in the period with the Macs edging their youngster mates 8-7 in shot on goal.

The Macs took over in the second period except for a late spurge outbooting the young Hullites.

The Hullians gave Gordie Bell a couple of useful minor penalty with the Mac goalie comforting through brilliantly.

Kenny Ozard for the first penalty at 5.22 and the Macs did everything but beat Claude Cyr in the Canadiens nets. However when Boucher was jailed at 10.22 for tripping Brown the Ikemen caught fire. They rammed home two goals in six seconds to grab a 4-1 margin.

Moe Benoit got the first one with a blazing slapper from the point on a driving power play. His second later Lou Sneke scored a typical Smokian goal taking Minnie Minaud's pass in front of the goal in full stride to drive it past Cyr into the pay-dirt.

The Macs charged back but the work by Cyr kept the count as what it was. The Ottawans took over the offensive near period end but Moe Benoit was sentenced for tripping.

The Canadiens battled hard in the third period in an effort to cut the margin but the Macs checking was close. Moe Benoit drew another sentence at 9.04 but the Ottawans' power-play was cut short abruptly when Annable ran foul of the law.

The Canadiens' star was tabbed with a ten-minute misconduct for kicking the puck out of a linesmans reach, then drew another man's reach, then drew another man's reach, then drew another and an automatic game misconduct for the referee.

The Canadiens' team appeared to resent the penalties, and Annable appeared to be trying to push Linesman Bill Hurst. "I barely missed a year's suspension" Referee Vitarelli said in the dressing room later.

The Macs had the better of the play in the later part of the period with Keith MacDonald who made rare appearance drawing the plaudits of the crowd as he bounced the Canadiens hard and often.

He slipped Brown a pass with just 16 seconds to go and the "Wiener" sizzled a slapshot at the net that Cyr hasn't seen yet. It ended the scoring.

Lineups—Hull: goal, Cyr; defence, Longerist, Yardil, Gaudreau, J. C. Tremblay, Begin; forwards, Eliet, Boucher, Doyle, Annable, Black.

Macs: goal, Bell; defence, Benoit, Bottley, Crawford, Dewsbrand, Crawford; forwards, McLellan, Hildebrand, Jones, Bradley, Menard, Sneke, Payette, Brown, Mariseau, Minaud.

MICHIGAN WINS

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Michigan scored four goals in the first 11½ minutes and easily overpowered McGill of Montreal, 10-1, in a college hockey game Friday night. Joe Irvin of McGill spoiled goalie Jim Coyle's shutout bid with a first-period mark-

Coach Fires Blast at Fans Then Resigns

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Fed up with the personal strain of professional football coaching, Lawrence (Buck) Lloyd fired a stinging blast at the boos of fans and critics and resigned Friday as head coach of San Francisco 49ers.

"It is one thing to be booed as a player," the 38-year-old former Stanford all-America quarterback told a news conference. "Then you can get in there and show them."

"But it is an entirely different thing when, as a coach on the sidelines, you have to stand there and take it helplessly for things your players do and breaks of the game that go against the club.

"I'm resigning for personal reasons, because it is pretty difficult to maintain a happy home and live a normal life when your wife and children can't go into a store or attend a game without embarrassment . . . where they are sweating out every game as much as I am.

"I could let off steam as a player, but I couldn't as a coach. So I gave up football coaching, definitely finished."

AMICABLE ENDING

Albert, who played one season in Canadian football, and Vic Morabito, principal stockholder of the 49er club in which Frankie Albert owns five per cent, sat side by side in amicability through the press conference. He has directed the team's destinies for three years. His pay is believed between $25,000 and $30,000 a year.

Albert will not sever his coaching connections until after Sunday's season-ending game against the western conference champion Baltimore Colts.

Morabito said he wasn't doing anything about a replacement until after that game. The 49ers go into Sunday's game with a five lost, six won record.

After he ended his playing days with San Francisco, Albert quarterbacked Calgary Stampeders in 1953. The club finished out of the playoffs with a record of three wins, one tie and 12 losers.

In midseason he offered the club $7,000 of his $27,000 salary, believed to be a record for Canadian football. The Stampeders took his offer, and it was probably a major factor in saving his job.

Barons Down Providence 5-3; Indians Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Cleveland Barons are threatening to make a three-team race for the top spot in the American Hockey League.

After getting off to a slow start, the Barons now have won nine of their last 11 games and trail the league-leading Buffalo Bisons by only eight points. They are twice five behind second - place Hershey.

The Barons Friday night downed Providence Reds 5-3 in one of the two scheduled games. In the other, Springfield Indians outlasted their hold on fourth place by defeating Rochester Americans 4-2.

The Barons held a 5-0 lead when their goalie, Gerry McNamara, suffered an eye injury with 15 minutes remaining in the final period. But McNamara had the wound sewed up and returned to action. Michele Labadie accounted for two of Cleveland's nine counted for two of Cleveland's nine goals.

With Gary Aldcorn scoring in the 19-28 after Rochester had removed its goaltender.

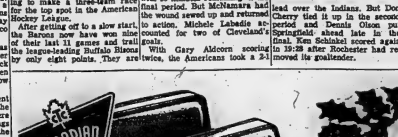
Will Fight Anyone in World Says Bassey

LOS ANGELES (AP)—World featherweight champion Hogan (Kid) Bassey reiterated Friday he is ready to fight anyone in the world for his title, including Davey Moore, the No. 1 contender.

Bassey took things easy, resting up for his 10-round nontitle bout at the Hollywood Stadium with Ernesto Parra of Mexico tonight.



The little champ from Nigeria by way of Liverpool, England, said all arrangements for a title fight must be made by his manager, George Biddles, who is in New York recuperating from an illness.

Matchmaker George Parnassus of the Olympic auditorium said he hopes to match Bassey and Moore, of Springfield, Ohio, in late January or February.

The 25-year-old Moore removed another obstacle in the path of his title campaign Thursday night when he scored a one-round knockout over Ricardo Pastrio Moreno of Mexico.

Moore smiled happily when reminded he is Boston Bassey's record with Moreno. It took Hogan three rounds to knock Pastrio.

"I wasn't trying to do that; I just wanted to get it over with," he said.

The Week's News

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN

Canadian Press Staff Writer

The people of West Berlin elected a new Parliament and gave what amounted to a resounding vote of confidence to plans to drive the Western Allies out of the city.

The election results were a crushing Communist defeat but the diplomatic war over West Berlin raged on, getting hotter as the week wore on.

The Russians recused the West of stalling on the Kremlin's proposal to convert West Berlin, at present a relative island in Communist Germany, into a demilitarized "free city".

Russia again threatened to end its partial occupation of the divided city unilaterally. Premier Khrushchev said a Western attempt to break through to Berlin by force—by throwing aside East German opposition — would bring on war and the use of Russia's most powerful weapons. But Khrushchev also said he doesn't believe such a war is coming.

President Eisenhower, making his first public pronouncement on Russia's Berlin proposals, pledged the United States anew to stand firm, along with its Allies, against Soviet encroachment on the German city.

SUMMIT AGAIN

In the midst of all this, the Soviet Union once more raised the issue of a summit conference on causes of international tension, including the Berlin situation.

The Russians, in making its bid ruled out discussion of German reunification, one of the West's main aims.

It was against this background that the big three foreign ministers met in Paris to discuss the Berlin crisis and a united answer to Russian demands. The three meeting will be followed by a conference of NATO foreign ministers.

PM RETURNS

Prime Minister Diefenbaker cut short his stay in New Zealand and headed home after receiving word that his ailing mother, in Saskatoon, had suffered a stroke. Mrs. William T. Diefenbaker, 86, has been in hospital since the spring when she fell and broke her hip.

The prime minister had been scheduled to remain in New Zealand until Monday, closing his six-week world tour, but instead he started the return journey by air Friday. His tour took him to Britain, western Europe, Pakistan, India, Ceylon, Malaya, Singapore and Australia besides New Zealand.

TAYLOR BLAST

The cult leadership of Joshua Venta, 47, whose real name is Francis Townsend, and who called himself Christ, came to an end in a dynamite blast set off by two of his followers, who were themselves killed.

Venta and nine other persons died in the explosion at the Foundation of the World monastery at Chatsworth, Calif. Tape recordings left by Lloyd J. Muller, 33, and Peter Kamenoff, 42, told a strange story of disillusionment and revenge.

Muller and Kamenoff explained in the recordings how they would lift the bare-footed mystic Venta — and themselves — because their choice was "freedom or death". Venta, they said, was guilty of immoral acts and dishonesty.

NOBEL WINNERS

Russian poet - novelist Boris Pasternak, who accepted, then rejected the Nobel Prize for literature, was honored in absentia with the 1958 Nobel awards ceremony in Stockholm.

Three Soviet physicists, three American scientists and a British chemist were present at the ceremony to receive cheques totalling $114,250 from Sweden's King Gustav VI.

Secretary Anders Oesterling of the Royal Swedish Academy paid tribute to Pasternak, the author of the novel Doctor Zhivago, who was forced by Soviet pressure to turn down the honor.

VENEZUELA ELECTIONS

Venezuela, which threw out dictator Perez Jimenez last January, got through a presidential election without serious fighting despite some rioting in the streets.

Romulo Betancourt, a former president who was exiled during the Jimenez regime, led his leftist anti-Communist Democratic Action party to victory.

He defeated Rear-Admiral Wolfgang Larrazabal, former head of the junta that ruled the country following the ouster of Perez Jimenez, and Rafael Caldera, a lawyer and latter expert who headed the Christian Socialist party.

Some gangs rioted in favor of Larrazabal, but the army quickly joined the rioting police in pleading for order had acceptance of the decision of the ballot boxes.

FRENCH ASSEMBLY

The assembly of the new French Fifth Republic held its first meeting and elected a Speaker: 43-year-old Jacques Chaban-Delmas, an ardent follower of Premier Charles de Gaulle.

Resistance hero Chaban-Delmas, a member of the pre-war Radical Party and the New Republic, which won a smashing victory in the recent general elections, hopefully defeated Conservative Paul Reynaud, Socialist Max Lejeune and Communist Fernand Grenier in the vote for Speaker.

TEAMSTERS' PLANS

Teamsters Union President James Hoffa was, as usual, in the news last week on all fronts.

Hoffa announced in Miami that the teamster has planted an informer with all policemen in the United States as union members to keep tabs on any criminal element hot opposition.

At the same time, a federal court in Washington threatened to oust Hoffa as teamsters boss unless he and other leaders quit blocking recommended reforms.

HERE AND THERE

Moscow announced the transfer of Gen. Ivan A. Serov from his post as Russia's secret police chief, then followed with an ominous blast against disgraced former leaders. . . . Four British Lallooniste—including one woman—were fined $20 each at Quebec Islands, trying to drift 3,000 miles across the Atlantic. . . . Premier Willem Drees' coalition government fell in the Netherlands' lower house Parliament rejected two tax measures. . . . A Washington federal grand jury indicted Boston industrialist Bernard Goldfine on a charge of contempt of congress. . . . Bagdad reported that a plot to overthrow Iraq Premier Abdul Kassem had been foiled.

Frase von Papen, 79, once Hitler's special envoy, demanded a pension from the West German government.

ANCIENT ART

Weaving of colorful textiles was an ancient art in Guatemala before Spanish explorers arrived in 1525.

Children are hard to keep down, and even the heavy cast worn by eleven-year-old Heather doesn't keep her from her music lesson. The case is part of the treatment for curvature of the spine. Heather is one of nearly 150,000 boys and girls from all parts of Ontario and beyond who receive treatment each year at Toronto's Hospital for Sick Children. Because more can be done for child patients than ever before, the costs of treatment continue to expand, and this year the Hospital will have an estimated financial deficit of $489,635 — a substantial increase over 1957.

Friends of the Hospital across Ontario are now sending their donations to help meet the deficit in response to the annual Christmas appeal. Please send donations to The Hospital for Sick Children, 555 University Avenue, Toronto.

Your Car

Power Steering Adds to Your Driving Comfort

By EUGENE MILMOE

New car buyers who continue to ask if power steering is really worth the extra money can get the answer from drivers who've already made the investment.

Undoubtedly, power steering contributes to driving convenience and comfort. It greatly eases the tight parking chore and — equally important — aids the driver who is steered in at the curb or in a parking lot. Long drives, particularly on high crowded roads and those with many winding curves, become less tiring with power steering.

Power steering can also be an important safety aid. For example, in case of a blowout, it's easier to control the car, keep it straight course and bring it to a safe stop. If you're forced over or wander off shoulder of road, power steering will help you to fight it, pull and get back on the road safely.

From C. G: "If I add a quart or so of permanent antifreeze to the radiator, must it be the same brand I have in the radiator? I've used a sundry brands over the mix."

A: It should be the same because the inhibitors used in different brands are not always entirely compatible and could form a harmful mixture.

F. M asks: "The power-operated top of my convertible doesn't open or work properly."

A: A bend, kink or pinch in the power line . . . or binding of a pivot point could be responsible.

P. Q writes: "My car has automatic drive and while coasting downhill in neutral I noticed a transmission noise. I tested it again under the same conditions and got the same noise, so I recorded it to a dealer. He thinks it's pump trouble.

(A) A defective transmission rear pump will be noisy under such conditions. Incidentally, did you know that coasting is a violation of motor vehicle law in your area?

From T. G: "To eliminate muffler corrosion and replacement needs, why don't the auto people use stainless steel mufflers as original equipment?"

(A) Primarily because stainless steel mufflers would boost the cost of a new car. Unfortunately, car makers cannot add a penny to the purchase price without it being reflected in the price increases that would be necessary.

STUCK FREIGHTER

trucks, parked on the canal bank hauled on the canaller with winch-driven cables. Meanwhile the tugs pulled and pushed. The trucks also tried to help. Some freed, but nothing worked.

Two other Canadian ships below the stuck canaller were expected to pass through the system without mishap and into Montreal harbor before morning.

Meanwhile the St. Lawrence River has choked up with ice and no longer offers clear passage to the Atlantic 800 miles distant.

The department of transport Thursday advised 24 ocean ships at Montreal harbor docks to stay put until conditions improved.

EIGHT CAUGHT IN RIVER

Eight tugs were reported to have attempted the downstream passage Friday, and were caught in the ice between St. Alphee, 14 miles downstream, and Sorel, 35 miles farther on.

They awaited the icebreaker D'Iberville, due to reach the Sorel area today. The icebreaker has had trouble coming upstream because of heavy ice packs or from the sliver which blotted out visibility.

The icebreaker Ernest Lapointe freed seven ships Friday which had been trapped for days, shallow, sluggish Lake St. Peter, near mid-St. Lawrence.

A spokesman for the department of transport said it would take 24 hours for icebreakers or four days to complete the "impossible" job of getting the seven freighters moving toward the sea.

Two other icebreakers, the N. B. McLean and the Montcalm, were expecting convoys trying to reach the Gulf of St. Lawrence from Quebec City. Several shipping companies have apparently called it a winter port.

Ralph Misener, chairman of the British Freighter Manchester Liners, said the Quebec City ship after a hazardous passage from Montreal, looked over the ice-covered harbor and said, "You can have it."

He says little point in ships gambling with ice in the St. Lawrence River and Gulf when they can use the ice-free ports of Halifax and Saint John, N.B."

rebel at the price increases that would be necessary.

THIS WEEK'S SAFETY REMINDER

Good brakes and reflexes are important . . . but how quickly you can stop always depends on how fast you drive.

FIRST ATTEMPT

Central and South America." It added:

"Although not to SAY the related, fall-monkey said its name from the similarity to the squirrel and did and is proud of its cost. It is a small, active, tree-hunting, gentle creature with a long, bushy squirrel-like tail and furred ears."

"Average weight of the squirrel monkey is two to three pounds. It is acclimatized to temperatures around 78 degrees Fahrenheit and extremely sensitive to changes in temperature.

"The squirrel monkey has the most anatomical makeup of any and undergoes much the same conditions."

SUCCESSFUL SHOOT"

An army spokesman described the launching as a "most successful shoot."

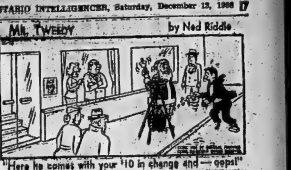
"The test would be a major milestone in man's bid to conquer space if the monkey survived the re-entry of the capsule into through the earth's atmosphere at speeds reaching 16,000 miles an hour.

The fate of the space traveller would be known in several hours if the 14-inch wedge-shaped Jupiter nose cone is plucked out of the ocean intact.

Range of the flight was not known but it takes the Jupiter only minutes to cover its 1,700-mile distance.

The most famous animal space passenger to date has been the dog Laika who hurled into orbit in Russia's Sputnik II satellite Nov. 3, 1957. Laika died shortly after the Red moon went into orbit.

NEVER FOUND MICE



The United States has fired three white mice nearly 6,000 miles across the sea in air force Thor-Able rockets, but their nose cone space shells were never found. Instruments showed that on two of the flights the mice probably survived the fiery re-entry and died later.

It was believed the monkey was made quite comfortable in its space flight more than 600 miles above the earth.

The animal, unofficially dubbed Gordo, probably had an adequate oxygen supply in the pressurized capsule included in his flight space chamber. Weather in the Atlantic was also reported ready to spot the wayfared as it roared back to ocean from space.

A small recovery package was to pop out of the cone shortly after it hit the water.

The recovery team was to be led to the scene by a beeping radio transmitter and flashing light beacon.

Indian Azaleas for Winter Color

By FLORA M. SAVILLE

The Indian azalea is available from November to Spring. You may buy plants in bud, or in full bloom in colors from a velvety claret, scarlet, coral, rose to sparkling white. There is also a yellow form. With care these plants will give a longer period of bloom than almost any potted plant. We can arrange over and have them bloom from year to year. Some shown at the annual flower show in Ghent, France are 100 years old.

In the years 1826 the first Indian azaleas were imported from Japs into Europe. They died out and were unknown for another hundred years, when a shipment was sent from Holland. They were called Indian azaleas but their real habitat was Japan. The name has stuck but the form has changed greatly. Now we can buy double and single forms and such a wide variety of colors. The original was a rose pink.

About a hundred years ago, Belgium client and Ghent, the plan nurserymen began to cultivate the azalea in quantities. This was the beginning of an immense industry. Stock is shipped from there all over the world to florists who put them up and force them into flower for the local market.

The azaleas you buy will be three or four years old. The plants are grafted on to stocks of the commoner types which are raised from cuttings. They are grown in pots. They demand a highly acid soil (pH 4.9 — 5.0). Leaf mold is used which is made from beech leaves and reserved each year.

When they arrive from Belgium they have a thick ball of roots and the flower buds have already been formed. Your nurseryman puts them up and forces them into bloom for you.

Different types bloom earlier than others but the greatest of light and neat contains the date of bloom to a great extent.

NEED EXTRA CARE

Since the plants we buy have not been in their pots very long, they have been subject to forcing we must give them extra care to bring them through the first year. It will need plenty of moisture, but good drainage. Do not let the pot stand in water for any length of time. Twice a week set the pot in a deep pail of tepid water until the top of the soil looks, or feels damp. It is a return to window. Spray foliage two or three times a week with lukewarm water. Water should be soft. Rain water is best. If tap water is hard it contains lime and this is anti-acid. Boiling and cooling water will remove some of the lime.

Try to keep the plant in a temperature of about 60 degrees to prolong the blooming period. Avoid direct sunlight in bright.

The period after bloom is the most vital in growth. Keep it growing by supplying adequate moisture to soil and leaf. Give no fertilizer the first year, by the summer sink the pot in semi-shade.

Expect the blooms to be later than the first year and there will be fewer the second year but after that the number of blooms will increase. In late summer feed with liquid manure or chemical fertilizer.

Some other types such as the dwarf evergreen or semi-evergreen Japonicas Kumasaki is one of the best. It has small clear pink blooms. A lovely large white variety is called Alaskafrau it has a faint green stripe down the middle of the petals and makes a handsome houseplant.

MINERS' WIVES

to mine-mill, including rank-and-file members of the union, said:

"Such a vote would be conducted by the union and be supervised by a group of wives and other women of integrity outside of the company and the union . . . as requested by the Ontario government so the wishes of our men will be further on.

They awaited the icebreaker D'Iberville, due to reach the Sorel area today. The icebreaker has had trouble coming upstream because of heavy ice packs or from the sliver which blotted out visibility.

The icebreaker Ernest Lapointe freed seven ships Friday which had been trapped for days, shallow, sluggish Lake St. Peter, near mid-St. Lawrence.

ASK FIRM TO GIVE

A resolution addressed to R. D. Cudney, general manager of Inco's Canadian operations, said the company should be held responsible for the "unfortunate and destructive state of affairs in Sudbury."

It adds: "we believe the company . . . should be prepared to give something more in a settlement for the sake of the community."

Mayor Fabbro and the dozen aldermen also have asked the district communities who shared the pattern with him did not commercial directly on the proposals. But the mayor said later the municipal leaders would take the suggestions under immediate consideration.

The arena meeting had its origin in another of the union halls Wednesday night when a heated debate broke out and a group of strikers' wives led by Mrs. Breen walked out. They claimed that a "very private" meeting had been rigged by members of the union austerity.

Barber Fined For Not Paying Full Percentage

TORONTO (CP)—A Toronto lawyer says he will challenge the recently-enacted section of the Ontario Industrial Standards Act in the courts if he is found convicted under the statute.

The lawyer, acting for William Quinto, a barbershop operator found guilty in a test case in Parker, Judge Ian Outerbridge says minimum wages, said that the company should be fined only barbers the conviction could be used by the government to force minimum wages on industries.

The next section of the act says an employer must pay barbers at least $40 a week or 10 per cent of the gross receipts of the week, whichever is the greater.

Mr. Quinto was convicted and fined $300 for not paying his barbers the 10 per cent formula.

"This is the first time the percentage principle has ever been introduced," Mr. Reed commented after the trial. "Payment in this case has been based on an hourly, daily, weekly or monthly basis, or on a unit of piecework basis.

He said he will argue that the percentage will give the minister of labor the right to decide as to what percentage of proceeds should be paid.

Inco also said it was prepared to resume the 40-hour week but would not consider the offer of the union to reduce the workweek to 36 hours.

Inco's offer would not affect any wage increases, blanking diminishing profits and an uncertain market.

Indian Azaleas for Winter Color

By FLORA M. SAVILLE

The Indian azalea is available from November to Spring. You may buy plants in bud, or in full bloom in colors from a velvety claret, scarlet, coral, rose to sparkling white. There is also a yellow form. With care these plants will give a longer period of bloom than almost any potted plant. We can arrange over and have them bloom from year to year. Some shown at the annual flower show in Ghent, France are 100 years old.

In the years 1826 the first Indian azaleas were imported from Japs into Europe. They died out and were unknown for another hundred years, when a shipment was sent from Holland. They were called Indian azaleas but their real habitat was Japan. The name has stuck but the form has changed greatly. Now we can buy double and single forms and such a wide variety of colors. The original was a rose pink.

About a hundred years ago, Belgium client and Ghent, the plan nurserymen began to cultivate the azalea in quantities. This was the beginning of an immense industry. Stock is shipped from there all over the world to florists who put them up and force them into flower for the local market.

The azaleas you buy will be three or four years old. The plants are grafted on to stocks of the commoner types which are raised from cuttings. They are grown in pots. They demand a highly acid soil (pH 4.9 — 5.0). Leaf mold is used which is made from beech leaves and reserved each year.

When they arrive from Belgium they have a thick ball of roots and the flower buds have already been formed. Your nurseryman puts them up and forces them into bloom for you.

Different types bloom earlier than others but the greatest of light and neat contains the date of bloom to a great extent.

NEED EXTRA CARE

Since the plants we buy have not been in their pots very long, they have been subject to forcing we must give them extra care to bring them through the first year. It will need plenty of moisture, but good drainage. Do not let the pot stand in water for any length of time. Twice a week set the pot in a deep pail of tepid water until the top of the soil looks, or feels damp. It is a return to window. Spray foliage two or three times a week with lukewarm water. Water should be soft. Rain water is best. If tap water is hard it contains lime and this is anti-acid. Boiling and cooling water will remove some of the lime.

Try to keep the plant in a temperature of about 60 degrees to prolong the blooming period. Avoid direct sunlight in bright.

The period after bloom is the most vital in growth. Keep it growing by supplying adequate moisture to soil and leaf. Give no fertilizer the first year, by the summer sink the pot in semi-shade.

Expect the blooms to be later than the first year and there will be fewer the second year but after that the number of blooms will increase. In late summer feed with liquid manure or chemical fertilizer.

Some other types such as the dwarf evergreen or semi-evergreen Japonicas Kumasaki is one of the best. It has small clear pink blooms. A lovely large white variety is called Alaskafrau it has a faint green stripe down the middle of the petals and makes a handsome houseplant.

Mission Band Holds Annual Yule Meeting

RAWDON — The Christmas meeting of Mount Pleasant-Rawdon Sunbeam Mission Band was held in the church hall under the direction of the leader, Mrs. Harry McAdam, with 20 in attendance. Mrs. Arnold visitors were Mrs. Herbert Smith and Mrs. Don Johnson.

The service opened with "Little Sunbeams" and all repeated the Mission Band Purpose. Paulene Johnson presided and Jimmy Summers gave his report.

The leader conducted the Christmas candlelight service and Betty McAdam lit the tapers as all sang "Hark the Herald Angels Sing". Bible lessons were read by Larry Jeffs, Nancy David and Kenneth Smith, followed by "Stories of Jesus."

The offering and mite boxes were gathered by Carolyn Merrick and dedicated by Mary Ellen David.

Mrs. Herbert Smith read a Christmas story entitled "Getting Even."

The program consisted of the following: piano solos by Barbara Johnson and Sally McAdam; a vocal trio by Shirley Smith and Jean Stanley.

The service closed with "Jesus Shall Reign." The group then enjoyed a treat of popcorn, home-made candy, and other confectionery, which was provided by Betty McAdam, Carolyn Merrick and the leader.

The next meeting will be held in January.

President Will Be With Queen At Openings

CORNWALL (CP) — An informed source in Washington says the Queen and President Eisenhower will preside jointly at ceremonies here marking the opening of the international section of the St. Lawrence Seaway.

The source said this is the planned schedule:

The royal yacht Britannia is to sail up the St. Lawrence River from Montreal to Cornwall. President Eisenhower is to board the yacht and Shell seaway lock east of Massena, N.Y.

The Britannia will proceed from there to the Eisenhower lock in the Wiley-Dondero ship canal where the Queen will unveil a plaque to mark the official opening.

Then the Queen and the president will cruise to the international powerhouse at Barnhart Island on the Canadian-American border to unveil another plaque commemorating the power phase of the project.

The source said President Eisenhower is expected officially to open the Seaway and Massena Golf and Country Club before he goes back to Washington.

The Queen and Prince Philip will inspect new hydro installations in this area and then re-

WALLBRIDGE — On Friday night a large crowd attended the turkey supper held in the Orange Hall, to commemorate the 10th Brithday of Wallbridge L.O.B.A. No. 1188. Members of the L.O.L. and their families joined a grand repast and 3 lovely birthday cake, donated by the L.O.L. members. Pretty candles adorned the top, shining out their tiny rays of light.

After the tables were cleared, a social and old enjoyed bingo, which concluded a happy occasion.

tor through newly - relocated towns in the seaway valley to iroquois where they will go aboard the Britannia. The yacht is expected to sail up the St. Lawrence to a point in the Thousand Islands where it will anchor for the night.

All ready to help with the work are the children of Mora Whyte's home at Bowmanville, Ont. The "work" is the erection of a $150,000 addition to the home to house 150 children. She already has 100 living with her though she is under suspended sentence for operating a home without a license. Toronto, Oshawa and Peterborough business men have set up a fund to build the addition.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Sunday, December 14

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — The new systems you are just adopting appear to be ruining your old, established methods but patience and time will prove that they can work very nicely together and you will be much farther ahead on the road to success.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — Here is a day when your job and business duties seem to be ruling your personal pleasure, but if you tackle the former in the right spirit, you find all is well and you are a much happier, rather person. Get your health up to par.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — Don't do any work unless it is absolutely necessary today. Instead go to hear that wonderful, help-inspired spiritual and practical-advisor. This will help you greatly with any problems you may have, and also teach you how to help others best.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — Your hunches today are erroneous and if you follow them, they will get you in Dutch very quickly. Stick rather to loyal tie and be economical, and then all will be fine. Don't destroy present security and tranquility. Be sensible.

Leo (July 23 to Aug. 21) — An associate does not go along with your ideas at how certain important affairs should be arranged. Pay no heed to any opposition, but carry through by yourself logically and wisely and you will accomplish miracles. See that your hair is combed right.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — By co-operating with and assisting your fellow workers, you bring about wonderful improvement in the future. But first be sure you go to church or listen to some truly enlightened person for the inspiration you need.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) — Let eyes open with your imperiste orbit be fascinated by you today. Be unselfish and you make many friends. A smiling exterior will work wonders, though you may be tired and perhaps worried.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 21) — Many situations come into the open today, which is fine, since it helps to eliminate the present confusion and state of doubt. Be beautifully balanced and do not add fuel to any fires of discontent that may be smouldering from others.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — A good day to learn about new systems and to comprehend what real experts are endeavoring to explain to you, so that you may have greater abundance and harmony in the early future. Be very co-operative, kind.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Turn between enjoying yourself or venturing into something promising businesswise, you cannot make up your mind which hunch to follow. It is wisest, therefore, to do as much research as you can and then you can be more sure.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — The most strict diplomacy is required today in handling closest ties at home. Keeping busily occupied is the best method for avoiding arguments and blunderings that could lead to real and serious quarrels.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — There is no more ideal way to fight the blues or find solace from real and serious problems than to listen to the enlightening talks of a man or woman of God. Go to church today, or be sure to read the finest, philosophical literature.

Snow Shovels, Fur Hats Vital In Campaign

BEAUSEJOUR, Man. (CP)—Snow shovels and fur hats have been as essential as campaign posters in the battle for the House of Commons seat in Springfield constituency, to be decided in a byelection Monday.

The three candidates for the seat left vacant by the death of Progressive Conservative Val Yeo-cule had to contend with snow-blocked roads and temperatures dropping close to 30 below zero in efforts to meet voters. Bad weather caused cancellation of several rallies.

Most meetings have been quiet. Rising unemployment figures, high prices, lack of income on the farm, trade and tariffs have been used by opposition speakers as prime issues in campaigning in the southeastern Manitoba farming district. Government speakers generally were content to defend their policies.

Candidates are Jacob (Jake) Schulz of Winnipeg, CCF; Anton B. Wesolak of Beausejour, Liberal, and Dr. Joseph B. Slogan of Winnipeg, Conservative.

CABINET TAKES PART

Campaign speakers included Northern Affairs Minister Hamilton, Agriculture Minister Hazen Argue, Trade Minister Churchill, Labor Minister Starr, Liberal Leader Lester B. Pearson, Liberal financial critic William Benedickson and CCF House Leader Hazen Argue.

Premier T. C. Douglas came from Saskatchewan to address CCF rallies but bad weather forced cancellation of the meetings.

In the last three elections Springfield voters elected men from three different parties.

Mr. Wesolak, a lawyer, held the seat for the Liberals in the 1953 election. He lost in 1957 to Mr. Schulz, 57-year-old Winnipeg real estate agent. Mr. Schulz in turn lost out to Mr. Yacula last March.

The House standing: Conservatives 207, Liberals 48, CCF 8, vacant 2, total 265.

BROOKDALE FARM FORUM

6TH SIDNEY — Fourteen members met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lott on Monday evening to discuss the subject of Management Transfer. Three members felt a need for more help in managing their farms and 11 thought they did not need any help.

Those who needed help said they didn't know everything, and there was always something to learn. Some asked for advice, assessed it, then used their own judgment. There are nearly always new and better ways to do things.

PROBLEMS VARY

The other group said they knew how they wanted things done. Different persons have different problems so can best work it out for themselves. Learning by doing is the best way to learn. You get a great deal of satisfaction just by doing things for yourself.

Farmers can get advice and information from their local agricultural representatives if they want it. Some who take short courses are simply doing it for the degree, and know nothing about the fundamentals of the business to which they will be called. They have professional qualifications but no practical sense.

EXPERT OPINION

LONDON (CP)—The Wholesale Clothing Manufacturers Federation says politicians are the best-dressed men in Britain, and transport drivers the worst.

Because more can be done for child patients than ever before, the costs of treatment continue to mount, and this year the Hospital will have an estimated financial deficit of $459,535—a substantial increase over 1957. Friends of the Hospital across Ontario are now sending their donations to help meet the deficit in response to the annual Christmas appeal. Please send donations to The Hospital for Sick Children, 555 University Avenue, Toronto.

Western Big 3 Stand Against Russian Pressure

Will Not Deal With East Germany Over Berlin

PARIS (AP) — Reassured that the Western Big Three will stand fast against Russian pressure on West Berlin, the North Atlantic allies turned today to critical disputes within the alliance.

Communique after the Big Three foreign ministers met Sunday said they "reaffirmed the determination of their governments to maintain their position and their rights with respect to Berlin, including the right to free access."

The statement rejected the Soviet proposal to give the East German government control of the Allies' traffic with West Berlin. In effect, the ministers ruled out suggestions that the West deal with the East Germans as a result of the Russian note.

The three ministers—U.S. Secretary Dulles, French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville and British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd—gave no indication of what counter-proposals they may make in their reply to the Soviet note of Nov. 27.

CONSULT ABOUT NOTE

They also planned consultations with other NATO allies in the NATO council meeting beginning Tuesday and will present their notes to the Russians.

President Eisenhower, in the Russian note, said the Russians were withdrawing from the temporary occupation of Berlin. He proposed that West Berlin, 110 miles behind the Iron Curtain, be made a demilitarized free city. The Russians said regardless of what was worked out for West Berlin, they were giving the East German control of all communications with the city in six months.

Today, the Allies turned to trade and economic policy with a meeting of the 17-country Organization for European Economic Cooperation. The organization includes all European members of the North Atlantic pact plus Sweden, Switzerland and Austria.

TRADE PROBLEM

The most pressing business facing the grouping is the future relationship between the six nations of the European Common Market and the rest of Europe. A dispute that could lead to trade war and political division.

The common market, which starts operating Jan. 1, will unite France, West Germany, Italy, the Netherlands and Luxembourg in a customs union in which all tariffs between the members eventually will be swept away.

LONDON (AP) — The British government has invited Soviet bloc countries that they think would be "putting themselves into an economic isolation" by allowing the United States to locate medium range missiles on their territory, Moscow radio said Sunday night.

The radio broadcast a summary of the Soviet government declaration to ambassadors of NATO countries Saturday on the eve of the opening of a series of NATO meetings in Paris.

The Soviet radio also accused the Big Three foreign ministers of ignoring Russian proposals for turning Berlin into a neutralized free city.

Five Areas in U.S. Run Risk Of Dangerous Quakes Says Expert

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — A seismologist has released a map showing the five areas of the United States where there is a run the risk of dangerous earthquakes.

Dr. Charles F. Richter, professor of seismology at the California Institute of Technology, said Sunday that California is the shakiest state—80 per cent of the U.S. quakes occur here.

The major risk areas:

In California, the San Joaquin and southern Sacramento valleys, the Imperial Valley, and small areas spotted over the state.

In northwestern New England and New York, near what is called the St.-Lawrence rift.

In a belt extending east from the central Mississippi Valley through South Carolina and part of Georgia.

In the Rio Grande Valley in New Mexico and southwest Texas.

In a narrow belt extending through Montana, Idaho, Utah and Arizona.

And here's the way Dr. Richter lists difficult areas on what is known as the modified Mercalli scale, which denotes the intensity of shocks at the epicentre or spot:

Intensity VI is where earth movements are strong enough to cause structural damages; in an intensity VII area a quake can cause major damage to weak buildings.

Intensity VIII — Considerable damage possible to weak buildings but negligible damage to strong ones.

Intensity VIII—Heavy damage, even collapse, and slight damage to well-built structures.

Intensity IX — Considerable damage to good construction. (The four areas sharing California's maximum risk are all in the intensity IX class.)

Dr. Richter finds Buffalo, N.Y., "just within the western margin of the area assigned high risk from possible large earthquakes on the St. Lawrence rift." He most difficult in the run from Montreal to Quebec City.

UNION CLAIMS MEMBERS BACK INCO STRIKE

Will Not Accept Co's. Last Offer

SUDBURY (CP)—The International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers (Ind.) contended today it has the backing of more than 8,000 workers for a "decent" contract to end its strike against the International Nickel Company of Canada.

But it made clear that it is not prepared to accept the company's latest offer to settle the wage dispute which has kept more than 14,000 employees here and at Port Colborne idle since Sept. 24.

In another weekend development, some strikers said they and their wives have received threats in anonymous telephone calls.

ASSAILS MAYOR

The union, in a statement issued Sunday following a series of seven meetings of strikers in this area, also assailed what it described as strike-breaking tactics by Mayor Joe Fabbro of Sudbury and non-union members of the Ontario legislature.

President Mike Solski of Local 598 said the seven meetings "gave their answer to widely-circulated reports that the strike was being weakened by the so-called back-to-work movement."

His comment presumably was intended to minimize the significance of a meeting of strikers' wives at Sudbury arena Friday night. About 500 attended the meeting, all but about 100 of the women backed a series of resolutions which, in effect, asked for union members on ending the strike.

UNION TO DECIDE

The union statement said: "The union membership itself will be the sole judge in determining when a secret ballot vote will be held on another company proposal."

The company's most recent proposal was for a three-year agreement with no wage increase the first year but boosts 58-15 per cent in the other two. The union's last proposal was for a three - year contract with increases averaging about three per cent in each year.

These proposals were put forward at a meeting of Inco and union officials held in Toronto Dec. 5 under sponsorship of the Ontario government. The meeting ended in disagreement.

Russians Establish Post in Antarctic

LONDON (AP) — A Russian Antarctic observation station has been set up at the Pole of Inaccessibility.

The point is 600 miles toward the Indian Ocean from the geographic South Pole. The exact spot was arrived at by dead reckoning by explorers as the most difficult point to reach overland.

An 18-member Soviet expedition travelled from the Russian Mirny Observatory on the Indian Ocean coast of the Antarctic, Moscow radio said.

Workman Killed, 20 Injured, Blast Wrecks Quebec Bldg.

SHERBROOKE, Que. (CP)—A workman was killed and 20 others were injured today when an explosion occurred today on a building location on King Street East.

The explosion was thought to have been caused by gas used to heat concrete work in an extension to a four-storey furniture store owned by Raby et Freres. The store wing was under construction.

Joseph Laroche, an electrician working on the building project, lost his life. Many of the 20 injured who were taken to hospital also were employed on the project.

Police Chief Edouard Moreau said one other person was unaccounted for but it was too early to say whether a loss of life was involved.

Mrs. Arthur Denault, 45-year-old occupant of a nearby apartment house, was also reported killed but police later established she was injured in the blast.

The blast damaged the four-storey Raby et Freres building occupied by the Denault family and flung scaffolding from the construction project into the streets.

First reports said Raby et Freres were distributors of bottled gas but it was later established that the gas was used in connection with the extension of the Raby store.

Laroche who was fatally injured was one of 24 workers who had gone to work shortly before on the construction job.

Firefighters were digging through the wreckage in an attempt to learn the cause of the blast and whether or not any others may have been killed.

The explosion occurred just as employees of Raby and Freres in Eastern Sherbrooke were beginning work. It demolished a nearby house and hot-dog stand and damaged a number of other buildings. Windows were shattered in two miles away.

The building in which the blast occurred housed a furniture and piano distributor propane gas.

Early reports were that one of the containers had exploded.

23 Roman Catholic Prelates Elevated to Rank of Cardinal

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John XXIII today formally elevated 23 Roman Catholic prelates to the rank of cardinal.

Other princes of the church, meeting in secret" consistory at the Vatican gave their official assent to the Pope's action, confirming the choices he had announced Dec. 15.

The pontiff, crowned supreme ruler of the church only last month, increased the membership of the sacred college to 74 and gave the world's 500,000,000 members of the church their broadest representation ever in the high ecclesiastic body.

Elevation of the new cardinals brings the United States to the college by Pope Sixtus V in 1586.

After the consistory, papal messenger will notify Lisbon and Vatican to notify the new cardinals of their elevation.

In his address telling of his choices, the pontiff called attention to the persecution of Roman Catholics by the Communist regime in China.

"Unfortunately," he said, "we have to declare with sorrow that we are not enjoying those who, forgeting the orders of men more than the sacred judgment of God, have so far yielded to the command of the persecutors and accepted sacrilegious episcopal consecration from which no power of jurisdiction can be derived since it was conferred without the mandate of the Apostolic See."

Pope John asked the Catholic bishops of the world to arrange church.

15 Europe-Bound Vessels Still Battling St. Lawrence

MONTREAL (CP) — Fifteen Europe - bound ocean vessels which have been delayed while protecting waters of Montreal harbor prepared to take on the ice-clogged St. Lawrence River again today in their bids to reach the Atlantic.

The British freighters Sunkirk and Norco had made the most progress, moving into the Riviere, 90 miles downstream from Montreal. Two Canadian ships were expected to reach Quebec City, 50 miles further, by nightfall.

Icebreakers D'Iberville, Canada's most powerful, and the Ernest Lapointe, sliced a way through the ice Saturday and Sunday for the Sunkirk and Norco and Canadian Cavalier, Canadian Ranger and Transmaritime.

The ice was reported to range from a thickness of five or six inches for six feet to four feet while the weather is not the subject of much experiment last week, temperatures were still below freezing.

Icebreakers spent a lot of time during the weekend trying to free the Liberian ship Sunkirk a few days ago, they admitted Sunday night that their task was becoming more difficult and that "it will certainly be a few days yet."

The Liberian ocean-bound ships are berthed in Montreal harbor. Sunday night Canadian Cavalier Prescodock became stuck in ice at lock No. 1 at the entrance to Montreal harbor with nine other ships, including three ocean-bound vessels, that port officials hoped to free her by daylight.

The three ocean ships are the Panamanian Perseverance Bay and the German Transoceanic and Transmichigan.

PARENTS STOP TRY TO BLOCK RULING OF COURT

RH Baby Made CAS Ward, Given Blood

TORONTO (CP) — The parents of an eight-day-old baby stricken with a blood disorder today abandoned their attempt to block transfusions.

Their lawyer announced he wouldn't go to the Ontario Supreme Court to upset the family court ruling Saturday night that permitted doctors to give the transfusions despite protests from the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Campbell, both 27.

Lawyer Glen How said further legal action was likely dropped "because it would do no good."

The parents had refused permission for transfusions for baby Cheryl Lynn because they are Jehovah's Witnesses. The sect interprets Biblical passages as forbidding the eating of blood or accepting transfusions.

MUST TAKE RESPONSIBILITY

Percy Chapman, supervisor of mission for Jehovah's Witnesses in Canada's Witnesses, said court and hospital officials must take responsibility before God for what they did.

"Blood is sanctified; it belongs to the almighty God," he said.

"We are not opposed to the medical profession and what it works, but transfusion is just one of the things that is against the Christian RH condition. Perhaps in the future the profession will discover some other method and then we will have no objection."

Baby Cheryl is threatened by a disorder caused by RH negative blood in the mother and RH positive blood in the father. Successive pregnancies build up antibodies in the mother which can destroy red blood cells in a baby.

ORDERED BY DOCTORS

Hospitalization ordered for baby Lori Lynn after doctors said she would die in 24 hours without them.

A special court was set up in Toronto's Hospital for Sick Children and Judge Lorne Stewart ordered the baby over to the Children's Aid Society on grounds of neglect. The temporary wardship of the society was authorized by Ontario's Child Welfare Act.

Mr. Campbell was arrested Saturday taken from his parents or guardian "whenever the child can be in danger if he is neglectful or refuses to provide or receive proper medical or surgical aid or well-being to the child when it is recommended by a duly qualified medical practitioner."

Meanwhile, hospital authorities said baby Cheryl Lynn Campbell is very much better."

Sudden 50-Foot Flames Kill Six Watching Allentown Gas Explosion

ALLENTOWN, Pa. (AP) — A series of violent gas explosions tore apart a hotel early Sunday, killing six persons attracted to the scene.

The victims were trapped on the fourth floor of the 70-year-old Mountainville Hotel as they watched the gas-fed flames roaring out of a gaping hole.

Before they could flee the blazing death trap, the 50-foot-high flames engulfed the building just as it was split savagely by an underground blast. The old structure of brick and stone collapsed.

At least 15 persons were injured by the fire and from the falling debris. They, too, had stood too close watching the burning gas explode in the street.

Officials said the death toll could have been as high as 50 had the initial explosion come inside the hotel instead of first ripping a hole in the pavement on the outskirts of this southeastern Pennsylvania community of 40 miles from Philadelphia.

Most of the 50 patrons in the hotel's bar dashed outside at the sound of the first violent explosion. The hotel long has been nothing more than a tavern-restaurant.

The dead were identified as Walter Leitgeb, 37; William Gruber, 16; Perry Miller, 16; Maynard Hachner, 39; William MacLean, all of Allentown, and Lester K. Krum, 35, a darkroom technician for the Allentown Call-Chronicle. He was on his way home after work and was believed to have stopped at the scene to make photographs for the newspaper.

Professor Will Resume Duties Immediately

Board of Regents Issues Statement

WINNIPEG (CP) — Professor Harry S. Crowe has been reinstated by United College and will resume his duties immediately, the board of regents announced today. Prof. Crowe was fired Sept. 12 during a controversy over a personal letter he had written to a colleague and which was diverted to college Principal Dr. W. C. Lockhart.

The following statement was issued on behalf of the college:

"On behalf of the board of regents, Allen M. Watson, chairman of the board, announces that Professor H. S. Crowe will resume his duties as associate professor at United College immediately.

"The board hopes that all concerned will now unite in an effort to enable United College to continue its rightful place in academic world."

15 PROFESSORS RESIGNED

Dr. Lockhart said 15 professors have tendered their resignations, effective next Aug. 31, as a result of the case. Dr. Lockhart said his resignation would stand but that as soon as possible after that he would be prepared to accept it.

There was no immediate word of how Prof. Crowe's reinstatement would affect the resignations. Mr. Watson said he had nothing to add to the brief statement.

Prof. K. W. McNaught, one of the three professors whose resignations were accepted by the regents, said he was "very glad to see the CAUT report has apparently been accepted by the board." He was referring to the report of the Canadian Association of University Teachers on the controversy.

He said he was not considering applying to return to the college.

LETTER INTERCEPTED

Prof. Crowe was on a year's leave to teach at Queen's University when he wrote a letter last March to a colleague at United Colleges, Dr. William A. Packer, now at Victoria University. The letter was intercepted by someone whose identity has never been learned. It was mailed without its original envelope to Dr. Lockhart, who had read and handed it over the letter to Dr. Packer, who refused it to Mr. Crowe.

Contents of the letter have never been revealed. Prof. Crowe, in the course of the bitter controversy which followed said the contents were "personal and confidential."

A two-man committee of the Canadian Association of University Teachers investigated the case and said that Prof. Crowe was a victim of injustice and should be reinstated.

In secret negotiations during the first week of December, the college offered the services of Prof. Crowe and three of the 15 professors who resigned to support him. The talks failed.

Dr. Lockhart then tendered his resignation.

Pope John Sees Threat of Schism In China Church

VATICAN CITY (Reuters) — Pope John XXIII said today that Communist-appointed bishops are bringing the threat of a schism to the Roman Catholic Church in China.

The Pope issued his warning as he raised the membership of the Sacred College of Cardinals to 74 by creating 23 new princes of the church.

In his 3,000-word speech at the secret consistory creating the new cardinals, the 77-year-old pontiff spoke at length of the persecution of the Catholic Church in China.

Some Catholic priests in China, he said, have given way to the pressure of persecution and a few have unhappily opened the way to a tragic attempt at schism."

He said the Communists wished to "pluck up their courage and their weak minds from the roots of the mystical body of Christ" and urged "public acts of prayer and penitence" to speed the end which have gone astray and strengthen the wills of all.

To those Chinese Catholics who were "oppressed but not broken by the bitter trials," he asserted: "You are not alone; Christ himself is with you."

"It is our wish, furthermore," he said, "that our words and our admonitions and invitation should reach also to those who, alas, have allowed themselves to be weak wavering, frightened, and exploited to those who, taking over the places and seas of sacred pastors have unfortunately opened the way for a deplorable schism."

He said that "missionaries, creatures of the Christian gospel of peace, among whom also were archbishops and bishops, have been accused of false crimes, thrown into prison and finally sent into forced exile."

Local Militia Visits Picton Rescue School

Rescue Section leaders of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regt. from Trenton, Campbellford, and Belleville, gathered at Rescue Section at Picton Army Camp, on Sunday to prepare themselves as instructors for the civil defence classes starting next month under the direction of Capt. C. Bristol, of Belleville.

Officers Ibs Jardina and the staff of the Rescue School demonstrated use of training aids and rescue equipment. Much interest was shown in the realistic set-up of debris, tunnelling, shoring as reclaiming damaged buildings, and examples of forms of collapse and various kinds of rubble.

Those attending from Belleville included: Maj. K. Wilcox; Capt's. C. Bristol, W. Cochrane and Lieut's. Gordon A. J. Evans, B. Hobbs, and H. W. McCullough.

PRACTICAL EXERCISE

Rescue Training in the Militia will stress practical exercises by small groups of trained soldiers. They will learn how to properly shore, tunnel or otherwise clear damaged buildings and to rescue trapped persons. To do this they must first have a complete knowledge of knots and lashings, use of ladders, casualty handling, lifting devices, types of building construction and forms of collapse. In addition to rescue training, the men will on Sunday learn traffic control, and emergency first aid.

It should be noted that this civil defence training does not replace regular training in military subjects but is an additional role of the "Citizens' Army," Canada, who are still being accepted each Monday night at their armouries civil defence work until they have successfully completed basic training.

First Farmer-Operated Hog Assembly Point in Ontario Opened at Madoc

First co-operative farmer-operated hog assembly point in Ontario, a new hog collection point was officially opened at Madoc this morning. A good crowd of Madoc district farmers attended the opening and watched hogs arrive from as far as 25 miles away.

Official opening ceremonies were in charge of Roy Sills of Holloway, president of the Hastings County Hog Producers' Association, sponsors of the hog shipping point.

Other speakers at the opening were Clare Curtin, provincial director at large for the Ontario Hog Producers; Irwin McCoy of Marmora, one of the first executive officers of the Hastings County Hog Producers, and Wilfred Forrestal of Madoc.

The Madoc shipping point will operate each Monday and will receive hogs from eight a.m. until two p.m. Hogs are checked, weighed, then placed in a segregated pen from which they are picked up by transport and taken to packing plants.

President Sills noted that the Madoc shipping point was a purely co-operative effort on the part of Hastings county hog producers and producers in the county will be invited to ship hogs through the shipping point, but he noted this was not compulsory.

"When hogs are all in the Hog Producers' Marketing Board is able to obtain a better price," organization sells the hogs and hogs from each packing plant to transport them to.

Hogs are check weighed in at the shipping point, when sold are paid for on a dressed weight basis at the packing plant.

"Check weighing gives farmers an idea of what hogs are worth before arrival at the packing plant," Mr. Sills noted.

He said that when hogs are picked up by drivers no weights are taken since the hog is processed at the packing plant.

The Madoc shipping centre situated on the Ontario Hog premises just north of Madoc, will have a receiving capacity for about 200 hogs. The premises is still the process of construction. Pens, chutes, receiving yard and an 8,000 lb. scale are now in position. Shipping point manager is Ross Moorcroft of Madoc, secretary treasurer of the Hastings County Hog Producers.

Next unions from the Hog Producers provincial board were expressed by Mr. Curtin, who showed the listings organization every success in their venture.

To make the shipping point succeed the support of county hog producers is necessary, Mr. Curtin said, with the co-operation of the producers can the venture be successful.

Contrary to procedure in 16 other centres in Ontario, the shipping points have been set up by the Ontario Hog Producers' Marketing Board, plans sponsored by the county organization.

Manslaughter Charge Laid After Shooting

NORTH BAY (CP)—Provincial police said Sunday night a charge of manslaughter has been laid against a 60-year-old woman in connection with the shooting death early night of Eugene Turcotte, 50, of nearby Balsam Creek.

Charlotte Turcotte, who told police she was the wife of the dead man, was to appear at magistrate's court today to be arraigned.

Police said Turcotte was shot through the chest about 8 p.m. during an argument in a small cabin in the bush near Balsam Creek, and died within a half-hour from the 32-calibre bullet wound.

The couple and another man were "wintering it out" in the cabin in the bush two or three miles from the highway, police said.

Legion Prepares For Elections

TRENTON — Tonight at the Canadian Legion in Trenton. It's the annual election night and a large turnout of members is expected. There are over 850 paid-up members in the branch.

Seeking the post of president of the club will be three active members of the branch, W. T. Lawson, H. J. Ketcheson and O. C. Smith. It has been reported that John Farrell, last year's president, will not be seeking re-election, although it is expected he will be nominated from the floor. Mr. Farrell's work as president of the branch for the past few years will most certainly go down in the history of the branch, said one elderly veteran.

Mr. Farrell had probably the toughest job of any president when he held the reins through the hectic year of building the new quarters and for the year after to get the financial problems an an even keel.

For the post of 1st vice-president there will be R. A. Grier, W. T. Lawson and C. Livingston. Other nominees are: 2nd vice-president, F. Fairfield, J. R. Lynch and G. M. Ferguson; secretary, D. B. Craig and K. C. Kenny; treasurer, T. J. B. McLaren; trustee, J. A. Silver; executive committee, J. D. Carter, K. H. Craddock, D. B. Craig, W. D. Donaldson, C. H. Hemmington, T. Hetherington, K. K. Kenny, P. King, E. Klingspon, W. H. Milne, J. A. Wells, G. C. Smith, W. E. Sweigard, W. Taylor, E. R. Wannamaker, C. Williamson, A. Wood and R. Wright.

Others will be nominated from the floor during the meeting tonight and it is also expected some of those named will be dropping out.

The meeting will get underway at 8 p.m. sharp.

Town Briefs

TRENTON — Something new for Trenton has been added to traffic light system it was reported over the weekend. Town Engineer Eric Alderney, who is also a member of the town's traffic committee, said that an advanced green light is in operation on the corner of Division and Dundas Street West. This advance green light gives cars coming down the hill, or travelling east, a ten-second advantage over cars going in the opposite direction. This was found necessary to give east moving traffic a chance to proceed left from Division Street before they are blocked by the west moving line of traffic. This advance green light will also be put into operation on the corner of Dundas West and Front Street for the same purpose. It will not be used at the corner of Division and King Street unless the traffic committee find it is necessary after the lights are in operation at this inter-section.

USED BY DREDGES

Citizens who cross the town bridge every day have commented on the large amount of pipe on floats and frozen into the ice inches of ice on the river. A check with town officials revealed the pipe had been (before freeze-up) been used by the dredging boats which were working there. Apparently the silt from the bottom of the river and bay was sucked up by the dredging boats and pumped to shore via the pipes which can now be seen. It is not pipe to be used by the sewage disposal plant as had been previously thought by some.

STREETS SLIPPERY

The heavy snowfall during the past week has made streets in Trenton slippery and cautious by motorists and pedestrians is of the utmost importance. Pedestrians are being advised to remember that it takes cars longer to stop, when the streets are slippery and should take this into consideration before crossing the street or when walking in the lane of traffic. The Trenton Police Department has taken over the job of issuing pamphlets to local motorists entitled "Winter Car Driving." Sound advice is contained in the folder and it stresses that proper use and abuse of the brake is the safe way to stop on ice or other slippery surfaces. The pumping stops continuous locking or skidding of the wheels. If the wheels lock the car is out of control. The folder also reminds that "Winter driving means extra-alert driving."

Picton Juniors Grab Early Lead To Get 2-1 Win

TRENTON — The Trenton Junior "B" entry in the Central Ontario League dropped a 2-1 game to the visiting junior team from Picton Saturday night in the Community Centre before a crowd of over 350.

The visitors opened the scoring at the 30-second mark of the first period and scored their second and final goal about midway in the same frame.

Trenton Juniors were unable to get a counter until about half way through the third stanza.

It was a fast and furious game all the way through and the home-town team was outlucked around the goal. The rubber duo did everything but go in. On several occasions tension mounted when the puck hit the goal post and bounced out instead of in the other direction.

Honor Retiring PUC Workers At Annual Party

TRENTON — Three employees of the Trenton Public Utilities Commission are retiring and a special party was held for them at the Quinte Hotel on Saturday night. The evening was also combined with the annual Christmas party for the workers of the PUC and their friends.

Jess Baker and Jess Goodsell and their wives were the guests of honor at the banquet and dance given mementos of their many years of service with the Commission.

The other retiring member of the staff, Mrs. Mary Bowsher of the Trenton Memorial Hospital, where he had just undergone surgery and was unable to attend the special occasion.

Among the many men they have served over 100 years with the Public Utilities Commission and their retirement will take effect on December 31 of this year. Employees' wives were also the banquet which was well attended. The three members of the commission were also present. They are Mayor Ross Burt, chairman, Jack Addison and member Cliff Baker.

Flyers Climb Out of Cellar With Win, Tie

TRENTON — The Flyers got out of the Eastern Ontario Intermediate "A" cellar last week when they won one game and tied another. They beat the Bowmanville-Orono Combines early in the week and last Wednesday they whipped the Minden Monarchs 7-4.

Of the 11 games played the Trenton team has won two, lost seven and tied two to give them six points and fifth-place in the league. Kingston will be taken over the cellar spot with only four points for the two games they have won after losing 10.

Napanee continues to hold the lead with only three losses in the 11 games played, giving them 16 points and a slim two-point lead over second-place Cobourg-Port Hope Combines.

The Bowmanville — Orono Combines are sitting in third spot with 13 points but have played only nine games, of which they have won six, lost two and tied one. Minden holds fourth spot. They also have 7 points but have played two more games than the third-place combines. They have won six, lost four and tied one.

In the scoring race for the league, B. McDougall of the Cobourg-Port Hope Combines continues to lead with 17 goals and 15 assists for a total of 32 points. Following him have J. White (Napanee) 10-19-29; L. Mahaffy (Napanee) 11-18-29; R. Meeker (Kingston) 12-14-26; R. Hall (BOQ) 10-15-25; J. Brock (Napanee) 10-14-24; F. Gilmour (Napanee) 14-10-24; H. Rowe (Napanee) 10-10-20; D. Hall (Kingston) 10-13-23 and J. Wert (BOQ) 4-17-21.

In the goaltending department, H. Rawe of the Bowmanville-Orono Combines is leading the pack, having played nine games and allowed 27 goals for a 3.00 average. The next three are: R. Shropshire (Minden) 7-0-0, Parish (Napanee) 5-4-2, and C. Carr (Trenton) 4-82. (Numbers mentioned are wins-loses-ties.)

Statistical reports are being handled by the league statician, Layton Dodge, 386 Ball Street, Belleville. Mr. Dodge asks teams to get their reports in as soon as possible after the games as the Christmas mail rush delays arrival of the reports.

Fishing Shanties Now in Place

TRENTON — Several fishing shanties appeared on the ice-out-the Trent River and out on the Bay of Quinte over the weekend and today about 15 of them dot the snow - covered ice.

One of the oldest residents of Trenton to still make regular trips to a shanty each morning, and sometimes two or three times too, is 73-year-old Charlie Wong, proprietor of the Lucky Chop on Dundas Street West. Mr. Wong reports that as yet he has caught no fish but says several of his friends have.

Mr. Wong says the ice on the bay is about six or seven inches thick and that this year the water is much lower than last. Most of the fish being caught are perch, with only a few perch reported taking bait.

Some of the Trenton shanty owners say they will be taking their equipment and has been forwarded to Ottawa for approval by the Federal Government.

The letter also advises that no work under this plan should be carried out until further instructions have been received by the town from the municipal department.

The Ontario Government pays 25 per cent of the costs of this labor and the Dominion Government pays 50 per cent, which only leaves 25 per cents for the town to pay.

Work qualified for this subsidy consists of such projects as roads, sewers, sidewalks, parks and also any work performed by commissions under municipal jurisdiction.

At present in Trenton four men have been put to work in Hanna Park clearing bush and fallen trees. It is possible the Parks Board may feel it necessary to clear the entire park area and if so it will hire more men for the job.

Town plans for work under this program includes gravel sidewalks in some sections of the town but there has been no definite report if any sewer work will be carried out.

In order that municipal projects can be started without delay and get the quickest approval possible, Percival Forbes has set up a committee, under the chairmanship of Municipal Affairs Minister William Davis, and including the Minister of Highways, Labour, Public Works, Lands and Forests, Mines and Planning and Development. The Premier also had said arrangements have been made with the Federal Government offices for speedy approval of the requests and there will be no delays.

It is not known how many men will be employed under the scheme in Trenton this winter, but Mayor Ross Burt said the town will go as far as it can and employ as many as possible.

Overflow Crowd Hears Graham In Tennessee

CLINTON, Tenn. (AP) — Evangelist Billy Graham told an overflow crowd in the shadow of dynamited Clinton High School Sunday not to follow either integration or segregation to become our gospel."

"We must recognize that love of mankind cannot be enforced by boycotts alone," Graham said. "The law in itself is powerless to change the human heart. Only love can do that and only Christ can bring that love."

An estimated 2,500 persons jammed into the undamaged gymnasium of the racially integrated school. They included a few Negroes. Another 1,500 persons heard Graham via loudspeakers in a nearby grade school and a church.

Three dynamite blasts shattered the school Oct. 5.

BAG FOUR FOXES

CRANFORD (CP) — Twenty-five hunters armed with shotguns took part in an organized hunt Saturday, covering a wide area near Hilton Hadden's farm where 45 geese and 30 ducks were killed a few days. The hunters bagged four foxes, but they found tracks which Brant County Red and Gun Club members said were those of a wolf.

NO TWO-YEAR TERM FOR MAYOR

Mayor Stan Johnston of London, Ont., has suggested that there be a two-year term for mayor in Ontario municipalities.

Mayor Gerald B. Hyde of this city approves the suggestion.

We disagree.

Two-year terms for aldermen are one thing. A man or woman new to municipal office requires a year to "find his feet." With "staggered" terms, half the aldermen elected each year, we can afford to give even an inefficient alderman a two-year term.

The case of the mayor is different. He should not need a two-year term, for he should already have acquired a sound knowledge of the affairs of the municipality, by serving as an alderman. If he has not, all the more reason why the city should not be exposed to the danger of being burdened with an inefficient chief magistrate for two full years. Some men who make good aldermen do not make good mayors. If the electors misjudge the capabilities of a man who has served them as alderman, they should be able to remedy the situation without having to wait for two years to do so.

In supporting the two-year term proposal, Mayor Hyde says: "It would result in more continuity and more things planned by a mayor during his first year of office might be accomplished." But there is nothing to prevent a mayor seeking re-election -- and most good mayors have little difficulty obtaining a second term, as Mayor Hyde should know, he just having received a well-deserved acclamation on the basis of his first year's record.

TOO LATE

As the result of the verdict of a coroner's jury enquiring into the deaths of a Palermo woman and her son, the provincial government is moving to check Ontario gas pipelines.

The gas explosion which took two lives was found to be the result of a faulty installation of a gas pipeline valve.

Assistant Deputy Attorney General Eric Silk, who acted as counsel to Chief Coroner Smirle Lawson, had some harsh words to say about the lack of interest shown in the inquest by officials of the gas company which owned the pipeline and the contractor who installed it. Only one of a dozen or so officials of both companies who had been questioned stayed to hear the jury's verdict.

Union Suburban, the gas company involved in the Palermo case, will be required to uncover all shut-off valves installed since January 1, 1957, as well as sections of pipelines.

In other areas where there have been gas explosions, indications of defective pipelines or faulty installation, similar inspection and approval will be required by January 15, 1959.

It may strike some people that Mr. Silk's criticism of lack of interest in the safety of pipeline installation is not to the province's provincial authorities as it is to the companies under fire.

A little forethought would have provided for inspection of these pipelines before they were buried, rather than after.

SERVES HIM RIGHT

John Guzzwell, a British-born yachting enthusiast from Victoria, B.C., has just completed a useless 20,000-mile trip in a 20-foot homemade boat. He left Victoria three years ago to visit his mother in South Africa. On his arrival at Durban last week he discovered that his mother had left South Africa three years ago, while he was en route from San Francisco to Australia.

Here, in the neighborly East, this may sound like a particularly rough bit of luck for Guzzwell. But in Victoria, which is veddy, veddy British, they probably figure it serves him right. If a chap is going to pay an uninvited call, he should at least precede his visit by a note intimating that he expects to drop around in a year or two.

SUPPOSE
By EDGAR A. GUEST

Let us suppose, as it's easy to do,
That that poor little fellow
was yours;
That he stood in the cold till his fingers were blue
And spent most of his time out of doors;
And let us suppose, while we're at it, that he Enjoyed Old Santa to come
As he had been told, if a good boy he'd be,
And leave him a horn and a drum;
How would you feel, if you,
knew that the day
Would take all the faith of that youngster away?

Or let us suppose that you're dead and your Wife
And your babies are struggling behind:
That with you went all of their comforts of life,
And the world hadn't been very kind;
And your babes are looking for
Santa to come,
While the heart of your wife's being torn
For the want of a doll or a horn or a drum?
Suppose you could see
Christmas morn
The sadness and gloom of the ones that you love!
Do you think you could rest
very happy above?

Well, somebody's boy is out freezing today,
And somebody's widow's in tears;
And somewhere are hearts that you ought to make gay
When the time for old Santa appears.
And somewhere are homes that are waiting for you
To brighten and cheer with your love
As you would expect some one's father to do
Who dwells on your way
And bring back his smiles on the glad Christmas Day?

Electronics in the Home

Halifax Chronicle-Herald

Among the newest refinements promised -- or possibly threatened -- to home-owners for the future are many which have their origin in the application of electronics to everyday problems.

One such suggestion promises the housewife an oven that is leisurely roasting a than she at present enjoys. A bachelor confirmed in his ways switches on the electric range, but will also accept a meal card containing a recipe. Electronic operation controlled by this card will select the proper temperature from the freezer, blend them where necessary and place them on the stove or in the oven, preheated to the correct temperature. Although it might seem something of a shame that the poor, over-worked housewife has to come downstairs to eat the products of such ingenuity.

It is already possible in some homes to control the delights from one master control point, but future development seems to promise an over-all surveillance of the whole premises, with the control of Georges Orwell's Big Brother. A monitor television screen enables to show her in her kitchen everything that is going on in every room of the house. (Question: if the kitchen is automatically going to do everything for her, why should she stay in it?) Why not, in fact, be informed what is happening elsewhere?) And there will be possibly be a bell to the good for the housewife, and possibly even for the nursery as well, as can be seen from indications when the monitor reveals the comic book on top of the teenager's school book, or worse, maybe worse -- that Father's "study" is being consistently used as a dormitory.

But possibly the most omiously sinister of the devices which is forecast to make bosses as difficult to enter as a bank vault. Former generations constituted the interests of security by the convention of door keys which were of so formidable a size as to defy their misplacing, which lazy human nature decreed that they were much too cumbersome to be carried, and hence left the door open. Today's generation prefers to open a congenital inability to remember where it has put the key while works the modern lock -- and again leaves the door open. But this future generation according to the forecasts will have a coded cell detector in a key or a calling-card, which will activate the mechanism to operate the locking device.

In the name of all who have spent infuriating minutes standing in the cold trying to remember the right piece of electronic jewelry, turning to pick the lock with a bobby-pin, or trying to remember a four-digit pin into the lock, we must protest. Things are bad enough as they are. But, if we have to rummage through every pocket in a masculine suit for a ridiculous little card with a lot of silly little numbers on it, we'd rather go back to the habits of earlier days and leave the door open.

The wonders of science may be great, but the benefits of human fallibility are not less great.

Want to Buy A Railroad?

Stratford Beacon-Herald

If you would like to own and run a everything -- an industry that is entertained by many boys -- perhaps you can buy one ? 1-2 miles long with a 15-gauge track that carries real passengers and any freight traffic it can find. It is the Ravensglass railway, situated in the lovely lake district of England, and it is fully equipped, so advertised, that it has three diesel locomotives, as well as two steam engines.

Established in 1873 it is still a good going concern. It was built to serve the mines, seven miles up the valley at Boot, but at the turn of the century the mine. peitered out. Then came the freight, but that petered out' also and for many years it has carried passengers and such freight as can be picked up at the route.

Ravenglass is near there: h any lack of passenger traffic. Last year the Ravenglass and Eskdale Railway carried 70,000 visitors touring the lakes area.

Now the present owner, a quarrying company, fear it may be bought holus bolus and transported to the United States, but there is an organization that hopes to prevent that. England, happily, possess a society dedicated to preventing that very thing from happening to British railways. It is called Scrubiak, which is the abbreviation for the Society for the Preservation of Miniature Railways Branch Lines in the United Kingdom. The society is delighted with the present that England's ailing branch lines from extinction -- and presumably also from export.

The R. and E. is not a highway like, however, and stops to permit sheep to cross the line. It can take 45 minutes for the 7 1-2 miles.

From the little train one can see in the distance Calder Hall, the world's first full-sized atomic power plant. To some Calder Hall is a symbol of the age that is coming, a the steam locomotive and the little independent railway symbolize to many an age that is past or passing.

Artificial Respiration

Scientific American

The best method of artificial respiration is that in which the mouth of the victim...so say the group of physicians who have made a thorough comparative test of the various methods of resuscitation.

They found that the blowing stratagem is much more effective, as a rule, than anyone to apply than the Holger Nielsen push-pull exercise formerly in favor and recommended by the American Red Cross.

Three grad assistants-Peter Safar and Lourdes A. Escarraga of Baltimore and James Elam of Buffalo--conducted the study and report the results in The New England Journal of Medicine.

Anesthetized volunteer subjects with the drug curare, which paralyzes the muscles, breathed by the various methods on re-breathing bags. Subjects by the various methods. They used instruments to make accurate measurements of the amount of air moved into the lungs.

After hundreds of trials they found that the mouth to mouth blowing method is superior in every way: It gets more air into the victim and has the surest success in restoring breathing.

The technique is good, the oldest known to man, presumably fell out of favor for sanitary reasons. To meet these objections the doctors suggest that tube be used over mouth contact. They demonstrated that the technique to fit open airs, and all were able to use it successfully.

Enumerate Firearms

Brantford Expositor

There was a time, in this country, when the official census-taker was required to list all firearms in each household and register arms in each home. It might be a good idea to keep up the enumeration as far as firearms are concerned -- and to see that every weapon is loaded or within reach of juveniles.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

At the back of the bus, where the seats, you know, face a each other, there were two mothers, four small children, a couple of dopes, and an elderly parson and I. We were coming Nuvil down town. The children had obviously been down visiting Santa Claus with their exhausted mothers.

"That wasn't the real Santa Claus," declared the oldest child, a boy of about six.

"What do you mean?" yelled the others.

"How can you tell?" asked the old parson, unexpectedly.

"I don't know," said the boy, abashed.

"I'll tell you how you can tell," confided the old parson, leaning over; and even the two dopes quit reading their papers and listened, as we all do to a confidential tone.

"How?" asked the boy.

"The real Santa Claus," whispered the old parson, hoarsely, "always carries two bags; the full one, and an empty one!" Everybody sees the full one, but hardly anyone sees the empty one unless one he's got. But that's how you tell."

He waited.

"Well, in the empty one--" explained the parson, "he picks up whatever he can for the children who didn't have any toys. That would be awful if anybody was forgotten. That's how you can tell, though. By that empty bag he carries. You look close, next time. You'll see it."

After a moment, one of t h e dopes suddenly reached out and shook hands with the old parson. So then we all did.

Members of the Board of Education following their final meeting of the year on Friday evening will be the guests of chairman of the board, Mr. Charles L. Hyde, at an informal supper gathering in a downtown cafe.

From our file copy at this time in 1898: Messrs Frank Broderick and Joe. who have been conducting a high class tailoring establishment here for the past few years, have their lease, stock and fixtures to Mr. James W. A rehearsal of the dance by fifteen couples has been arranged under the direction of Miss Mary Forster. When the Lambeth Walk is done at the dance it will really be in expert style.

Messrs. This brings to Peter While tonight to Prince Edward County for 1929. The trophy must be won three times before it becomes the property of the county.

The meeting of the winding team received their congratulation on Holstein at the stock farms of A. D. Foster, Consecon and Fred H. Hubbs. Out of a possible score of 2000 points the Prince Edward boys won 2504 points which is the second highest score ever made at a competition in Ontario.

Mr. Kenneth Hume Deeder, son of Mr. W. H. Deeder of this city, has been appointed a member of the staff of the Belleville branch of the Unlied Bank of Canada.

The Rev. A. Dixon of Redmerville, was a visitor in town today.

A communication has been received from the Department of Public Works, Ottawa, in which is acknowledged the justice of the city's claim with regards to the building formerly used as military officers' quarters on Church St., south of Bridge St. The department makes an offer which practically means that the sum of $1500 is offered for the building and the lot upon which it stands. The matter will come before the city council shortly. The members of the council are understood to be of opinion that the offer should be accepted forthwith. The property is agreed to turn over the official quarters of the 49th Battalion to be used as an armory for No. 1 Company. It is quite evident, however, that the matter will be amicably settled between the government and the city. The city will be quite a few dollars to the good on the deal to the awakeness of city solicitor W. C. Mikel, who discovered the defective title to the city land on the property.

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

DIAPHRAGMATIC HERNIA AIDED BY ULCER DIET

"Dear Dr. Molner: As a family we have profound respect for your evaluations. May we present the following case?

"My brother, 33, height 6 feet, weight about 230 pounds, was having considerable distress until he finally took himself to an X-ray doctor who found a diaphragmatic hernia which he said was small, and surgery would not be necessary at this time. However, he was told to follow a diet similar to an ulcer diet and said unless he did such a hernia could be corrected by diet.

"This has been going on for a year now, but as far as the family can ascertain (this is a delicate subject to mention) the distress continues and we are getting quite concerned about it.

"May we submit these questions for our relief?

"1 — Do you feel we should see a diagnostician or our family physician?

"2 — Isn't it incumbent upon him to follow his diet rigidly if he wishes to get well?

"3 — Isn't his excessive weight aggravating this herniation?

"4 — If this is to be treated like an ulcer, then are not alkaloids necessary to relief?

"— Are hernias of this nature usually operable or inoperable?

"6 — Should all physical exercise be nil, including expungage multiply? — P.B."

It's the old question, "Who's my brother's keeper? The answer is "yes" if you can really help your brother. In this case, I dare say that nothing short of continued will power will make him do the things he ought to do to take care of this condition.

Yes.

2 — Yes.

3 — Yes — fat inside the abdomen does cause abdominal pressure.

4 — Not to an absolute degree — but this is subject to some difference of opinion. As I give you my opinion. Go easy, though.

5 — Such hernias are operable if patient will take the necessary precautions necessary to keep it from being irritated just as you would artificially irritated steps to keep an ulcer from being irritated) the condition can usually be prevented from causing trouble. and operation may be avoided.

The question you didn't ask was this: "Why is the treatment so much like an ulcer diet?"

The answer is that when a hernia occurs at this particular point, the esophagus or part of the stomach may be displaced if not usually irritated .this action may cause neither pain nor harm. But if the condition is aggravated and becomes worse, surgery may be the only possible answer. In extreme cases, this condition is known to, not very accurately, as "upside down stomach."

"Dear Dr. Molner: Is it true that TV throws radiation into you if you don't sit six feet away? — C.D."

Authorities tell me that for ordinary TV sets in the home, there is no radiation even if you sit your nose on the screen; in huge sets, using 17,000 volts or more, there is a little, but not enough to be of consequence.

Crosswords Born in Jail

Windsor Star

Crossword puzzles have provided a pleasant pastime to more people over a longer period than perhaps any other puzzle in history. But how many fanciers know these originated in jail?

Victor Orville, an Englishman who was in jail for manslaughter, the result of his beloved wife being killed in a car accident when he, the driver, was intoxicated. He was deeply grieved by this, making squares on paper after the pattern on the floor caused by the shadow of the prison bars. He started to fill in the squares with words -- and the crossword puzzle resulted.

Much more important contributions have come from prison cells than this. Some of the world's greatest literature is more than one language, was written behind bars.

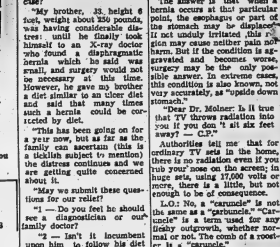
Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

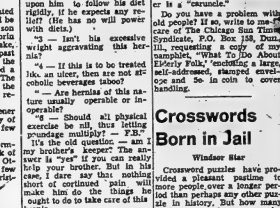
DON'T MAKE THINGS WORSE

"Sufficient unto the day is the evil thereof."

This is one of the wise sayings of Jesus. It sets forth the disposition so prevalent in the lives of many of us to borrow trouble the regrets of yesterday and apprehensions we have concerning tomorrow. Sometimes we add that the troubles we have to undergo in the course of a year are like a great bundle of fagots too large for us to lift, but God does not require us to carry the whole at once. We are mercifully accorded the privilege of carrying it a bundle and carrying it a stick at a time.



We may well reflect on the happiness which would be ours if we could get away from the distressing task of bearing burdens we are not supposed to bear. Certain burdens we must bear, and these the Lord puts upon us knowing that our minds and souls will be benefited thereby. But to add yesterday's troubles unto those of today, and to reach forward to the trials of tomorrow and suffer them with a hundred times more intensity than is justified -- that is folly. This is torturing ourselves.



Take things as they come. This requires the Lord's formula. Forget yesterday. Keep the eyes averted from tomorrow. Solve today's problems, and to reach forward to-morrow with a free mind and have a good night's rest.

The Scripture lesson, found in Luke 2:8-20 was read by Mrs. Lilland Harder, and the explanation was given by Mrs. C. J. Brunt, who said, "that there was a danger of presents and outward things at Christmas leaving no time or thought to the birthday of the babe in the manger."

Mrs. Clapp welcomed the large group of members and a visitor.

Mrs. Earl Stickle will be hostess at the January 8th meeting. It was moved to discontinue doing quilts for a time, and decided a box be packed at Mrs. E. Stickle's the Saturday before Christmas for a family for Christmas and if enough is brought in the W.A. will pack another for a needy family. It was decided to send a donation to India to teach an Indian to read and write also a donation to the Plainfield Home for Retarded Infants.

A program called, "Home for Christmas", was put on by Mrs. Everett Clapp, Mrs. E. Stickle and Mrs. W. J. Grant, with Christmas carols interspersed.

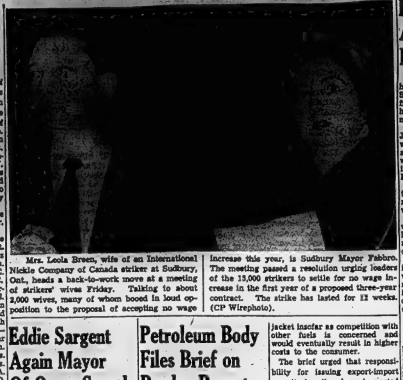
Question Man About Slaying Of His Family

EL CAJON, Calif. (AP)—A man who has blamed a transient teenager for the slaying of his wife and four children was himself the subject of extensive police questioning Sunday.

Examination of Thomas J. Pendergast, 39, included two lie detector tests ordered by Police Chief Joe O'Connor.

O'Connor declined to discuss the tests other than to say: "His story is consistent."



Investigators said Pendergast was asked specifically for more details about his connection with Carl Eder, the missing teenager Pendergast has said he befriended in the hope of saving him from a life of crime.

Eder, 16, known to the Pendergast family as Charles Harrison, has been charged with murdering Mrs. Lois Pendergast, 37, and her children, David, 9, Thomas, 6, Diane, 4, and Allen, 2. The bodies were found in the family home here Friday night.

The mother had been shot twice and the children's throats had been cut.

Search for the six-foot, three-inch teen-ager from Rochester, N.Y., has been unrewarding thus far.

Pendergast fingered a small Bible as he talked with reporters after the police questioning. He blamed the killings on Eder but said he had no hatred in his heart for the youthful hitchhiker he had picked up and taken into his home six weeks ago.

Mrs. Leola Breen, wife of an International Nickle Company of Canada striker at Sudbury, Ont., heads a back-to-work move at a meeting of strikers' wives Friday. Talking to about 2,000 wives, many of whom booed in loud opposition to the proposal of accepting no wage increase this year, is Sudbury Mayor Fabbro. The meeting passed a resolution urging leaders of the 15,000 strikers to settle for no wage increase in the first year of a proposed three-year contract. The strike has lasted for 12 weeks. Eddie Sargent Again Mayor Of Owen Sound

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Two Ontario cities, the last two to hold civic elections, voted new mayors into office Saturday.

In St. Catharines, Wilfred Bald, 66, narrowly defeated last year by Mayor John Franklin, succeeded in his second try. He received 5,017 votes to 4,964 for the 64-year-old incumbent.

E. C. Sargent, 47, former mayor who had eight years in office, ousted incumbent William A. Forsyth, 51, 3,790 to 2,555 in Owen Sound. Mr. Forsyth had been seeking his third successive one-year term.

Owen Sound recorded a creditable voter turnout of 64.58 per cent but it was that it was below par for that city-domiciled city. Heavy snow was blamed.

Three questions were on the Owen Sound ballot, none of bylaw nature. The electorate favored fluoridation of the city water supply but turned down proposals for a new city hall and a new fire hall.

A woman figured in the voting in Toronto Township which also held elections Saturday. Mrs. Mary Fix was re-elected reeve over her only opponent, Leslie Hughes.

The new St. Catharines mayor will serve a two-year term as a result of a city bylaw passed last year. Mr. Bald, a retired accountant, has a 12-year record as alderman. The turnout in St. Catharines was more than 40 per cent.

WOUNDING CHARGE

UXBRIDGE, Ont. (CP)—James Leroy Wells, 30, of Uxbridge, was charged Saturday with wounding with intent to maim following the brutal stabbing of a 29-year-old widow with four children. Mrs. Joyce Hendry, 29, is in fair condition in hospital with a wound in her left arm. She said she was stabbed following a quarrel with a man.

Petroleum Body Files Brief on Borden Report

CALGARY (CP) — The Canadian Petroleum Association today filed a brief with the federal cabinet claiming that adherence to the recommendations of the Borden energy commission on energy resources could have "serious repercussions on the whole Canadian economy."

The brief deals chiefly with the report's suggestion that a national energy board be set up and given mandatory powers over the oil and gas industry.

The association said excessive regulation and control of the industry would deal a "serious blow to the attractiveness of Canada as a sound nation in which to invest."

The CPW, with headquarters in Calgary, is spokesman for 240 companies, 97 per cent of the Canadian oil and gas industry.

LIMITS BOARD'S POWERS

A three-way division of energy authority was recommended. The association said an energy board should be limited to fact-finding and advisory duties, a newly-created division of the board of transport commissioners should hold regulatory powers and policy matters should be decided by the government.

The brief said a national energy board as recommended by the Borden commission would mean "excessive regulation . . . potentially involving control of prices from wellhead to consumer . . . and would place the whole industry in a straight-jacket insofar as competition with other fuels is concerned and would eventually result in higher costs to the consumer.

The brief urged that responsibility for issuing export-import permits for oil and gas be vested in the minister of trade and commerce, rather than in a national energy board or the board of transport commissioners.

"As much as two years' delay will be occasioned should the government decide to delay export decisions until reconnaissance flights are received from the proposed national energy board, the brief added.

Exercise Boy Arrested for Part in Ambush

WASHINGTON (AP)—A race-horse exercise boy was arrested Sunday as the man who escaped from the ambush shooting at the home of a contractor here Friday night.

Police said Lester Lorenzo Jackson, 19, Washington, also wanted on a fugitive warrant in a $22,000 holdup in Buffalo, N.Y., was captured in a rooming house in suburban Fairmont Heights, Md.

Police said Jackson admitted taking part in the Ambush and reported he denied he held any weapon in the kidnap attempt.

Felix Marchegiani, 42, was wounded when four men invaded his home with the intent of kidnapping him and forcing him to open an office safe.

One of the gunmen was killed in the shooting when a police truck went into operation. Another gunman, shot five times, is in critical condition. Another of the bandits, shot twice, is in serious condition.

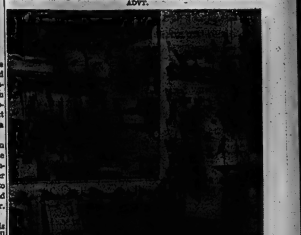
MINISTER'S MOTHER DIES

HAMILTON (CP) — Mrs. Nellie Bell Cook, 88, mother of Mrs. Ellen Fairclough, Canada's minister of immigration, died here Sunday after a lingering illness. The funeral is to be held Tuesday.

Large Turnout Likely for Vote In BC Riding

TRAIL, B.C. (CP) — Moderate weather, a heated campaign and province-wide interest were in-dicated today for the election in Rossland-Trail to vote in the Social Credit government's first ballot-box test in more than a year.

Robert Sommers, elected in 1952, 1953 and 1956 and for a time provincial lands and forests minister, resigned last month after being convicted and sentenced to five years for conspiracy and bribery while a cabinet minister. He is appealing the conviction.



The CCF candidate today is F. E. (Buddy) DeVito, a Trail alderman.

Donald Brothers, 35-year-old lawyer, is the Social Credit candidate. Dr. M. E. Krause, 38, a surgeon, campaigned for the Liberals and Alex Brokenshire for the Progressive Conservatives.

The Sommers case did not figure largely in the campaign, although opposition parties said integrity in government was an issue.

It was the first byelection in British Columbia since Sept. 9, 1957, when Social Credit retained two seats and the CCF one in voting in three ridings.

Coca-Cola Plant Holds Yuletide Party

The employees and their families of Coca-Cola Limited, held their annual Christmas party on Saturday.

Following a program of cartoons, Santa Claus made the children's day complete when he burst through the fireplace and distributed gifts to each child and minutes later the cooler room floor was littered with children trying out their new toys. Santa then assisted Don Charlton while he presented a carving set to the plant manager, Leo McKee, and his wife. The ladies were each given a Christmas corsage and then a sumptuous buffet dinner with the traditional turkeys and all the trimmings was served in the lunch room. Mr. McKee announced that each family would receive a Christmas turkey from their company on about December 22nd.

With virtually 100 per cent turnout, everyone agreed that the committee had outdone itself in producing the best Christmas party ever held in the Belleville plant. Don Charlton chaired the committee from the Frosty Bottle Club, assisted by Mrs. B. Brown, Miss S. Walsh, Miss B. Holmes, H. Tuzzolo, J. Armstrong, W. Reid and W. Fox. This committee looked after the children's gifts, the ladies' corsages and the decorations, while the company provided the dinner and the candy for the children, as well as plenty of ice-cold Coca-Cola.

As each family left there was a tray with individual packages of candy, apples and oranges for each child.

Women's Activities

SHANNONVILLE W.A.

The monthly meeting of the W.A. of Shannonville United Church was held at the home of Mrs. Malcolm Little on Thursday afternoon with an attendance of 22. Mrs. K. R. Vivian, president, welcomed all.

Mrs. Vivian gave a Christmas reading and offered prayer; all sang "Joy To the World."

Mrs. Malcolm Little, group leader, took charge, and Mrs. Asa Coon read "The Shepherds Returned Praising God." Mrs. Malcolm Little read the Christmas story from Luke 2 and Mrs. John Robinson favored with a lovely sacred solo. Mrs. Will Ross gave a reading, "Birth of the Saviour." The group leader read a poem, "Christmas Giving," and handed her prayer.

The president thanked Mrs. Little and took charge of the business. A rally at Front Road Church in November, gave a report of the rally, and also reported for the local W.A. at that gathering for which she received a vote of thanks. Asa Coon, treasurer, gave her report which was received and Mrs. Wood read a lovely poem.

Mrs. Claude Clarke gave the financial report and nominating committee which was accepted.

Mrs. Kenneth Bennett kindly offered her home for the next meeting. As the day of the WMS meeting comes on New Year's it was decided to combine the two meetings in January. Officers of both to be installed at the first church service of the year.

Offerings were dedicated during prayer by Mrs. Vivian who thanked the hostess for opening her home for the meeting.

After the closing hymn and benediction, Mrs. Little and her assistants served refreshments. A social time was enjoyed.

The mirrored Christmas tart centre was flanked by two tall, red, lighted candles, and the small Christmas trees made one realize the holiday season is near. The Christmas gifts displayed on the numbers of the were quickly disposed of, ending interest to the Christmas meeting, and proceeds to the fund.

St. Andrew's W.M.S. Elects 1959 Officers

The regular monthly meeting of St. Andrew's Missionary Society was held in the school hall. The president, Mrs. Ken Parsons, opened the meeting and conducted the business period.

The worship service was centred around the Christmas message and conducted by Mrs. V. Darvell.

Interesting letters were read from two national workers, Miss Margaret Love of Kemora, and Miss Grace Lee of Victoria, B.C., also a letter from Mr. and Mrs. Bill Hall, who are doing a wonderful work in Cuba.

The president reminded the society of the council meeting in May, also the annual meeting of Kingston Presbytery which is to be held in Belleville on January 12th.

As this is the annual meeting of the W.M.S. reports of the year's work and finances were given by the respective secretaries and treasurer.

Mother's Helper

MOST YOUNGSTERS are fond of French toast, and you probably make it often. Have you tried adding a bit of sugar to the egg-and-milk in which you dip the bread before browning it to better? The sugar helps give the toast that appetizing golden color, and it tastes extra good.

C.L. Ladies' Auxiliary Holds Annual Party

The Ladies' Auxiliary to the Canadian Legion, Branch 99, held its Christmas party in the Legion Hall on Friday. There were square, spotlight and elimination dances.

The highlight of the evening was the drawing of the ticket for the wonderful Christmas basket.

The new president-elect of the Legion, Mr. Olson, was introduced to the ladies of the Auxiliary by Mrs. W. Bailey, Auxiliary president, and was asked to draw the ticket, the lucky winners were Mr. Vickers and Mr. Reid, 82 Bertram Blvd., Belleville. The winners of the elimination dance were Mrs. M. Television Makes Queen Seen by Millions of People

By KEN METHERAL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — Thanks to television, Queen Elizabeth II was seen in 1958 by a far great number of people than was her great-grandmother, Queen Victoria, in her reign lasting 63 years.

Millions more will have the opportunity of seeing her in person during 1959 when the Queen and Prince Philip visit the Commonwealth's oldest and youngest dominions—Canada and Ghana.

The use of television and modern high-speed travel is part of a policy which the Queen, encouraged by her husband, has initiated to make herself known to her subjects in a manner undreamed of by her predecessors.

BREAK WITH TRADITION

A less spectacular but equally important aspect of the same policy is the gradual breaking away from traditional court functions and routine that is bringing a new and invigorating atmosphere to Buckingham Palace.

During the six-week royal visit to Canada starting in mid-June, the Queen and the Prince will travel up the St. Lawrence in the royal yacht Britannia to open the St. Lawrence Seaway. They will cross Canada from coast to coast and probably spend some of their time in the country's northern regions.

Much of the detailed planning for the tour has been handled by Esmond Butler, Manitoba-born assistant press secretary to the Queen. When he took office early in 1958, it was the first time an appointment to the Queen's personal staff had gone to anyone outside the United Kingdom.

Following the royal couple's return to Britain, there will begin preparing for a late-autumn visit to Ghana, Sierra Leone and Gambia.

BIG TOUR FOR PRINCE

The Prince will also make a round-the-world four in January and February, visiting India, Pakistan and other Asian countries, British possessions in the Pacific, Bermuda and the Bahamas.

The Canadian tour marks the third straight year that Canada has entertained royal guests. In 1957, the Queen went to Ottawa to open the Canadian Parliament. In 1958, Princess Margaret attended British Columbia's centennial celebrations and made brief visits to other parts of the country. In October, the Prince attended a conference of the English-speaking Union at Ottawa, making a side-trip to Springhill, N.S., to visit survivors of the mining disaster that cost 75 lives.

A significant pointer to the trend toward a broader - based relationship between Crown and people was the ending in 1958 of presentation parties for debutantes. A royal command performance to date back to the reign of the first Queen Elizabeth. In future, socially prominent young women will be invited only to the annual garden parties held each summer on the palace lawns.

Similar evidence is found in the list of guests invited to the palace for informal luncheons with the Queen. Trades union officials shared the royal fare with industrialists, scientists, politicians, journalists and prominent figures in the entertainment world. The list also included two of Britain's leading sports personalities, soccer player Billy Wright and racing driver Mike Hawthorn.

SHIFTS EMPHASIS

The Queen has also made it clear she intends to vary her engagements to a greater extent, placing more emphasis on functions and events at which the presence of the monarch is a matter of tradition.

In October, television cameras gave millions of Britons their first glimpse of the traditional pomp and ceremony of the state opening of Parliament.

Television viewers have also been taken to the royal box so the Queen followed one of her favorite pastimes, horse racing, and have had a front-row view of the opening ceremonies and to-speaking tour which are a part of the sovereign's public duties.

Modern techniques were also used to reinforce royal traditions when the Queen, confined to bed with a cold, made use of a recording to publicly proclaim her 1958 honors list, including the Prince of Wales.

In a gesture to both Wales and the Commonwealth, the proclamation was broadcast as part of the closing ceremonies of the British Empire and Commonwealth games at Cardiff.

'TWAS NINE DAYS BEFORE CHRISTMAS . . .

When all over town
People hurried and scurried
Some wearing a frown.

Soon the stockings would hang
By the chimney with care
But what to put them?
We feel such despair.

The children were nestled
All snug in their beds,
What to buy? Where to shop?
Buzzed through our poor heads.

Mum with her list
And Dad just confused,
Had just settled down
Not too enthused.

When out of the chair,
Dad rose with a clatter.
Mother, surprised, said,
"What is the matter?"

The light from the lamp
Lit the floor up below,
Where Dad dropped the "Intell"
His face all aglow.

Then to my wondering eyes did appear
An ad in the paper that made it all clear.
As rapid as eagles our ideas all came,
We whistled and shouted as we checked off each name.

MOTHER IS COURTESY-PATTERN FOR YOUNG DAUGHTER

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Soon my daughter, age 13, is going to a Young People's Convention outside our city. I understand she will sleep one night in a private home, although all or most of her meals will be at the Convention. Should my daughter send a small gift with her thank-you note when she arrives home? If so, what is appropriate, and what would you suggest? (This is her first Convention.) Mother

That young daughter of yours must be very proud of her mother for having such a fine sense of courtesy! Why you're already planning for her Convention experience will be most important, and so exciting to her! Yes, when she returns home, she should write her thank-you note for the hospitality of her home the first and most important note she should be written to the hostess of the home. Another friendly little note should be written to the young person in the home, if (as is probable) there is one. You also should write to the hostess of the home, a mother-to-mother note of appreciation for the hospitality so thoughtfully given your daughter. Although a guest present isn't necessary, it's fine to have your daughter send one with her thank-you note — as a witness to the hostess, and something for the enjoyment of the family — a box of candy or other sweets, perhaps a specialty of your community, or a book they would all welcome.

HOSTESS-RESPONSIBILITY TO INVITED GUEST

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

On the last Saturday in January, an organization to which I belong is giving a dance. It's the first dance we've ever given, and it's to be held in a very fine hall here. Tickets for its eight dollars each, to cover expenses. I have already invited my escort, he has accepted, but he has said nothing about tickets, and neither have I. Am I really expected to buy both tickets, should he buy both tickets, or should we each pay for our own ticket? — May

It is your responsibility to buy both tickets. When you invited the man to be your guest, you became his hostess, and, as hostess, you are expected to buy the ticket for your guest, as well as your own ticket. I imagine he took this for granted, since you were inviting him, naturally thought you took it for granted too, and so did not mention it.

If you think the ticket-situation needs explanation (and it's always wiser to explain all plans), tell him (or have him) that you have the tickets, and ask him if he would like to have you send them to him now, or shall you keep them and give them to him (which is the usual way) when he calls for you to take you to the dance.

Mother has been staying in my brother's home since my father died several months ago. She is very unhappy as I says she does not care what becomes of her. But I think she will gradually cheer up if she stays near her grandchildren. She loves them so much

Cynthia S. — For years Beatrice has been talking of quitting her job and settling down to be a homemaker. She's never heard from her is how much she hates her job and how she envies women who have "nothing to do but look after a home."

Well, you'll her chance. My brother and I are willing to make a fair contribution to Mother's board. The larger apartment would not cost Cynthia any extra money.

My sister-in-law has little patience with Mother and I have even less. After all, we have the children to worry about. Beatrice would have nothing at all to do but look out for Mother. Have you offered to spend a full afternoon — or a week — so that Beatrice can get away? Mother is quite feeble in many ways, but she is too depressed to be left alone for long. I think Beatrice is being unfair.

The Council: If Beatrice and Cynthia think about it, we are sure that they'll remember that not long ago they battled one another and back brother in fierce fight for their mother's love as they now battle to be rid of the responsibility and caring for her. Their eagerness to foist a burden on one person on another is deeply rooted in childish, selfish attitudes.

It is impossible to say who "should" take the responsibility or which type of home would be best for the mother. The best home would be the one in which she would feel wanted. If she felt wanted she would undoubtedly be more contented and would be less of a problem to all of her children.

All of these children undoubtedly feel guilty and they are trying to lay on one another's backs until somebody breaks down. It is an ugly situation and it will leave ugly scars on them and their relationship to one another for years to come.

We think that each of the children needs to recognize the picture to himself and herself. If neither the sisters nor the brother likes taking on the responsibility of caring for Mother in a loving and devoted spirit, they should at least avoid blaming one another and should consider what to do about making other arrangements. Their mother will be better off with a paid companion or in a home for the aged than in the home of a reluctant child.

The business was quickly finished. There was a large number of gifts brought in to be sent to the Home for Mentally Retarded Infants in Plainfield. Christmas carols were sung with Mrs. B. Anderson at the piano.

Mrs. Clarke Sprung gave a Christmas reading; Mrs. W. Hoyce conducted a contest, and she presented prizes to four of the winners as a drew had to be taken.

Mrs. Frank Roblin thanked the hostess for her hospitality.

After the meeting closed, the hostess, assisted by several ladies, served delectable refreshments and a social time was enjoyed.

Controversy Over Crowe's Letter Causing Violent Storm On Academic Freedom Issue

By STAN McCABE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WINNIPEG (CP) — Professor Harry S. Crowe of United College wrote a personal letter to a friend last March. Before it reached its destination, it touched off a controversy that still is simmering.

In some way that weeks of police investigation have failed to establish the letter was stopped short of the addressee. Mailed by Prof. Crowe while he was guest lecturer in history at Queen's University in Kingston, it was intercepted before it reached Dr. William A. Packer of United College.

In a new envelope with an anonymous accompanying note, it turned up in the mail of Dr. W. C. Lockhart, college principal. He said when he opened the envelope he couldn't help reading the letter.

It has never been published.

RESIGNATIONS FOLLOW

Subsequent key developments:

Prof. Crowe was fired by United, 15 other members of the teaching staff resigned in protest and Dr. Lockhart resigned as principal.

These have been the lightning bolts in one of the most violent storms over academic freedom to hit a Canadian campus.

Next major development is expected in some form a sub-executive meeting of the general council of the United Church of Canada next Wednesday in Toronto.

The church runs United College, a 700 - student institution with 32 faculty members affiliated with the University of Manitoba. United College was formally constituted in 1938.

Prof. Crowe said Friday he hopes no one will take any "precipitate action" before the sub-executive meeting is held.

Allan H. Watson, chairman of the 43-member board of regents which fired the professor, said it is up to the church group what action it takes. The case is closed as far as the board is concerned.

REGENTS INFORMED

After the letter reached Dr. Lockhart, a behind - the - scenes controversy developed in which the text of the letter eventually came to the attention of the board of regents. Professor Crowe was dismissed Sept. 15.

A two-man committee of the Canadian Association of University Teachers investigated the case and said Prof. Crowe was a victim of injustice and should be reinstated.

In secret negotiations last week, the college offered to reinstate Prof. Crowe and three professors who resigned to support him. The talks failed.

Dr. Lockhart insisted that his resignation stand although the college said it did not propose to accept it. Before coming to the college in 1955, Dr. Lockhart was minister of Kingsway - Lambton United Church in Toronto.

The resignations of the principal and of the 15 professors quitting in protest over the issue become effective Aug. 31, 1959. Three of the 15 faculty resignations have been accepted by the board.

Prof. Crowe has declined to agree to a general release of the letter. He said the contents are of "completely irrelevant and of no consequence" in his dispute with the college.

Dr. Packer declined to release the text. A college spokesman said Dr. Lockhart had never released the text.

There has been some demand for publication of the letter. The Brandon Sun editorially suggested such a course. The Winnipeg Free Press asked for a judicial inquiry. The Winnipeg Tribune said the matter should be aired before a court-appointed arbitrator.

Mr. Watson said he still hopes a judicial inquiry will be held. Prof. Crowe said: "Surely no one is seriously suggesting a judicial inquiry. It would only be a rehash of the past."

Dr. Packer said he first saw the letter when Dr. Lockhart gave it to him April 15. He mailed the original to Prof. Crowe at Queen's.

Dr. Packer said the principal informed him photostatic copies had been made of the letter.

When he announced his resignation, Dr. Lockhart said in a statement:

"The letter, by the time it reached me, was not, in my judgment, a privileged or private document. Others had been in possession of it and might also have already made use of it.

"Under the circumstances I felt, as chief executive officer of the college, morally bound to retain a copy of it, especially since there might have been sinister intent behind it being sent to me as principal of the college."

Dr. Lockhart said in the same statement: "I never at any time took Prof. Crowe's letter to the board or faculty, nor divulged its contents to them. I have never used the letter for any purpose against Prof. Crowe and have at no time ever recommended his dismissal from the college."

The board of regents supported Dr. Lockhart's statement that he did not divulge contents of the letter to the board. The board's first statement on the case, published Sept. 30, indicated it took its first action against Prof. Crowe after hearing of his protests concerning handling of the letter.

"When the board met on July 3 to deal finally with this matter, it felt that there was sufficient evidence from the expressed attitudes of Prof. Crowe to the board and principal to make it clear that it would be better for all concerned if he were not retained on the staff.

"The board of regents was willing to allow Prof. Crowe to return to the college in order to have one year at least to establish himself in some other teaching position more congenial to him. It so informed him on July 2 and at the same time gave him legal notice of termination of service as of Aug. 31, 1959."

Prof. Crowe returned to the college Sept. 2, refusing to accept the year's notice. The board said Sept. 15 it had decided "his services should be terminated forthwith."

The board said it reached the decision Sept. 9 after receiving a copy of Prof. Crowe's letter from the board of colleges of the United Church.

Prof. Crowe denied the board's statement that he provided a copy of the letter to the church's board of secondary schools and colleges.

"The truth is that I handed a copy to Dr. E. E. Long, general secretary of the United Church, for his private information and at his request since the modernize of the church was then in Europe."

The board said that after it saw a copy of the letter Sept. 9, it was of the opinion "the attitude towards religion revealed by it is incompatible with the traditions and objectives of United College and that, in the manner in which he named six faculty members, two of whom are deceased and are of hallowed memory, Prof. Crowe overstepped the bounds of decency."

The board later retracted "any statement which may have reflected in any way upon Prof. Crowe's religious views."

Prof. Crowe, 36, is an Anglican but an adherent of the United Church to which his wife belongs. He is generally considered to be an outstanding scholar. After graduating in arts with honors from the University of Manitoba, he enlisted in 1942 and was loaned to the British Army. He won the Military Cross as an officer in Northwest Europe.

After the war he continued his studies and won the university gold medal. He took his master of arts degree at the University of Toronto and did post-graduate work at Columbia University before becoming a lecturer at United College.

He was an avowed Socialist in college and a leader in setting up the United College branch of the Canadian Association of University Teachers. He had differences with the board of regents on salaries and other matters affecting teachers.

After he had a hand in a professors' brief to the Fowler commission on broadcasting which attacked private stations, Mr. Watson resigned temporarily as a member of the board of regents. Mr. Watson is connected with a Winnipeg radio station.

Prof. Crowe declined comment on whether any past animosity between him and Mr. Watson had any connection with the current controversy.

Mr. Watson said his objection at the time was that the brief should not be submitted under the name of the college unless it represented the college's views.

25 QUIT UNIVERSITY

Small groups of students have staged demonstrations in support of Professor Crowe. Twenty-two students said they would transfer out of the college to the University of Manitoba.

However, when about 200 students gathered in the college hall this week to watch a demonstration supporting Prof. Crowe, they greeted Dr. Lockhart by singing For He's a Jolly Good Fellow.

Although 15 professors have resigned, others have taken the administration's side of the fight.

Clifford J. Rolnick, chairman of the psychology department, said Friday that Prof. Crowe was secretary of the United College Staff Association which had a "militant executive." He accused the "belligerent core" of the group of an "effort designed to threaten the principal and board."

Twenty-five members of the college faculty earlier issued a statement calling for a judicial inquiry into the controversy. They said any violation of the mails had occurred before Dr. Lockhart received the letter in his regular mail.

PICTON

Part of Double House Badly Damaged by Fire

PICTON — Three fire departments battled to save a double house from destruction by fire Saturday night. Their efforts resulted in the exterior remaining standing and one part damaged only by smoke and water, but the other part was badly gutted.

The fire broke out before six o'clock in the section in which Mr. and Mrs. Donald Turcotte and family of four reside. Apparently starting from the chimney, it poured a plaster-cone up it spread in the partitions and beneath the metal roof, in the Turcotte portion, kindling in the other half of the frame dwelling was the owner, Wallace Goodmurphy and his housekeeper, Mrs. Crewe.

Contents of the upstairs rooms used by the Turcotte family were lost but contents of lower rooms and those in the Goodmurphy section were carried out.

The fire, which was featured by dense smoke, was fought in two sections by Bloomfield, Picton and Wallington brigades, Belleville fire chief Gerald Young visited the scene under the mutual aid plan, ready to lend additional assistance if required.

The VanLaven, Pooley and H. Walters homes on one side are separated from the Goodmurphy homes not by driveways, but the metal roof helped firemen confine the blaze.

In running to the home of a neighbor, Mrs. Turcotte dropped the purse containing $40 which had been sent to her to buy Christmas gifts for the children, one of which is a two months' old baby. Making a return trip, she discovered the purse intact.

Sunday saw many friends come to the aid of the Turcotte family. A house at Yarraville was made available by Mr. Hennessy, Lake Ontario Portland Cement Co., with which Mr. Turcotte is employed, provided a stove and had the house warm when broken captured at the household effects there. Mr. Goodmurphy is staying with a daughter, Mrs. W. Masteven in Picton.

High School Activities

H-Y — On Thursday, December 19, the Girls' H-Y of B.C.I.V.S. was challenged to a basketball game by the student nurses from the Belleville General Hospital. Although the nurses' team included many former B.C.I.V.S. basketball champions and players from other towns, the H-Y girls managed to hold them to a 16-11 score. All who took part enjoyed the game imminently and are hoping for a return match soon.

Library — The Library Club of the B.C.I.V.S. has made contributions to Care, Operation Santa Claus and the I.S.C.F. for the Plainfield Home for Mentally Retarded Infants. It will also be giving food, clothing and toys to a needy family of this city.

Robert Green of grade eleven of B.C.I.V.S. has been advised by the Royal Winter Fair that his potatoes won 13th prize. The potatoes were a 4-H Club project and the members with the best samples had their exhibit sent along by the Agricultural Representative.

Mr. John Clarke of the Kemptville Engineering staff will be at B.C.I.V.S. on Tuesday to meet boys interested in forming a 4-H Tractor Club for 1959. A new Cockshutt 540 tractor for use by the Agriculture and Motor Mechanics classes was brought to the school by representatives of Cockshutt Farm Equipment Co.

Students interested in Christmas carols will have an opportunity to sing Tuesday and Thursday at noon hour in the auditorium.

More Financial Support For University and Govt. Research in Sciences Needed

By JOHN E. BIRD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's scientific progress in the next decade will depend in large measure on what is done in 1959 by governments and industry to make more funds available for university and government research and higher education in the sciences.

Existing financial support in these two fields is insufficient to guarantee an expanding flow of top scientists from universities and to enable the universities to broaden their research programs.

University and government research is the backbone of Canada's industrial growth. If Canada's economy is to continue its rapid expansion, scientific research must be expanded at a faster rate than the economy itself.

NEED MORE SUPPORT

Dr. E. W. R. Steacie, president of the National Research Council, says: "If scientific research is to keep pace with the expected expansion of universities and of industry, continually and rapidly increasing financial support will be necessary from the federal government, the provincial governments and from private agencies."

NRC in the current fiscal year ending next March 31 has increased to $6,000,000 from $5,300,000 its financial support to universities for scientific research and to assist post - graduate science students. Some universities, including the University of Toronto and McGill University, Montreal, are planning to provide financial support for above-average students.

Universities, governments and some segments of industry also are working on cost-sharing arrangements for the purchase of expensive research equipment. Results of university research with such equipment, costing in the millions of dollars, is made available to the party should ering part of the cost.

Despite the problems of the future Canada is beginning to take her place among the world's scientific powers. One of the biggest international gatherings of scientists will be held in Montreal next Aug. 18-29.

6,000 TO ATTEND

It will be the ninth International Botanical Congress and will be attended by some 6,000 scientists from nearly all countries in the world, including Russia.

Progress in 1958 was notable for a continuing effort to develop a low-cost nuclear power plant. Work started on an experimental power station at Rolphton, Ont., 120 miles northwest of Ottawa, and a nine-man team of engineers from private industry completed the basic design of what will be the first full-scale atomic power plant in this country.

The Rolphton station is expected to be in operation by 1961. Information gained from its operation will guide scientists in the construction of the larger economical plant.

Canada's scientific progress during 1958 was highlighted by a continuing effort to develop a low-cost nuclear power plant. Picture shows excavation work underway for the first atomic power plant at Rolphton, Ont., 135 miles northwest of Ottawa. Ottawa River is seen in the background. (CP Photo).

Research at Chalk River Project Interrupted

Research at Canada's atomic project at Chalk River, Ont., was interrupted for 3½ months by an accident to the powerful research reactor known as NRU. The reactor was shut down May 24 when a uranium fuel rod that had been removed from the machine caught fire and spread radioactive dust through the NRU building.

RESEARCH HIGHLIGHT

One of the highlights of Chalk River research was installation of a $1,000,000 machine known as a Tandem Accelerator, or "atom smasher." It will be used by scientists to bombard the core of atoms with beams of particles having an energy of 10,000,000 volts in new studies on the composition of matter.

Other research achievements during the year:

Biologists at Chalk River started experiments with a drug which may help to protect man against deadly atomic radiation; NRC engineers launched work on an instrument which will enable surgeons to staple severed veins and arteries instead of sewing them by hand; New surveys placed Canada's known reserves of uranium at 334,100,000 tons, compared with 225,000,000 at the end of 1956.

DIVES THROUGH WINDOW

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — Eugene Snider, 37, took a running dive through a closed upstairs window of his home Saturday when he awoke to find the bedroom full of smoke. He suffered head cuts requiring 13 stitches, wrist lacerations and a wrenched shoulder. Harry Clemens, 47, escaped without injury. Cause of the fire was believed a cigaret.

Company Given $20,000 by Exchequer Court

OTTAWA (CP) — Mr. Justice J. T. Thorson, president of the Exchequer Court of Canada, has awarded the Mentor Explorations and Development Company Limited of Kingston, $20,000 on land lost through a land expropriation.

The company asked for $464,046 in compensation for loss of interest in a silica development on land at Joyceville, Ont., expropriated by the government as a site for a penitentiary.

The company based its claim on the assumption there would be a market for silica and that competition would be overcome in a 25-year period. The company held the land from May, 1953, to September, 1956, when it was expropriated.

Mr. Justice Thorson ruled that he could not estimate the silica deposit on the land at any more than $20,000.

How you can provide LIFE INSURANCE WITH SAVINGS FOR EACH MEMBER OF YOUR FAMILY through a "program of security" tailored specifically to your needs by a London Life representative

LIFE INSURANCE FOR THE FATHER
Adequate insurance on the life of the father is of first importance—to provide money for his wife and children to live on, if his life should be cut short. At the same time, with proper selection of plans, this "protective" insurance can provide savings. Provision can also be made for income in case of total disability.

LIFE INSURANCE FOR THE MOTHER
Whether or not she earns money to contribute to the upkeep of the home, she needs life insurance of her own, to give the children further protection, and to make possible additional savings for the future.

LIFE INSURANCE FOR THE CHILDREN
Insurance obtained at an early age brings the advantage of low premiums—and it can also mean an early start on long-term savings plans.

London Life men are trained to help you select the plans which will best meet the needs of the individual members of the family. Moreover, it is part of their job to keep your program adapted to changes in your situation . . . Today is a good day to talk to a London Life representative.

Experts Figure Some Bumpy Stretches Ahead for Canadian Economy, Consumers to Pay

OTTAWA (CP)—The recession showed its worst symptoms in 1958 but is expected to pick up a little more speed in 1959, but the experts figure some bumpy stretches still lie ahead.

Most of the Ottawa forecasters are betting there will be a spill over of the United States recovery in Canada and that this will pump a little more fuel into the Canadian economic works.

They anticipate Canadian consumers will spend more in 1959 than at any time in history. Imports are likely to rise a little with exporters at least holding their own in the fiercely competitive world markets.

One of the key indicators—the gross national product covering the value of all goods and services produced—is estimated to rise by about four per cent to set a peak of some $33,300,000,000 from about $32,000,000,000 in 1958.

Preliminary estimates indicate there was some rise in 1958 in personal income, about $300,000,000 over 1957. But this was almost entirely due to a rise in prices. Over-all production remained unchanged.

In 1959, there likely will be a further rise in prices, reflecting the corporate tax cuts of this session. The extent of this inflation will depend in some degree on whether the government decides to create more new money to cover the huge deficit and also how far labor goes in demanding more wages beyond the rise in industry's productivity.

But the experts also estimate that more new jobs will be available out more goods in 1959—there actually will be a rise in volume of production — thus providing more employment opportunities.

The outlook is not all milk and honey. The slowly - expanding economy is not expected to absorb all of the growing labor force, creating continuing pockets of unemployment. Immigration policy in 1959 is not likely to swell numbers to the huge levels with the number of new entries likely to run between 100,000 and 125,000.

Total population by the end of 1959 may rise to some 17,700,000 from 17,250,000 at the end of 1958. Thus there would be the assurance of more customers for Canada's goods but also more persons clamoring for jobs.

While consumers and governments are likely to spend more, businessmen are still wary about boosting capital investment programs. The experts figure commercial construction and purchases of industrial machinery may ease slightly in 1959, though governments may take up the capital investment slack with public projects.

However, businessmen may become less cautious by 1960 or 1961, creating a new industrial boom as they expand factories and build new ones and undertake other ventures to meet the demand for more goods and services.

Some evidence of this switch could occur in 1959. Some of the 1957-58 recession may be traced to the fact that many industries were living off their inventories, cutting down their stockpile of raw materials and finished goods rather than adding to them.

Now there is evidence that this drain-off in inventories in many line has been halted; that in some of the big U.S. industrial plants the move again is to add to the shelf of goods.

Thus the prospects of recovery and increasing demand for goods, and services. As higher profits, businessmen may be further encouraged to increase their plant and market needs and also to avoid the possibility of paying increased taxes on their profits at later periods.

Some broadening of stocks is considered by experts as one of the most potent and most encouraging prospects on the 1959 economic front. Another is that Canadians generally have been increasing their savings.

Consumer spending in 1959 is forecast to reach a record $22,000,000,000 compared with an anticipated $20,300,000,000 in 1958.

Prime Minister Arrives Home To See Mother

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker was returning to the capital today after a world tour cut short by his 86-year-old mother's illness.

His RCAF C-3 transport was to leave Saskatoon at 2 p.m. EST to fly into Ottawa at noon. He had started his planned 54-day world journey from here Oct. 27.

His return five days early was occasioned by his 86-year-old mother's request to see her sons —the prime minister was accompanied by his ex-cabinet brother Elmer on the tour — after she suffered a mild stroke last Wednesday.

On their arrival in Saskatoon Sunday they were immediately driven to her bedside where they found her much improved.

HIGH AMBITION

Mr. Diefenbaker, 60, appeared strained after his long journey and his mother's illness. But he was to drive right into his ministerial duties at a cabinet meeting called for this afternoon.

He had missed out on two days of relaxation in New Zealand and another two days in Honolulu that his itinerary had called for to allow him rest after seven weeks of sightseeing, ceremonies, dinners and talks.

The prime minister and his cabinet are faced with a glut of problems, the major one being the current rising unemployment. Diefenbaker's plans for the new session of Parliament expected to be called for mid-January.

INTERVIEWED ON TV

In Saskatoon Sunday, after his visit to the hospital with his mother, Mr. Diefenbaker was interviewed for three minutes on a CBC television network program in which a note of "confidence and solidarity" he had found among Commonwealth leaders during his 35,000-mile trip.

He spent much of the afternoon with Martin Pederson, newly - elected Saskatchewan Progressive Conservative leader.

In a brief statement at Saskatoon airport he said he is "naturally very pleased to be home."

The trip had been "generally beneficial," he said. It had allowed him to meet "all the members of the Commonwealth and confer with their leaders to learn their problems and their views on international matters.

'Human Touch' Key to Policy For Algeria

ALGIERS, Algeria (Reuters)—Gen. Charles de Gaulle's policy for this troubled North African territory is emerging clearly for the second time, that the French legislative elections are going to be fought on how best to prepare for the Algerian administration.

The key to the policy is the "human touch" enunciated by de Gaulle in a speech here a week ago Sunday.

This policy avoids the pitfalls of a choice between calls for "integration" with France, as do Algerian French and metropolitan right wing Algerian legislators, and other means of future status for the territory.

The program concerns itself with economics more than political objectives.

CIVILIANS IN CONTROL

The main points of the program are:

1. Returning administration in Algeria to civilians from military hands.

2. Making a quick start on the "Constantine plan" which de Gaulle announced in October.

It aims within five years at providing education for two-thirds of Algerian children—and education for all of them in eight years. —Increasing Moslem participation in the government service, industry and the Algerian industrialisation, providing 400,000 new jobs and better housing conditions for the Moslem population.

3. Fostering the "liberty, happiness and dignity" mentioned by de Gaulle here a week ago Sunday in a speech.

In Algiers, de Gaulle's program is generally supported, but without enthusiasm, by Europeans either from Europeans or Moslems.

Doubts are expressed about whether a social and industrial revolution can be brought about in five years, and there is some concern about who is to pay for it all.

REBELS KILL FOUR

CONSTANTINE, Algeria (CP) — The bodies of two Europeans and two Moslems — all with their throats cut—were found Sunday near Chateadun - du - Rhumel, 40 miles southwest of Constantine.

WOMAN SAW VICTIM

Mr. Diefenbaker, 60, appeared strained after his long journey and his mother's illness. But he was to drive right into his ministerial duties at a cabinet meeting called for this afternoon.

He had missed out on two days of relaxation in New Zealand and another two days in Honolulu that his itinerary had called for to allow him rest after seven weeks of sightseeing, ceremonies, dinners and talks.

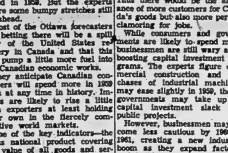
The prime minister and his cabinet are faced with a glut of problems, the major one being the current rising unemployment. Diefenbaker's plans for the new session of Parliament expected to be called for mid-January.

INTERVIEWED ON TV

In Saskatoon Sunday, after his visit to the hospital with his mother, Mr. Diefenbaker was interviewed for three minutes on a CBC television network program in which a note of "confidence and solidarity" he had found among Commonwealth leaders during his 35,000-mile trip.

He spent much of the afternoon with Martin Pederson, newly - elected Saskatchewan Progressive Conservative leader.

In a brief statement at Saskatoon airport he said he is "naturally very pleased to be home."



The trip had been "generally beneficial," he said. It had allowed him to meet "all the members of the Commonwealth and confer with their leaders to learn their problems and their views on international matters.

Civil Servants Forward Sharp Letter to PM

OTTAWA (CP) — Representatives of federal civil servants have sent a sharp letter to Prime Minister Diefenbaker and his cabinet ministers, asking for an early favorable decision on a proposed contributory group medical plan for government workers.

The letter, signed by H. A. Clarke, chairman of the staff side of the National Joint Council of the Public Service of Canada, said it represents the views of the 21 organizations of civil servants.

The letter said the council, which also includes representatives of the official side, unanimously recommended a plan to Finance Minister Fleming Oct. 21, 1957, and followed it up with further representations in the 14 months since then.

Lady's Memory Leads to Arrest Of Wanted Man

SYDNEY, N.S. (CP) — Jailbreaker Ronald Tousignant, No. 10 on the RCMP's list of 10 most-wanted men, battled police for eight minutes but fell victim to a woman's memory.

The 29-year-old native of Cornwall, Ont., wanted in St. Hyacinthe Que., on two charges of attempted murder and escaping custody, was arrested Saturday while gasoline shaving in a home where he led a model life.

News of the capture shocked folks here.

"It can't be true, if can't be true," sobbed an 18-year-old girl who was to have married Tousignant soon. "He's no criminal. He's kind and considerate and gentle."

WOMAN SAW FICTURE

Tousignant, who lived in Sydney under the name Ronald Martin, was arrested after an unidentified woman saw his picture in Weekend Magazine and phoned police. Constables Ken Ross and Joe Tuner entered with drawn guns. Tousignant conceded quickly.

Tousignant had been on the RCMP'S most-wanted list since he escaped early last May while awaiting trial for attempted murder. A guard was severely injured and a second charge of attempted murder was laid when a suspect escaped.

The original charge was laid after the mysterious disappearance of Tousignant's estranged wife, Jacqueline Lefebvre, 19, whose bare footprints in the snow outside her home led police to believe she had been abducted.

Tousignant told police he made his way to Halifax on a freight train after breaking jail in April. He later hitch-hiked to Sydney.

He refused to be interviewed by reporters.

Tousignant told police he had never had the feeling he would be apprehended and never walked because he feared to run. "there may be a cop at my shoulder".

The suspect was to leave today for St. Hyacinthe in custody.

Mayor-Elect Not Happy Over Annoucement

FORT WILLIAM (CP)—Mayor-elect Catherine Seppala says that the announcement that the Canadian Car Company plant here will close "would be a terrible catastrophe."

"I cannot think and cannot believe the high executives of the company exercised the effort they have to make in providing for the future of the workers," she said. "I know the workers at the plant.

Mayor Hubert Badanai, member of Parliament for Fort William who is completing his term as chief magistrate, said after hearing the announcement Friday that the passenger cars will be shifted to Montreal, he called company President S. G. Harwood for details.

"Mr. Harwood was very sympathetic but said that the final economic reasons the firm had to make were unavoidable," he said. "Great numbers of our people will be affected."

Lady's Fighting Ships Report Says Russia Now First-Class Naval Power, 500 Sub Force

LONDON (CP)—An upsurge in Soviet submarine activity in the Atlantic and off the coast of the American coast is reported by Jane's Fighting Ships.

The authoritative guide to the world's sea power says the reason is that the Russians feel need intensive training to catch up with United States naval power if it is to cut West Europe's lifelines to North America in event of war.

Jane's new edition is out today. It has been published annually for more than 60 years, listing all that is known of the world's navies. It gets assistance from most countries' naval departments—but not the Russian.

The 1958-59 edition says Russia now is a first-class naval power second only to the U.S.—with a submarine force of 500 "its most formidable offensive arm."

Jane's says there is evidence that Russia has shipbuilding and marine engineering resources are being concentrated on nuclear-powered vessels, which involves the conversion of existing plants.

"In recent months it has become clear that the over-all technological lead which the United States had enjoyed has been diminishing."

Soviet activities of the major naval powers "points to the certainty of offensive action being taken in any future hostilities."

"Naval administrators the world over are faced with the need of the orbit of conventional ships, conventional propulsion and conventional weapons.

"Naval architects and marine engineers have been increasingly aware of the revolution in naval strategy and tactics being and in global sea warfare that the advent of the nuclear-powered submarine has caused.

"With their increase in size, propulsive power and weapon power, submarines are coming to be regarded by the principal naval powers as the capital ships of the future."

—Battleships were rapidly becoming extinct, with aircraft following them into obsolescence—except in the U.S. and U.S.S.R.—there had been a great renaissance of specialized warships of the destroyer or frigate size.

Among nuclear powers there was "little reason to expect the aircraft carrier to disappear yet," but the carriers of the future probably would be limited to about half the size of the largest existing vessels.

Speaking of Britain's sea role, Jane's says aircraft carriers "will continue to be the core of the new streamlined Royal Navy."

Britain has ordered four guided-missile destroyers of about 5,500 tons displacement, but it will be "some years" before they will join the fleet.

There were two significant developments in Russian naval policy in the last year, says Jane's.

"The dead wood in the shape of battleships has been cut out, and the men and resources needed to maintain them have been diverted to the development of new weapons.

"Secondly, there is considerable increase in Russian naval activity on the high seas, approaching off the North American coast.

Jane's says that while Russia has no big aircraft carrier—as the United States has 200—the Soviet Union is due to launch one at the same rate as two years ago.

Instead, Russia is believed to be building over the manufacture of new types of submarine and new types of propulsion and more lethal weapons.

"There is evidence that Russian marine engineering and ship-building resources are being concentrated on nuclear - powered vessels."

Union Blacklist Headed by Breen Says Newspaper

TORONTO (CP) — The Globe and Mail says that if violence does not break out in the International Nickel Company strike at Sudbury, Ont., it will be because the rank and file opposition has been crushed by threats against minor officials and "even of rifles in the arena."

Sharing first place" with Breen says The Globe and Mail, is Peter Gzowski, managing editor of the Sudbury television station, CKS-TV, credited with "leading the opposition" by publishing their disgruntled views.

The story refers to a union meeting Sunday after which a statement was issued saying 2,000 workers had expressed solid support for the strike.

The story says a caller told Breen that if he sent Sunday's paper through "your life won't be worth a plugged nickel. Don't poke your nose outside the house."

Until last week, the story says, Breen had received only a $100 food voucher for his wife and three children. It says he was told Friday he need not fear the union hall "looking for any more handouts."

All the women at a meeting of mine strikers' wives called by Breen last night had been threatened almost continuously by phone, the story says.

At Sudbury, Mr. Orfankos said in an interview Sunday night he had not received any personal threats and he received any calls complaining telephone calls at his home.

"We've had some telephone calls at the station complaining about the publicity we gave to the women after Wednesday's meeting, but nothing of a personal nature."

After the meeting, he said, a group of women came to the station to make statements.

"They were unsolicited. We recorded them and broadcast them and we made no editorial comment."

Mr. Orfankos said if anybody had a violent intendment he knew him. "I certainly would have known about it beforehand. And I haven't received a single call."

UN Assembly Closes Without Much Progress

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) — The 1958 United Nations General Assembly opened amid two international crises and closed under the shadow of a new one. Three months of meetings failed to produce a Middle East settlement or even a major political issue.

The 82-member body of the UN took no direct action on any of the three crises — the Middle East, Lebanon and Jordan. Disagreements on other political issues aired in the assembly made it inevitable that no compromise efforts at bringing the big power East-West conflict ahead of success.

Instead, most delegations worked quietly to keep the agenda from becoming a stage for inflammatory debate.

Quemoy and the Middle East, which dominated the early wrangles during the late summer, were relegated to second and notably diminished as a direct peace threat. Most diplomats here feel that in the coming weeks something will happen to bring the Middle East and the ever-encircled former German capital.

The assembly worked until mid-night Saturday in its final business for the year, it recessed until the next regular opening Feb. 30 on the question of the independence of the UN's four trust territories of Somaliland, Italian Somaliland, British Cameroons and French Cameroons. The February session will discuss the admission to UN membership of these latter two.

During the 1958 assembly the former French African territory of Guinea became the 82nd UN member. But another French African territory — Algeria — caused a walkout by France's delegation late in Saturday night's final meeting.

The French refused to participate in debate on a motion led by the Asian-African group to have the UN recognize the Algerian people's right to independence and call on France to bring an end to the four-year war between French troops and armed nationalist elements.

The vote was close—just one short of the required two-thirds majority of members present and voting, but the defeat means the UN is not on record for over what France has compiled all along is her own internal affair and no concern of the world body.

Ted Williams Batting Title Now Official

CHICAGO (AP) — The fact that Boston's spectacular Ted Williams last season captured his sixth American League batting crown with a .328 mark now is certified by official league hitting statistics.

Thursday Ted's Red Sox teammate, Pete Runnels, was second with .322, while Minnesota's Pete Albert batting .279 or more times—the minimum for title consideration — also were .300 or better.

Mickey Mantle of the world champion New York Yankees led the junior circuit in homers with 42; in total bases with 387; and in runs scored with 127.

Last year's homer champion, Roy Sievers of Washington, this year batted 96 to finish third behind Mantle and one of the hitting surprises of the year, Cleveland's Rocky Colavito.

Besides slamming 41 homers, the 25-year-old Tribe outfielder batted .303 and had 113 runs batted in, second to the 122 by Boston's Jackie Jensen, the 1958 champion in that important department.

Chicago's Nellie Fox again led in total hits, 197, while other departmental leaders included—two-baggers, Harvey Kuenn, Detroit, 39; triples, Vic Power, Cleveland, 10; sacrifice hits, Billy Martin, Detroit, 13; sacrifice flies, Frank Bolling, Detroit; and Hec Lopez, Kansas City, nine each; stolen bases, Luis Aparicio, Chicago, 56.

The Yankees won the team batting honors for the second consecutive year with .282. The Yankees also clouted the most homers, 194, as league homer production increased 33 over 1957 with a 1,087 total.

International Hockey Rules Not Popular

TORONTO (CP)—At least two Canadian university hockey coaches already are fed up with the International rules under which their college loop operated this season.

The eastern intercollegiate season has only been under way three weeks but coach Jack Kennedy of the University of Toronto Varsity Blues and Roland Blesu of the University of Montreal Carabins don't like the new rules.

"These rules kill the game," said Kennedy after his squad had blanked the Carabins 3-0 Friday night. "I was never in favor of adopting them and I definitely hope the rules are dropped after this season."

PLACE FOR CONTACT

"I think there is a place for body checking in hockey and the International rules limit it severely."

Blesu said "with good officiating, Canadian rules are the best. The against rough play but the referee would apply the rules, hockey would be better under our own rules."

"Not one of my players is in favor of the changes. Boarding and charging can be eliminated while playing our own game."

The hockey committees of the three colleges — Toronto, Montreal, McGill University and Laval University — voted on the changes. McGill opposed the scheme at the time.

It looks as though Belleville will have a basketball team in a Central Ontario exhibition league composed of various clubs which are being formed in Trenton RCAF Station, Picton, and Napanee. Clubs in the league will be eligible to enter the Ontario Amateur Basketball Association play-downs in the spring of next year.

Tonight the team will hold its first practice and work-out at 9 p.m. in the YMCA gym, which has been donated for the first floor session. The team is looking for a home gym area for the season where they may hold games and practices in the evenings. It is understood that the team will have a sponsor if suitable gym space may be obtained.

The organization of the team has been in the hands of Dave Deacon and Jack Bernhardt. James Van Vliet of Albert College will be team coach. Any persons interested in the team are requested to show up tonight to the second session at 8.00 o'clock at the "Y". Gym clothes and running shoes should be brought.

Big Week In Boxing

By MURRAY ROSE

NEW YORK (AP) — Boxing starts a big week tonight with an interesting middleweight fight and appearances by heavyweight contender Zora Folley and lightheavyweight challenger Harold Johnson.

Cleveland Heavyweight Ralph (Tiger) Jones and Rory Calhoun the middleweight division's crowd pleasing scrapped, square off in a 10-rounder.

Jones, of Yonkers, N.Y., won a unanimous but controversial decision over Calhoun of White Plains, N.Y., Nov. 17 after Calhoun was penalized a round for low blows and that proved the difference.

Folley, from Chandler, Ariz., is the third-ranking heavyweight contender and meets Alvin Green of Tyler, Tex., in Odessa, Tex. Johnson, from Philadelphia, is the second-ranking light - heavyweight contender and fights Rudy Watkins of Baltimore in Philadelphia.

LIGHTWEIGHTS MEET

The Wednesday night fight pits Eddie Perkins, a fine lightweight prospect from Chicago, against Manjiro Watanabe, Baby Vasquez in Washington.

Friday, heavyweight contender Nino Valdes of Cuba and Eddie McMurtry of Tacoma, Wash., square off at Reno, Nev.

Valdes, ranked second by Ring Magazine, risks his title hopes against the talented, 25-year-old McMurtry. Pat is ranked 10th by Ring. A decision has took from George Chuvalo of Toronto by dashing him in New York little more than a month ago.

The 34-year-old Cuban has won five straight in his latest drive for a crack at Floyd Patterson's title. His record is 46-15-2, including 33 kayos. McMurtry, winner of 34 out of 38, has a 30-2-1 record, including 23 knockouts.

Field Goal Was 'Wonderful' Says Summerall

NEW YORK (AP) — "I didn't think I'd get another chance." A half-sobbing Pat Summerall of New York Giants said Sunday in the midst of bedlam minutes after his 49-yard field goal beat Cleveland Browns 13-10.

"When I missed the shorter one, I thought I'd never get another chance. It's wonderful, wonderful, wonderful . . . I can't say!"

Only two minutes before his booming kick downed the Browns and set up a playoff here next Sunday for the National Football League's eastern title, Summerall had gone wide to the left on a field goal attempt from the 33.

"I haven't been very consistent this season," said the pink-cheeked seven-year pro veteran obtained by the Giants in a trade from Chicago Cardinals after last season. "When I blew it, I'd have liked to have put me any where but back to that bench.

"You know, though, the five of the guys—one was Cliff Livingston I think—told me to forget it, that they'd get me the chance. When we did get the ball again and they sent me in. I don't remember thinking much except that I was near midfield and would have to hit it good.

"I did", he said, tears in his eyes as he talked to a growing crowd of reporters, teammates and well-wishers. "I hit it good. Yes sir, I watched it all the way too. I think it would have been good if I had been another 10 yards away."

Cecil B. DeMille Can Still Set Pace to Tire Younger Men

By BOB THOMAS

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — At 77, Cecil B. DeMille can still set a pace that makes younger men tire.

I watched him at close range in New Orleans, where he is helping to exploit The Buccaneer, a movie he supervised but did not direct. His day included radio interviews before breakfast, a luncheon speech, a parade, premiere and reception afterward. He goes on to Atlanta for more of the same than a strenuous week in New York.

Through it all, his mind remained razor-sharp, as I found out while talking with him of plans for the future.

No. 1 project is On My Honor, the story of Lord Baden-Powell and the boy scouts. This seemed to some an unlikely subject for DeMille, whose name connotes the spectacular epic.

"TREMENDOUS SCOPE"

"But it isn't just a story of 50,000 boys tying knots or rubbing sticks together to make fire," the pioneer said. "This is a story of tremendous scope. I will film it all over the world."

He expects to film the picture in 1960. Then he plans to spend four years in preparing what he calls Project X. He resisted hints that it would be another Biblical epic—you can hint all you want but nobody will ever guess; it's that much different from anything I've done before.

These plans could take him to the age of 85, "and then they'll have to come and wheel me away." He shows no signs of flagging yet. He still approaches film-making — and film-selling — with burning enthusiasm.

DeMille films seldom draw the plaudits of the highbrow critics, but they are researched and filmed with tender care. And they are sold with relentless drive.

AT THE BELLE — Margia Dean is co-starred with Brian Keith, Cesar Romero and Rodolfo Hoyos, in the Twentieth Century-Fox film, "Final Option", which opens a two-day engagement at the Famous Players Theatre's concert, opening today at the Belle Theatre. Forrest Tucker and Eva Bartok are co-starred in "Break in the Circle", the companion feature attraction.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

The Grey Cup is over—and Mike Kaduke is back on the hockey wagon. He has dug out his imposing array of crystal balls, library of statistics, book of memories, and is all set to fling the hatchet.

Figures impress Don Miguel like a well-stacked chorine does a tired business man. He almost swears by 'em.

His first salute to the puck wars since herring the Grey Cup corpses was to heartily endorse the statistics at hand and leap to the solemn conclusion that "the wrong team has been selected to represent Canada in the world tournament at Prague, Czechoslovakia."

Michael figures this is the case since the Whitby Dunlops are a few points in front of our side in the current Eastern League standing. He points most emphatically to the fact the Dunnies have beaten our side five times, lost to them once and tied one game.

Lemme see, Ole Archie, the patriarch of the prize ring was decked three times in the first round by younger and reputedly stronger Yon Durelle, once again in the fifth, then came off the floor to win a dramatic victory by a knockout after wearing his younger opponent down.

We just mention that in passing, Michael.

But in case the blare of his dramatic statement Mr. Kaduke placed his Bellerive Oval readers with, "A hidden lining in the clouds of doubt show that the Bellies have exhibited steady improvement, and with the reinforcements added, they could become outstanding favorites to lower the boom on all opponents in that Prague setting".

Michael probably wrote that with a touch of reluctance, for looking over the figures it seems the Bellies won 11 of their last 13 outings and in their last trio of trips to the Dunlop ice ponds, have scored 34 goals, an average of eight a game. No other club in the league can equal that record.

Perhaps Don Miguel did not know that while he was hobnobbing with Reegh Riddell, Argonauts, Alouettes, Tiger Cats, and closer still, the intercollegiate pigskin parade, the McFarlands were in the throes of early season doldrums and looked no more like Allan Cup playoff material than Cleveland Cobblers in the old Barnyard league. Their record during this time was not an imposing one and at one time they were hit in the wallets in a management wake-'em-up strategy.

It was during this period of more or less lethargic activity that the Dunlops, boasting another powerful senior "A" squad, albeit without some of their world tournament stars, set the Macks back on their haunches with a rude jolt.

On one occasion, however, the Macs dug deeply into their souls' potential and came up with the most of it, decisively defeated the Dunlops 5-3 in a battle that went down in the archives as one of the best senior tilts seen here in a month of moons. On another occasion the teams met the Macs mastered four penalties, and the opportunist Dunnies always dangerous with manpower advantage, flipped home three of their four goals on the Mac sinbirds' heads with gleeful and effective figurative prizes bare.

The Wren Blair, this department believes the McFarlands are one of the best senior clubs in Ontario, and you can add Canada to that. Of late they have shown exceedingly fine team play with all hands shooting a yen for hitting the net. Eleven goals in one game, eight in another and five in a third surely is evidence of that.

While this department does not believe in the "dope", the records show that the clubs which have been decisively beaten by the McFarlands, except the Hull-Ottawa Canadiens, have been holding the potent Dunlops to a margin of one or two goals.

The Macs are just as good a club as the Dunlops, and if they continue to remain "up", the next meeting between the clubs should score as less prove the statement.

Gordie Howe Scores Number 400 Against Canadiens

Big Goal Earns Two-All Tie But Habs Reply Is 6-1 Win; Richards Toss Fists, Sticks

By GEORGE FRAJKOR
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Nothing was more normal this past weekend than the National Hockey League.

Detroit Red Wings threatened to get into first place, and didn't. Toronto Maple Leafs threatened to get out of last place, and didn't. New York Rangers, who started the season with a string of ties, got two more.

Montreal Richard boys got into some fights. Gordie Howe scored a goal. Bernie Geoffrion scored three goals. This changed the statistics some, but the team positions not a bit.

Detroit started the weekend needing only one win over Montreal Canadiens to tie them for first place. They finished it needing four.

OVATION GIVEN HOWE

For Detroit fans, a 2-2 tie at Montreal Saturday was brightened by Gordie Howe's success in performing a difficult feat—scoring his 400th goal in regular season play and getting a tremendous ovation for it from Montreal fans, who are not noted for loving anyone on the Red Wings team.

He is now only 120 goals off the record pace being set by Montreal's elder Richard, Maurice the Rocket.

Jack McIntyre got Detroit's other goal. Dickie Provost and Marcel Bonin scoring for Montreal.

Sunday, Geoffrion got his second three-goal hat trick on Red Wings' ice, but Boston teams with Detroit 6-1—their fifth win over the Red Wings against two ties and no losses this season.

Backing up Geoffrion were his brother Bernard, the McDonald who scored twice, and Dickie Moore. Marcel Pronovost got Detroit's lone goal.

ROCKET CUTS ULLMAN

The fiery Rocket earned a five-minute major and a two-minute minor penalty for wrestling with Detroit's Norm Ullman and for brawling him three times with a stick—but cutting him.

Kid brother Henri (Pocket Rocket) later got into fights with Charlie Burns and Howe.

Boston Bruins held third place with two wins during the weekend, 4-2 over Chicago and 6-3 over Toronto Maple Leafs.

Centre Don McKenney gave the Boston home-towners a thrill by scoring the first hat trick of his NHL career during the Sunday win.

Defending Macbell. Jerry Toppazzini and Jean Guy Gendron got the other two Toronto went down to its first defeat in seven games. They had won three and tied three before Boston halted them.

Ron Stewart, Dave Creighton and Billy Harris did the Toronto scoring. Harris got his first NHL goal, and with three goals and one assist. His other two goals came in Saturday's tie with New York Rangers.

George Armstrong and Dick Duff were the other Toronto scorers in that game while Andy Bathgate, George (Red) Sullivan, Dean Prentice and Andy Hebenton got New York's goals.

SULLIVAN BUSY

Sullivan had two assists Saturday and came up with another goal and an assist Sunday as New York tied Chicago 2-2. Bathgate and Camilli (The Eel) Henry got the other New York goals with little Ron Murphy, an ex-Ranger, scoring two goals and setting up Pierre Pilote's second - period marker.

Chicago's weekend began with

Flyers Whip Teepees 4-2; Petes Beaten

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The league-leaders took lesson from the lesser fry in weekend OHA Junior A action.

Fifth - place Barrie Flyers started the upsets Saturday as they humbled the league-leading St. Catharines TeePees 4-2 and sixth - place Toronto Marlboros followed up Sunday with a 4-2 win over second-place Peterborough Petes.

TeePees won back some prestige by the other half of Sunday's Toronto double-header with a 3-2 edge over third-place St. Michael's. Meanwhile St. Catharines now has 39 points, Petes follow them with 37.

Barrie Flyers are the first team to beat TeePees twice this season. St. Catharines squad has lost only four games in 18 starts.

FLYERS OPENED

Flyers opened up a 1-0 lead in the first on a goal by Nelson Laclair and Barry Ashbee added a second early in the middle session. Chico Maki scored the first of a pair for TeePees in the same period but Flyers had a 3-1 edge going into the third. Each team scored a single in that session.

Mickie's goals brought his total to 20 this season. Marcel Tessier and Danny Patrick scored the other Barrie goals.

Marlboros and Peterborough Petes fought a close duel in the first of the Toronto games as Marlies retaliated by firing one goal in the third.

Jim Brassard got a pair for Marlboros, including the insurance goal, while Bob Murchie and Sonny Osborne scored singles for the hosts.

CONNELLY SETS PACE

Wayne Connelly, the league's individual-point leader, and Bill Mahoney scored for Petes, who outshot the winners 31-25 in a hard - fought game. Marlboros picked up seven of 11 penalties handed out for 2:564 play.

A St. Michael's win would have put the Majors in front of the Peterborough Petes into second place in league standings. Runner-up TeePees have a game in check and outshot them 22-20, but Majors scored a grabbed a first period lead on Doug Wright's goal and although Dave Keon evened it for Majors at 4:46 in the second Stan Mikita's goal with 14 minutes later. There was no scoring in the final period.

McGILL DOWNED

POTSDAM, N.Y. (AP) — Bob Shepard racked up 24 points Saturday to lead Clarkson College to a 92-58 basketball victory over McGill University.

a 4-2 defeat in Boston Saturday. The Bruins scorers were East (Dutch) Reibel, Vic Stasiuk, Larry Regan and Lorne Ferguson—who plays for Chicago but accidentally smacked the puck into his own net. For the record, the goal was credited to Boston's Jerry Toppazzini. M e l l o who last touched the puck.

Murphy and Ted Sloan fired the Black Hawk goals.

Carlings Present Cheque at Booster Party

The McFarlands can dipsydoodle on the dance floor with as much ease as they do on ice surface.

Instead of handing out bodychecks they "swung when they met" in square dances at the social get-together held in the Elks Hall following the game Friday night.

Practically all the Macs and their ladies were there. So was a large number of members of the Mac Booster Club who sponsored the "do." There was an orchestra, a master-of-ceremonies and Senator Cleghorne Harry Sellers.

There was round-dancing and square dancing and dancing that could be called by any other name.

President of the Booster Club Armand Duffy was on hand to supervise matters, and a hardworking bevy of his executive and other members toiled hard long to make the affair the success it was.

There was a delicious lunch served climaxing a highly entertaining evening.

A feature was the presentation of a substantial cheque to Bill Overend from the Carlings for the McFarlands.

All Carling representative on the Carlings Breweries presented His Worship Mayor Gerald Hyde with a cheque for $100, the gift of the Carlings Brewery.

Mayor Hyde expressed his appreciation of the fine gesture on the part of the Carlings people, who present a handsome silver tankard to the McFarland player judged the best on the ice over the period of a game.

Friday night between the second and third periods of the Hull-McFarlands game, Mayor Hardy presented Barton Bradley with his tankard for being judged the best defensive player over the week previous.

Fake Plays Gave Giants League Life

NEW YORK (AP)—A fake punt and a fake field goal kept the New York Giants alive in the Eastern conference race in the last two weeks of the regular National Football League season.

At Detroit, Dec. 7, the Giants trailed 17-13 in the fourth period when the Lions' Yale Lary punted 59 yards for a first down—faked a punt and ran under orders from coach Jim Lee Wilson. the Giants knocked him out of bounds after a one-yard gain, drove over and promptly struck for the touchdown that won the game 19-17.

Sunday, at Yankee Stadium, Cleveland's Lou Groza got set for a field goal but was given 20 when the Browns led 10-3 in the third period. That, too, was a fourth down, with five to go, and again it was a fake, under orders from coach Paul Brown. The Giants threw Bobby Freeman for a eight-yard loss and went on to score 24 points in the fourth period to win 31-10.

Sudbury again had a crack at overtime Sunday but couldn't turn the trick. Neither could the Bulldogs, who ended their weekend session with Bob Brown's tally late in the third period.

Lorges picked up three goals for the Wolves and Ed Forhan a single. Wally Pawlyshyn

Hull-Ottawa Whips Dunnies Kingston Loses to Leaders

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Hull-Ottawa Canadiens took a firmer hold on third place in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A eastern group during the weekend and did it the hard way —by turning back the world's amateur champion Whitby Dunlops.

Third place in the other Senior A circuit, the OHA-NOHA group, was less secure. Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds needed their 9-1 win over the lowly North Bay Trappers Saturday to remain in third while Sudbury Wolves closed to within a point of the Hounds with a win and a tie.

A three-goal outburst in the third period enabled Hull-Ottawa's 2-2 win on home ice Sunday. The Dunnies, however, stretched their lead over second-place Belleville McFarlands with a 4-2 victory over the Merchants at Kingston Saturday while the Frontenacs were trimming Stratford Cornwall Chevies.

The Wolves got their win Saturday at Kitchener, in overtime, Marvel played to a 4-4 tie against the Bulldogs at Windsor Sunday.

THREE FOR OFFIDANI

Johnny Offidani contributed to the slaughter at the Soo with three goals while linemates Jim McBurney and Jim Farrell fired a pair each. Jerry Odrowski and Garry Vess got the others while Kitchener Greenshirts used the third period with North Bay's only goal.

A last-minute letdown cost the game for the Dutchies, who remained over the .500 mark. They blew a 4-3 lead in the last two minutes when Joe Jerfetz sent the game into overtime. Zorzi also clinched it after Jim Logan scored overtime.

Gord Heale also scored twice for Sudbury and Hank Harrak rounded it out. Center Ken Laufman did his best for Kitchener-Waterloo with three, Paul Wylie scoring the fourth goal.

Joe Klukay and Murray Costello fired the other Windsor goals.

The Habs led from the start at Ottawa Sunday as Bob Boucher and John Annable each scored twice. Bob Rousseau got the other as Bob Alcombrack and Pete Babando scored for Whitby.

The victory at Kingston Saturday was the Dunnies' fifth. It took the goaltending of John Henderson and the protective cover of defenceman Harry Sinden and centre Arterlay to keep the last place Merchants at bay.

Attersley, George Samolenko, Ron Ingram and Joe Kane accounted for Whitby's scoring. Billy Colvin and Tony Chiarelli got Kingston's.

Cornwall blew a 2-0 first-period lead at home Sunday. Ronnie Muir and Gerry Servius had the Chevies ahead by 2-1 11 Wiener Brown and Pete Payette tied it up. Thereafter Neil Burke tallied for Cornwall and Bob Harwood counted for Belleville. The third period went scoreless.

LeBaron Won Passing Crown

WASHINGTON (CP)— Eddie LeBaron, giant-sized quarterback with Washington Redskins, won the National Football League's passing crown this season with one of the smallest yardage totals ever. Exceptions to the rule there will be yelps of protest.

LeBaron, who played in 1954 with Calgary Stampeders of the Western Interprovincial Football Union, ended the season with an unofficial average of 9.41 yards on 76 completions in 147 pass attempts.

"I'll bet you hear some more hollering to change the system," Eddie said after the Redskins beat Philadelphia Eagles 20-0.

LeBaron is satisfied with the system of ranking passers by average gain per attempt rather than total yardage. He picked up only 1,565 yards passing in 12 games this year, a figure likely to be surpassed by most of the other 13 quarterbacks in the league.

Giants' 49-Yard Field Goal Snatches Win From Browns

NEW YORK (AP)—New York Giants, weathering a snowstorm, came from behind on a 49-yard field goal by Pat Summerall to defeat Cleveland 13-10 Sunday and forced a playoff with the Browns to decide the National Football League's eastern conference title.

The Giants' victory was the second over Cleveland this season and tied them with the Browns at nine wins and three losses each.

The winner of the playoff game will face the Baltimore Colts, western conference victors, for the league championship Dec. 28 at the site of the eastern division titlist.

The NFL wound up its 39th regular season with Chicago Bears beating Detroit Lions 31-16, Los Angeles Rams bursting Cleveland Browns 24-20, Francisco 49ers whipping Baltimore Colts 21-13 and Washington Redskins blanking Philadelphia Eagles 20-0. Pittsburgh players downed Chicago Cardinals in their finale Saturday.

This increased his season's output to 1,527 yards, a league record. The touchdown was Brown's 18th for the season, tying him with Steve van Buren of the Eagles, who set the mark 17 years ago.

The Bears also rallied in the last period to overhaul Detroit before a crowd of 38,546 in snowswept, frozen Wrigley Field. Trailing 16-7, Chicago scored on a 30-yard touchdown pass from Zeke Bratkowski to Ralph Anderson. Then with 2.21 left Willie Galimore scampered 26 yards for the winning touchdown.

Macs Roar Back To Earn 3-3 Tie Against Cornwall

Paul Payette Sparks Drive That Tied Score in Second; Scores One, Sets Up the Other

CORNWALL (Special) — Sparked by the brilliant play of Paul Payette, the Belleville McFarlands raced from behind a two-goal first-period deficit to earn a rousing 3-3 tie with the Cornwall Chevlies here on Sunday.

The Seaway City team got away to a first-period two-goal lead but the Allan Cuppers roared back wit ha brace to knot the count. The Chevlies took the lead but the Macs evened matters again before period end. There was no scoring in the third.

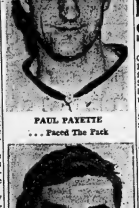
Payette engineered both McFarland goals early in the second period. On the first goal a brilliant move by the centre put Brown in the clear and the "Wiener" made no mistake. Six minutes later Payette used Brown as a decoy to hit the rigging with a high shot from twenty feet out.

The game was a hard-hitting affair with both teams testing the "meat" around. Each club picked up four minor penalties one of them costly to the McFarlands.

Brown, Payette and Minnie Menard were the McFarland marksmen with Ron Muir, Neil Burke and Gerry Servizs scoring for the homesters. Lionel Botley had two assists for the Macs with Payette, Dewsbury, Bradley and Smrke drawing singles.

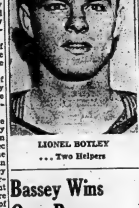
Moe Benoit was sitting out the first penalty of the game when Muir scored the opening goal from the edge of the crease on a power play with Goyette and McKay being the Midway through the period Gerry Servizs took Griggs pass to put the Chevies two up.

Within less than two minutes of the second period Payette set up Brown with Botley helping and six minutes later the centre scored on a drive with Dewsbury and Botley.



At nine minutes Neal Burke shot the Chevies ahead when his attempted passout hit Flori Geogan's stick and bounced into the net behind Bell.

Both clubs battled desperately in the cleanly-played period until Lou Smrke sizzling sharply across the front of the Cornwall net set up Menard beautifully and Minnie's hard drive hit payduri tie to the score.



The teams had a number of good chances to score in the goalless third fram but were unable to break the tie.

Only the equal brilliance of Gordie Bell and Gerry Devaney in the opposing net kept the score to what it was. Each pulled off several brilliant saves.

The McFarlands left after the game for Quebec where they play a three-game exhibition series with teams of the Quebec League. Tonight they meet the Quebec Aces in Shawinigan Falls and now night they play the same team in Sherbrooke and Wednesday night they visit Chicoutimi where they meet the Saguenenns of that city.

Bassey Wins Over Parra

HOLLYWOOD (AP) —World featherweight champion Hogan (Kid) Bassey of Nigeria survived a knockdown in the fifth round and went on to win a 10-round decision over Ernesto Parra of Mexico in a non-title fight at Hollywood Stadium Saturday night.

Bassey weighed 126 1-2 and Parra 122.

The 23-year-old Farra, a 6-to-1 underdog, brought the crowd of 4,000 to its feet when he floored the champion with a hard right under the chin. Bassey took a four count and obviously was hurt for the next minute but rallied and closed strongly at the bell.

The decision was unanimous.

Frisco Beats Colts 21-12

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A melee that started in a fight for the goal posts brought a police riot call from Kezar Stadium Sunday after San Francisco 49ers beat Baltimore Colts 21-12 in their National Football League game.

A crowd ran to the goal posts and attempted to pull them down. Police on foot and in a patrol wagon attempted to restore order.

A window in the patrol wagon was broken, two policemen were cut by flying fragments of glass and another slugged in the face. Police sent out a riot call that brought 18 radio cars, 20 motorcycle officers, 18 inspectors and six additional patrol wagons to the scene.

The melee was over about 10 minutes after the call went out and only one man was arrested for throwing an orange.

Many of the 58,324 fans booed before the melee when former halfback Joe Arenas was not introduced with other former 49er players. Arenas has been writing newspaper articles which at some times were critical of the team. He was informed last week he no longer was welcome in the team's dressing room.

San Francisco coach Frankie Albert said Friday he was quitting football because he and his family had their fill of boos from fans.

Industrial Hockey League Results

Hillcrest Wreckers and Sports Centre, the two leg clubs in the Industrial Hockey League, pulled farther away from the pack in a pair of weekend games.

Hillcrest chalked up a 7-3 victory over Circle TV while Sports Centre shaded Bell Telephone 5-3.

Butterfield and Junior Day each potted a pair of goals to spark the Wreckers victory march. Singles were scored by Jack Calnan, Ron Atkins and Dave Kelly. Cary Gow hit the hemp twice for Circle TV with Don Bishop getting the other goal.

Leo St. Denis led Sports Centre to their win by scoring half of his team's six goals. Bill Storms potted a pair while Bert Faulkner had one. Ronnie Archer picked up two goals for Bell with the others divided among Bud Payette, Frank Cris and Bob Wannamaker.

The league standing now shows Sports Centre in first place with 11 points followed by Hillcrest with 10, Circle TV with three and Bell Telephone with two.

Bayer Wins Sanford Golf

SANFORD, Fla. (AP) — George Bayer of Glen Ezgles, Ill., shot a 66 to win the $2,000 first prize Sunday in the $15,000 Sanford open golf tournament by one stroke. His four-round total was 272, 12 under par.

Bayer's three-under-par performance was his fourth straight sub-par round.

At Baldwin of Toronto carded a fourth round 70 for a 71-73-69-70—283 total. He won $145.

Bayer started the day with a two-stroke lead over second place Wes Ellis of Aldenwood, N.J. But it was veteran Chick Harbert who, playing in the same threesome as Bayer, came in with a sparkling 66 to take second place with 278.

Ellis carded a par 71 to drop into a tie for third with other tenders came in with sizzling 70s. Dow Finsterwald had a 67 for 274 for third place.

Minor Hockey

Five games were played in the bantam section of the Belleville Minor Hockey Association Saturday morning.

The Maple Leafs edged Bruins 3-2 in one close battle with Jack Jury pacing the victory with a brace of goals. Dean Williamson had the other while Colin Dyblt had an assist. Dwight Rashwell scored both Bruin markers. Jerry St. Dennis and Brian McBride earned assists.

Black Hawks took a 3-1 victory over the Barons. Hawk marksmen were Billy Hunter, Manley Ely and Keith Thompson. Neil Myles had two assists with one each for Dick Storey and Jim McQuire. Walter Clare scored for the Barons with Wayne McGarvey and Jim Hurst getting helpers.

Canadiens scored a 7-2 victory over the Macs with Carl Boomhower scoring three goals. Dennis Hay potted two with Donald Tom and Dave Hannah getting one apiece. Russ Post drew three assists with one each for Dave Hannah, J. Rutherford, Bob Palmer and Gean York. Bob Ridley scored both Macs goals unassisted.

Bobby Boyle sparked the Browns to a 6-3 win over the Red Wings. Boyle scored two goals and assisted on two others while Bobby Ethier had one goal and two assists. Brian Cobney with a goal and assist and Jim Woodcock and Bill Moffat with single goals completed the Brown scoring. Art Lucas had a goal and assist for the Red Wings. Bob Reddick and Jim Ross also scored with Jim White getting an assist.

Rangers downed the Quints crew 5-1 with Dick Pringle, Jack Thompson, Dan Lucas, Gord Pinder and Tony Potts each scoring one goal. Bill Leslie and Gene Robson each had two assists with Bill Phillips and Bob Campbell getting one. Steve Hansen was the lone Quints marksman.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

By WINIFRED WILSON

GENEALOGY

People who are proud of their ancestors sometimes like to make a family tree, showing all their relatives. For two reasons, this cannot be done with birds. Although a great many have the habit of returning to the same locality year after year, natural-ly all descendants cannot use the same spot. For nesting sites and food supplies there must be a spreading out. Each must settle off a piece of territory for himself, and it is possible for us to follow the movements of only a few. Also, there are so many casualties in Birdland, especially in migration, that we lose contact with most of them. However, although a family tree is impossible, at least a family "bush" can be made.

Of course the ideal way to prove that one generation after another is returning to a bird box or feeding station is to have a banding permit and watch o u t for the little leg bands that you yourself have attached. For this purpose the colored bands a r e ideal. Nevertheless, another way is a feeding tray discovers t h a t birds with individual characteristics return to the same locality, and sometimes their descendants may be found in the same manner.

Summer after summer we have noticed in m a n y white-throated sparrows came to be fed, but it was not until 1947 that we began to be suspicious that these might be of one lineage. The very beautiful, unusually large m a l e sang so frequently that we wrote down his special song and named him Lado.

BAD SAME HABITS

Undoubtedly, the female in '48 and in '49 was the same individual, showing certain little habits when on the feeding tray and by '50 she was tame enough to fly alongside us as we walked in the garden. Each summer t h i s pair brought us two, lots of babies. In '54 a son drew our interest by his amusing antics and h i s method of acting as porter from a bark plate which h a d

While some students prepare to leave United College in Winnipeg, this group registers its support for Principal Dr. Wilfred C. Lockhart. Events at the college have become a national issue with the condemnation by the Canadian Association of University Teachers of the board of regents' action in dismissing Professor Crowe. A personal letter by Professor Crowe sent to Professor W. A. Packer was intercepted by some unknown person, and sent to Dr. Lockhart, who made copies of it and gave them to the board of regents. Dr. Crowe was then dismissed from the college but following protests from many individuals and groups he was offered reinstatement under terms which he refused. Now several United Church clergy have entered the controversy, some critical of the board, some in support of it. The school itself is split on the issue, 18 faculty members having resigned. The case will be discussed in Toronto by a sub-executive of the General Council, highest court of the United Church.

Peiping Silent On Rumors Mao Will Quit Post

PEIPING (Reuters) — A Chinese foreign ministry official declined comment today on reports circulating here that Mao Tse-tung is giving up his post as chairman of the Chinese republic.

Asked whether he could confirm or deny the reports, the official told Reuters news agency "we know nothing about it up till now," and declined to elaborate.

Reports that Mao had resigned or wished to resign spread among foreign diplomats during the weekend.

They said Mao would retain his post as chairman of Chinese Communist party.

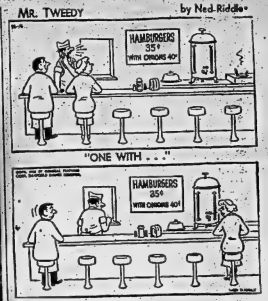
DIVIDED POWER

The functions and power of the head of state in China are not vested in one single person but are exercised jointly by the chairman of the republic and 66 members of the standing committee of the National People's Congress.

Observers here recalled that rumors of Mao's impending retirement had recurred over the years. But the spate of reports at the weekend seemed to indicate that there might be something in it this time.

Mao, 65, was elected chairman in September, 1954. According to the constitution the term of office is four years and the question of electing a chairman for the next four years would normally come up at a session of the National People's Congress due to be held next month.

Most foreign diplomats and observers agreed that, as Communist party chairman, Mao still would remain in rank and prestige the most powerful figure in China.



Only a few interpreted the reported development as a form of demotion, which they attributed to snags encountered in setting up people's communes throughout the country and to the outcome of the offshore islands policy.

NINE KILLED

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—Seven village guards and two women were reported killed in an exchange of fire Wednesday night with 100 Darul Islam rebels at Gresik village in Tasikmalaja, West Java. Oswego Snows Already Equal Last Winter's OSWEGO, N.Y., (AP) — This northern New York community measured a full winter's snowfall today, seven days before the official beginning of the season.

A U.S. weather bureau observer said 88 inches of snow had fallen here this month. The snowfall for all of last winter was 88 inches.

Squalls off Lake Ontario added four inches Saturday night to help produce the new total.

Snow, ranging from flurries to squalls, was on tap today for much of New York state, including Oswego.

Temperatures remained generally low, but nowhere near the readings of 20 and 30 below of last week.

A coastal storm left a little more than an inch of snow on the New York City area before it petered out into flurries.

Oswego police reported Sunday night that most streets were opened and downtown stores were jammed during the weekend with Christmas shoppers trying to make up for lost time after last week's storms.

Schools were to reopen today. Most factories are working at normal capacity.

H-S Assoc. Holds Meeting

FRANKFORD — The December meeting of the Frankford Home and School Association was held on the evening of December 3rd in the school. There was a good turnout of 60 members and other interested parties.

The room was gaily decorated in the Christmas motif and carols greeted the incoming members.

Mrs. J. Beach and Mrs. Osterhout read poems entitled, "A Little Bit of Christmas," and "The Buying of Gifts."

Mr. Ernie Wallace, (local grocer), despite a case of laryngitis, led the group in a rousing singsong. His daughter, Sue Anne, accompanied him.

Later, Sue Anne presented a medley of Christmas favorites which she arranged.

An interesting film, which told the origin of the famous hymn, "Silent Night," was shown by Mr. D. Berry.

Dainty refreshments were served by the room 8 mothers. Jolly Old Saint Nick who was portrayed by principal G. McLay, was on hand to assist the mothers in serving.

The blue and gold banner was won by Mrs. K. Hopkin's room by the fine turnout of grade one parents. To date, there are 96 members. The January meeting is planned for the January 7th and it is hoped that a discussion of "Health and First Aid" will be enjoyed.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) Wearisome duties appear to keep you from starting some new venture of importance, beginning an uprising in your affairs. Be not discouraged, but get work out of the way. P.M. is the right time to give full attention to plans.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) A.M. refuse to be drawn into some venture that will take from your resources through forcefulness of a high-pressure salesman. Also, don't spend too much for Christmas gifts. P.M. look into what you truly want and go after it.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) A.M. will be unhappy if you permit yourself to get into the arena coming between sanctity and a higher up. Keep your nose to the grindstone. P.M. is then excellent time to make plans for Christmas, go over your lists, fix wardrobe, etc.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — It is necessary in A.M. to attend to all important tasks, though you are tempted to follow the will-o'-the-wisp. Late afternoon and P.M. then ideal for getting about hither and yon with good comrades, having an enjoyable time.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Be wear a smile though the emotional weather may be rainy. Family associates and friends are concerned, and especially with financier. Show you can take it. Then later be out and about making the most of your remarkable abilities and gifts.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23) — Better try to keep your outside buddies away from family ties, for they will not agree at all today. P.M. is after data you require so that you can start an interval in your problematical affairs. Be smart.

Libra (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23) — A day for caution, whether on the road, in transit anywhere, or even with the words you utter, or there could be danger and irritation. P.M. is then earlier and a bunch of errands to be followed that will bring good luck and joy.

Scorpio (Oct. 24 to Nov. 23) — During A.M. see to it that your social life and your income do not bleed very well. Keep working away diligently, then in P.M. sit down at some quiet place with atmosphere with partner and discuss how to improve existing conditions.

Sagittarius (Nov. 24 to Dec. 21) — The situation at home is hardly ideal in A.M., but keep our silence and in late afternoon there will be a most beneficial influence present and all will be rights quickly. Then plan your days ahead wisely.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Secret anxiety quite likely to make you neglect the tasks that are important in A.M. especially with ties, partners or relatives. Tensions are eased in P.M. and it would be well to adjust matters at some quiet spot. Be kind.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) A day to prove to all vital persons that you are indeed a friend and have their interests at heart. Be cheerful and you make them happy, too, those that are in real trouble. P.M. discuss own problems with close ties.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) Avoid that temptation to give vent to your feelings at the seeming lopsidedness of a high-er up. Things are not as easy as they look. P.M. go out and have a delightful evening with pals.

If your child is born today he will be all heart and will soon begin to commit himself or herself far beyond ability to loan, pay or perform. Hence, teach first the importance of economy and proper budgeting. Then the chart is splendid for the stage or cinema professions, the world of banking, philanthropy, social service etc. Don't try to eradicate this humanitarian trait, it is invaluable.

Two Byelections Could Give PC Govt. Record

OTTAWA (CP) — Voting took place today in two federal byelections to name new Commons members for the residential riding of Trowbo Trinity and the primarily rural seat of Springfield, Man.

Both fell to the Progressive Conservatives in their general election landslide last March 31. Although campaigning generally was quiet in both constituencies, the Liberal and CCF parties have worked hard to reverse those results.

Each of the three parties is represented in Springfield, while a Communist candidate makes it a four - way fight in Trinity. Neither constituency has a record of clear-cut allegiance to one party.

Polling began at 8 a.m. local time and concludes at 6 p.m.

COULD SET RECORD

Retention of both seats by the government would provide a new Canadian record in the number of Commons members mustered by a party. The Conservatives made history in March with a total of 208 and could make it 209 today.

Present Commons standing is Conservatives 207, Liberals 48, CCF 8, vacant 2—total 265.

In two Sept. 29 byelections, the Conservatives retained Grenville-Dundas, and took Mootsaugg-Pictet, Que., away from the Liberals.

In Toronto Trinity, a multi-language constituency, the Conservative banner is carried by Dr. Joseph Lesniak, 38, a bachelor dentist. Paul Hellyer, 35, a construction company executive who was associate defence minister briefly, is the Liberal. Union secretary John Echuk, 42, represents the CCF, and Sam Walsh, 42, a former union organizer, stands for the Communists.

In Springfield, Jacob (Jake) Schultz, CCF, and Anton B. Wesolak, Liberal, each are attempting to gain reelection. Dr. Joseph St. Slogan, a dentist, is the Conservative candidate.

Val Yarski's death made the Springfield byelection necessary. Death of E. B. Lochyer forced the Toronto byelection.

UNION

The resolutions carried at Friday's turbulent meeting of union urged district municipal leaders to work for another meeting of the Inco and union negotiating committees. The union was asked to agree to new talks and drop its insistence on a wage increase in the first year of a new contract.

Another resolution said: "We believe the company . . . must be prepared to give something more in a settlement for the sake of the community."

Meanwhile nine strikers' wives launched an organization they call the Canadian Association of Independent Workers' Wives and said one of its aims is to eliminate communism in Canada. Other aims are to get the men back to work and to seek a union recognized by the Canadian Labor Congress.

Mine-Mill was expelled from the Canadian Congress of Labor, now a part of the CLC, for alleged leftist leanings in 1949.

Asked by a reporter whether Mine-Mill is Communist-led, Mr. Solski said: "If it is, I'm not aware of it . . . In any case we do not ask people what their politics are. We are a group of people. If there are Communists in the union it is Inco's fault—they employ them."

The union statement attacked Marvyn Fabros presumably because he agreed to meet the strikers' wives at Friday's meeting. It also took to task two Progressive Conservative members of the legislature, Gerald Monaghan and Rheal Bellisle, representing Sudbury and Nickel Belt ridings respectively. They had forwarded to provincial authorities letters asking for a government-sponsored vote on ending the strike. They said last week they had received hundreds of such letters.

Mrs. Leon Breen, one of the wives who set up the new organization of independent workers' wives, said she has received telephone calls claiming her life. She said one caller shouted: "I'll blow you off the face of the earth."

Her husband said he has received similar telephone calls, in one of which he was told: "I blast you, I blast your wife, right out your house."

Mrs. Margaret Grenier said a

Brought back from blindness, Mrs. Marie-Therese Merveille, 54, of Brussels, Belgium, hugs her guide dog, "Nicky", who partially restored her sight. The dog accidentally stuck his paw into Mrs. Merveille's right eye while she was lying in bed. Shortly afterwards the woman discovered she could see again. An oculist who examined Mrs. Merveille reported that she had recovered 20 per cent vision in the eye, apparently because the dog scratched a small wound in its cataract.

man telephoned her Saturday night and said: "Watch your mail — you're getting a little package you'll get a big bang out of."

Asked in an interview about the reported threats, Mr. Solski replied: "Have they been threatened? I wouldn't know anything about that. The union had nothing to do with it."

Inco workers in the Sudbury area were on a 25-hour week prior to the strike because the company ordered a production cutback due to slumping world nickel market.

Average hourly wage when the strike began was $2.20.

Douglas Warns West Will Fight Rail Rate Change

Wants Federal Subsidy If Grain Rates Altered

REGINA (CP)—Premier Douglas of Saskatchewan says if there is any increase in Government Pass freight rates it should be borne by the federal government, not western farmers.

But the premier, in an interview Monday, said prairie grain growers will fight any attempt to tamper with the low rates, which apply to grain and flour moving eastward to the Lakehead and westward to the Pacific coast.

"I should think Western governments, farm organizations, boards of trades and so forth, would all join together," the premier said.

"If there is an attempt to do away with the low rates on grain, the battle is on."

TWO DEMANDS

If the railways demand an elimination of statutory grain rates, Saskatchewan will insist on two things, Douglas said.

"First, considering the lack of revenue the railroads complain about, they should at all events see they get be taken into consideration," he said.

"Second, should not only revenue from the Crowsnest Pass rates be considered but what has obtained from land it was given when it agreed to those rates.

"Our second point is that if an increase in freight rates is to be necessary, then it is the responsibility of the federal government to accept that increase, not the farmer."

NATIONAL POLICY

The low rates on grain were part of a national policy to enable Canadian wheat to find world markets at a competitive price, the premier said. It wheat had to move at domestic freight rates its price on the world market would be too high, he added.

It wouldn't mean increasing the rate by a few cents," Mr. Douglas said. "It would mean doubling it."

The CPR agreed to the Crowsnest Pass rates of 1897 in return for a subsidy of about $3,500,000 for construction of 1,400 miles of railway, Calgary, Alta., to Nelson, B.C. Western provinces have argued that building the line gave the CPR a monopoly on rail traffic in Alberta and Saskatchewan. It made it eligible for a land grant of 3,620,000 acres from B.C., and the rapid development of the extremely profitable Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company plant at Trail, B.C.

Did the CPR make a profit on the whole transaction?

"We haven't been able to get the figures," Mr. Douglas said.

Baby Receives 3 Transfusions, Out of Danger

TORONTO (CP)—An eight-day struggle against the "ill-will and beliefs of a baby's parents against doctors' struggle for her life was drawing to a close today in Sick Lori Lynn Campbell appeared surely out of danger after receiving three blood transfusions.

The child was given blood transfusions to correct an Rh factor disorder after a court convened in the hospital Saturday ruled her Jehovah's Witness parents were negligent in denying them. The court made her a temporary ward of the Children's Aid Society.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Campbell, both 22, had refused to allow transfusions because their Jehovah's Witnesses beliefs interpreted Biblical passages as forbidding the eating of blood, which they relate to blood transfusions.

Dr. A. L. Chute, who supervised the injection of one and a half ounces of blood into the infant's blood stream Monday, said the three transfusions will be necessary if Lori Lynn's body begins the normal manufacture of her own blood.

Soviet Pilot Flies Belgians Back to Base

BRUSSELS (AP) — A Soviet pilot found four Belgian explorers who crashed in the Antarctic and flew them back to their home base today. Moscow radio said "all four are well."

Viktor Perov spoiled them in Queen Maud Land, picked them up and returned them to King Baudouin Base on the Antarctic coast south of Africa.

The four are members of the Belgian expedition joining part in the International Geophysical Year. They took off from Baudouin Base 6 to establish a scientific station in the interior. They crashed their small plane in the Crystal Mountains.

The nearest large expedition was the Soviet one at Mirny, about 1,400 miles around the coast to the west. The Russians sent two search planes. The rescued men were Capt. Gaston de Gerlache, Andre Antoine de Ligne, Jacques Loodts and Charles Huishagen.

Season Closed

OWEN SOUND (CP) — The shipping season closed here Monday with the arrival of three Great Lakes freighters bringing winter storage cargoes of grain.

The Colsten Shoal, Captain D. D. Secord, owned by the Mohawk Navigation Company Limited of Montreal, and Mohawk Deer, owned by Beaconsfield Steamships Limited, Montreal, were on their way to Prescott and Port Colborne but went ahead here for the winter because the shipping season was closing at those ports.

Scientists Turned Loose Could Rig Solar Sail in Eighteen Months

LOS ALAMOS, N.M. (AP)—Scientists here say that if they are turned loose they could rig a solar sail that would carry them, with ballast, to the moon.

Such a vehicle, they say, could be built in a year and a half.

The sail is envisioned as the propelling vehicle for leisurely interplanetary space travel.

The ship being considered would consist of space it would spread its sail to the sun's rays and travel indefinitely under radiation power.

The subject is a result of what is called "pure research." Theodore Cotter, a scientist heading the group considering the problem, has been working on the idea for considerable time, even though the laboratory is primarily concerned with atomic energy development.

What's needed is a go-ahead from either the Atomic Energy Commission in Washington or another federal agency concerned with development in space exploration.

Cotter said a trip to Mars and back again, for example, could be made in a year. The sail itself would be virtually nothing that could go wrong to disturb the ship's flight

Knights Templar Mark Season With Ceremonies

On Sunday afternoon in the Masonic Temple, a large and representative group of local masons joined with the Knights of King Baldwin Preceptory in their traditional service marking the Christmas season. There were visitors present from Preceptories in Brockville, Stratford and Haileybury, as well as the ladies accompanying their fraternal husbands.

Garbed in full uniform and in the white mantles of the Order, the knights made a formal entrance under the guidance of the Right Eminent Director of Ceremonies Occupying the dais were Presiding Preceptor, Em. Kt. C. E. Burley; Chaplain Em. Kt. L. E. Vaughn and the special speaker, Canon A. S. McConnell, M.B.E., L.Th.

Owing to the sudden illness of Al Hughes, Mrs. M. R. Davidson kindly consented to substitute for him and she favored the assemblage with two songs appropriate to the season She was supported at the organ by Comp. W. Cooney as guest artist at the console. He also led the singing of three well known Christmas hymns.

Canon McConnell delivered a short address on the Spirit of Christmas. His message, particularly a portion dealing with his experiences in Holland during the Battle of the Bulge, held close attention of everyone.

After the formal retirement of the Knights, those present were served coffee and Christmas cake and enjoyed a social period of friendly intermingling. Before the actual distribution of refreshments, the four senior officers led in honoring the ancient libations as used by knights since before the time of Crusades. The uniformed Knights standing round the table shaped like a cross imparted a most impressive solemnity, giving a finishing touch to a noteworthy event.

Em. Kt. and his committee are to be congratulated on the efficiency of their careful arrangements.

Anti-Western Attitude Seen In Pakistan Rotarians Told

The way of life in Pakistan and their current problems were discussed by Mr. J. M. Feil at the weekly dinner meeting of the Rotary Club. Accompanying his talk with a slide showing the speaker, who is the Chief Investigator of the Special Investigating Section of the Department of National Revenue, gave some interesting sidelights on his recent trip to Pakistan. Mr. Feil was on loan to the Pakistan government under the provisions of the Colombo Plan to help their government set up a special section in their taxation division.

He mentioned that the fatalistic attitude of the Moslem religion, which is the official religion of Pakistan, has a terrific impact upon the way of life there. All life is based upon the theory that what happens does so because it is the Will of Allah" and therefore cannot be changed. This philosophy is projected upon this attitude and through corruption of the minor spiritual leaders, who are in closest contact with the "common man" have managed to develop a distinct anti-western attitude amongst the poorer Moslems. Hence there is no desire to learn English or adopt any of the western customs or western civilization.

However, the speaker reported, there is an eagerness amongst the more educated Moslems to learn more about western democracy. He found that there was a desire to understand the ways of Canadians and, through more information, to comprehend our actions and policies. There is also a great admiration for Red China and the strides which the Communists have made in a most difficult task indeed.

Corruption and extreme poverty and want are the major influencing factors in Pakistan's society which is not democratic, and our missionaries have been unable to make any effective impression upon the people. Mr. Feil's talk was illustrated by slides of the and the slide show was thoroughly enjoyed by those present. Introduced by Mr. Harold Parker of the local taxation bureau, the speaker was thanked by Rotarian Newt Thompson and presented with a leather travelling kit by the chairman, vice-president Fred Wilson.

It was announced that Jerry Garrett had been appointed treasurer of the Crippled Children's Committee, in which post he will be coming shortly. The annual Christmas party given by the Rotary for the blind folk of this area will be held this Wednesday evening at 6.30 p.m. in St. Andrew's church. Grace was given by Jack Creegan.

Narrow Victory For Socreds In Byelection

THAIL, B.C. (CP)—The governing Social Credit party came to Rossland-Trail riding Monday in a provincial byelection that saw the party's winning margin reduced sharply.

The victory was described by Premier Bennett as the "finest Christmas present any government ever had." Opposition leaders pounced on the winner's reduced majority as evidence of increasing voter support of the government.

Donald Brothers, 35-year-old Trail lawyer, collected 3,128 votes —39 per cent of the 10,396 ballots cast.

His margin was 385 votes over the Conservative candidate, C.P. F. E. (Buddy) DeVilo, a Trail alderman.

The Liberal and Progressive Conservative candidates were close behind. Dr. M. E. Rossetti drew 2,531 votes as Liberal standard - bearer while Conservative Alex Brokenshire garnered 2,172. 56 p.c. VOTE

Almost 80 per cent of the 13,021 eligible voters were drawn to the polling booths after a heated campaign.

Social Credit cabinet minister Robert D. Sommers, despite accusations of bribery, carried the constituency with 5,087 votes in the last election here, 1953 to 1956.

Sommers resigned his seat a month ago when he was convicted of bribery and conspiracy in his handling of provincial forest management licences while he was lands and forest minister. Sentenced to five years in prison, he is free on bail pending an appeal.

Liberal leader Arthur Laing felt the government was "heavily disciplined" by the voters while Conservative chief Deane Finlayson found the drop in Social Credit votes "significant."

The result left the standings in the legislature unchanged: Social Credit 38, CCF 19, Liberal 2, Independent 2. Total 52.

While the unemployment figure was not broken down by regions, the joint statement said there was little doubt that most occurred mainly in Ontario, Quebec and the Atlantic area.

Between October and November, Canada's total labor force declined by 134,000 to 6,037,000. It stood at 6,075,000 in November of last year.

Ontario, with 2,154,000 persons employed during November showed a decline of 12,000 in the month and 25,000 in the year.

Bonaventure Refuels Radar Picket Vessel

NORFOLK, Va. (AP)— "Bonny's 24-hour service—U.S. credit cards accepted."

This illuminated sign greeted sailors of the U.S. radar picket ship Thomas J. Gary as the ship pulled alongside the Canadian aircraft carrier Bonaventure for an emergency supply of fuel last week, Atlantic fleet headquarters here learned Monday.

While the Gary was on her Atlantic barrier picket station Dec. 8, a crew member was stricken with acute appendicitis. The picket ship made a full power run for the Azores to obtain medical assistance for the stricken man. He is J. D. Schmalfeldt, Newport, R. I.

There was no fuel available in the Azores. But the Bonaventure, returning from the Mediterranean was in the area.

Communications were established between the two ships and a rendezvous was set. Coming alongside the Bonaventure, the Gary, believed to be the only destroyer picket ship with a band, sounded off in a tribute to the carrier.

After about 20 minutes of salty music, two baggage players appeared on the flight deck of the carrier and played for the entertainment of the two crews. This was followed by a 45-piece jockey playing records over the flight deck announcing system.

Refuelling completed, the Gary pulled away at full speed and headed back to her picket station with the band playing Auld Lang Syne as they left the Bonaventure.

Auto Workers Commended by Review Board

DETROIT (AP)—The United Auto Workers' public review board, issuing its first report, commended the UAW Monday for its conduct of internal union affairs.

The seven-man review board appointed 1-2 years ago by the 1,500,000-member UAW as a watchdog body, reported to President Walter Reuther that in no case that came before it were there findings of corruption."

Magistrate J. A. Hanrahan of Windsor, Ont., is one of the board members.

The review board examined appeals cases from union members which had come before the UAW international executive board and on which the union board took final actions.

Police Hunting Pretty Nurse, Woman Held

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — Police and U.S. authorities are hunting a pretty nurse they say disappeared after her mother-in-law impersonated her and had her marriage annulled.

The mother-in-law, Mrs. Elizabeth Duncan, 54, was arraigned Monday on four felony counts including the annulment.

Two men have been jailed here in connection with the case—one on suspicion of kidnapping—but police won't say why.

Authorities in Santa Barbara and Ventura counties pieced together this chronology:

June 24 — Over the mother's objections, Olga Kupczyk, 20, who came here a year ago from Vancouver, B.C., and Frank Duncan, 29, a Santa Barbara lawyer, were married.

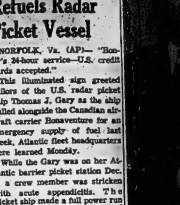
Aug. 7 Ventura Superior Court granted an annulment of the marriage to a couple who said they were Olga and Frank and testified the marriage never had been consummated. (Police say the couple, in reality, was Elizabeth Duncan and an unidentified man.)

On Nov. 17 Olga was reported missing.

She had separated from Duncan, police said, and was living in an apartment. Saturday authorities arrested Mrs. Duncan on suspicion of bribery, forgery, perjury and falsification of documents.

The two men under arrest in Santa Barbara are Augustine Baldanado, 28, booked on suspicion of kidnapping, and Luis Moya, 23, charged with parole violation.

United Church Meet May Study Crowe Issue



TORONTO (CP)—A spokesman for the United Church of Canada says a sub-executive meeting of the church's general council, to be held here Wednesday, may possibly discuss the situation at Winnipeg's United College where Professor Harry Crowe has been rehired after being dismissed in September.

Rev. Ernest E. Long, executive secretary, said Monday the subexecutive meets each month on many matters in connection with the church.

Prof. Crowe was dismissed after a letter he wrote to a colleague fell into the hands of college principal Dr. W. C. Lockhart.

Asked in London Monday whether he hopes Dr. Lockhart will remain as principal, Dr. MacQueen said it is his personal hope "that the matter of Dr. Lockhart's resignation will be worked out in an atmosphere of goodwill and harmony."

Trade Minister Churchill, one of the 43 members of the board of regents and believed to have played a key role in reinstatement of Prof. Crowe, said in Ottawa Monday night that he had no statement to make on the rehiring of Prof. Crowe. He said he had not discussed the findings on the case until the one which brought about the reinstatement.

Sailor Carries Two Young Sons To Safety

PICKERING (CP) — A Great Lakes sailor on sick leave carried his two young sons from his flaming home Monday after an explosion occurred behind the natural gas stove in the kitchen.

Gregory Fitzpatrick, 28, said he was asleep on the "best bunk in the kitchen" and rap-de-to find flames leaping up the wall and Stephen, 3, lying face down about 10 feet from the stove. He ran outside with the boy, left him in the yard and went back for Gregory, 1, in a playpen in the living room.

He then watched his house—a Christmas present to his family last year — new furniture and Christmas gifts burn. Damage was estimated at $12,000. No one was injured.

Mrs. Fitzpatrick, 25, was working in nearby Toronto at the time. Neighbors cared for the children.

Consumer's Gas Company and Pickering fire marshal's office are investigating.

Appeal May Delay Subway Another Year

TORONTO (CP) — Suburban area council Monday night agreed in a secret meeting to appeal to the Supreme Court of Canada the proposed method of financing Toronto's second subway. Metro chairman said it could delay the subway 12 months.

Five suburban municipalities— New Toronto, Mimico, Long Branch, Etobicoke, Leaside—will ask for leave to appeal to the Ontario Supreme Court against the Ontario municipal board's approval of financing the subway. The appeal was rejected and Scarborough and Etobicoke withdrew their opposition.

New Toronto and Mimico made their appeal conditional on similar action by Long Branch which is to reach a decision tonight.

4 Asphyxiated By Gas Range

YONKERS, N. Y. (AP)— The bodies of four persons—a young couple, their baby son, and an 11-year-old boy — were found Monday night in a Yonkers apartment with gas escaping from an antiquated gas range.

Police said the four apparently had turned on the old range to supplement the heat from a radiator. All were in bed clothes.

The dead were identified as James Neider, Jr., 21, his wife, Shirley, their son, James Walter Neider, four months old, and Judy Sutlies, 11, Mrs. Neider's sister.

All died of asphyxiation due to carbon monoxide fumes from the range.

Council Votes 4-2 to Leave Sewage Treatment By-law Discussion to New Council

TRENTON — Councillors last night discussed for 25 minutes and resolution not to discuss a by-law concerning the sewer rates for the sewage treatment plant which will get under way next year.

When finally brought to a vote four councillors favored discussing it and two felt the by-law should be discussed and given the first and second reading. The vote leaves the by-law on sewer payment up to the next council, which will take office following the inaugural meeting at 11 a.m. on January 2.

Councillor Charles Hilton tabled the motion that council should not consider by-law No. 1316R and that it not be read or discussed by the 1958 council as it was deemed a matter not to be discussed by the council.

Speaking on the motion Mayor Ross Burtt said it was improper that the council give the by-law first and second reading to enable it to be sent to the Municipal Board for approval and then returned to the town for third reading and finally passed. He said he could not understand why the councillors, who had worked so hard on the sewage plant project all year, felt that they should delay the whole thing now.

Councillor Vagn Lange said he did not feel the same as some of the council, that we would be sticking our necks out if we gave the by-law a first and second reading. He explained that he must remember it takes two or three weeks to come back from the Municipal Board and then the third and final reading could be dealt with by the new council. We have studied it all-year and we should give the new council some assurance that we have come to a decision in our own minds about it. It is not the least we can do is to give the by-law the first and second reading.

Councillor Hilton said, "I fail to see where there is an urgency in the matter. In my mind the thing has come to a stop. What I mean is that one phase of the project has now ended and another is about to start. Councillors Worrall and Lange will be on the next council and they are well versed in the plans and decision that have been made, so it will not be left with green horns. There is too much money involved in this by-law to make a decision possible in five minutes."

Councillor Worrall also said he was of the opinion that it should not be hurried until it was fully understood. "I have read the by-law over 10 times in the past two weeks," he said, "and I still do not understand it. I feel it should be left for the next council to study and reach a decision on it."

Councillor Ray Fox said he felt the distribution of the cost of the sewer project is most important and regretted it could not be decided in one evening.

Councillor Joe Gould said he would go along with it if it was only given the first and second reading, and as long as the third reading had final control of the issue.

Councillor Jim MacDonald said he also felt that he should not like to see any decision made on it too quickly.

Councillors Joe Gould and Vagn Lange voted to reject the motion on the floor and leave it to the next council but the other four members of council voted in favor of leaving it.

Mayor Ross Burtt did not vote but spoke against delaying the by-law.

Trenton Council Briefs

TRENTON — A letter of resignation from the Community Centre Board, by E. M. Parker, Jr., was read at the council meeting last night and accepted with regret by the council. In Parker's letter he explained that he felt he did not have the time to give the group in the coming year and suggested the council appoint some one who could give the necessary time. Councillor Vagn Lange moved that a letter of thanks be sent to Mr. Parker for his work during the past year. Councillor Joe Gould also a member of the Community Centre board, said he would also like to withdraw from the board because he felt he was not able to do the work required as a member of the maintenance committee. To this Clerk-Treasurer O. W. Larry said: "Speaking as an employee I would say that Mr. Gould is wrong. He has done a magnificent job and that the lighting and heating systems which have been under his control have made all the difference in the world at the rink." Commenting on Mr. Gould's remarks of not having enough education to be on the board, Mr. Larry said, "His ability to get things done has put people with more education to shame. He has proved it many times."

STATIONED SOON

Council was informed last night that a resident-service man will be stationed at the Lakeland Gas Company some time between Christmas and New Year's Day. Council was also informed that there will be five service men stationed in Belleville who can be called to Trenton if needed. Councillor Charles Hilton said he felt that the various valves and pressure reducing units should be checked regularly during the winter, when temperatures go down to zero and there is a chance that they do not freeze up. It was left to the committee to draw a letter be sent to the gas company asking the different questions which had been raised and have the answers read at the next council meeting.

TAKE OFFICE JANUARY 2

Council decided in favor of a suggestion by the clerk - treasurer that January 2 be selected as the day for swearing-in ceremonies for the new council. With this day being a civic holiday in Trenton it would give the public a chance to attend the ceremonies. It will take place at 11 a.m. and further notifications will be carried in the local papers. It was also decided the council would hold their final meeting for payment of accounts on Monday, December 29 at 11.30 a.m.

APPROVE HIRING

Clerk-Treasurer O. W. Larry read a petition to the council asking that a dog catcher be hired during the winter months as well as the summer ones. The letter said the dogs were chasing the children as they played on their sleds and were also upsetting garbage cans. The letter also explained that it was necessary to keep the smaller children in the house because of the dogs running through the yards. Council was informed by Mr. Larry that he had contacted Mr. Hogan who had been engaged during summer months as dog catcher and said Mr. Hogan was available to go to work immediately, and would be able to work all day. The council approved the hiring of the dog-catcher.

GO TO TORONTO

Councillor Vagn Lange, along with Deputy Treasurer O.W. Larry and Town Engineer Eric Anderson, were authorized to visit Toronto to get information on a larger scale regarding the subsidy on Public Works to relieve unemployment. The decision was made after the council had been informed that verbal approval had been received from the Federal Government for the Toronto winter work program for the town.

TWO BY-LAWS APPROVED

Two by-laws were given final reading at the council meeting last night. To authorize the signing of an agreement with the Dominion Electric Protection Company of Toronto to install fire equipment in the fire hall. Councillor Worrall moved the bill - the agreement had been studied and found satisfactory by the town solicitor. The second by-law was to authorize land conveyance to Skillcola Limited for a sum of $500.

NO WORK CAMPS, PLEASE

Hon. L. P. Cecile, Ontario Minister of Welfare, says he will ask federal authorities to establish a system of work camps for the country, for hundreds of homeless and jobless transients.

Here we go again.

First thing we know we shall have municipal woodpiles, transients will be required to saw wood before getting a meal ticket and resident recipients of relief will be required to dig a ditch one week and fill it in again the next.

Mr. Cecile was asked by a deputation of Toronto civic officials to establish a system of hostels for unemployed transients. Provincial welfare officials said they believed Ottawa would be more favorable to work camps than to hostels. We can only hope that this represents a new low in extra-sensory perception, that provincial welfare officials are strictly Grade D prophets about federal officials' thinking.

Work camps should be needed is bad enough. If our unemployment insurance system cannot provide for our present number of unemployed after so many prosperous years - - and it cannot - - then it is obviously inadequate. Its coverage should be widened at the first opportunity. This may require increased payments into the fund, which should certainly be accompanied by stricter weeding out of chiselers. Somehow we shall have to get across the idea that not every worker who pays into the fund can expect to get an equal amount out of it.

As we said, hostels are bad enough. Work camps are infinitely worse. They create groups of second-class workers. There is no virtue in work unless it is useful, and there is a lot of work which needs to be done, but which does not require the establishment of any special camps.

A HEARTENING GESTURE

There is nothing quite as corny as the prize fighter who has a word for "Mom" after a victorious battle in the ring.

The other night, after Archie Moore had disposed of Yvon Durelle, he asked a television announcer how far the program was being carried. When assured that it was being seen from coast of coast, he said he wanted to say "hello" to somebody.

The "somebody" however, turned out not to be "Mom" or some other relative, but two people in hospital, a 95-year-old man and an 11-year-old boy.

Archie thought his greeting might cheer them up. We think it might, too, for it showed them that somebody, hundreds of miles away, was thinking of them in spite of the fact that he had just been very, very busy.

Of course, it is possible that it was a stunt all arranged beforehand. But somehow we don't think so. Anybody who was capable of staging the fighting comeback which Archie did, after that first-round explosion which certainly was not planned, is capable of a spur-of-the-moment gesture of this nature.

Or Archie is quite a man for other reasons besides those which lead the sports writers to apply this tag to him with such enthusiasm.

WINDOWS FROSTED OVER

Two children died when a New York Central train hit a school bus which skidded onto a level crossing near Windsor and stalled.

The driver of the bus, Albert Slacht, said that it was foggy and the windows of his bus were frosted over. Apparently this prevented him from seeing the train as soon as he otherwise might have done. When he did see the train he applied the brakes, but the bus started to slide and then the motor cut out.

How many motorists have not had a somewhat similiar experience, though with less tragic results?

Most drivers, we believe, have on occasion come to a level crossing or a highway intersection and realized, with a feeling of panic, that their windows were not providing the desired visability, particularly to the sides.

Surely it is not beyond the ability of today's skilled automotive engineers to devise some method of defrosting the side windows.

HE GIVES HER OPINION

By EDGAR A. GUEST

I think that you are Santa Claus,
Last night she said to me;
That you buy all these toys and things
To trim our Christmas tree."
And then said I: "My dear,
What put
Such notions in your mind?"
"Because," she said, "there's no one else
Who could be quite so kind.

"There's no one just like Santa Claus,"
The teacher said today.
"Cause he's the best man in the world,
In every way."
Am I thought right away
The best man in the world's my pa;
I'm sure of that because
He always is so good and kind;
An' so you're Santa Claus.

"An' I've been thinkin' right along
That Santa must be you,
That no one else would do the things
For me you always do.
An' it it's really true that you
Are Santa Claus, I'm glad.
'Coz you're the kindest Santa Claus
The world has ever had."

Now when a trusting child of six
Declares such faith in you
And brushes all your faults away,
What are you going to do?
You're going to turn away, as I,
To hide the shame you know,
And swallow hard upon a lump
And wish it could be so.

Off to Callahan's Dance

By Mrs. Morton Starr in the Milwaukee Journal

Some forms of the practical joke are inevitably pertinent. One of the most popular is having, which Webster defines as "harassment by ridicule or cruel treatment".

Every group banded together for a common purpose, whether members of clubs, workers or soldiers, has practised some variant on this theme intended to initiate the newcomer or to help him out for a "sky hook", "a pail of elbow grease", a pound or a "left-handed monkey wrench", to such artful dodges as "Callahan's Dance" and the well known snipe hunt, all have the same basic idea.

"Callahan's Dance" was a popular gag in lumberjack logging camps when logging was in its heyday. On the first Saturday night in camp, some of the veteran lumberjacks would begin to shave and put on their store clothes. When asked by a newcomer if they were going somewhere, they would answer, "Yeah, we're going to Callahan's Dance!". Then the greenhorn would ask to go along with them.

Meanwhile, the others had started out ahead, some with rifles. By the time the newcomer and his guide reached a certain spot on the tote road, a mile or more behind the bunch. It sounded like a pack of wolves followed by Indian war whoops. The tenderfoot would be heard and a voice yelling, "They got me!" Other shots rang out, forcing would be seen falling on the road ahead. The "boys" bound for Callahan's Dance kept right on walking, but by this time, the newcomer was so terrified that he would turn back and run all the way to camp yelling, "Let me in! Let me in!"

On the path to the bunkhouse, which had been planted in camp had placed piles of pots and pans over which he would stumble in his haste to reach the door. As he opened the door, he would fall into a tub of water and rain of the laughter from those inside.

The snipe hunt is quite universally known; there are many Wisconsin variants. One of these was used near Laona to initiate new arrivals at a logging camp. They would be taken into the woods about sundown and stationed in a clearing. Then each with a large gunny sack. They were told to wait until they heard shots and that the snipes then would take to the trees. They were to keep the bags open until the snipes ran inside. Hours later, the victim would return empty. Eventually they would stumble into camp.

The armed forces probably could supply many variations of such practices to fill several books. "Bringing back the oven stretcher" was a gag that has played on recruits at Camp Douglas more than 50 years ago. The likely candidates would be chosen and sent to the cook's tent. From there they would be sent to company M, where they would pick up a large block of cement on two poles and carry it back to Company K. There they would be told that it was supposed to be delivered to Company C. At Company C the "oven stretcher" was too small for their oven, etc., until finally, when the victims were completely exhausted, they would realize that they had been "taken" and could return to their own company and the laughter of their comrades.

In newspaper offices, particularly in small towns, reporters used to be customary to show young apprentices the "type case", where they would be leased over to see three strange insects which purported to be the reporter's ink, the type was pushed together, spraying the victim's face with ink and then he was placed between lines.

It is a brave person who has entered adulthood without having been on the receiving end of that born of these practical jokes recalled from childhood days and known then as "initiations or stars in the daytime", is still going the rounds as "Paris in the rainy season" and "Snipe hunt" in other names.

A visitor or new child in the neighborhood is asked if he would like to see stars in the daytime. It is a brave person who has sentiment or some other dark place and told to keep his eyes closed. The armhole of a coat sleeve is filled over his face. At the moment when he is told to open his eyes, a pan of cold water is dumped down on him. The discomfiture of the victim, who can't rest until he also finds someone who want to see stars in the day time.

No Color Line in North

By R. G. Robertson in The Beaver

Canada's deep north may prove to be one of the first spots on the face of this earth where the color line is really dropped. That is the most exciting prospect of our rapidly accelerating northern development program.

Already throughout northern Canada, communities are growing up in which Eskimo and Indian, Frobisher Bay are prime examples—where Indians and Eskimos now, and white men and women of mixed blood are living side by side for the first time on the same type of house, with their children playing together and going to the same school. And we can look increasingly to a future in which the administration, the mining, the operation of airfields and trains and boats, the buying and selling, and all the countless tasks that support a community and productive will be carried on by individuals who do not involve whether the man above, below or alongside them is an Indian or an Eskimo or a white.

This trend towards tolerance is inspired by the necessity for any special virtue exclusive to northern residents. It is more than that. It is a necessity. But the important thing, whatever the cause, is that it is beginning to happen.

The Indians and Eskimos of the north are learning a whole way of life, one that they understood and to which they were adapted. This is resulting entirely from the influence of white civilization. It is not that we have actively sought to destroy their way of life, but, almost without exception, the

By GREGORY CLARK

Every now and then, everybody forgets the infantry. In this age of intercontinental missiles, there are moments when it almost appears as if infantry is to be abolished.

Well, in my old war, when anybody in the air force, navy or other articulate branch of the services asked what infantry were, we used to say:

"The infantry are the ones who come and tell the enemy that the war is over."

Recently, there has been a big argument as to whether the Army and other manned aircraft are necessary, now that intercontinental missiles are the big stuff of war.

Well, suppose intercontinental missiles are exchanged between a couple of nations we might of Battle.

mention. Are they going to launch the missiles, and then forget all about the matter? No, sir-ree! Shortly, over the borders will come the manned planes, bringing the infantry. And who is going to shoot down the troop carriers? The manned aircraft, of course. You don't shoot down an intercontinental missile full of infantry with intercontinental ballistic missiles.

But whatever you shoot them down with, some will always get through. And do you know who will get out of them, looking very hornily and old-fashioned, hitching up their britches and wiping their noses on the back of their hands?

The infantry, sir, known from time immemorial as the Queen of the Battle.

Crop Thinned At Oxford

Fort William Times - Journal

Oxford University, with 8,700 enrolled students, has just decided that this is too many; and is ordering the thinning out of the population is to eject those who do least well in exams.

After recent exams, says The London Daily Mail, there are "a considerable crop of sackings anyone can remember." Translated, this means that there has been a record number of students who had to quit the university because they failed.

The Financial Post notes that among those "sent down" or "rusticated" were a College cricket captain, Colin Cowdrey, and the Yale Prime Minister Asquith's great grandson. Oxford's reputation for sport as a university course? It could be. Oxford's example is an interesting one for Canadian schools.

THE OPEN FIREPLACE

How many things seem to us, no matter of what moment, disappear.

shape up just like life. I write this little talk before an open fireplace. How like life it is! As I watch the flames leap to the log and kindling and slender sticks there is a bursting of flames and heat and light. Then, as the heavier logs take their flashes, there is less evanescence and intensity according to the quality of wood — like early and middle life. Then there is a lessening of blazing heat and warmth, and soon simply a mass of coals — wonderful and remarkable, comforting and quiet and inspiring — like the later years of independent life. Then the ashes — into which every one of

It is not the similie beautiful? I feel like talking to the open fireplace and thanking it for its companionship, its warmth and love. For it seems to give all of these and more.

That is say to myself that I shall try to make my life like an open fireplace, so that people may be warmed and cheered by it, to go out themselves to warm and cheer.

Somehow, I hope these little talks may in their way be open fireplaces to the souls of people to you — wherever you are and wherever you may be. Thank you, Reader.

To Your Good Health

By Joseph C. Molner, M.D.

YAWNING TECHNICALLY IS AN INVOLUNTARY DEEP BREATH

"Dear Dr. Molner: I have quite a lot of time so I read to a woman who is blind. But as soon as, I start to read, I have to yawn. It is not so much time and is embarrassing. What causes this and what can I do to stop this A.H.T."

That's a pretty good question. Like a lot of physical conditions, this is something that can be actuated either by a mechanical factor, or a mental (or emotional) factor, or both.

The human machinery isn't simple!

Yawning, technically, is an involuntary deep breath. It usually occurs when one is tired and ought to go to bed and rest.

It is, in fact, nature's way of getting more oxygen (air) into the lungs when you need it. When you go to sleep, you use less oxygen than when you are at rest, but you keep on breathing regularly, so you catch up overnight on your oxygen.

That's the physical side.

The emotional side is a bit different. I don't understand it very well. I wish I knew something who did. What I do know for sure fact is that when you are bored, you start to yawn. So be it is nature's way of saying "You're bored." You might as well face it.

Perhaps, in your case, the material you are reading is dull to you. Perhaps your sense of duty keeps you reading when you don't really want to.

Maybe, besides, you have been bored so often that you have acquired the habit of being bored and yawning, when you start to read. Besides this, you are tired, with plenty of time on your hands, may be fatigued and bored to start with.

It may help to take a few deep breaths before you go into the room to start reading. Try it.

TALK TO HER FIRST

From the psychological viewpoint, could you try engaging this blind woman in conversation first. Find out what she likes and is interested in, and tell her something, every time, what has happened to you and is interesting to you. Then, before finding something that will really interest this blind soul — you may find that you have to stay on your toes. In fact, you probably will.

Can you do it?

It's up to you.

Let me know whether this works. I'd really be interested in knowing.

"Dear Dr. Molner: My five grandchildren (all of the same family) have had a round of colds for the past year. Is this a skin infection or is something wrong with their diet—Grandma C."

Diet doesn't cause boils. It is a skin, or surface, infection. One of the youngsters acquires a virulent form of germ (staphylococcus) and that started it. The matter from such a boil can start similar infection (or in this case) on neighboring areas of skin, or in the skin of others.

Mrs. W. Y.—I know of no general treatment for psoriasis. In individual instances medications appear to work—but not with any regularity. For that reason I think it unwise to say that any "cure" exists, but I do not deny that a great many cases have been treated successfully.

Bed wetting can be conquered. Learn how, write to me in care of The Chicago Sun-Times Syndicate, P.O. Box 158, Dundee, Illinois, enclosing a copy of my booklet, "Enuresis — Its Ways to Stop Bed Wetting," and enclosing a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope and a 10c coin to cover handling.

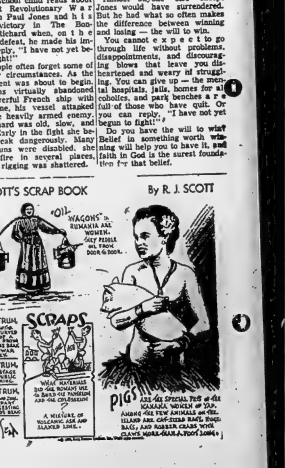
THE WILL TO WIN



Almost anyone else except Jesus would have surrendered. But he had what so often makes the difference between victory and loss — the will to win.

You cannot expect to go through life encountering problems, disappointments, and discouraging blows that leave you disheartened and weary of struggling. You can give up — the easiest hospitals, bills, nurses for all ophelics, and park benches are full of those who have quit. Or you can reply, "I have not yet begun to fight!"

You have the will to win! Belief in something worth while and striving will help you have it. And faith in God is the surest foundation for that belief.

Dawn of New Era for France One of Biggest 1958 Stories; War With Red Bloc Boils On

By DAVID ROWNTREE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The dawn of a new era for news stories. Elsewhere a new pope was elected, the Western world pulled through a tough business recession and the cold war with the Communist bloc boiled on.

The year also revived memories of 1956—from movements in the Middle East and the execution of brave men in Hungary who had defied Russia.

April 18 marked the date that the French drama began. Felix Gaillard resigned as premier and trustworthies built up in the years since the war were suddenly released. Army officers and disgruntled colonials defied the government in Paris and seized power in Algeria May 13.

WIDE POWERS

In past French political crises, Charles de Gaulle was often mentioned as the man who could untangle things straight. In 1946 he had resigned as premier, disgusted with political intrigue, and all but retired from public view.

This time, with the Algiers revolutionaries unchecked and Corsica, the island home of Napoleon, also in rebellion, the general let it be known he would come back as premier if the deputies of the National Assembly wanted him.

They did. De Gaulle was granted almost dictatorial powers as the country with part of its empire in ebb, ended the Fourth Republic, created the fifth and seven months later a referendum gave him an assembly heavily weighted with his supporters.

But a solution had still to be found to the five-year war in dependence of Algeria. Algerians, the core of France's malady.

The world's political leaders also sought to find solutions to other trouble spots.

OFF SHORE ISLANDS

Shooting flared again between the Nationalist and Communist Chinese over the control of the Quemoy and Matsu islands off the mainland coast. On Cyprus, Britain seemed further away than ever from a settlement of the Greek and Turkish Cypriot people there.

Nationalism continued to be a potent force. Gamel Abdel Nasser emerged Egypt and Syria into the United Arab Republic Feb. 1. The Arabian kingdom of Yemen joined the following month. Ghana and Guinea, former West African colonies of Britain and France, announced plans for a union.

In Iraq, the monarchy was overthrown in a bloody revolt July 14 and Brig. Karim Kassem emerged as premier of the new republic in an important Arab leader.

Today uprising set alarm bells ringing in Washington and London when it at first appeared Indonesian President Sukarno might be a stooge of Russia's. The United States feared marines into neighboring Lebanon where the government claimed the country was being infiltrated by the U.A.R. Britain sent soldiers to Jordan which also appeared ripe for revolt. The panic subsided but the danger of strife in the future still exists.

Russia threw out threats and dark hints about becoming involved in the Quemoy fighting and the Middle East turmoil. Nikita Khrushchev was following a tougher line: He removed Bulganin as premier and took the job himself. Russian planes shot down American ones in a number of border infringements, he haggled with President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Macmillan in a sterile argument about whether to hold a summit conference and how to control nuclear weapons and ended the year by trying to push the Western big three out of the divided city of West Berlin.

Imre Nagy, premier at the time of the Hungarian uprising in 1956 that the Russians crushed in bloodbath, and defence minister Maj.-Gen. Pal Maleter were executed for letting the unsuccessful revolt get started. Russia and Communist China assailed Yugoslav President Tito for following the party line and promised reprisals for anyone who did likewise.

The Kremlin didn't want for critics. At home, Boris Pasternak was humiliated for writing Doctor Zhivago, a novel that was the basis for literature. Doctor Zhivago questioned the rightness of the individual submitting to the state but in the end its author was forced to do just that and refuse the honor.

The Soviet Union was embroiled in a worldwide economic offensive to win favor with young and newly emerging countries.

The West, and in particular the United States, was in a bad position to counter this. The business boom that followed the Korean War petered. Orders fell to the point where the 40-hour week became the standard in the U.S. Canada and British and countries that depend on sales of basic commodities to manufacturing nations were short of money.

In Canada, a political mark was set March 31 when the Conservative federal province party took over the government with the greatest parliamentary majority in Canadian history.

The recession also helped the Democrats take control of the U.S. congress, including the seats for Alaska which became the 49th state of the union June 30.

Scientists mess with a week-long spell on the moon—literally. They failed to put space vehicles into orbit around the moon but another Russian Sputnik and the first four U.S. satellites began circling the earth.

And beneath the polar ice cap, the U.S. atomic submarine Nautilus made the first undersea crossing of the North Pole.

POPE DIES

Pope Pius XII died from two strokes. The son of a north Italian peasant farmer was famous in his 19 years as supreme pontiff of the world's 500,000,000 Roman Catholics. He took the title John XXIII.

Disasters claimed many lives. Nineteen persons died in the crash of a KLM airliner off the Irish coast in August; 74 Canadian miners died in the collapse of a coal mine at Springhill, N.S.

Yesterday evening the residents of the Hastings County Home were entertained by the First Belleville Rangers and Rovers groups from St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church.

Under the direction of Miss Mary Doyle the combined groups started off the evening with the singing of Christmas carols. This was followed by a bingo, which was enjoyed immensely by those present. The evening concluded with refreshments being served. Above, the Rangers and Rovers group lead the audience in the carol singing.

There are similar activities planned for the County Home residents for each evening of this week.

— A few of the Girls' Hi-Y group decorate the Christmas tree in the club room in the YMCA on Campbell Street during the annual "Hanging of the Green" ceremonies. It is understood that the local "Y" building is used to capacity in accommodating sports and social activities of all kinds. The Belleville YMCA directors are considering the possibility of a new building in the future to accommodate all the increased activity and membership.

Cressy Home Badly Damaged

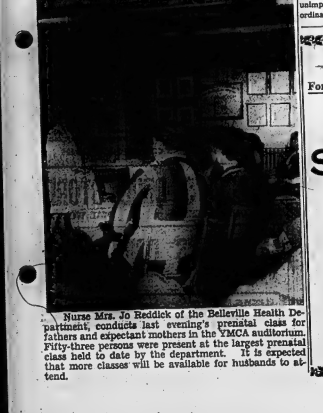
PICTON — Part of a seven - room house on the farm of Ernest Kaiser at Cressy, 15 miles south-east of Picton, was swept by fire yesterday afternoon. It was the third such house fire in Picton and district in the past three weeks and, like the others, it was confined chiefly to the inside of walls, between floors and between floors.

Cause of the fire is believed to be overheated stovepipes where they passed from the kitchen to the bedroom above. The house is occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Everett Pringle and two children. Mrs. Pringle noted the expectant mothers in the smoke and gave an early alarm. Due to the fact that a truck had smashed off a telephone pole earlier, there was no telephone service in the area. However, Mr. Kaiser employs six men at his large poultry farm and they were in action immediately. Their work was aided by the fact that the house has a water pressure system and the farm carries fire extinguishers. Holes had to be chopped in the east walls, roof and floor to get at the blaze, which was confined to the east side of the frame structure.

The Pringle family used only part of the house and the part in which they resided was not seriously affected and they suffered little loss. Mr. Kaiser estimated his damage at $4,000. Members of Picton army camp fire brigade responded to the alarm as soon as they could be contacted, and helped confine the outbreak.

TRUSTEES NAMED

PICTON — South Marysburgh township held an election yesterday for Area school trustees with 84 percent or 217 voters turning out. William Wilkinson and Ralph Pierce each polled 114 votes, while Charles Creasy was also elected with 106.



Hugh Frizzell with 96 votes was the other candidate.

Prenatal Classes Meeting With Popular Support

The Belleville Health Department's prenatal classes have met with very popular support from the expectant mothers in the community. Attendance has grown to the point where three weekly sessions are conducted instead of only one, as was the original plan. Last night a combined meeting was held for both expectant fathers and mothers with a total attendance of 52 persons. More meetings are planned for fathers to attend.

A new series of classes will be started on Tuesday, January 6th, 1959, and anyone interested in attending is requested to contact the Health Department at their Bell Block There will still be the current sessions on Wednesdays and Thursdays until February.

The immunization program of the Health Department, under the direction of Dr. McColl Metcalfe, has also been quite successful. Over 6,000 Belleville residents have been immunized by the department since the middle of October. During the holidays ahead evening clinics will not be held. Immunization is given for polio and many other diseases as a service to the community's citizens.

Nurse Mrs. Jo Reddick of the Belleville Health Department, conducts last evening's prenatal class for fathers and expectant mothers in the YMCA auditorium. Fifty-three persons were present at the largest prenatal class held to date by the department. It is expected that more classes will be available for husbands to attend.

Many Helpers Decorate 'Y' For Christmas

"The Hanging of the Green" took place in the YMCA last night with all decorators exhibiting both skill and enthusiasm during the activity. Christmas trees and decorations were placed in the various meeting rooms throughout the building, the front hall, and the boarders living room. Following these activities, which included the members of the 'boys' and girls' Hi-Y Clubs, the Sho-ed group, the Y's men and the Y's menettes, a carol singing session was held in the main common room where refreshments were served.

The hustle and bustle of the evening was also heightened by several other meetings which were being conducted at the same time. These included a meeting of the Victorian Order of Nurses, the prenatal classes of the Belleville Health Department, and the initial practice session of the new Belleville basketball team being formed for competition in a new OABA basketball league in this district. Besides these special activities the regular Monday night gym and swimming classes for junior boys were conducted by Jack Bernhardt, physical education director of the "Y".

NUCLEAR HAZARDS

MELBOURNE, Australia (CP) Sir MacFarlane Burnett, chairman of the National Radiation Advisory Committee, told a scientific conference that a major nuclear war would cause the death directly or indirectly of probably more than half the world's population. But he said the danger of limited exposure to radiation was unimportant compared with the ordinary hazards of life.

New G.G. Local Assoc. Meets for Organization

An important event in local Guiding circles took place recently in Grace Elizabeth School, when the Local Association of Girl Guides and Brownies of the Belleville, South East District was officially organized. The need for the new association arises from the population of Belleville into three separate districts, each of which will have its own supervising committee.

The executive committee for the south east district is as follows: Commissioner, Mrs. H. Floyd; secretary, Mrs. D. J. Rose; treasurer, Mrs. D. Lamb; publicity, Mrs. R. Tanner; camp convenor, Mrs. J. Benson and Mrs. Linton; tea co-ordinator, Mrs. W. Jones; planning committee, Mrs. A. Scott, Mrs. R. Burns, Mrs. W. Sweet, Mrs. C. Browning, Mrs. F. Henderson; Mrs. R. Payne, Mrs. G. Ragan, Mrs. Lewis, Mrs. A. Dryedale and Mrs. J. Finlan.

In explaining the overall intention of the Girl Guide movement in Canada, Commissioner Floyd outlined briefly the three districts form the newly created Belleville district, the last named comprises four Brownie packs and three Guide Companies. The Rangers form a divisional unit, and are at present being split into the district of the Brownie and Guide groups.

Commissioner Floyd outlined the functions of the Local Association saying that it was designed to help gain community support for Guides and Brownies, to help the parents with the work and purposes of the movement, to help with money-raising projects, to assist to the necessary telephoning in connection with meetings, to help with the award of badges, to help with the collaborated by Mrs. Lusk, who, as badge secretary, is responsible for finishing suitable testers who will examine the Guides and Brownies and company on her committee. Each district will have its own badge secretary, and the proceeds of which will be retained by the Local Association.

O.S.D. Students Present Nativity Pageant to Capacity Audience

That the gracious story of the Nativity, though oft repeated down through the years, can never lost its appeal, was evidenced last evening by the capacity audience which filled the auditorium of the Ontario School for the Deaf for the presentation of this wonderful event by the students of the school. Approximately 30 students of the senior school participated in the portrayal of the pageant which consisted of five scenes, "The Annunciation," "The Arrival At the Inn," "The Shepherds on the Judean Hills," "King Herod's Court" and the "Nativity."

Each scene, with its lovely lighting effects, was depicted with understanding, and reverence, beginning with the appearing of the Virgin Mary as she sits in contemplation of God's goodness surrounded by a religious aura of lavender light; the coming of the angel with his de-me-ness message, singing of "Ave Maria," by Mrs. A. Dawidson; the arrival at the inn where Joseph is told there is no room for them; the appropriate music, "Lo Jesus Is A-Waiting," by the lady teachers' choir; the shepherds who watched their flocks by night, and the singing of "O Little Town of Bethlehem."

Then King Herod's court with his courtiers and soldiers, the arrival of the Magi in their gorgeous robes of blue, green and gold, asking where the King was born for they had seen His star in the east, and were come to worship Him.

HEROD'S ANXIETY

Herod's anxiety was restrained-ly depicted as he walks to and fro devising how he might rid himself of this rival; the lovely rendition of "O Holy Night" by Miss Donna Dennis, which received in the beautiful Nativity scene, with the Babe of Bethlehem asleep, and Mary, the cherubs seated beside the cradle, the kneeling shepherds, and as the adoring Magi who had brought their gifts of gold, frankincense and myrrh to the King of Kings and Lord of Lords, the opening of the Heavenly hosts wto by two to add their adoration as the notes of the grand old hymn, Adeste Fidelis, "O Come, All Ye Faithful," filled the air, climaxed a most vivid showing of the old, old, but ever-new, story which gladdens the hearts of mankind today and will continue to do so until the day of His second return to reign, whose right it is.

Preceding each scene the narrator, Mary Wilson, read the portion of Scripture dealing therewith, and while the leading picture and Scripture was cast on the wall for all to see.

The adaption of the story was directed by Miss Helen Keefe, whose artistic sense was beautifully displayed in the gorgeous costumes worn which were as authentic as could be obtained by careful research into past documents.

The music and dialogues were arranged by Mr. S. Alec Gordon, and the make-up by Mr. Kirk Graham. Harry Willson, as well as being narrator, was also stage manager, assister by Dorothy Harvie.

WELCOME EXTENDED

The superintendent, Mr. J. D. Conrod spoke briefly, prior to the pageant, welcoming the parents and friends, and the new assistant superintendent, Mr. D. E. Kennedy, his wife and daughter to the school, and also extended a greeting to the visiting clergy.

The audience enjoyed the singing of the carols, "Away in a Manger," "Silent Night, Holy Night," and the fine rendition by the Belleville Symphonette Rhythm Band of "Santa Claus is Coming to Town," and "Jingle Bells."

The teachers' choir is to be commended for the fine assistance in the Nativity pageant which adds another star to the Ontario School for the Deaf's surpassing a lovely portrayal of the age-old story of the Babe of Bethlehem.

The cast follows in order of appearance:

Narrator — Harry Willson; Mary — Evelyn Caldwell; Angel — Isobel Thornicroft; Pallicans — Gerry Sullivan, Eugene Poirier; Roman Soldiers — Murray Brolley, James Hawkins; Inn Keeper — Andrew Dube; Tax Payers — Jack Cyopek, Percy Bakeman, Joe Cadillac; Joseph — Gilbert Lisle; Shepherds — Arnold Estabrooks, Donald Earle, Barry Fleming, Lynn Jarvis, Melvin Laplasky, David Mackey, Terrance Mackey, John Wright; Young Shepherd — Richard Cash; Herald Angel — Diane Lane; Heavenly Host — Patsy Bishop, Joan Cassleman, Beatrice Cater, Joan Hoeman, Lena Lew, Bernice Spence, Nancy Tumilson, Beth Wright; King Herod — Bruce Carruthers; High Priest — Byron Parliament; Herod's Boy — Gilbert Lisle; Scribes — Zenon Stus, Richard Salkay; Slave Girls — Theresa Lane, Linda Rennie, Elizabeth Spark, Gloria Schnellert, Pauline Tachitzart, and Mary White.

Y.F.C. Holds Yuletide Rally, Views Film

Belleville Youth for Christ held its Christmas rally on Saturday night, which included several musical numbers from the Salvation Army of Belleville, as well as vocal numbers from the Youth for Christ choir and a solo by James Stafford, Belleville pianist.

The quiz teams quizzed were Cobourg vs. Napanee vs. Brighton and Quinte Secondary School vs. Deseronto. The scores were in the quiz Cobourg 80 — Tweed 70; 2nd quiz Napanee 60 — Picton 30; 3rd quiz Deseronto 130 — Quinte Secondary School 40.

Concluding the program a film entitled "Each Other" was shown depicting a picture from the turn of the century that tells the story of how love of a child and understanding bring Christmas to a family of foreign extraction immigrants. Its message of selflessness and devotion, beautifully and realistically portrayed a powerful example of the true spirit of Christmas translated into everyday life.

Mrs. Greg Peck Met Husband When Reporter

By DOROTHY ROE

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Sometimes it pay to be a girl reporter, says Veronique Peck, who met her famous husband Gregory, while interviewing him for a Paris newspaper.

"It was the longest interview on record," says the dynamic and strictly French Veronique. "Now I have Gregory and two beautiful babies, and I do not worry about headline hunting any more."

"I do not worry about the women who write mash notes to my husband either, or even about the beautiful stars to whom he makes hot love on the screen. Sometimes I give him pointers to improve his technique. I think he appreciates this."

The look at Veronique explains why she does not worry about the blandishments of stars or starlets. The quiet, comfortable Peck home in Brentwood, surrounded by French furniture and antiques, the young Pecks in beautiful even when not dressed in slacks and shirt, with her short blonde hair as tousled as a little boy's.

Though she looks like a femme fatale, Veronique has the philosophy of a good French wife.

"I like to make a good home. A solid home says this glamour is our housewife. "Here we have great privacy for Gregory and we become the quietest town in the world. People stay at home."

Veronique and Peck were married in 1955 after Peck's divorce from his first wife. The present bride inherited a ready - made family—Gregory's four sons by his first marriage: Jonathan, 14, Stephen 12, and Carey Paul, 10. The family group now has been increased by two: Anthony, 2, and Cecilia, six months old.

The three older boys are devoted to their stepmother, and she lavishes love, advice and French lessons on them.

'TWAS EIGHT DAYS BEFORE CHRISTMAS . . .

When all over town
People hurried and scurried
Some wearing a frown.

Soon the stockings would hang
By the chimney with care
But what to put in them?
We feel such despair.

The children were nestled
All snug in their beds,
What to buy? Where to shop?
Buzzed through our poor heads.

Mum with her list
And Dad just confused,
Had just settled down
Not too enthused.

When out of his chair,
Dad rose with a bound
Mother, surprised, said,
"What is the matter?"

The light from the lamp
Lit the floor up below,
Where Dad dropped the "Intell"
His face all aglow.

Then to my wondering eyes did appear
An ad in the paper that made it all clear.

As rapir as eagles our ideas all came.
We whistled and shouted as we checked off each name.

"WATCHES AND DIAMONDS—EARRINGS AND BEADS—
CHINA AND SILVER—
ALL JEWELLERY NEEDS."

We had what we needed to fill up our socks

St. Michael's PTA Discusses Parents' Duties

The December meeting of St. Michael's Academy Parent-Teachers' Association was held recently in the school auditorium.

The meeting, which was well attended, was brought to order by the president, Mr. R. Sartelle. Sister Mary Andrew, principal of the convent, opened the meeting with prayer. A short business meeting followed, which included committee reports and reading of correspondence.

Mrs. Orial Griffiths, chairman of the program committee, introduced a panel, the topic of discussion being, "What do we as teachers, expect of parents." The panel included the following teachers:

The Rev. Sister Mary Timothy, grade I; Miss Hurry, grade V; Mr. John Ryan, grade VII; the Rev. Sister Mary Avila, grade VIII; the Rev. Sister Mary Domitilla, grade IX; Mrs. Jordan, grade X.

PERTINENT POINTS

Some of the pertinent points included: education begins in the home, with the parents, as the prime educator. The teacher never takes the place of the parent during school hours; to direct learning; religious training is greatly stressed. The fact that it should begin at an early age, in the home with the good example of parents; parents should speak proper English at home; spanking will not be handicapped with "baby talk"; the entering school's parents are consistent in their discipline in the home, children be ready for school, and prompt obedience in school; it would be well if parents took some supervision to children's homework—in higher grades — in order to eliminate waste of time. A quiet place for homework, free from radio or television interruptions such as television, radio or telephone calls, should be arranged; a time and period set to school having had a nourishing breakfast, and should have rest the night before; since schools are warm, clothing should be moderate and light. Children should be encouraged to read good literature. With the aid of the school library and the public library, comics are not needed.

A question period followed and the meeting was adjourned.

The refreshments were served by Mrs. John Ryan, academy; grade X, Mrs. Jordan, Sr. grades.

Refreshments were served under convenership of Mrs. T. Flynn.

The classrooms were open for inspection from 9.30 to 10 p.m.

Princess Margaret's Visit Highlighted Past Year For Women in Canada

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

The big event in the women's world in Canada next year is the visit of the Queen, who, with Prince Philip, will make a six-week royal tour starting in mid-June. The Queen will open the St. Lawrence Seaway and later the royal couple will see Canada from coast to coast, with the emphasis on informality and visits to smaller centres.

It's only a few months since Canada entertained Princess Margaret, and the Princess promised she would come back. Folks in British Columbia hope it will be by their province, for they presented Margaret last summer with a 450-acre island in the Georgia Strait.

Princess Margaret's visit highlighted the past year for women in Canada. She not only appeared at celebrations all over the country, but figured in brief rumors of a Canadian romance. John Turner of Montreal was frequently her favorite partner at two officials dances.

SUCCESSES ABROAD

Several Canadian women made international news during 1958.

Margaret Meagher of Halifax was appointed Canada's first woman ambassador, being assigned to Israel where Mrs. Golda Meir is the foreign minister.

Lois Marshall, 29-year-old Toronto soprano, sang at concerts in Russia for which tickets were sold out. Ballet dancer Judith Dornis of Toronto was acclaimed for performances in Berlin.

Patricia Joudry of Montreal wrote the play "Moon Has No Shadows" which was shown in London's West End.

The choir of Toronto's Bishop Strachan school for girls visited the United Kingdom and won the International Eisteddfod in Wales.

Mrs. E. J. Skafel, a doctor's wife in Brandon, Man., exhibited drawings of Western Canada at The Hague in Holland, and Mrs. Lilias Torrance Newton of Montreal spent four months at Buckingham Palace, painting a portrait of the Queen to hang in Rideau Hall at Ottawa.

At home, Ellen Fairclough, Canada's first woman federal cabinet minister, was acting prime minister for a few days while Prime Minister Diefenbaker was on one of his trips.

Women's growing interest in municipal affairs was shown in recent Toronto elections. An informal survey of deputy returning officers indicated that 60 per cent of the voters were women. Six candidates headed the polls in all contests in which they appeared.

Mrs. Elizabeth Wood became the first woman mayor in the 96-year history of New Westminster, B.C., and Mrs. Catherine Bryden was elected mayor of Fort William. Mrs. Malvina Labine, 61-year-old mother of 26, who once worked with township road gangs, was elected mayor of Rayside-Township near Sudbury, Ont.

Mrs. Marie Curtis of Long Branch, Ont., was elected the first woman president of the Ontario Association of Mayors and Reeves.

In literature, Gabrielle Roy of St. Boniface, Man., won the Governor-General's award for fiction for the second time, with her "Street of Riches." Gladys Taylor of Thetford Mines, Que., won the Ryerson fiction award and $1,000 for her book "King Tree."

WOMAN EDITOR

The Aurora (Ont.) Banner edited by Dorothy Barker won a trophy for the best all-round weekly newspaper in its circulation class—2,000 to 3,000—as well as awards for the best editorial page and best front page.

Newfoundland appointed its first woman judge, former welfare worker Sadie Bott of St. John's, who will work in family court.

In sport, Lucile Wheeler of Stellarton, Que., won a gold medal in world ski competition in Austria, and Ernestine Russell of Windsor, Ont., connected in world gymnastic championships at Moscow.

Marilyn Bell, the first to swim across Lake Ontario, now living at Camden, N.J., as the wife of Joseph di Lazzio, gave birth to a daughter.

Even the bloodless bullfight of Nathaniel Lindsay, Ont., had a women's angle. Elizabeth, 21, of Toronto and Mexico, was one of the organizers and bullfighters.

Other oddments: Ann Big Eyes who is otherwise known as Ann Sonnisk, Jr., became the world's first Eskimo airline stewardess on a run between Montreal and Churchill, Man. Rev. Addie Aylesworth became the world's first woman to be on the stock, minister of North Burton and Chatham churches in On-tario church executive.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beeckman

CHRISTMAS GIFTS FOR FIANCE'S FAMILY

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

On the Sunday before Christmas our daughter's engagement is to be "officially" announced at a small dinner my husband and I are to give at our house. We have not yet met her fiancé's family but his mother and father, his two brothers and his sister are coming to the dinner. Yesterday his very gracious mother telephoned me again to say how happy they are to be coming to meet us and to dine with us, and then most hospitably invited our family of four to spend Christmas Day with them, to share their tree and other festivities. Since it will be Christmas Day, do you think we should or shouldn't take a present for each member of their family? We're divided on this question.—Reader

Since it will be Christmas Day I do indeed think you should take some kind of present or presents when you go to spend the day with them. Otherwise I believe you'll feel awkwardly empty-handed not to have something to contribute to their Christmas tree. However, I think it would be too much of a chore to choose individual presents for the members of this family. You won't know them well enough to know their tastes.

I suggest you take a present to your family to their family; for example, a handsome Christmas box or basket of crystallized and or dried fruits and or assorted nuts and or special candies. Or perhaps a personally-assembled box of assorted hors d'oeuvres, or delicatessen pates and soreads of various kinds; or preserves—a set box of decorative jars of various kinds of jams and jellies. If you wish to make one more gift, your daughter might know their taste in food and could choose some records or perhaps a symphony album.

PLACE CARD QUESTION

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Are place cards appropriate for the Parents' Table at our daughter's wedding reception?—Mother

Yes . . . appropriate, and extremely convenient.

PEADY'S DIP

(Note: Our mutual friend Actes uses Italian breadsticks broken into 3" pieces instead of potato chips for dipping. Then she decided to make tiny spoon-shaped Italian breadsticks. The spoon dips up enough dip and you eat it too. Some day I'll give you the recipe for the Italian breadsticks and you can try it out.)

One 4-oz. package cream cheese, ½ cup mayonnaise, ½ pint commercial sour cream, 4-oz. jar tiny pearl onions including their vinegar, 1 envelope dry onion soup powder, 1 small green onions chopped over so finely. Whip sour cream until fluffy and folding its shape. Cream the cheese well and cream the mayonnaise into it. Fold in whipped sour cream and remaining ingredients. Turn into serving bowl, cover with foil and chill until party time.

WANDA'S DEVILLED HAM DIP

One 4-oz. package cream cheese, 1 3-oz. can deviled ham, 1 tablespoon each grated onion, chopped chives, chopped parsley, 1 clove garlic (optional), ½ teaspoon salt, few grains cayenne pepper, ½ cup whipping cream, paprika. Whip all together except cream. Whip cream. Fold in. Sprinkle with paprika. Chill.

DOROTHY'S AVOCADO APPETIZER

One and one-half cups mashed avocado, 2 tablespoons each minced onion, tomato juice, chili sauce, dash of pepper, dash of cayenne. Blend well and serve on crackers.

EMEM'S NUTS AND BOLTS

One medium package each pretzel sticks, 1 tablespoon each seasoned salt, smoke-flavored salt, 1 teaspoon each crushed marjoram, crushed summer savory, ½ teaspoon each garlic powder, onion powder, ½ teaspoon each celery salt, 1 cup salted peanuts, ¾ pound butter (don't skimp.) In large baking pan carefully mix cereals, pretzels and nuts. Blend marjoram and savory with other seasonings. Then blend with cereals, cut butter in small chunks over entire surface. Bake at 250 deg. Fahr. for 45 minutes. Stir during toasting period, being careful to keep delicate cereals. May be stored in refrigerator in air-tight containers.

STRAWBERRY AND LEMON PUNCH

Combine one 6-Oz. can each concentrated frozen lemonade and orange juice, 1 package frozen sliced strawberries. Just before serving, add 1 quart sparkling water and 1 quart ginger ale. Mix well. Place in punch bowl with ice.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Editor's Note: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and one writer. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible extension and counsellors.

James R. — She gets into fights with the neighbors.

Margaret R. — He ought to defend me.

James R. — My problem is with my wife. We are in our mid-30's and have been married six years. We have a little girl of 5 and a baby son.

My wife is a good mother and homemaker, but she worries too much about our little girl. She feels that Susan isn't big and strong enough for her age and can't fight back when other children hit her. My wife has got-ten into many fights with our neighbor over Susan. It is true that some of these neighbor-hood brats do their kids to behave like human beings, but still we are stuck in our apartment here and must get along with these people.

I tell Margaret that she's going to begin to let the kid off on her own. Next year she'll be starting school and won't have Mommy to fight her battles.

* * *

Margaret R. — It's just because Susan will start school next year that I worry now and try to help her while I can. She is very tiny for her age, although the doctor says that she is in good health and growing nicely. But when she goes to school with all those big, rough kids she'll be lost if she gets into any sort of fight.

Jim doesn't realize how it hurts me to see that Susan won't even try to fight back when she is pushed around. I can't help blowing up and letting some of those neighbors and their kids have it.

I feel that Jim ought to defend me in these arguments with the neighbors. Instead he starts raving and ranting and blaming me for the whole thing. A real man would fight for his wife.

The Council: A woman who constantly gets into fights with her neighbors over the children is a pretty serious problem to herself and the children.

Margaret must face the facts — that her kind concern about Susan is ill-founded and she must come to terms with her own emotions if she wants her child to have a chance for a normal life.

The doctor says that this little girl is healthy and growing normally. That means that she is reasonably well-equipped to take care of herself.

But her mother takes the least action of an aggressive gesture as a call to arms. Why? Well, we feel that Margaret is the one who feels small, defenceless and helpless against the world. For some reason she is in a panic and feels that she must fight or the world will overwhelm. She seeks to draw in her husband as her defender, but so far he has sensibly refrained from getting involved.

Margaret should try to be aware of the fact that she has developed a distorted picture of things. People are not against her or her child. On the contrary it is she who looks for fights and manages to develop them out of nothing. If Margaret finds herself unable to deal with her irrational behavior she should consider the possibility of getting some psychiatric treatment. Her emotional disorder can grow into a fairly serious problem.

Extra Trains Planned for Holiday Travel

TORONTO — Holiday train travel will be heaviest this year on lines to Montreal and the Maritimes, says T. A. Griffin, Canadian National Railways General Passenger Agent, Toronto. Extra train will run on these routes over Christmas and New Year's weekends, and additional equipment will be added to most other trains.

One extra train will be operated to Montreal on December 19, 20, 23, 24, 26, 27, 28, 31 and January 4. It will run on a fast schedule as an advance section of the regular morning train and its equipment will conclude coaches, parlor cars and diner.

On Christmas Eve and New Year's Eve the "International Limited" from Montreal to Toronto and Chicago will run in two sections. These are the heaviest booked trains for the day before Christmas. They will have reserved-seat coaches supplementing regular coaches and parlor cars.

In the week immediately preceding Christmas, almost all Toronto-Montreal trains will run in sections to take care of extra traffic.

On Wednesday, December 24, only, an extra train will be provided between Toronto and London via Stratford — in one direction. It will leave Toronto at 1:10 p.m., arrive in London 4.46 p.m.

New Wage Talks Brighten Prospects for Sudbury Hit By $12,000,000 Payroll Loss

SUDBURY (CP) — Sudbury's spirits today were as bright as the Christmas lights strung over Elm street.

Hit by a $12,000,000 payroll loss since the International Nickel Company strike began 84 days ago, this Northern Ontario mining city of 48,000 looked eagerly for signs of settlement at the reopening of government-sponsored negotiations by Labor Minister Daley of Ontario.

The news about the new talks in Toronto brought quick relaxation of the tension resulting from a back-to-work movement among strikers' wives.

Police throughout the area said no more complaints of threatening telephone calls were reported during the night.

Mrs. Leon Breen found her telephone ringing steadily after she helped organize a mass meeting of wives last week. But she received only four calls Monday night.

Union negotiator, packing his grip at the union hall before going to Toronto, said hopefully:

"It's got to be settled some time—why not now? This is the time to do it."

Rev. J. J. Delaney, a Roman Catholic priest who is assisting welfare to more than 1,000 strikers' families, was certain the fresh negotiations meant that either the union or company—perhaps both—is prepared to make new concessions in the wage dispute.

The talks would not have resumed unless there was some reason for it," he said.

City Controller William Edgar was "wicked pink" at the prospect of a settlement when the city's tax collections are dropping and welfare payments are rising to nearly triple those of last winter.

"I have higher hopes than I'm had for the last talks," he declared.

Said a striker's wife who has already told her six children Santa Claus won't be visiting them this year:

"A settlement would be all we'd need for Christmas."

There appeared to be less optimism in the business community, which has already felt its usual heavy Christmas sales.

"We're hopeful but not too optimistic," said Bob Hollywood, secretary-manager of the Chamber of Commerce.

"Both sides are apparently just as far apart as they were before."

Some of the strikers, aware that even a quick settlement won't give them a pay cheque for at least two weeks, were hoping one would pay its usual $25 Christmas bonus. There were reports the company would start beginning distributing cheques.

For many families the only gifts available are second-hand toys shipped in from out-of-town stores. Children of strikers from nearby Copper Cliff were invited to attend a special Christmas movie party scheduled for Saturday at the Sudbury Memorial Arena transportation, movies and candy are to be supplied by the Copper Cliff Athletic Association, made up of Inco employees.

Sudbury paid $15,432 in relief to needy persons last month, compared to $6,138 for 272 applicants in November 1957. But aid to strikers is forbidden under the provincial government welfare grants.

Some strikers' families are running out of money for fuel. The union's weekly food vouchers, worth as little as $4, are now worth no more than $25 even in the biggest families, and there is danger of malnutrition or epidemics.

One-Legged Man Gives Self up In Robbery Case

OTTAWA (CP)—A one-legged man wanted for armed robbery in London, Ont., gave himself up to police here Monday night.

"I'm tired", he said in a telephone call to the newspaper, "I just want to give myself in. I'm through with running."

Reporter Ted Barratty found Jack Harness, 35, a native of Exeter, Ont., and formerly of Winnipeg, sitting sleepily in a car on west - central Pleet Street where he said he'd be.

The car matched the description of a car taken from two University of Western Ontario students by a one-legged hitch-hiker they had picked up in London Saturday night. The man forced at gunpoint a student Lorne Walker Dundas of Crediton, Ont., and a student Peter Centralis both 21, to drive to Cookville, and there turn over to him the $125 they had carried.

Harness was to be picked up here early by London police.

FRONTIER REVOLVER

Reporter Haarnitty asked Harness for the loan of the .45-calibre revolver of the type used in western movies. Its six chambers were loaded.

Harness smiled wryly: "It's a gift. I got it in the States. I won't anymore. It isn't loaded and even if it was I couldn't point it at anyone. I wouldn't point it at anyone if it was loaded."

Police, when they took custody of Harness later, found one .45-calibre bullet in the revolver, with a few dollars.

Haarnitty said the dispirited Harness was "very quiet and frail looking—showed the reporter a hypodermic needle and syringe, and a thin tube containing one small tablet.

TOOK MORPHINE

Harness said that earlier in the day he had taken morphine from a doctor's office in a car near Ottawa Civic Hospital. Police later confirmed the theft.

"I never had any for eight years until tonight," Harness said.

Police, knowing Harness' wife was staying in Ottawa, had been on the lookout for him.

Harness said his right leg had to be amputated at the hip when he was seven after a bobsled accident. He had been in and out of one scrape after another during the last 15 years ago he had married and now has one child and his wife is expecting another.

A workman was killed and 20 others were injured when an explosion occurred on a building in Sherbrooke, Que. In the foreground is the roof and wall which collapsed as a result of the explosion Monday morning. (CP Wirephoto.)

Possible Mao Tse-tung Talking Over Another Important Post

BY JOSEPH MACSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Mao Tse-tung, a man of ruthless will and amiable countenance, has led Red China to the peak of its military, political and economic power.

It's hardly surprising therefore, that government leaders around the world are closely studying unofficial reports from China that Mao may step down as chairman.

Such reports have cropped up before and turned out to be false. But diplomatic experts say it may well be possible that Mao, who is 65, is planning to devote more time to the preparation of a theoretical work to explain Red China's vast programs.

Mao, in this view, would "retain his rank and even prestige as the leader of 600,000,000 people in the grip of a sterner regime than that of Russia.

It is pointed out that Mao, while a soldier and man of action, is also an intellectual a poet a prolific writer.

This man of paradox, while exuding rustic simplicity, wields more power than any Chinese emperor ever did and is driving his people into a barracks-type existence.

Western statesmen have frequently expressed doubts as to whether Mao will be able to make his new commune system work. Individually, attacking as it does the ancient family traditions and character of the Chinese.

In Red China's great leap forward," millions of people are herded into communes, steel furnaces are being erected in backyards and peasants are marched to the fields like soldiers to a parade ground.

Josef Stalin tried a similar system in Russia after the revolution — an attempt to use collective farms into all-embracing communes — but was forced to give it up by implacable opposition from the peasants.

Undaunted, Mao, the son of a peasant is uprooting people from their homes and villages and regimenting them in barracks on the job. Women work on farms, highways, dams, and in factories, mines, communal kitchens, nurseries and tailor shops.

Mothers turn their children over to communal nurseries and kindergartens. They no longer prepare meals at home but eat in mess halls, along with other members of the commune.

Says the People's Daily, party mouthpiece:

"Individuality has absolutely no place. No longer does one find the phenomenon in which workers are members of the working class and then they are working and free people when they are off duty. Now there is all - round party leadership over the production, life and education of the worker masses."

Mao thus seems to have moved far from the position of a couple of years ago, when he enunciated the short-lived policy of "let a hundred flowers bloom" on the road to socialism.

Nikita Agam Assails Molotov, Malenkov Group

MOSCOW (AP) — Nikita Khrushchev has launched a bitter new attack at the Malenkov-Molotov "anti-party group," blaming it for major shortcomings in Soviet agriculture.

Khrushchev's new blast, made at a meeting Monday of the Soviet Communist party's central committee, came after a new press campaign against the five men Khrushchev toppled from power in the Kremlin shakeup in July, 1957.

Accounts of the speech today in Tass, the Soviet news agency, gave no indication of whether further measures would be taken against the five men — ex-premiers Malenkov and Bulganin, former foreign ministers Molotov and Dimitri Shepilov and former economic czar Lazar Kaganovich. All have been relegated to obscure posts.

Khrushchev claimed Malenkov, Molotov and their disgraced associates:

1. Tried to stifle the patriotic movement for catching up with the United States in per capita production of livestock produce."

2. Opposed the virgin lands project, a pet Khrushchev scheme which he boasted had proved the key factor in bringing a record grain production of 140,000,000 tons this year.

3. Attempted to "revise the party's general Leninist line on basic issues of the country's development." (In this he said they "failed ingloriously.")

4. "Stubbornly opposed for a number of years the realization of important measures in agriculture and thereby retarded the development of the Soviet economy."

Khrushchev boasted that despite the shortcomings in various fields of agriculture, the Soviet Union already is free of the United States in total production of wool, butter, milk and cotton.

POST-ELECTION JOBS

Comfrey Leaf Has Helped Sufferers of Several Ills

HAMILTON N.Z. (CP— — Although the comfrey nibbled a leaf in the garden of Mrs. D. H. Johnston of Hamilton, New Zealand. Now she is being overwhelmed with requests for supplies of the leaf. She has hundreds of sufferers from several complaints.

A farmer friend absent - mindedly nibbled the leaf of a plant growing in Mrs. Johnson's front garden while they were standing talking. He said it relieved his asthma for 30 years.

His first sight of unbroken sleep followed. Trying to trace the reason he thought back over his actions for the previous day. He decided it must be the leaf he had eaten, and sent for some.

Now he eats some every day, and has not suffered from asthma since.

Mrs. Johnson's own son also cured himself of asthma. He followed the same routine and was similarly relieved.

Today supplies of the leaf are sent all over New Zealand to asthma sufferers.

The plant is symphytum uplandicum, popularly known as comfrey.

Mrs. Johnson started growing the plants to feed the thoroughbred horses she breeds. She had heard it built strong bones in young animals. She had difficulty obtaining supplies of the plant, since its importation was banned, but she managed to obtain a few plants from some imported previously. Now the few have grown to hundreds of thousands.

Comfrey is believed to have been used medicinally by the Greeks and Romans — both as a tonic and to heal wounds. It looks something like a dock plant without the central spine.

Its roots go down very deep and are said to withstand not touched by shallow-rooted plants in a plentiful and a plant can live for 100 years.

Comfrey is said to have been used with good results as a food in Russia during the war and is being grown experimentally as a fodder crop at several research stations in Queensland.

The plants grown by Mrs. Johnson have brought successful results in many parts of New Zealand.

She has had enthusiastic letters from people sufferers from eczema and other skin troubles, tuberculosis, rheumatic complaints, boils, and varicose ulcers as well as asthma.

All say they sleep better, eat well and feel much fitter after a few weeks' treatment.

Now the growing and packing of comfrey leaves has expanded to all parts of the country. Even up most of Mrs. Johnson's time.

Other growers are finding their further uses for it. The Auckland zoo is growing it in quantity to feed to its animals. Poultry farmers have found it good for their birds. A potato grower has found that his crop is free of blackleg when he places comfrey leaves along the bottom of trenches at planting time.

Alexandrine Gibb Noted Sports Columnist Dies

TORONTO (CP) — Alexandrine Gibb, a long-time Toronto newspaper woman who had been active in women's sport, died Monday night after suffering a heart attack.

Miss Gibb, who was about 60, had been ill for six weeks.

She was one of the first writers to cover women's sports as a columnist in the Toronto Telegram. Later she went to the Toronto Star where she wrote a women's sports column many years before starting to cover general news.

Her newspaper career covered more than 30 years.

Miss Gibb managed the first Canadian women's track and field team invited to compete overseas. This was in 1925 when six Toronto girls competed in London in a world athletic event for women.

MANAGED OLYMPIC GIRLS

She managed Canada's women's track and field team at the 1928 Olympic Games in Amsterdam. At that time women were allowed t ocompete in modern Olympics. She was in charge of two subsequent women's teams at Olympic Games and also led the women's squad in the 1934 British Empire Games in London.

Miss Gibb's athletes performed with distinction that year. They won the 4-yard relay and finished second in the 220-yard run and the 880-metre hurdles.

She was president of the Women's Athletic Federation of Canada and at the time of her secretary of the Ontario Ladies' Basketball Association. She helped found the Toronto Ladies' Club.

Miss Gibb was the only woman member of the Ontario Athletic Commission and was appointed the first Canadian women's sports representative on the International Amateur Athletic Union.

FATHER LAKES CAPTAIN

Her mother, Mrs. Sarah Gibb, daughter of a Great Lakes captain, predeceased her. Miss Gibb was education at Havergal College in Toronto and showed an early interest in sports.

After she turned to general reporting, in 1935 she travelled 30,000 miles on a trip that took her to Russia and Iran. She had interviewed many notable figures.

Hoffa's Rival Ousted From Job

NEW YORK (AP) — Thomas Lee, Hickey, long an outspoken opponent of teamster president James R. Hoffa, has been removed as general organizer of the labor union.

His successor is John O'Rourke, president of the New York joint council of teamsters and a strong Hoffa supporter.

The decision was taken by the union's executive board in Miami Beach, Fla., Saturday.

No reason was given for the change. Hickey told a Senate investigating committee in August, 1957 that Hoffa forces were then moving to throttle his union career.

Hickey was one of three candidates who unsuccessfully ran against Hoffa for presidency of the union in succeed David Beck in September, 1957.

Sharing of Defence Secrets With U.S. May Change U.K.'s Long-Term Policy Thinking

LONDON (CP) — Britain's defence chiefs have launched an intensive review of their long-term policies because of the flood of new information being made available to them from the United States.

One result may be a slowing down in the wholesale switch to missiles implied in the last two defence white papers. This would allow the United Kingdom to devote a greater portion of her defence budget to the development and stockpiling of conventional weapons.

Defence Minister Duncan Sandys and his advisers are known to be surprised and delighted at the speed with which the U.S. has thrown open the doors of its armament cupboards since the two countries reached agreement last August on the sharing of defence secrets.

REDUCED STOCKPILE

British experts have already been given access to weapons and techniques they didn't know existed. The extent of co-operation Canada's race is giving rise to hopes Britain may be able to make substantial reductions in the cost of her own nuclear programs by eliminating duplication in the efforts of the two countries.

"We would be bloody fools if we didn't consider our thinking in the light of the wealth of new information now available to us," a defence spokesman said.

It is by no means a one-sided exchange. The U.S. is understood to be impressed by the amount of research the British scientists have achieved with limited resources. Considerable joint research now is under way and particular attention is being paid to British ideas about guidance systems for rockets.

At present, Britain's offensive potential is based on her strategic force of bombers—Valiants, Victors and Vulcans—buttressed by the land-based American missilez Thor.

MISSILE SWITCH

Until the current review was started, forward defence planning envisaged a fairly rapid replacement of manned bombers by advanced British missiles.

Sandys and his colleagues on the defence committee now are considering whether land - based missile requirements for the next 10 years or so should be scaled down or cut out altogether. Some advisers are understood to favor a policy under which Britain would rely on manned bombers for the next decade, then switch to missiles.

Most of Britain's long - term defence thinking has been devoted to land - based weapons, such as the Bluestreak rocket and the Blue Steel missile. But the planners are impressed by U.S. development work on the solid-fuelled Polaris missile, designed to be fired from a submarine. This has special attractions for an island power such as Britain, both maintains the traditional role of the navy in the country's defence and does away with the need for costly and vulnerable rocket-launching bases on land.

VIEW SOMBRELY

Understandably, one of the chief advocates of a policy based on the Polaris missile and nuclear-powered submarines is Admiral of the Fleet Earl Mountbatten of Burma, who many observers believe will eventually become Marshal of the RAF Sir William Dickson as chief of the defence staff.

But the handsome, blunt-speaking earl has lost his backroom role to force a modified version of the navy's NA-39 carrier-based jet fighter-bomber on the RAF as a replacement for the Canberra bomber. The defence committee has accepted the RAF's view that the NA-39 is not suitable for its purposes, and now is considering the advisability of embarking development of a new supersonic bomber and transport aircraft known only as Operational Requirement 3.

If, as seems likely, the defence committee decides to delay a final decision on the type of missile to be ultimately selected regarding further development work on both sides of the Atlantic, the RCF will stand a good chance of getting its supersonic plane.

All three services will probably be asked to reduce expenditure next year to help finance research, now eating up about one-third of the defence budget, which this year totalled £1,435,000,000 ($4,018,000,000).

DRUNK, FORGETS CHURCH

TORONTO (CP)—A man who was fined Saturday in addition of his wedding that he forgot the church and the time was given a suspended sentence on the drunk charge Monday and "the sinners of the court" by Magistrate James Butler. Hans Schneider, 25, declared he still planned to get married as soon as he got free.

"Jest a Second"

"If thought they were never going to give me the money today — I had to howl for agent"

Mayor Sid Buckwold of Saskatoon welcomes Prime Minister Diefenbaker as he alights from an RCAF Transport Command plane (ouched) down for the first time on Canadian soil since the start of the Prime Minister's global trip. Mrs. Diefenbaker follows down the ramp. Mr. Diefenbaker's concern over his ailing 86-year-old mother prompted him to cancel the last five days of his tour. ORDER TRANSFUSION FOR RH BABY

Refusal by Mr. and Mrs. Ken Campbell to allow a blood transfusion for their seven-day-old daughter Lori Lynn led to a Canadian legal history. The baby, in an inhalator, was wheeled into an improvised court in the Hospital for Sick Children in Toronto, while a judge pronounced on the application by the Children's Aid Society to have the baby declared their ward. The judge gave them custody and Lori Lynn received two transfusions which, doctors say, were necessary to save her life. The parents, above, are members of the Jehovah's Witness religious sect which believes transfusions contrary to the will of God. The court order was necessary to allow doctors to administer the transfusion against the wishes of the parents.

Knocks Out Two In 1st Round, Breaks Hand

CLEVELAND (AP) — Lamar Clark of Cedar City, Utah, knocked out two opponents in the first round Monday night but had to cancel a third bout because of an injured right hand.

Clarke's first victim, Garnett Butler, a 220-pounder from Detroit, wrestled Clark to the canvas once. But a series of hard spoks to the head dropped Butler for good at 1:21 of the first round. Butler was unconscious for five minutes and had to be helped from the ring.

Al Heider, another Detroiter, took one Clark punch and the fight was over in 35 seconds on a technical knockout. Heider weighed 211.

The 183-pound Clark, grimacing with pain, walked in his corner holding his right hand. The ringside physician said the hand might be fractured.

Yankees Pitchers Proved Tops In American

CHICAGO (AP) — The New York Yankees' pitching staff, headed by Vic Raschi and Ed Turley, again topped the American League in performances last season.

Official statistics released today show the Yanks' staff posted a 3.22 earned run average, far ahead of second-place Cleveland's 3.40. Raschi, chunky southpaw, led all individuals with a 2.91 mark.

Detroit was third with a 3.59 average, followed by Chicago 3.61, Cleveland's 3.72 Boston's 3.82, Kansas City's 4.15 and Washington's 4.20.

PIERCE SECOND

Trailing Ford among the individual leaders were southpaw Billy Pierce of Chicago with 2.68, southpaw Joe Dobson of Boston with 2.90, righthander Frank Lary of Detroit with 2.91, lefthander Billy O'Dell of Baltimore with 2.97, righthander Turley with 2.98 and righthander Cal McLish of Cleveland with 2.98.

Turley was the league's only 20-game winner with a 21-7 record and .750 percentage — loss of winning pitchers who worked 150 or more innings. Second to Turley in victories was Pierce with 17.

Despite his great record, Turley again left the loop in walks with 172, only two of which were intentional.

Pierce and Lary tied for most complete games with 22. Ford was tops in shutouts with seven. Turley had six.

Washington's Mickey Ramos, fiveballing righthander, faced the most batsmen, 1,015, allowed the most hits, 277, the most runs, 133, and started the most games, 37. Lary pitched the most innings, 290.

Chicago righthander Dick Fowler's Wynn was tops with 179 strikeouts and topped his career total to 1,037.

Two no-hit games were recorded. Jim Bunning, pitched the righthander accomplished the feat against Boston. Billy Pierce, lefthander Hoyt Wilhelm, a National League castoff, came through with a no-hit effort two months later.

'Pop' Ivy Signs Contract With Cardinals

CHICAGO (AP)—Coach Frank (Pop) Ivy, whose Chicago Cardinals won only two National Football League games this season, has signed a long-term contract with the club at a substantial increase in salary.

Managing director Walter Wolfner did not disclose figures but he said the contract was for a longer term than any ever given by a card coach. That's pretty much if he's doing and what he needs, and we'll do everything we can to help him from Edmonton Eskimos of the Western Interprovincial Football Union, a circuit he led to championship season.

Ivy played six years with the Cards, ending with the club's 1947

Kramer Will Fight Ban on Tennis Troupe

PERTH, Australia (AP)—Professional promoter Jack Kramer says he would wage an all-out fight against the move by Australian tennis authorities to have his troupe banned on amateur courts throughout the world.

The Lawn Tennis Association of Australia drew up a resolution at Melbourne Monday night asking the international federation to impose the ban.

Kramer already is barred from amateur ranks in big Australian cities.

"The LTAA is short sighted," Kramer said. "I don't know how long I can go on turning the other cheek."

Kramer said if he was victimized he could wage an all-out war and throw his pros into direct competition with the Australian amateur tournaments. "I never have had my players competing at the same time with amateurs," he said. "I do not think I would stoop to this even now because it would be hurting the game which I am anxious to build up."

The Australian action is said to be in retaliation for Kramer's move to pay one country coach affiliated with the LTAA.

"I don't think the rest of the world will get excited about this issue in Australia," he added.

BIG DOUBLE

SAN BRUNO, Calif. (AP)—A whopping $1,062.20 daily double payoff came at Tanforan Saturday as a pair of Seabiscuits, with only one previous victory between them, captured the first and second races. Arizona Valor, a two-year-old, won his first race in 16 outings with a six-furlong run in 1:13 2-5 in the opener. The Sunbabgo, a three-year-old who captured his only previous victory last March 14 in California, came on to win the 1 1-16-mile second race in 1:47 3-5.

Punch Patriarch Own Critic Of Title Fight With Durelle

BY MURRAY ROSE

NEW YORK (AP) — Archie Moore saw a television show Monday night that he thought it had gotten the fight planning he had a sock finish.

The light - heavyweight champion had just seen a video tape screening of his spectacular 11th round knockout of rugged Yvon Durelle at Montreal last Wednesday night.

"I didn't care for the first half," the Ancient One archie said. "I liked the second very much. As a matter of fact that part was great."

During the first half, Archie learned Durelle has a chair. From the sixth round on he leaned back, chuckling most of the time.

When he was dropped in the first round by a overhand right to the jaw, Archie said: "I sure fell...with a thud. Had my left hand way down. Gotta keep it up. Look, my legs spreading. Gotta keep 'em together."

CONTROVERSIAL SLIP

Durelle tore after Archie. Then, he left and right clipped Archie on the jaw. He learned forward. Durelle grazed him but Archie caught him from the momentum of the other two punches.

"Clever fellow," muttered Archie.

That was the knockdown that wasn't ruled a knockdown by referee Jack Sharkey. It looked like a slip and a fall of that left and right.

A right dropped Archie again. "This was what put me in misery," said Archie. "I'm okay now."

But he wasn't completely. During the fight Archie said:

"Look, he's trying to get me outa there," said Archie. "I am okay." He was. The bell had sounded.

Here are some of Archie's other comments:

Fourth round after Moore had landed a solid left and right to the jaw—"that guy's tough."

THE FINISHER

Fifth round when Archie was floored again by a right—he's got one to real misery now. He's trying to get rid of me again (Durelle pulling away with both hands). He's shot his bolt now. I'm all right."

Sixth round when Archie jabbed away and scored with fast left and rights to the body—"I got him eating out of my hand now."

Seventh round when Archie drove over a smashing right—"ooh." A solid Moore left hook landed. "A good hook. Shook him." A right dropped Durelle. "Ooh. Oh. He's tough, isn't he?"

Eighth and ninth rounds when Archie booked rings around his foe—"Slick, Slick, (jabbing). Got him puzzled now. Got him under control." (Just before a whistling overhead right thudded Durelle's jaw). "Watch this. That boy is is good conditioned."

Tenth round — "He's a little tired now. (A barrage dropped Durelle. The count reached eight with Durelle on his knees when the bell sounded. Don't think he would have got up."

Eleventh round — "This one goes 49 seconds, doesn't it? (Fast combinations dropped Durelle twice, the last one for the knockout). "Ooh. Ooh. Sure glad that one's over. It's nice to watch one for a change."

"Most of my career, when things were tough and I was getting my lumps, I always dreamed of the day when boxing would need me," Archie told a group of writers in the afternoon. "I guess my time came. But I don't hold any grudges. Things are going along fine. I'm going to ask South American boss after then I've got that return fight with Durelle in Montreal in July."

"That should be a big payday," someone said.

"I hope so," said Archie. "That will take care of my old age."

Long Refuses To Inspect Chicub Books

CHICAGO (AP) — Dale Long has made baseball history with his bat in 1956, passed up a chance to make some more Monday.

He rejected Chicago Cubs' offer to peruse their operational expenses. For a player to have access to such figures is believed to be unprecedented in baseball.

The Cubs wanted to show Long, the club's player representative, that since 1925 salaries never have been below 20 per cent of the gross income and in many years much more.

The bookkeeping department spent a week preparing an analysis five or six pages long of the breakdown in income and expenses over the last 33 seasons.

PLAYERS PROPOSAL

This was made, vice-president John Holland explained, so that the club itself could determine the percentage of the gross for players' paychecks. It was the result of major league players proposing salaries at the rate of a club's gross income—a proposal unanimously rejected by owners in their recent meeting in Washington, D.C.

"Long can see the analysis if he wants," Holland said. "But the records will show again, as they did at a meeting with us on his 1956 contract.

Long, first baseman who set a major league record in 1956 with Pittsburgh Pirates by hitting eight homers in eight consecutive games, said he would pass up the chance.

"It's none of my business," he said. "They can tell me, and I believe them.

Real Hoop-De-Do for World Premiere of 'The Buccaneer'

By ROB THOMAS

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Well, it was a tough fight, but the Redcoats lost the battle of New Orleans again.

They lost, but the cards were stacked against them. So, with a rattle of drums and a sound of trumpetsf, they retreated, carrying along the wounded. Exhausted, they went home to bed.

The re-enactment of the battle of New Orleans was the result of was part of the hoop-de-do for the world premiere of The Buccaneer, which also happens to be about the battle of New Orleans. The publicity department sweats, and the Paramount boys had a ball with this one.

The premiere party, led by actress Inger Stevens and producer Henry Wilcoxon, was carried to the Chalmette battle site by the circle of Redcoats. There was only trouble came when the Good Neighbor tried to dock near a dredger, lost a propeller in the latter's cable and came within a hair's breadth of losing the dredge's boom.

"The mayor ain't goin' to like that," a crew member observed.

The welcome party waited in the chilly air on the dock while the civic sailors tried to figure way to get ashore. The greeters included a covey of bare-shouldered southern belles who wore tall gowns, red sashes and goose pimples.

The girls shivered and the visitors waited until two ladders were held together for egress over the prow of the Good Neighbor. By this time, the battle was under way.

Oh, it was a grand fight!

On the American side were plaid-sized pioneers in coonskin hats and buckskin, fine-feathered Indians, as well as Andy Jackson's blue-veined wife. The Redcoats were equally impressive in their bright uniforms. There was even a platoon of kilted "laddies from Heck."

When it was all over and the British had retreated again there were servants all over, but the only real casualty was a den leader who burned his fingers lighting a firecracker for sound effects.

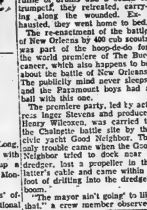
Quebec League Big Blowoff Was Fizzle

MONTREAL (CP) — The two best items on the 1952-53 season caused hardly a sizzle at a general business meeting of the Quebec Hockey League here Monday night.



League officials had been expected to issue statements on the possible suspension of Howie Young, defenceman with Chicoutimi Saguenenns, and on predictions that the league may be folded which were attributed to Jon Crocker, general manager-player of the Aces.

A decision in the case of Young, accused of an attack on referee Bariilo in a game Dec. 6, was postponed for further investigation. Crocker was an official comment on Crocker, who now claims he was misquoted.

An unofficial comment was "If Quebec wants to fold — though their attendance is up over last year—the league will carry on with three teams."

As a result of their own confidence in the future, league officials announced a new system of playoffs—a three - team, round-robin producing two teams to enter best-of-seven final.

The teams finishing one-two-three in the regular league will each play eight games and at the conclusion of the round-robin the two teams with the best record will meet in the final.

'Lamp Unto My Feet' One Of Best Daytime Programs

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP) — In the hours of Sunday morning, when the majority of viewers are said to be either in church or in bed, there comes one of the best daytime TV programs of the entire week, Lamp Unto My Feet.

Obviously not everyone is asleep or at church, for Lamp Unto My Feet (CBS-TV 10 a.m. EST) maintains a healthy audience. Futhermore, it recently completed its consecutive year on the air, making it one of the oldest programs visible. Finally, it deals with an area of human experience that television usually shuns: religion.

One of the significant things about the non-sectarian program is that it is unsponsored — either commercially or by those who generally are considered "religious."

"People who are religiously oriented usually are in church when we come on the air," says its young producer, Fred Kellett-man. "We bade our greatest influence on the people who whom we most want to communicate—the unchurched."

Although its latest is not evangelical Lamp Unto My Feet is religious in the sense that it is concerned with moral problems.

Sometimes it concerns itself and its viewers with the garden-variety problems — alcoholism, the role of the church in the panic of adolescence. Again it will plunge into the bigger problems of unemployment and prejudice and vanity.

"Our whole point," says Kellerman, "is to present a problem and never try to offer a solution. The 15-minute play which dramatizing a problem should be a shoddy production if it tried to solve it. And the 15-minute discussion following the play would be morally shoddy if it tried to solve it."

Although it operates on a shoe-string budget compared with most TV shows, it regularly obtains the services of renowned performers for a fraction of their usual fees.

For example, Basil Rathbone recently appeared reading from the works of Plato; Edward Mc-Hare of My Fair Lady gave dramatic reading. Others include Sir Cedric Hardwicke, Eva Gabor, Nina Foch, Siobhan McKenna, Kim Hunter.

Usually the program's moderator, Dr. Lyman Bryson, discusses the problems presented with leading clergymen of all faiths.

"Our criterion of production," says Kellerman, "is that we produce this show for ourselves. I want to look at it and I want my friends to look at it and I don't want any of us to be embarrassed."

Canadian Conduct at Games Fires Athletes-Brass Dispute

VANCOUVER (CP) — The conduct of Canadians at the 1958 British Empire Games in Cardiff has become the basis of a dispute between athletes and team officials.

Three athletes have accused officials of interference, poor management and improper coaching and training methods," and one said the officials spent "more time in reception parlors than in taking care of their athletes."

The controversy was touched off recently by team general manager Bob Osborne of Vancouver who recommended suspension for an athlete over a partying incident described as "a very bad case — without a shadow of a doubt."

Runner Doug Clement of Vancouver, Games team captain; pole vaulter Bob Reid of Vancouver and runner Joe Mullins of Halifax hit back in interviews.

URGES SUSPENSION

Prof. Osborne recommended the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada suspend "an Eastern Canadian athlete . . . from Canadian international teams for a few years because of misconduct during the games in Cardiff." He declined to identify the athlete but Mullins said:

"I am the man Osborne is after."

Reid said: "I believe the charges against a party held in London after the Games were over. Mullins was the only one caught, but he wasn't the only one concerned."

Reid said he feels it is unfortunate that the AAU wanted to make such a big thing of a rather "innocent" incident. Now that they had, he said, he feels he must state that Canadian team members' conduct was no worse than that of the officials.

He said the entire amateur athletic system in Canada should be reviewed publicly.

HIGH SCHOOL COACHING

Reid said team expense funds were misused in choosing boat transportation instead of air transport on the trip to Cardiff; that coach Bob Adams of Saskatoon had used "high school coaching methods," and that there had been general inefficiency and selfishness shown by officials on the trip.

Clement said: "I heard about the party . . . there were other times during the trip when more serious violations occurred."

He said the officials "have laid themselves open to great criticism because of this action of making a public issue out of an athlete's misconduct.

Reid said facilities for the athletes were poor aboard ship and claimed three cases of pulled muscles could be directly attributed to the training aboard the Empress of England.

"Coach Adams put extraordinary effort into training conditions which were impossible," said Clement. "The first two days out, we went for a 6 a.m. run on the deck. We had to stop because we were waking up other passengers."

POOR ORGANIZATION

Mullins said "our team was the most poorly organized in Cardiff. The officials were incompetent and spent more time in reception parlors than in taking care of their athletes."

Prof. Osborne, asked to comment on the athletes' statements, said he would not identify Mullins as the athlete involved in the suspension recommendation.

"The incident came about as a result of charges which were laid by authorities at Imperial College in London, England," he said. "Yes, they did concern a party, but it was a very bad case—without a shadow of a doubt."

Prof. Osborne said he had not made the matter a public issue, but had felt he must take the recommendation to the AAU.

Durelle Gets Hockey Welcome

NEWCASTLE, N. B. (CP) — Hockey fans gave Canadian and British Empire light - heavyweight Yvon Durelle a standing ovation Monday night, welcoming him back to the Miramichi area after his epic battle with world champion Archie Moore in Montreal last Wednesday.

Durelle faced off the Miramichi - Bathurst North Shore Hockey League game and between periods received gifts of clothing, cigarets, chocolates, fishing rods and other articles.

Calhoun Rallies To Defeat Tiger Jones

CLEVELAND (AP) — Rory Calhoun took a beating in the early rounds of a 10-round middleweight bout Monday night but recovered and hammered out a unanimous decision over Ralph "Tiger" Jones.

Jones scored well with both hands in the early rounds, opening a cut over Calhoun's right eye in the first round and a cut under the left eye in the fifth.

Calhoun came in bad shape when he headed for his corner at the end of the fifth. But the 24-year-old White Plains, N.Y., boxer stormed out in the sixth and staggered Jones with a rapid flurry of stinging blows. Jones driven into a corner, managed to weather the round.

Again in the seventh and 10th rounds Jones was rocked by Calhoun combinations, but there were no knockdowns.

Jones used a left jab to peck away at Calhoun's injured eye. But he could not match Calhoun's slugging in the head-to-head exchanges.

Calhoun at 158 1-2, had a 4 1-2 pound weight advantage.

Rabid Gotham Football Fans Jeer at Winter's Icy Blasts

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK (AP) — Maybe it is time to destroy a weary legend—that New York is a blase, take-it-in-strides sports town.

The weather outside was a subfreezing display. Remnants of Sunday's snow lingered on shady sidewalks. In the suburbs lay a thin white blanket. The thermometer edged into the high 20s— then down again.

Football tickets were the hottest item in town, tougher to get than ducats for My Fair Lady or Music Man. The football tickets entitled the bearer to sit in the vast concrete caverns of Yankee Stadium on Sunday to see the New York Giants play the Cleveland Browns for a third time.

CHILLED QUEUS

Long, chilled lines of fans had stormed the stadium ticket windows until almost midnight Sunday after the Giants' 13-10 victory had set up a tie and a play off for the eastern conference championship in the National Football League. Police will tell you there were no jaded, victory-sated citizens in the wild-eyed throng they had to keep in line.

The Giants' chief downtown ticket outlet at Grand Central Station attracted winding queues of buyers. Season ticket holders jammed the lobby of the Columbus Circle Building where the Giants' office is located. You had to wait your turn for an elevator ride to their 16th floor office and then stand in line for a chance to pick up an order.

All this without a major New York daily newspaper publishing.

All have been shut down for several days due to a strike of delivery men.

PLAYERS' HOLIDAY

Only the players had a day off. All but Andy Robustelli, right defensive end, whose sports shops in Connecticut also serve as ticket outlets.

Howell was so pleased with the Giants' play that he also declared today a holiday. Workouts for Sunday's game start Wednesday. The Browns will practise in Cleveland as they did last week.

A backlog of season ticket holders, all of whom are expected to pick up their playoff tickets, and the booming sale practically sliced the racks clear. They had little but obstructed-view tickets to sell in late afternoon. Of course, the 14,000 bleacher seats and standing room will go on sale the day of the game.

Television fans across the nation will see the game on CBS at 2 p.m. EST.

The winner goes into the league championship with Baltimore Dec. 28.

CIAU LEADS

HOBART, Tasmania (Reuters) — England's MCC touring cricket team declared at a first-innings total of 229 Monday for seven on the first day of a game against Tasmania. The Englishmen took the first three Tasmanian wickets for 30 runs. The match ends today.

Winter Baseball School Said To Be Success

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Managers and officials assessed the winter instruction baseball league season Monday and concluded the rookie experiment was a worthwhile endeavor. They hope to be back next year, with perhaps an expanded circuit.

We're all satisfied, and unless something drastic comes up we'll be back next season," said Sheldon Bender, St. Louis Cardinal coach and business manager.

"Other clubs have showed definite interest in joinist the program," he said. "But at the moment we'd only okay two more teams, one for Sarasota and one for Clearwater. We don't feel that the extra expense incurred in travelling over the state would be to our advantage."

This season, rookie teams of New York Yankees and St. Louis Cardinals were based in St. Petersburg; Kansas City Athletics had a team in Tampa, and Milwaukee Braves at Bradenton. Only one cities are relatively close, and Sarasota and Clearwater are close.

NAME CUP TEAM

MELBOURNE (CP) — Australia's Davis Cup selection committee has named Lew Hoad, Mal Anderson, Neale Fraser and Rod Laver to defend the challenge cup Dec. 26-28. Australians will meet the winner of the United States-Italy series.

Will Take No Action Against Adams

TORONTO (CP) — The Globe and Mail quotes National Hockey League president Clarence Campbell as saying he plans no action against Detroit Red Wing manager Jack Adams for remarks against a referee attributed to Adams Monday night.

Adams was reported to have said referee Ed Powers had "chickened out" in levying penalties after a brawl at Detroit between Maurice Richard of Mon-real Canadiens and Wings' Norm Ullman.

The Detroit manager said Richard should have drawn an extra penalty for cutting Ullman, who came out of the fracas with a head wound.

Campbell is quoted as saying in a telephone interview from Montreal that he wouldn't act in the matter because use of the expression "doesn't seriously impugn the integrity of the official."

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

A few years ago we sat in Larry Eggett's well-appointed Rosemore cottage. Larry, a self-appointed godfather to the Detroit Red Wings, was, as is his summer custom, entertaining three of his hockey proteges.

Present were Gordie Howe, "Red" Kelly and the incorrigible Marty Pavelich. Marty is no longer a member of the Wings' rock formation.

The trio was digesting roasted chicken halves, but digestion had not affected the Pavelich tonsils. Marty was holding forth in his own inimitable way yarning about the good points (they had no bad ones) of his fellow Wings.

Howe sat quietly in a corner, as did the flame-thatch from Simcoe. Both Gordie and Red smiled at the verbal exhibitions of Le Pavelich, sometimes nodding acquiescence, other times smiling and shaking their heads.

During his anecdotal monologue, Marty in some way or another referred to Howe as the "greatest right winger of all time."

"How about Rocket Richard!" somebody asked, more to needle Marty than anything.

Gordie took up the conversational cudgel. "One of the greatest in the game" was his measured statement. "But was all he said. That's the kind of a guy he is.

But Sid Abel, a former linemate of Gordie, thinks the Saskatchewan flash is Mr. Right Wing himself. Abel made no bones about coming to Howe's defence recently when Richard allegedly charged in a magazine article that the Detroit star was lazy, or words to that effect.

What Richard actually wrote under his name in the article was "No athlete can go very far once he has lost his enthusiasm for his sport . . I am not a smooth player in the tradition of Jean Beliveau or my little brother, Henri. I do not have the skills of Gordie Howe, the greatest player I have ever seen and one who could be even greater if he approached his job with a little more enthusiasm"

That is scarcely calling Howe lazy, but it could and has been distorted into that by rabid Howe fans.

Abel said the reporter who wrote the story made a big thing out of nothing. "It annoyed me a little because Gordie is certainly not a lazy hockey player. I pointed out to the guy how many minutes he was on the ice in every game and how he killed off penalties as well as taking his regular turn and being on for the power play. I also told him that Howe makes everything look so easy that a spectator doesn't realize how much effort he is putting into it."

Wherever hockey experts, cracker-barrel prophets or just ordinary puck fans gather, the mention of Richard and Howe in one-two breaths nearly always catapults an argument. Both players have a host of fans.

Richard fans point out their hero is the greatest of all time because of his scoring ability, color, never-say-die spirit and whatnot. The Howe's cohorts claim the Canadiens' flash caused the Gordie's choice when it comes to all-round ability. And so on into the night.

But that demon statistician Michael J. Rodden points out that statistically goals and assists combined, Howe has averaged 1.84 points per game as against a 1.01 mark achieved by Canadiens' flash. In 982 games, playoffs excluded, he has amassed 329 goals and 455 assists, the relative totals being for Richard 919 and for Howe 854. These figures were compiled before Howe shot his 400th goal on Sunday.

"Richard," Mr. Rodden writes, "unquestionably the better goal-getter is not Howe's equal as a playmaker or as a two-way performer, but he is vastly more colorful, is the NHL's outstanding individual attraction and his durability is amazing."

Boom Boom Zooms Way To Front of Points Parade

Habs' Right-Winger Collects 5 Points to Replace Bathgate; Jumping Jacques Top Goalie

By MARVEN MOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP) — Bernie Geoffrion, the front-running spindly - legged major league hockey veteran with the blistering shot, makes it a point to say what he thinks.

In National Hockey League circles, he has been called brash because of his frankness. But even his severest critics grudgingly acknowledge his ability as a point-producer.

Official league statistics released today show why.

The hard-shooting right-winger with Montreal Canadiens fired three-goals and collected two assists during the past week to take sole possession of the top spot in the scoring parade.

Geoffrion's production gave him 17 goals and 22 assists for 39 points, two more than Andy Bathgate, the New York Rangers' smoothie who shared the lead with Boom Boom last week.

BATHGATE LEADS GOALS

Bathgate scored twice, however, to retain leadership in the sniping department with 19 goals. He also helped set up another goal to post his 18th assist.

Dave Balon, behind with 22 points, is Detroit ace Gordie Howe. The Red Wings' right-winger counted once—his 40th tally of his NHL career in regular - season play—and bagged three assists. The production ran his season's output to 14 goals and 18 assists and moved him up from a tie with Montreal's Dickie Moore for third spot.

Howe's linemates, Normie Ullman, clubbed into a bracket with Moore for fourth place by collecting two assists while the Canadiens' left-winger was held to a single goal. Both have 29 points, but Moore takes preferred billing because his goal-total of 15 is three higher than Ullman's.

DROUGHT FOR MAURICE

Maurice (Rocket) Richard, Montreal's great, is sixth with 28 points. He picked up only an assist during the week, his 16th of the season.

Grouped with 26 points are Jean Beliveau and Henri (Pocket Rocket) Richard of Montreal, and a pair of Chicago Black Hawks, Eddie Litzenberger and Ron Murphy. Beliveau has 14 goals, Litzenberger, 12, and the little Rocket and Murphy, eight apiece.

In the goaltending department, Montreal's Jacques Plante took a firmer grip on the lead giving up three goals in two games to bring his average down to 2.25 from 2.31. He has played 23 goals in 26 games.

The runner-up is Terry Sawchuk of the Red Wings, with a 2.47 average on 74 goals against Detroit. In three games during the week, he gave up nine goals. Plante also led in shutouts with four, one more than Sawchuk.

Cubs Squeeze Out Petes 4-3; Irish Beaten

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Hamilton Cubs finally came up with the big play.

Led by a pair of goals from Pat Baker in the teeth of boneyown Peterborough Petes opposition, Cubs squeezed out Petes 4-3 to record their first win over one of the OHA Junior A top squads Monday night.

The victory, Cubs' third in 20 starts, leaves the much-maligned Hamilton squad in the cellar with 11 points but is the first step forward.

Toronto Marlboros, in sixth place with 17 points, also set the stage for a comeback as they beat down Toronto St. Michael's Majors 4-2 in the other game. The win followed Marlboros' impressive 4-2 win over second-place Peter last Saturday.

HARD FIGHT

Hamilton Cubs fought hard for their points and were locked 3-3 with Peterborough at the end of the second. Carl Wetzel was brilliant in the Hamilton net, before 1,350 fans.

Bob Fallaise and Keith Walsh added singles to Baker's pair for Cubs. Wayne Connelly, Tom Thurlby and Wayne Boddy each scored for the hosts.

In Toronto Sonny Osborne showed Marlies the way with a pair, Gaston Brazeau, Ross Morrison, Don Curr and Jim Murchie getting singles.

Jim Senoski got two for Majors with Dave Keon — Majors' top scorer last year—and Larry Kenyan rounding it out. Majors polled their goalie in the last minute searching for the equalizer but Marlboros poked one in the empty net 11 seconds before the end.

Greene Stops Johnny Saxton

PROVIDENCE, R. I. (AP) — Willie Greene, undefeated Providence middleweight, projected into national prominence today by stopping Johnny Saxton, two-time world welterweight champion, in the fifth round of their scheduled 10-rounder Monday night.

With the impulsive Greene cornering his opponent on the ropes and slashing away at him with a furious two-fisted attack, referee Sharkey Bouzanno called a halt at 2:25 in the third session.

For the 21-year-old Green it was his 13th knockout in 15 bouts.

Saxton sobbed in his dressing room in protesting the referee's intercession. "I wasn't hurt," he said.

Ole Archie Proves Top Ad Salesman

NEW YORK (AP) — Archie Moore pulled a fast one when he advertised a San Diego firm during the telecast of his title fight with Yvon Durelle at Montreal last Wednesday night.

Moore had the name of the firm emblazoned on his robe. His manager, Jack (Doc) Kearns, and two seconds had the company's name in big letters on the backs of their sweaters.

Archie disclosed today he has a two-per-cent interest in the business and also works as a salesman for the retail division.

"I've been working with the store for two years," said Moore. "I'm going back to work for the Christmas holidays. I can sell from $10,000 to $12,000 worth of diamonds in a week."

NETWORKS DISTURBED

The slick bit of free advertising caught ABC network officials by surprise, said Bill Whitehouse, director of sports.

"We didn't know he was going to do that," said Whitehouse. "How were we supposed to know? And once it was done there was nothing we could do about it."

Had he received any protests?

"Yes, a couple of stations in the far west objected," said Whitehouse. "But how could we know it was going to happen?"

Moore said the firm paid for the robe and sweaters.

"But my mother-in-law made them," added Archie with a grin.

Quebec Aces Shade Macs 5-3 In 'Slow Gentlemanly' Game

SHAWINIGAN FALLS — With neither club showing much power on the offensive, the Quebec Aces of the Quebec Hockey League, slid past the Belleville Mohawks, Allan Cup champions, by a 5-3 score here last night.

The least worked players on the ice were the goalies, Gordie Bell for the Aces, and the Ace's Al Miller. Both made only 13 stops over the 60 minutes of play.

The game was a slow, gentlemanly affair with the officials handing out but three penalties, two minors in the Macs.

Wiener Brown came up with two of the Macs' goals, with Bart Bradley collecting the other. Ike Hildebrand assisted on two of the goals with Goegan and Szarke drawing single assists.

Pangalos scored twice for the Aces, with Stan Maxwell, Gord Hopson and Willie O'Ree also counting.

The teams split a pair of counters in the opening period with the Aces having a 3-3 edge in the second frame and scoring the only marker in the final session.

Bullock slipped Panabko a neat pass midway through the first period to put the Aces one up. Two minutes later Minard Menard was chased by the Macs broke away from an Aces gang attack and the Wiener made no mistake in evening the count. Hildebrand drew an assist on the play.

The Aces scored two quick goals in the second period with Maxwell combining with Hillman and LeClair at 2.03 getting the first and Hodgson set up by Kukowytchs scoring the second just three minutes later.

Barton Bradley cut the score to 3-2 at 8.12 combining with Lou Szarke in a neat play for the counter. O'Ree got that one back unassisted three minutes later, and Wiener Brown got his second of the night when he blasted the puck past Miller with Hildebrand and Goegan assisting. There were no goalties in the period.

The Aces struck quickly for their fifth and last goal, Panabko taking LeClair's pass to beat Bell just 33 seconds after the frame got underway. Bolley and Bullock drew penalties in the period with no damage being done. Bell stopped three shots in this session with Miller handling but four.

The teams play again tonight, meeting in Sherbrooke. Tomorrow night the Macs trek to Chicoutimi where they take on the Sagueneens in the third and final game of their exhibition tour.

Play Hockey-or-Else Gets Results Juniors Hand Trenton 9-5 Defeat

By GARRY ALEXANDER

Personal changes and a warning to "produce or else" from the sponsor Charles Lambert worked wonders with Belleville Lambert-Rollins here last night as they came-back with their top performance of the season to defeat Trenton Lafferty Bees 9-5 in a Central Ontario junior "B" fix here.

The victory consolidated Belleville's grip on fourth place in the five-team grouping, two points ahead of Trenton with two games in hand, and just two points back of Prince Edward Combines. The Belleville team owns a two and five record while Trenton has a single win in nine starts.

Eddy Plata was named the new coach of the club before last night's game, replacing Brian Mulvihill. Sponsor Lambert told the players to put some effort into the game or the club would be withdrawn from the league.

Plata inserted goalie Bill Moxam into the lineup along with winger Ron Hull. Missing were goalie Larry DePietro, forwards Larry Hull and defenceman Brian Dierk. Moxam came up with an excellent game in the nets while Ron Hull led the club up front with a strong two-way effort and three goals. A couple of other players who have not been producing goals, Jack Elliott and Gord St. Louis, also found the range as the entire club played better hockey. Elliott bagged a pair of goals and St. Louis one.

Trenton led twice in the early minutes of the game 1-0 and 2-1 but goals by Hull at 3:32, Elliott at 7:24 and Kerruish at 8:34 put the construction crew ahead to stay. Byer had scored for Trenton at 1:34 while Jones for Belleville at 2:05 and Beatty for the Bees at 2:53 before Belleville took over the lead. The winners were ahead 4-3, 6-4 and 9-5 by periods.

Bill Moxam made a number of key saves against the fighting Trenton crew while at the other end Jack Gilby also spoiled several fine chances the visitors had to increase their margin. On the other hand both clubs fouled up a number of great scoring chances with poor shooting near the goal mouths.

Ron Hull with the hat trick, Jack Elliott with two goals and an assist and Gary Gwyer with a trio of assists led the winners' attack. Bucky Zuker, Jerry Kerruish and Jerry Mann each had one and one while R. Jones also scored. Gary Rowbotham earned a brace of assists while Gord Elliott and Ralph Plane had one apiece.

Tom Yardy participated in four of Trenton's five scoring plays, potting one goal, and drawing assists on another pair. Roger Drake had one goal and two helpers, John Beatty had Jim Byer a goal and assist and Jimmy Kills a goal. Doug Cheer picked up one assist.

Hull, having scored once in the initial period, completed the hat trick in the third. He took Gwyer's perfect pass and dumped it into an open net for a 7-4 Belleville lead at 4:42. Kills got that back at 13.07 with a screened sizzler but Hull scored a beauty when he streaked down the right boards and beat Gilby with a hard blast at 14.15. Elliott completed the scoring at 19.18. Drake, Mann, Zuker, and Yardy scored in that order in the second.

The winners were assessed eight minor penalties, costing them two goals. Trenton drew four minors and a misconduct to Byer.

TRENTON — Gilby, Beatty, Jones, Ellis, Denard, Leavey, Byer, Yardy, White, Cheer, Wright.

ORIOLES TRADE

BOSTON (AP) — The Red Sox have traded utility infielder Billy Klaus to Baltimore Orioles for outfielder Jim Busby. Joe Cronin, Sox general manager, said it was a straight player swap with no cash involved. Busby, was in 112 games last season with the Orioles, batted .259, drove in 19 runs and hit three homers, one grandslam. He will be 32 next month. Klaus hit .150 in 61 games last year. Inkspots Defeat Tax Collectors By 11-5 Score

The Ontario Intelligencer Inkspots won their initial start in the City Hockey League last night by an 11-5 count over the City Hall Veterans.

Returning to the ice lanes with a blaze of glory was Red "Hat Trick" High. The sorrel-topped speed demon sparked the Intelligencer crew to victory with another three-goal performance. It marked the first time he has scored a goal in five long years of service.

Another redhead was the City Hall team's big gun. Lloyd "Red" Dorrs scored three of his club's markers and also blazed one by his own rollicking netminder, Phil Flaglor.

Don Wood potted three goals for the winners, and also received credit for Dorrs's on his own net, the prettiest goal he scored all night. Lyle "Stretch" Thompson wound his way down the ice for another pair of Inkspots' goals while Fred "Knees" Seale bagged the final pair.

City Manager Drury Denyes, who, it was rumored, is getting in shape for the World Hockey Tourney in Prague, kept up his Bobo Bobenic pace of one goal per game. Leighton Thompson slammed home the other City Hall marker on a great three-way passing play with a couple of the Intell boys. We still want to know where he got the press card.

Dupas Loses To Ellis

OTTAWA (CP) — J. D. Ellis of Trenton, N. J., smoothly bored his way to a unanimous decision over Davey Dupas of New Orleans in a 10-round lightweight match here Monday night.

Using a razor-sharp left hand, Ellis stayed on top of the shorter Dupas and kept him from opening up, except for a barring flurry in the sixth round that Ellis weathered.

Norman Bastin, former middleweight and welterweight champion refereed. Carmen also was in the corner of Dick De Veronico where he managed. De Veronica scored a technical knockout over Johnny Massie of Ottawa in a six-round semi-final match.

Bob Attersley Invited to Join Bruins

WHITBY (CP) — Centre Bob Attersley of Whitby Dunlops says he has been invited to join Boston Bruins of the National Hockey League for a free-game trial.

The plan calls for Attersley, one of the leading scorers for Dunlops, who head the Eastern OHA Senior A series, to play all five games at Toronto.

If he passes the test he would be signed by Bruins for next season.

"It's not definite yet", Attersley said.

"But it's okay with Wren Blair Whitby manager, the Dunlops and myself providing a few details can be worked out."

The 25-year-old player would continue with Whitby and retain his job here. But he'll miss some Whitby games since the team plays each Saturday.

had the odd one. Johnny Hayman Stephen Casselman, Gerry Bird and Neal Goyer scored for the Bruins.

small beginning would probably end in disaster for all Europe."

He said the Berlin crisis was similar to Communist probing elsewhere in the free world.

The ministers also agreed to advise the Russians that the big Western powers are ready to negotiate at a high level for a general settlement of the problems of Europe.

These would include reunification of Germany with Berlin as its capital, European security measures and disarmament negotiations, a Norwegian diplomat reported.

The Norwegian added that this agreement may not be reflected in the NATO declaration on Dec. 16 as expected later today. But he said it would be conveyed to the Soviets when the United States, Britain and France formally answer Moscow's recent note proposing making West Berlin a demilitarized free city.

The annual meeting of the 15 NATO foreign ministers opened with:

1. Britain and France screaming at each other about trade discrimination.

2. The United States and France quarrelling openly about military policy, and

3. Greece, Turkey and Britain embroiled in their Cyprus dispute.

The Western Big Three were reported drafting a reply to Russian Premier Khrushchev's Nov. 27 note. His note called for an end to the four-power occupation of Berlin, turning West Berlin into a Communist - surrounded, demilitarized free city within six months.

The reply, informants said, would reject the Soviet proposal outright and suggest the time had come for a fresh look at the situation in Germany and central Europe.

REMINDER TO REDS

Among the key points in the draft was a reminder that Moscow has not responded to the Big Three proposal Sept. 30, to begin work at an expert level on German reunification, with a summit meeting the eventual goal.

Moscow repeatedly has refused to discuss reunification, saying the Communist East German regime must arrange this with West Germany. West Germany and the Big Three refuse to deal with the satellite regime and say Germany can be unified only by free elections.

NATO Secretary-General Paul-Henri Spaak said it was likely that the ministers would discuss various plans to separate troops facing each other along the Iron Curtawin.

OUTPORT

tinned corn beef and potatoes, and the perennial mainstay, corned beef and cabbage.

The merrymaking continues until all save hard enough to last till next Christmas.

MUMMERS ADD FLAVOR

Celebrations in isolated communities in Newfoundland and Labrador often have an added flavor in the mummers.

Masked mummers, dressed in fantastic clothes have been spreading Newfoundlanders at Christmas time for generations.

"Come-all-ye" singers entertain, and some old fiddlers can still saw off such tunes as Sir Roger, The Four and Eight Reel and The Cotillion—long forgotten in less isolated centres.

Those who frown on black rum usually call for a traditional glass of homemade blueberry wine. Some communities still favor fresh pork for their Christmas dinner because pigs are easy to raise at home.

FISH DINNER FOR BREAKFAST

Huge fire places are filled with "back junk"—usually the largest tree in the forest that will burn through the 12 days of Christmas—and many outporters still follow the old custom of starting the day off with a breakfast of fish.

In the old days men used to load their flintlock Pools guns with three fingers of powder and fire three or four volleys as the sun set. Later they would throw a blazing stick over the roofs of their homes to protect them against fire for the coming year.

As new roads are built and communications improve, tradition lovers fear the old customs will fade until Christmas celebrations in the outports become a curious copy of those in the cities and the mummers will walk no more.

SCIENTISTS

do what dozens of satellites cannot do—sample space at all distances from the earth. Satellites move in fixed orbits.

Solar sailing is based on the use of "pressure" of sunlight reflected by the aluminum-coated sail, in much the same way that sailboats use the wind.

The theory is that such a ship would be put into orbit around the earth, possibly using a Vanguard-size missile to propel it out of the atmosphere.

The constant pressure of the sun would increase the orbit. This manoeuvring would continue for a matter of months until the sailing vehicle had gained enough distance from earth to go into planetary orbit and navigate in space without concern about gravitational fields of the earth or other planets.

LIQUOR VOTE

ST. THOMAS (CP) — A vote will be held Feb. 18 on whether liquor may be sold here in dining rooms and cocktail lounges, the Liquor Control Board announced Monday.

Ten-year-old Elizabeth Knox ponders the strange gift of a Toronto woman known only as "Another Elizabeth." Each Christmas for the last three years, Elizabeth, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Norman Knox of Lambeth, Ont., has received a gift. First $10, then $110 and now $1,050. Part of the money is for charity, part for Elizabeth's education. The unknown Elizabeth, feeling her last Christmas, was attracted to the child when she wrote a letter to Santa asking him to remember needy children and send her a doll if there was anything left. YOUTH WHO SLEW to bandage her and told Eder to call a doctor. Instead the youth got a pistol from the garage and came back and shot the mother. He killed Diane and her brother, Allen, 2, by cutting their throats with a hunting knife. And the Lunn children, David, 9, and Tom, 6, came home from school he killed them the same way.

He was waiting outside when Pendergast came home from his job as an aircraft worker and forced him to drive him toward San Diego before the father had a chance to enter the house and find out what had happened.

"GOOD TO ME"

About the man who had befriended him he said: "I didn't want to kill him. He's been real good to me."

The San Diego Union telephoned Eder's parents in Irondequoit, N.Y., a suburb of Rochester, and reported in a copyrighted story that his father, Earl Eder, said he never wanted to see the boy again.

"I'm glad they got him," the father said. "I don't want to see that boy no more. I don't want to see him ever again."

And the youth's grandmother, Mrs. Marion Sadra, told the union's reporter, "the only thing I wish is that they didn't find him alive."

Young Eder showed little emotion until he was confronted by Pendergast at the police station. Then the grief-stricken father screamed at him:

"Why, oh, why? My little Diane . . . my little Allen . . . my little

Joseph Leenlak, 28, another youthful dentist and the winner's only real opposition. John Etchuk, CCF, had 1,810 votes and Sam Walsh, Labor-Progressive (Communist) 490.

The total of 11,507 was 69 per cent of the eligible vote and well below the 22,401 voters cast in March. Then, E. R. Lockyer, whose death prompted the byelection, had 10,233 votes to 9,177 for the Liberal who gave him his main opposition.

FORMER MPs LOSE

Dr. Slogan, 38, who contested Springfield in 1953, ran this time against the CCF's Jacob Gilles Schulz, Winnipeg real estate agent who won it in 1957, and Beauséjour lawyer Anton H. Wesolcak, who held it for the Liberals from 1953 to 1957.

Last March, the late Val Vaicula had 7,015 votes in winning handily over Mr. Schulz with 4,962 and Mr. Wesolak with 3,491. The Social Credit candidate had 1,123.

With the total of eligible voters about 21,550 and 113 of 118 polls reported, Dr. Slogan had 4,116 votes to 3,856 for Mr. Wesolak and 3,402 for Mr. Schulz.

The total of 11,182 votes contrasted with 18,625 last march.

Smith, Dulles Meet in Paris

PARIS (Reuters) — The first meeting of a recently established American-Canadian defence committee took place yesterday.

U.S. state Secretary John Foster Dulles and Canadian External Affairs Minister Sidney Smith attended. Both men are here for the opening today of Atlantic pact talks.

A statement issued afterwards said the committee "reviewed matters connected with efforts of the two governments in the joint defence of North America with a view to further strengthening of the essential co-operation of the two governments in the defence field."

The committee was established last July by President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Diefenbaker. It will meet normally in Washington or Ottawa. Today's session at the Canadian Embassy was arranged to take advantage of the presence here of officials of both countries.

SCARSDALE, N.Y. (AP)—A pop-eyed resident called police to re port he saw a dog wearing blue pajamas.

Mr. Cyril Jaller later turned up to claim the animal.

She told police the dog had run off just before bedtime.

Question of Arming Air Force With Arrow May Be Hottest Defence Controversy in Years

Next March the Canadian government will say whether the RCAF is to be armed with the Arrow jet interceptor. In this story a Canadian Press staff writer reviews the history of the project and outlines the considerations bearing on that decision.

BY DAVE MCINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Does Canada need the Arrow?

This question is bidding to become the hottest defence controversy in Canada since conscription.

What complicates the issue is that the government and military view the Arrow from entirely different angles.

The government is mainly interested in what it would cost to produce the supersonic jet interceptor because it has to take into account expenditures in the non-military field as well as for other required defence projects. This makes the issue a political one.

MILITARY VIEW

The military, on the other hand sees the problem strictly from the standpoint of the Air Force's military requirement. The military does take cost into account, of course, but it does not have the prime responsibility in this field.

The question of whether to order the Arrow into production is complicated by many other factors, which have wide political ramifications.

For instance:

Can the government permit the fighter aircraft industry to fold suddenly and thus increase unemployment and cause acquired technical skills to evaporate?
